Overview

Frontier Airlines is an ultra-low-cost carrier whose business strategy is focused on Low Fares Done Right®. We offer flights throughout the United States and to select near international destinations in the Americas. Our unique strategy is underpinned by our low-cost structure and superior low-fare brand. As of December 31, 2020, we had a fleet of 104 narrow-body Airbus A320 family aircraft, and a commitment to purchase 156 A320neo (New Engine Option) family aircraft by the end of 2028. During the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2020, we served approximately 23 million and 11 million passengers, respectively, across a network of approximately 110 airports.

In December 2013, we were acquired by an investment fund managed by Indigo Denver Management Company, LLC, (“Indigo”), an affiliate of Indigo Partners, LLC, (“Indigo Partners”), an experienced and successful global investor in ultra-low-cost carriers, (“ULCCs”). Following the acquisition, Indigo reshaped our management team to include experienced veterans of the airline industry with a significant history operating ULCCs. Working with Indigo and supported by a highly productive workforce, our management team developed and implemented our unique Low Fares Done Right strategy, which significantly reduced our unit costs, introduced low fares, provided the choice of optional services to our customers, enhanced our operational performance and improved the customer experience. Through the implementation of our new operating model, we have positioned our brand as a leading low-fare airline and had seen a dramatic improvement to our profitability prior to the coronavirus, (“COVID-19”), pandemic.

The implementation of Low Fares Done Right has significantly reduced our cost base by increasing aircraft utilization (prior to the COVID-19 pandemic), transitioning our fleet to larger aircraft, maximizing seat density, renegotiating the majority of our distribution agreements, realigning our network, replacing our reservation system, enhancing our website, boosting employee productivity and contracting with third-party specialists to provide us with select operating and other services. As a result of these and other initiatives, we were able to reduce our CASM (excluding fuel) from 7.89¢ for the year ended December 31, 2013 to 5.55¢ for the year ended December 31, 2019, and our Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) from 7.89¢ for the year ended December 31, 2013 to 5.44¢ for the year ended December 31, 2019, an improvement of 30% and 31%, respectively. For the year ended December 31, 2020, our CASM (excluding fuel) was 7.53¢ and our Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) was 8.63¢, which was principally a result of reduced aircraft utilization as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. For a discussion and reconciliation of CASM to Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest, please see “Glossary of Airline Terms” and “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Results of Operations.”

The COVID-19 pandemic has presented significant challenges to the global airline industry since February 2020. We have experienced a significant decline in demand related to the COVID-pandemic, which has caused a material decline in our revenues and negatively impacted our business, operating results, financial condition and liquidity, with approximately $2 million per day on average of cash burn during the year ended December 31, 2020. We have worked diligently to navigate such challenges by implementing disciplined capacity deployment and taking steps to protect liquidity and cash flow and towards being an industry leader with respect to the implementation of new health and safety initiatives. Due to such efforts, we believe we are well positioned to take advantage of the anticipated demand recovery as vaccine distribution continues. As an example, throughout the pandemic, the U.S. airline industry has seen stronger domestic demand than international demand, and the segments of domestic travel that have recovered fastest have been VFR (visiting friends or relatives) and vacation travel (which together we refer to as leisure travel) in contrast to business travel, both of which are trends that we believe position us to outperform the airline industry as a whole. According to the Airlines Reporting Corporation, for the week ended February 21, 2021, the number of tickets purchased as a percentage of the same time period in 2019 was 54% for online travel agencies with a primary focus on leisure travel, 32% for traditional leisure/other agencies with a primary focus on leisure travel, and 15% for corporate agencies whose primary business model is managed corporate or government travel. We design our route network to capture low fare demand among leisure travelers and our three largest bases are Denver, Orlando and Las Vegas, which draw a significant proportion of leisure travelers. In the seven months ending February 29, 2020, according to a post-travel survey we conducted, 89% of our customers were leisure travelers. We believe the restrictions and health concerns that have depressed demand during the pandemic are also likely to lead to increased levels of pent-up demand for leisure travel once the effects of the pandemic decrease. As a result, we expect to see a significant recovery in our performance as the U.S. market recovers. Within our current network of approximately 110 airports served, we plan to strategically deploy our capacity where demand is highest during the recovery in order to more quickly return to normal capacity levels. More broadly, after being restricted from travel, we believe many customers will take advantage of the opportunity to travel more in the coming years. We also believe new working patterns and the increasing growth of work from home will lead to increasing numbers of employees choosing to live remotely from their office location. We believe this trend will lead to an increased number of shorter leisure trips by Americans. We believe our low fares, supported by our low cost structure, will enable us to grow our network and take advantage of new demand patterns as they arise. We also believe that we will expand our relative unit cost advantage as compared to those airlines which borrowed more heavily through the pandemic. As a result of COVID-19, we incurred approximately one dollar per passenger of debt related costs as compared to an average of seventeen dollars per passenger for other U.S. airlines of significant size for debt issued since the start of the pandemic through September 30, 2020, based on publicly available data. Furthermore, we believe that low-cost airlines have historically recovered more quickly than the airline industry overall following past crises, including the 1991 Gulf War, the 2001 Terrorist Attacks and the late-2000s Financial Crisis. In the wake of these crises, low-cost airlines further expanded the magnitude of their superior margin profile and profitability relative to the airline industry as a whole.

In addition to low unit costs and our focus on leisure travel, a key component of our Low Fares Done Right model has been to attract customers with low fares and garner repeat business by delivering a high value, family-friendly customer experience with a more upscale look and feel than historically experienced on ULCCs globally. For instance, we currently offer flexible optional services through both unbundled and bundled service options. Our bundled options include The Works, a hassle-free option that includes a guaranteed seat assignment, carry-on and checked baggage, ticket refundability and changes, and priority boarding, all at an attractive low price and available only on our website, and The Perks, which enables customers to book the same amenities included in The Works, excluding refundability and ticket changes. We operate a customer-friendly digital platform that includes our website and mobile app, which makes booking and travel easier for our customers. We also promote and sell products in-flight to enhance the customer experience. Our brand and product are family-friendly, featuring popular animals on our aircraft tails, novelty cards for children and we provide certain offers tailored for families, including our Kids Fly Free program. We reward our repeat customers through our Frontier Miles (formerly EarlyReturns) frequent flyer program, and we also offer our Discount Den membership program, which provides subscribers with exclusive access to some of our lowest fares. In addition to enhancing the customer experience, these offerings have helped us to increase our ancillary revenues from $12.80 per passenger in 2013 to $57.11 per passenger in 2019 and $62.45 per passenger in 2020.

Low Fares Done Right differentiates Frontier from the historical ULCC model by providing a more dependable and higher quality customer service experience than traditionally offered by such carriers. We pioneered this concept in the United States through our disciplined approach to operational integrity and by using a modern fleet with comfortable cabin seating and other amenities, including extra seat padding and our Stretch extra space seating option on all of our flights. Our commitment to operational integrity is reflected in our approach to recruiting, workforce training and employee engagement, which we believe enables us to offer a standardized and predictable travel experience. We believe the association of our brand with our ability to achieve a high level of operational performance will continue to differentiate us from the other U.S. ULCCs and enable us to generate greater customer loyalty.

The combination of low unit costs, high quality service and dependability that makes Low Fares Done Right successful has enabled us to successfully diversify our network across a wide range of leisure destinations as well as implement a network strategy that primarily targets markets where our low fares stimulate demand. Our current network is geographically diversified across the United States and our top five cities for the year ended December 31, 2020 were Denver (20% of departures), Orlando (11%), Las Vegas (8%), Philadelphia (4%), and Phoenix (3%). As a leisure focused airline, the preferences of our customers allow us to fly a low average frequency to and from individual destinations, as our customers are generally not focused on frequency but instead on getting the best value for travel. Our schedule of flights available for sale as of February 2021 included 335 nonstop routes across a network of approximately 110 airports, at an average frequency of 0.6 flights per day, as compared to an average frequency of 1.8 flights per day for all U.S. carriers of significant size based on publicly available information, with each route, on average, representing less than 0.3% of our total capacity.

We believe that using low fares to stimulate demand positions us to benefit from significant growth opportunities, including as the U.S. market recovers from the COVID-19 pandemic. On the 111 routes where we began nonstop service during the second or third quarter of 2017 or the second or third quarter of 2018, and continued to serve for at least three of the six months preceding September in the year following our market entry, DOT data indicates passenger volume grew by approximately 41% in total, as measured by comparing passenger volume in the six months ending September 30th in the year prior to our entry (2016 or 2017, respectively) compared to passenger volume in the six months ending September 30th in the year after our entry (2018 or 2019, respectively). At the end of those periods, our market share of passenger volumes on such routes was approximately 24%, which represented approximately 34% of passenger volumes on such routes during the six month period prior to our entry into the market. We believe our entry into new markets stimulates substantial passenger volume growth because of our ability to offer significantly lower fares than other airlines. On the same 111 routes noted above, DOT data indicates our average gross fare, including most taxes and fees, was approximately $67, as compared to an average gross fare of approximately $148 on all other U.S. airlines of significant size, for the six months ending September 30th of the year following our entry.

Based upon our analysis of the most recently available annual DOT data, during the year ended December 31, 2019, passengers on over 273 million U.S. domestic routes paid a fare that was at least 30% above our cost basis per passenger during the same period for the stage length associated with such fares. Such domestic routes were operated by non-ULCCs, are within the range of A320 family aircraft and exclude routes arriving or departing from federally slot-controlled airports, routes operating entirely within the state of Hawaii and routes with a market size of less than 100 passengers per day each way. As a result, and assuming the continued recovery of the U.S. market from the COVID-19 pandemic, we believe that there are a significant number of markets in which we could operate profitably with our low fares, and we believe our entry into such markets could drive substantial passenger growth in those markets.

We believe we are also in a better position than the other U.S. ULCCs to capitalize on this market stimulation opportunity because of our strong presence in high-demand markets and underserved markets, including mid-sized cities. We believe we have an opportunity to provide service on approximately 518 additional domestic routes between airports within our existing network that are not currently served by a ULCC, while Spirit Airlines (“Spirit”) has the opportunity to serve up to approximately 214 additional domestic routes, and Allegiant Travel Company ("Allegiant") has the opportunity to serve up to approximately 152 additional domestic routes using the same criteria. Average industry-wide daily passenger volumes on these opportunity routes for the year ended December 31, 2019 were approximately 308,000, 149,000 and 84,000, respectively, based on the most recent available annual DOT data. Such domestic routes are currently not operated by ULCCs, are within the range of A320 family aircraft, and exclude routes arriving or departing from federally slot-controlled airports, and routes with a market size of less than 100 passengers per day each way.

According to the DOT, there were approximately 590 million domestic passenger journeys in the United States during the year ended December 31, 2019, and the five-year (year ended December 31, 2014 to December 31, 2019) compound annual growth rate for domestic passenger journeys was approximately 5.5%. Based upon the foregoing, and subject to the U.S. market fully recovering from the COVID-19 pandemic, we believe that over the next 10 years there is an opportunity for U.S. ULCCs to stimulate demand of approximately 159 million incremental annual domestic passengers, as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019, when U.S. ULCCs flew approximately 69 million passengers. For the year ended December 31, 2019, 96% of our passengers traveled on domestic flights.

The ULCC operating strategy is more mature in Europe than it is in the United States. For example, at the time that Spirit adopted a ULCC model in 2007, three European ULCCs, EasyJet, Ryanair and Wizz Air, already had more than 4.5 times the number of aircraft in operation as domestic competitors Allegiant and Spirit. The size of the European ULCCs’ operations is evidence of the substantial increases in passenger volumes they have been able to drive since their adoption of ULCC operating models, which first started in the mid-1990s. Over the 15-year period from the end of 2004 to 2019, according to World Bank and public filings of other carriers, total passenger volume in Europe had a compound annual growth rate of approximately 4.8%, of which approximately 76% was attributable to ULCC growth and market stimulation. During the same 15-year period, Europe’s three largest consolidated airline groups (International Consolidated Airlines Group ("IAG"), Lufthansa Group and Air France-KLM) and the three European ULCCs grew passengers at a compound annual growth rate of approximately 4.7% and 12.4%, respectively. Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, over the last ten years, this passenger growth has coincided with a period of stability and expanding profitability margins for both the consolidated groups and the ULCCs. According to historic schedule data, the three European ULCCs grew their intra-Europe, excluding Turkey and Russia, market share as measured by seat capacity from approximately 15% in the year ended December 31, 2007 to 24% in the year ended December 31, 2014 and to 30% in the year ended December 31, 2019. In the United States, at the time of Spirit’s conversion to the ULCC model in 2007, ULCCs held an approximately 1% domestic United States market share as measured by seat capacity for the year ended December 31, 2007, which, including the conversion of Frontier to the ULCC model in 2014, grew to approximately 4% for the year ended December 31, 2014 and to approximately 8% for the year ended December 31, 2019, which remains significantly below the level of European ULCCs. In addition, according to each airline’s most recent fiscal year public filings, European ULCCs, including Ryanair, EasyJet and Wizz Air, had 938 aircraft in operation in 2020, and have had a 9.2% compound annual growth rate in the number of aircraft since 2007. By comparison, U.S. ULCCs had 356 aircraft in 2020 and have had a compound annual growth rate in the number of aircraft of 7.9% since 2007 on a fleet that is less than 40% the size of the European ULCC fleet.

Our Competitive Strengths

Our competitive strengths include:

Our Low-Cost Structure. Our low-cost structure, built around low aircraft ownership cost, fuel efficiency and low operational costs, is our key strategic advantage. Our unit costs, measured by Adjusted CASM including net interest, were among the lowest in the industry for the year ended December 31, 2020. For a discussion and reconciliation of CASM to Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest, please see “Glossary of Airline Terms” and “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Results of Operations.” Our Adjusted CASM including net interest, stage length adjusted to 1,000 miles, for the year ended December 31, 2020 was 10.30¢, compared to an average of 16.52¢ for the airlines we refer to as the “Big Four” carriers (American Airlines, Delta Air Lines, Southwest Airlines and United Airlines), an average of 16.25¢ for the airlines we refer to as the “Middle Three” carriers (Alaska Airlines, Hawaiian Airlines and JetBlue Airways), 8.35¢ for Allegiant and 10.00¢ for Spirit, respectively. Comparatively, for the year ended December 31, 2019 prior to the impacts of the pandemic, our Adjusted CASM including net interest, stage length adjusted to 1,000 miles was 7.84¢, compared to an average of 11.70¢ for the Big Four carriers, an average of 11.70¢ for the Middle Three carriers, 8.79¢ for Allegiant and 8.09¢ for Spirit, respectively. Our low-cost structure is driven by several factors:

• High Aircraft Utilization. Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, we operated with high aircraft utilization, averaging 12.2 hours per day during the year ended December 31, 2019. This compares to the domestic mainline utilization average of 10.4 hours per day for the Big Four carriers, an average of 10.6 hours per day for Middle Three carriers, and an average of 12.3 and 8.0 hours per day for Spirit and Allegiant, respectively, in each case, as measured for the year ended December 31, 2019. For the year ended December 31, 2020, our aircraft utilization decreased to 8.0 hours per day due to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic including significantly reduced capacity and the related grounding of many of our aircraft.

• Modern Fleet and Attractive Order Book. We operate a modern fleet comprised solely of Airbus A320 family aircraft, which are recognized as having high reliability and low operating costs. Operating a single family of aircraft provides us with several operational and cost advantages, including the ability to optimize crew scheduling, training and maintenance. Since 2013, we have steadily reduced the number of A319ceo aircraft (150 seats) in our fleet, replacing them with larger and more fuel-efficient A320ceo aircraft, A320neo aircraft (100 to 186 seats) and A321ceo aircraft (230 seats) and, commencing in 2022, A321neo aircraft (up to 240 seats). As of December 31, 2020, the average age of our fleet was approximately four years and we have taken delivery of 87 new aircraft since the start of 2015. In addition, we have an attractive order book of 156 new, fuel-efficient A320neo family aircraft. As of December 31, 2019, we maintained the youngest average fleet age of any U.S. airline of significant size based on the latest public reports of each carrier and our present fleet plan contemplates maintaining an average fleet age of approximately four years through December 31, 2024. As of December 31, 2019, we believe we had the highest adoption rate of new engine technology aircraft (consisting of the A220, A320neo family, A330neo, A350 and similar aircraft from other manufacturers) (as a percentage of total fleet) among U.S. airlines. Based on currently announced fleet plans, we expect to maintain the highest adoption rate of new engine technology aircraft of any U.S. ULCC in the near term.

• Fuel-Efficient Fleet. In 2019, we had the most fuel-efficient fleet of all U.S. carriers of significant size when measured by ASMs per fuel gallon consumed. For the year ended December 31, 2019, our ASMs per fuel gallon consumed were 97.5 as compared to the weighted industry average of 68.1 based on public reports of each carrier. The A320neo family aircraft that we continue to place in service are expected to continue delivering approximately 15% improved fuel efficiency compared to the prior generation of A320ceo family aircraft. Additionally, as of December 31, 2019, 52% of our fleet is powered by new engine technology and by 2025, 87% of the fleet is planned to powered by new engine technology. For the year ended December 31, 2020, our ASMs per fuel gallon consumed increased to 104.5, as a result of grounding our least fuel-efficient aircraft due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

• High Capacity Fleet. We increased the seat density on our A319ceo aircraft from 138 seats to 150 seats and the seat density on our prior generation of A320ceo aircraft from 168 seats to 180 seats during 2015. Across our entire fleet, we have increased our average seats per departure from 145 seats in 2013 to 191 seats during the year ended December 31, 2020, a 32% increase. Our entire fleet features new and lightweight slim-line seats, which eliminate excess weight and reduce fuel consumption per seat. As of January 2021, we had the highest seat density per A320ceo/neo and A321ceo aircraft operated by any U.S. airline.
• Low-Cost Distribution Model. For the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, approximately 71%, 73% and 76%, respectively, of our tickets were sold directly to customers through our direct distribution channels, including our website and mobile app, our low cost distribution channels. We also reduced our distribution costs per passenger following the renegotiation of the majority of our distribution agreements in 2020.

• Highly Productive Workforce and Third Party Specialist Providers. Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, we had a highly productive workforce which delivered and maintained a high quality of service to our customers, with 4,625 passengers supported per full time equivalent employee for the year ended December 31, 2019. In 2019, we also entered into new collective bargaining agreements with several of our union-represented employee groups. For the year ended December 31, 2020, we had 2,259 passengers supported per full time equivalent employee.

• Outsourcing Model. We outsource our non-core functions, including customer call centers, lost bag services, ground handling services and catering services. The outsourcing model not only enables us to provide high quality services at low costs, but also provides flexibility for us to align our costs with capacity and demand.

Our Brand. We believe establishing our brand as a leading low-fare airline enhances our ability to generate customer loyalty. The strength of our brand is demonstrated by our significant number of repeat customers. According to a January 2019 survey we conducted with respect to recent customers who had flown with us at least once, 91% of survey respondents were repeat customers and 69% had flown with us two or more times during the previous 12 months. The key features of our brand include:

• Significant customer value delivered through low fares with the choice of reasonably priced unbundled and bundled options, including The Works and The Perks.

• Family-friendly elements that appeal to a large audience, such as an attentive staff, popular animals on our aircraft tails, novelty cards for children and certain offers tailored for families including our Kids Fly Free program.

• A commitment to sustainability and environmental responsibility, including our position as “America’s Greenest Airline” as measured by fuel efficiency in 2019. Our 2019 fuel savings of 125 million gallons, as compared to the average of other U.S. airlines, per information included in the public reports of each carrier, is equivalent to flying the distance of 130 missions to the moon and back at our 2019 average fuel burn rate, or in carbon savings, equivalent to eliminating 18.6 billion plastic bottles, eliminating 438 billion plastic straws, or the benefitting of growing 18 million trees for a decade. In 2017, we moved our headquarters to a LEED Certified building, which was designed to achieve energy savings, water efficiency and lower CO2 emissions.

• Industry leading healthy travel initiatives, including being the only U.S. airline conducting temperature screenings for all passengers and crew prior to boarding.

• A carefully curated aesthetic for our livery, our website and mobile app, uniforms, seat design and on-board products, which are designed to look and feel more upscale than traditional ULCCs.

• A strong online presence with a customer-friendly digital platform that includes our passenger reservation system, improved website and mobile app.

• Our modern fleet with amenities such as extra seat padding and our Stretch seating option, which provides a comfortable 33-inch seat pitch.

• An enhanced frequent flyer program, Frontier Miles, and Discount Den membership program.
Our Network Management

We plan our route network and airport footprint to focus on profitable existing routes and new routes where we believe our business model will stimulate demand and growth, including those where we expect demand to be highest during the U.S. recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic. This strategy enabled us to reduce the seasonality of our revenue, improve utilization, lower unit costs, increase revenues and enhance profitability from 2013 through 2019. The key features of our network include:

- A broad geographic footprint, which enables us to service a wide range of VFR and vacation destinations.
- A strong presence in high-demand markets and underserved markets, including mid-sized cities.
- A disciplined and methodical approach to both route selection and the removal of underperforming routes.
- An operational platform that includes nationwide crew and maintenance bases, creating access to lower-risk growth opportunities while maintaining high operational standards and enabling high utilization.
- A codeshare arrangement with Volaris, a ULCC based in Mexico and an affiliate of Indigo Partners, which enables both carriers to sell tickets and connecting itineraries on select routes within the airlines’ combined networks. We believe this is the world’s first ULCC codeshare arrangement.

Our Talented ULCC Leadership Team

Our management team has extensive day-to-day experience operating ULCCs and other airlines.

- Barry L. Biffle, our President and Chief Executive Officer, previously served as Chief Executive Officer of VivaColombia, Executive Vice President for Spirit and held various management roles with US Airways and American Eagle Airlines, a regional airline subsidiary of American Airlines.
- James G. Dempsey, our Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, previously served as Treasurer and Head of Investor Relations for Ryanair after serving in management roles within the advisory practice of PricewaterhouseCoopers.
- Daniel M. Shurz, our Senior Vice President, Commercial, previously served in various roles with United Airlines and Air Canada.
- Howard M. Diamond, our Senior Vice President, General Counsel and Corporate Secretary, previously served as Vice President, General Counsel and Corporate Secretary for Thales USA.
- Jake F. Filene, our Senior Vice President, Customers, previously served as our Deputy Chief Operating Officer and as Vice President, Airport Services and Corporate Real Estate for Spirit Airlines.
- Trevor J. Stedke, our Senior Vice President, Operations, previously served as Vice President, Aircraft Technical Operations for Southwest Airlines.

Low Fares Done Right—Our Business Strategy

Our goal is to offer the most attractive option for air travel with a compelling combination of value, product and service, and, in so doing, to grow profitably and enhance our position among airlines in the United States. Through the key elements of our business strategy, we seek to achieve:

Low Unit Costs

We intend to strengthen and maintain our low unit costs, including by:

- Maintaining high utilization levels once the U.S. market recovers from the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Utilizing new generation, fuel-efficient aircraft that deliver lower operating costs compared to prior generation aircraft.
- Increasing the average size and seat capacity of the aircraft in our fleet through the continued introduction and operation of new 186-seat A320neo and up to 240-seat A321neo aircraft, and the exit of A319ceo aircraft.

Strong Growth Driven by an Expanding and Efficient Network. We believe that our cost structure enables us to fly to more places profitably than any other U.S. airline, and we strategically focus on routes that we believe are the most profitable. We intend to continue to utilize our disciplined and methodical approach to expand our network in an efficient manner, including by:

| • Strategically deploying our capacity where demand is highest during the recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic. |
| • Continuing to take advantage of opportunities in overpriced and/or underserved markets across the U.S. and select international destinations in the Americas. |
| • Leveraging our diverse geographic footprint and existing crew and maintenance base infrastructure to take advantage of lower-risk network growth opportunities while maintaining high operational standards. |
| • Utilizing our low-cost structure to offer low fares which organically drive growth through market stimulation. |
| • Continuing to rebalance our network to mitigate seasonal fluctuations in our results. |
| • Focusing on what we believe are the most profitable opportunities where our cost differential drives the largest competitive advantage. |

Strong Liquidity and Capital Structure. We intend to maintain our strong capital structure, which enables us to obtain financing for our aircraft pursuant to attractive operating leases, in order to support our growth strategies and the expansion of our fleet and network.

Our largest sources of liquidity as of December 31, 2020 totaled $963 million and were comprised of:

| • Our cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash, of which we had a balance of $378 million as of December 31, 2020. |
| • $424 million available to borrow under the loan we received from the United States Department of the Treasury (the “Treasury Loan”) as of December 31, 2020. The Treasury Loan has a five-year term ending September 28, 2025, is collateralized by our co-branded credit card arrangement and bears an annual interest rate based on adjusted LIBOR plus 2.5%. We may borrow additional amounts in up to two subsequent borrowings until May 28, 2021, subject to satisfaction of certain conditions precedent in the Treasury Loan Agreement, including maintenance of a collateral coverage ratio of 2.0 to 1.0 and compliance with the relevant provisions of the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (the “CARES Act”). See “Description of Principal Indebtedness—Treasury Loan Agreement.” |
$161 million of income tax receivables expected to be collected in 2021, primarily resulting from the net operating losses generated in 2020 and permitted under the CARES Act to be carried back to 2015 and 2016 tax years (pre-Tax Cuts and Jobs Act) in which a federal 35% tax rate applied.

Additionally, subsequent to December 31, 2020, we entered into the Payroll Support Program Extension Agreement (the “PSP2 Agreement”), which provided us with at least an incremental $140 million in liquidity. We received the first installment in the amount of $70 million on January 15, 2021.

As of December 31, 2020, our capital structure was comprised of the following (please refer to “Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements - 9. Debt”):

• $141 million of the available $150 million under the secured, revolving line of credit from our PDP Financing Facility.
• $15 million from our pre-purchased miles facility. The facility cannot be extended above $15 million until full extinguishment of the Treasury Loan pursuant to the CARES Act. Upon full extinguishment of the Treasury Loan, the pre-purchased miles facility amount is to be reset annually based on the aggregate amount of fees payable to us by Barclays on a calendar year basis, up to an aggregate maximum facility amount of $200 million.
• $183 million in loans from the CARES Act, comprised of $150 million under the Treasury Loan, and $33 million under the PSP Promissory Note.
• $18 million under the floating rate building note.

Our Relationship with Indigo Partners

Indigo Partners, our principal stockholder, is an established and successful investor in ULCCs around the world. Indigo Partners has previously invested in several ULCC airlines, including Spirit, Tigerair (formerly Tiger Airways), Volaris and Wizz Air, each of which completed initial public offerings following the successful implementation of a ULCC strategy under the guidance of Indigo Partners and while Indigo Partners was a significant investor. In addition, Indigo Partners has current investments in other ULCC airlines, including JetSMART based in Chile.

Risk Factors

Our business is subject to numerous risks and uncertainties, including those highlighted in the section entitled “Risk Factors” following this prospectus summary, that represent challenges we face in connection with the successful implementation of our strategy and the growth of our business. We expect a number of factors to cause our operating results to fluctuate on a quarterly and annual basis, which may make it difficult to predict our future performance. Such factors include:

• the impact the COVID-19 pandemic and measures to reduce its spread continue to have on our business, results of operations and financial condition and the timing and nature of the related recovery of the airline industry;
• certain restrictions on our business in connection with accepting financing under the CARES Act and related legislation;
• the ability to operate in an exceedingly competitive industry against legacy network airlines, low-cost carriers and other ultra low-cost carriers;
• the price and availability of aircraft fuel;
• any restrictions on or increased taxes applicable to charges for non-fare products and services paid by airline passengers and burdensome consumer protection regulations or laws;
Our History

Our indirect, wholly-owned subsidiary, Frontier Airlines, Inc. (“Frontier”) was incorporated in 1994 to operate as an airline based in Denver, Colorado. In April 2008, Frontier filed for protection under the federal bankruptcy laws and ultimately emerged from bankruptcy in October 2009 through the acquisition of Frontier by a subsidiary of Republic Airways Holdings, Inc. (“Republic”). We were incorporated in September 2013 as a newly-formed corporation initially wholly-owned by an investment fund managed by Indigo to facilitate the acquisition of Frontier from Republic. That acquisition was completed on December 3, 2013.

Prior to January 1, 2019 and our adoption of ASU 2016-02, Leases (“ASU 2016-02”), any gains on completed sale-leaseback transactions were deferred and recognized as a reduction to aircraft rent expense over the lease term for each aircraft or engine. Due to the adoption of ASU 2016-02 on January 1, 2019, gains from sale-leaseback transactions are now recognized in full immediately upon sale as a reduction to other operating expense within the consolidated statements of operations, and are therefore no longer amortized over the life of the lease. During the year ended December 31, 2019 and 2020, the gain on sale-leaseback transactions, net was $107 million and $48 million, respectively.

(1) Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA are included as supplemental disclosures because we believe they are useful indicators of our operating performance. Derivations of net income and EBITDA are well-recognized performance measurements in the airline industry that are frequently used by our management, as well as by investors, securities analysts and other interested parties in comparing the operating performance of companies in our industry.

Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA have limitations as analytical tools. Some of the limitations applicable to these measures include: Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA do not reflect the impact of certain cash charges resulting from matters we consider not to be indicative of our ongoing operations; Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA do not reflect our cash expenditures, or future requirements, for capital expenditures or contractual commitments; EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA do not reflect changes in, or cash requirements for, our working capital needs; EBITDA, and Adjusted EBITDA do not reflect the interest expense, or the cash requirements necessary to service interest or principal payments, on our indebtedness or possible cash requirements related to our warrants; although depreciation and amortization are non-cash charges, the assets being depreciated and amortized will often have to be replaced in the future, and EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA do not reflect any cash requirements for such replacements; and other companies in our industry may calculate Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA differently than we do, limiting its usefulness as a comparative measure. Because of these limitations, Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA should not be considered in isolation from or as a substitute for performance measures calculated in accordance with GAAP. In addition, because derivations of Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA are not determined in accordance with GAAP, such measures are susceptible to varying calculations and not all companies calculate the measures in the same manner. As a result, derivations of Net income and EBITDA, including Adjusted Net Income and Adjusted EBITDA, as presented may not be directly comparable to similarly titled measures presented by other companies.

For the foregoing reasons, each of Adjusted Net Income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA has significant limitations which affect its use as an indicator of our profitability. Accordingly, you are cautioned not to place undue reliance on this information.

(2) Adjusted EBITDAR is included as a supplemental disclosure because we believe it is useful solely as a valuation metric for airlines as its calculation isolates the effects of financing in general, the accounting effects of capital spending and acquisitions (primarily aircraft, which may be acquired directly, directly subject to acquisition debt, by capital lease or by operating lease, each of which is presented differently for accounting purposes), and income taxes, which may vary significantly between periods and for different airlines for reasons unrelated to the underlying value of a particular airline. However, Adjusted EBITDAR is not determined in accordance with GAAP, is susceptible to varying calculations and not all companies calculate the measure in the same manner. As a result, Adjusted EBITDAR, as presented, may not be directly comparable to similarly titled measures presented by other companies. In addition, Adjusted EBITDAR should not be viewed as a measure of overall performance since it excludes aircraft rent, which is a normal, recurring cash operating expense that is necessary to operate our business. Accordingly, you are cautioned not to place undue reliance on this information.
The following table presents the reconciliation of Net income (loss) to Adjusted net income, EBITDA, Adjusted EBITDA, and Adjusted EBITDAR for the periods presented below.

(a) Due to the significant reduction in demand resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic, our future anticipated consumption of fuel dropped significantly and we therefore de-designated hedge accounting in March 2020 on the derivative positions where the future consumption was not deemed probable, which primarily related to our written put options on our costless collars. The $52 million charge is the result of the de-designation and the resulting mark to market impact on the quantities where fuel consumption was not deemed probable.

(b) Represents the impact of the change in value of phantom equity units pursuant to the Pilot Phantom Equity Plan. In accordance with the amended and restated phantom equity agreement, the remaining phantom equity obligation became fixed as of December 31, 2019 and is no longer subject to valuation adjustments. See “Executive Compensation—Equity Compensation Plans—Pilot Phantom Equity Plan.”
(c) Represents (i) $75 million of costs related to a one-time contract ratification incentive, plus payroll-related taxes and certain other compensation and benefits-related accruals earned through December 31, 2018 and committed to by us as part of a tentative agreement with the union representing our pilots that was reached in December 2018 and was ratified by the pilots in January 2019 and (ii) $15 million of costs related to a one-time contract ratification incentive, plus payroll-related taxes and certain other compensation and benefits-related accruals earned through March 31, 2019 and committed to by us as part of a tentative agreement with the union representing our flight attendants that was reached in March 2019 for a contract that was ratified and became effective in May 2019, in addition to $4 million in pilot vacation accrual adjustments during the fourth quarter of 2019 as a result of the ratified agreement with the union representing our pilots specifically tied to the implementation of a preferred bidding system.

(d) Represents losses incurred on the sale of our six owned aircraft in December 2018, which enabled us to accelerate a critical part of our fleet plan by shortening our time with certain of our older less fuel-efficient aircraft. The loss was measured as the excess of the net book value of the aircraft over the sale price at the date of sale and was recognized within other operating expenses in the consolidated statements of operations. All aircraft were held for use through the date of sale.

(e) Represents expenses associated with an early out program agreed to in 2019 with our flight attendants, payable throughout 2019, 2020 and 2021.

(f) Represents the recognition of the $178 million grant received from the U.S. government for payroll support from April 2020 through September 2020 as part of the PSP under the CARES Act net of $1 million of deferred financing costs, along with $16 million of employee retention credits we qualified for under the CARES Act.

(g) Represents the write-off of our deferred initial public offering preparation costs during the first quarter of 2020 due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting uncertainty in our ability to access the capital markets.

(h) Represents the mark to market adjustment to the value of the warrants issued as part of the funding provided by the U.S. Treasury under the CARES Act. This amount is a component of interest expense.

(i) Represents aircraft rent expense included in Adjusted EBITDA. See footnote (1) above under the caption “Summary Historical Consolidated Financial and Operating Data” with respect to the effect of our adoption of ASU 2016-02 on January 1, 2019.

The following table presents our historical consolidated balance sheet data as of December 31, 2020, and on a pro forma as adjusted basis to give effect to this offering and the application of the net proceeds received by us.

(1) The unaudited adjusted pro forma consolidated balance sheet gives effect to the receipt of the estimated net proceeds by us from the sale of shares of our common stock offered by us (based on an assumed initial public offering price of $ per share, the midpoint of the price range set forth on the cover of this prospectus), after deducting the estimated underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us, and the application of the net proceeds received by us.

(2) Each $1.00 increase or decrease in the assumed initial public offering price of $ per share would increase or decrease, respectively, the amount of pro forma as adjusted cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash, total assets and stockholders’ equity by $ million, assuming the number of shares offered by us, as set forth on the cover page of this prospectus, remains the same and after deducting the estimated underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us. We may also increase or decrease the number of shares we are offering. An increase or decrease of 1,000,000 in the number of shares we are offering would increase or decrease, respectively, the amount of pro forma as adjusted cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash, assets and stockholders’ equity by approximately $ million (based on an assumed initial public offering price of $ per share, the midpoint of the price range as set forth on the cover of this prospectus). The pro forma as adjusted information is illustrative only, and we will adjust this information based on the actual initial public offering price and other terms of this offering determined at pricing.

GLOSSARY OF AIRLINE TERMS

Set forth below is a glossary of industry terms used in this prospectus:

“A320 family” means, collectively, the Airbus series of single-aisle aircraft, including the A319ceo, A320ceo, A320neo, A321ceo and A321neo aircraft.

“A320neo family” means, collectively, the Airbus series of single-aisle aircraft that feature the new engine option, including the A320neo and A321neo aircraft.

“Adjusted CASM” means operating expenses, excluding special items, divided by ASMs. For a discussion of such special items and a reconciliation of CASM to Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest, please see “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Results of Operations.”

“Adjusted CASM including net interest” or “Adjusted CASM + net interest” means the sum of Adjusted CASM and Net interest expense (income) excluding special items divided by ASMs. For a discussion of such special items and a reconciliation of CASM to Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest, please see “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Results of Operations.”

“Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel)” means operating expenses less aircraft fuel expense and excluding special items, divided by ASMs. For a discussion of such special items and a reconciliation of CASM to Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest, please see “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Results of Operations.”

“Air traffic liability” or “ATL” means the value of tickets and other related fees sold in advance of travel.

“Available seat miles” or “ASMs” means the number of seats available for passengers multiplied by the number of miles the seats are flown.

“Average aircraft in service” means the average number of aircraft used in flight operations, as calculated on a daily basis.

“Average daily aircraft utilization” means block hours divided by number of days in the period divided by average aircraft.

“Average stage length” means the average number of statute miles flown per flight segment.

“Block hours” means the number of hours during which the aircraft is in revenue service, measured from the time of gate departure before take-off until the time of gate arrival at the destination.

“Cash burn” means change in cash and cash equivalents during the period ($390 million decrease during 2020) adjusted to exclude (i) cash from CARES Act related debt ($183 million in 2020), payroll support grant ($178 million in 2020) and employee retention credit funding ($6 million in 2020), (ii) cash paid for ineffective derivatives ($52 million in 2020) caused by the pandemic, and (iii) pilot phantom equity settlement ($111 million in 2020) divided by days in the period. We believe that cash burn is a useful measure of liquidity consumed by our business. Our definition of cash burn may not be calculated in the same manner as similarly labeled statistics used by other airlines.

“CASM” or “unit costs” means operating expenses divided by ASMs.
“CASM including net interest” means the sum of CASM and Net interest expense (income) divided by ASMs.

“CBA” means a collective bargaining agreement.

“DOT” means the United States Department of Transportation.

“EPA” means the United States Environmental Protection Agency.

“FAA” means the United States Federal Aviation Administration.

“Fare revenue” consists of base fares for air travel, including mileage credits redeemed under our frequent flyer program, unused and expired passenger credits, other redeemed or expired travel credits and revenue derived from charter flights.

“Fare revenue per passenger” means fare revenue divided by passengers.

“FTE” means full-time equivalent employee.

“GDS” means a Global Distribution System such as Amadeus, Sabre and Travelport, used by travel agencies and corporations to purchase tickets on participating airlines.

“LCC” means low-cost carrier.

“Load factor” means the percentage of aircraft seat miles actually occupied on a flight (RPMs divided by ASMs).

“Net interest expenses (income)” means interest expense, capitalized interest, interest income and other.

“NMB” means the National Mediation Board.

“Non-fare passenger revenue” consists of fees related to certain ancillary items such as baggage, service fees, seat selection, and other passenger-related revenue that is not included as part of base fares for travel.

“Non-fare passenger revenue per passenger” means non-fare passenger revenue divided by passengers.

“Operating revenue per ASM,” “RASM” or “unit revenue” means total operating revenue divided by ASMs.

“Other revenue” consists primarily of services not directly related to providing transportation, such as the advertising, marketing and brand elements of the Frontier Miles (formerly EarlyReturns) affinity credit card program and commissions revenue from the sale of items such as rental cars and hotels.

“Other revenue per passenger” means other revenue divided by passengers.

“Passengers” means the total number of passengers flown on all flight segments.

“Passenger revenue” consists of fare revenue and non-fare passenger revenue.

“PDP” means pre-delivery deposit payments, which are payments required by aircraft manufacturers in advance of delivery of the aircraft.
“RASM” means total revenue divided by ASMs.

“Revenue passenger miles” or “RPMs” means the number of miles flown by passengers.

“RLA” means the United States Railway Labor Act.

“Stage-length adjustment” refers to an adjustment that can be utilized to compare CASM and RASM across airlines with varying stage lengths. All other things being equal, the same airline will have lower CASM and RASM as stage length increases since fixed and departure related costs are spread over increasingly longer average flight lengths. Therefore, as one method to facilitate comparison of these quantities across airlines (or even across the same airline for two different periods if the airline’s average stage length has changed significantly), it is common in the airline industry to settle on a common assumed stage length and then to adjust CASM and RASM appropriately. Stage-length adjusted comparisons are achieved by multiplying base CASM or RASM by a quotient, the numerator of which is the square root of the carrier’s stage length and the denominator of which is the square root of the common stage length. Stage-length adjustment techniques require judgment and different observers may use different techniques. For stage-length adjusted CASM and RASM comparisons in this prospectus, the stage length being utilized is the aircraft stage length.

“Total Revenue per passenger” means the sum of fare revenue, non-fare passenger revenue, and other revenue (collectively, “Total Revenue”) divided by passengers.

“TSA” means the United States Transportation Security Administration.

“Treasury” means the United States Department of the Treasury.

“ULCC” means ultra low-cost carrier.

“VFR” means visiting friends and relatives.
RISK FACTORS

Investing in our common stock involves a high degree of risk. You should carefully consider the risks and uncertainties described below, together with all of the other information in this prospectus, including the section titled “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations” and our consolidated financial statements and related notes, before making a decision to invest in our common stock. The risks and uncertainties described below may not be the only ones we face, and many of such risks have been and will be exacerbated by the coronavirus (“COVID-19”) pandemic. If any of these risks should occur, our business, results of operations, financial condition or growth prospects could be adversely affected. In those cases, the trading price of our common stock could decline and you may lose all or part of your investment.

Risks Related to Our Industry

The COVID-19 pandemic and measures to reduce its spread have had, and are expected to continue to have, a material adverse impact on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

In December 2019, a novel strain of coronavirus was reported in Wuhan, China. COVID-19 has since spread to almost every country in the world, including the United States. The World Health Organization has declared COVID-19 a pandemic. The outbreak of COVID-19 and the implementation of measures to reduce its spread have adversely impacted our business and continue to adversely impact our business in a number of ways. Multiple governments in countries we serve, principally the United States, have responded to the virus with air travel restrictions and closures or recommendations against air travel, the implementation of mandatory quarantine periods after travel, and certain countries we serve have required airlines to limit or completely stop operations. In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, we have significantly reduced capacity from our original plan and will continue to evaluate the need for further flight schedule adjustments. While we experienced a modest uptick in demand during the latter half of the second quarter and continuing into the third and fourth quarters of 2020, demand was negatively impacted by a resurgence of COVID-19 cases in certain domestic markets. The length and severity of the decline in demand due to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic is uncertain and, as such, we expect the adverse impact to persist in 2021. Although we have seen early signs of recovery in airline travel, there is no assurance that it will continue or the pace at which it will recover, and the recovery we anticipate may not materialize in a timely manner or at all.

In response to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, beginning in March 2020, we have taken measures to address the significant cash outflows resulting from the sharp decline in demand and we continue to evaluate options should the lack of demand for air travel continue beyond the near term. During 2020, we also reduced our flight schedule to match demand levels and implemented various other initiatives to reduce costs and manage liquidity including, but not limited to:

- reducing planned headcount increases;
- reducing employee related costs, including:
  - salary reductions and/or deferrals for our officers and board members;
  - suspension of merit salary increases for 2020; and
  - voluntary paid and unpaid leave of absence programs for employees not covered under labor arrangements, as well as certain employees covered under such arrangements, including pilots and flight attendants, that range from one month to six months;
- deferring aircraft deliveries;
- reducing discretionary expenses;
- reaching agreements with major vendors, which are primarily related to many of our aircraft and engine leases as well as airports, for deferral of payments and deliveries until later in 2020 and into 2021;
delaying non-essential maintenance projects and reducing or suspending other discretionary spending;
• reducing non-essential capital projects;
• securing current funding and future liquidity from the CARES Act, PSP, PSP2 and other financing sources; and
• amending certain debt covenant metrics to align with current and expected demand.

Additionally, we also outsource certain critical business activities to third parties, including our dependence on a limited number of suppliers for our aircraft and engines. As a result, we have increased our reliance on the successful implementation and execution of the business continuity planning of such third-party service providers in the current environment. If one or more of such third parties experience operational failures as a result of the impacts from the spread of COVID-19, or claim that they cannot perform due to a force majeure event, it may have a material adverse impact on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

The extent of the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on our business, results of operations and financial condition will depend on future developments, including the currently unknowable duration of the COVID-19 pandemic; the efficacy of COVID-19 vaccines; impact of existing and future governmental regulations, travel advisories, testing regimes, and restrictions that are imposed in response to the COVID-19 pandemic; additional reductions to our flight capacity, or a voluntary temporary cessation of all flights, that we implement in response to the COVID-19 pandemic; and the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on consumer behavior, such as a reduction in the demand for air travel, especially in our destination cities. The potential economic impact brought on by the COVID-19 pandemic is difficult to assess or predict, and it has already caused, and is likely to result in further, significant disruptions of global economies and financial markets, which may reduce our ability to access capital on favorable terms or at all, and increase the cost of capital. In addition, a recession, depression or other sustained adverse economic event resulting from the spread of COVID-19 would materially adversely impact our business and the value of our common stock. The COVID-19 pandemic makes it more challenging for management to estimate future performance of our business, particularly over the near to medium term. A further significant decline in demand for our flights could have a materially adverse impact on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

We are depending upon a successful COVID-19 vaccine, including an efficient distribution and sufficient supply, and significant uptake by the general public in order to normalize economic conditions, the airline industry and our business operations and to realize our growth plans and business strategy. The potential efficacy and availability of a COVID-19 vaccine and the extent to which a vaccine is widely accepted is highly uncertain, and we cannot predict if or when we will be able to resume full normal operations. The failure of a vaccine, including to the extent it is not effective against any COVID-19 variants, significant unplanned adverse reactions to the vaccine, politicization of the vaccine or general public distrust of the vaccine could have an adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

On March 27, 2020, the CARES Act was signed into law. On April 30, 2020 we entered into a Payroll Support Program Agreement with the Treasury (the “PSP Agreement”) to receive funding through the PSP over the second and third quarters of 2020. On September 28, 2020, we entered into an agreement with the Treasury for a term loan facility (“Treasury Loan”) and on January 15, 2021, we entered into an agreement with the Treasury for additional funding under the PSP2 Agreement. The funding we received is subject to significant restrictions and limitations. See “—We have agreed to certain restrictions on our business by accepting financing under the PSP and PSP2.”

The COVID-19 pandemic may also exacerbate other risks described in this “Risk Factors” section, including, but not limited to, our competitiveness, demand for our services, shifting consumer preferences and our substantial amount of outstanding indebtedness.
We have agreed to certain restrictions on our business by accepting financing under the CARES Act.

On March 27, 2020, the CARES Act was signed into law. The CARES Act provided liquidity in the form of loans, loan guarantees, and other investments to air carriers, such as us, that incurred, or are expected to incur, covered losses such that the continued operations of the business are jeopardized, as determined by the Treasury.

On April 30, 2020, we reached an agreement with the U.S. government under which we would receive $205 million of installment funding comprised of a $174 million grant (“PSP Grant”) for payroll support for the period from April 2020 through September 30, 2020, and a $31 million unsecured 10-year, low interest loan (“PSP Promissory Note”). In addition, on September 30, 2020, the Treasury provided us with an additional disbursement under the PSP of $6 million, comprised of an additional $4 million toward the PSP Grant, and $2 million toward the PSP Promissory Note. In connection with our participation in the PSP, we also issued to the Treasury warrants pursuant to a warrant agreement to purchase up to 13,752 shares of our common stock, par value $0.0001 per share, with an exercise price of $241.72 per share (the value of a share of common stock on April 9, 2020 as determined by a third-party valuation).

On September 28, 2020, we entered into a $574 million secured term loan facility with the Treasury, of which we borrowed $150 million. As of December 31, 2020, we have issued 62,055 Treasury Warrants in conjunction with the first draw on the loan. The Treasury Warrants expire in five years from the date of issuance, are transferable, have no voting rights and contain customary terms regarding anti-dilution. If the Treasury or any subsequent warrant holder exercises the Treasury Warrants, the interest of our holders of common stock would be diluted and we would be partially owned by the U.S. government, which could have a negative impact on our common stock price, and which could require increased resources and attention by our management.

On January 15, 2021, we entered into the PSP2 Agreement with the Treasury for at least an additional $140 million of payroll support funding (of which $70 million was paid on that date).

In connection with our participation in the PSP, PSP2, and the Treasury Loan, we are, and continue to be, subject to certain restrictions and limitations, including, but not limited to:

- Restrictions on repurchases of equity securities listed on a national securities exchange or payment of dividends until the later of March 31, 2022 or one year after the Treasury Loan facility is repaid;
- Requirements to maintain certain levels of scheduled services (including to destinations where there may currently be significantly reduced or no demand);
- A prohibition on involuntary terminations or furloughs of employees (except for health, disability, cause, or certain disciplinary reasons) through March 31, 2021 and the requirements to recall employees involuntarily terminated or furloughed after September 30, 2020;
- A prohibition on reducing the salary, wages, or benefits of our employees (other than our executive officers or independent contractors, or as otherwise permitted under the terms of the PSP and PSP2) through March 31, 2021;
- Limits on certain executive compensation including limiting pay increases and severance pay or other benefits upon terminations, until the later of October 1, 2022 or one year after the Treasury Loan facility is repaid;
- Limitations on the use of the grant funds exclusively for the continuation of payment of employee wages, salaries and benefits; and
- Additional reporting and recordkeeping requirements relating to the PSP and PSP2 funds.
These restrictions and requirements could materially adversely impact our business, results of operations and financial condition by, among other things, requiring us to change certain of our business practices and to maintain or increase cost levels to maintain scheduled service and employment with little or no offsetting revenue, affecting retention of key personnel and limiting our ability to effectively compete with others in our industry who may not be receiving funding and may not be subject to similar limitations.

We cannot predict whether the assistance from the Treasury through the PSP and PSP2 will be adequate to continue to pay our employees for the duration of the COVID-19 pandemic or whether additional assistance will be required or available in the future. There can be no assurance that loans or other assistance will be available through the CARES Act or any future legislation, or whether we will be eligible to receive any additional assistance, if needed.

Further, the Treasury Loan Agreement includes affirmative and negative covenants that restrict our ability to, among other things, dispose of certain assets, merge, consolidate or sell assets, incur certain additional indebtedness or pay certain dividends. In addition, we are required to maintain unrestricted cash and cash equivalents and unused commitments available under all revolving credit facilities aggregating not less than $250 million and to maintain a minimum ratio of the borrowing base of the collateral. If we do not meet the minimum collateral coverage ratio, we must either provide additional collateral to secure our obligations under the Treasury Loan Agreement or repay the loans by an amount necessary to maintain compliance with the collateral coverage ratio.

The airline industry is exceedingly competitive, and we compete against legacy network airlines, low-cost carriers and other ultra low-cost carriers; if we are not able to compete successfully in our markets, our business will be materially adversely affected.

We face significant competition with respect to routes, fares and services. Within the airline industry, we compete with legacy network carriers, low-cost carriers ("LCCs"), and ULCCs. There are presently three very large legacy network carriers in the United States, American Airlines, Delta Air Lines and United Airlines, which together with Southwest Airlines, which classifies itself as an LCC, are commonly referred to as the “Big Four” carriers. There are presently two additional legacy network carriers in the United States, Alaska Airlines and Hawaiian Airlines, which together with JetBlue Airways, which classifies itself as an LCC, are commonly referred to as the “Middle Three” carriers. Finally, there are presently three ULCCs in the United States, Frontier, Allegiant and Spirit. Competition on most of the routes we presently serve is intense, due to the large number of carriers in those markets. Furthermore, other airlines may begin service or increase existing service on routes where we currently face no or little competition. In almost all instances, our competitors are larger than us and possess significantly greater financial and other resources than we do.

The airline industry is particularly susceptible to price discounting because, once a flight is scheduled, airlines incur only nominal additional costs to provide service to passengers occupying otherwise unsold seats. Increased fare or other price competition could adversely affect our operations. Airlines typically use discount fares and other promotions to stimulate traffic during normally slower travel periods to generate cash flow and to increase revenue per available seat mile. The prevalence of discount fares can be particularly acute when a competitor has excess capacity to sell. Given the high levels of excess capacity among U.S. airlines generally as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, we expect to face significant discounted fare competition as the U.S. market recovers. Moreover, many other airlines have unbundled their services, at least in part, by charging separately for services such as baggage and advance seat selection which previously were offered as a component of base fares. This unbundling and other cost-reducing measures could enable competitor airlines to reduce fares on routes that we serve.

In addition, airlines increase or decrease capacity in markets based on perceived profitability. If our competitors increase overall industry capacity, or capacity dedicated to a particular domestic or foreign region, market or route that we serve, it could have a material adverse impact on our business. For instance, in 2017 there was widespread capacity growth across the United States, including in many of the markets in which we operate. In particular, during 2017, both Southwest Airlines and United Airlines increased their capacity in Denver. The domestic airline industry has often been the source of fare wars undertaken to grow market share or for other reasons, including, for example, actions by American Airlines in 2015 and United Airlines in 2017 to match fares offered in many of its markets by ULCCs, with resulting material adverse effects on the revenues of the airlines involved. The increased capacity across the United States in 2017 exacerbated the competitive pricing environment, particularly beginning in the second quarter of 2017, and this activity continued throughout 2018 and the first half of 2019. Given the decreased demand resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic, we expect significant competition, including price competition, at least in the short-term and as the U.S. market recovers. If we continue to experience increased competition our business could be materially adversely affected.

We also expect new work patterns and the increased growth of work from home will lead to increasing number of employees choosing to live remotely from their office location, which could significantly alter the historical demand levels on the routes we serve. While we believe our low fares and low costs will enable us to grow our network in new markets profitably to take advantage of new demand patterns as they arise, there can be no assurance that we will be successful in doing so or that we will be able to successfully compete with other U.S. airlines on such routes. If we fail to establish ourselves in such new markets our business could be materially adversely affected.

Our growth and the success of our ULCC business model could stimulate competition in our markets through our competitors’ development of their own ULCC strategies or new market entrants, including several potential new entrants that have announced the intention to commence operations in the relatively near future. For example, certain legacy network airlines have further segmented the cabins of their aircraft in order to enable them to offer a new tier of reduced base fares designed to be competitive with those offered by us and other ULCCs. We expect the legacy airlines to continue to match low-cost carrier and ULCC pricing on portions of their network. A competitor adopting a ULCC strategy may have greater financial resources and access to lower cost sources of capital than we do, which could enable them to execute a ULCC strategy with a lower cost structure than we can. If these competitors adopt and successfully execute a ULCC business model, our business, results of operations and financial condition could be materially adversely affected.

There has been significant consolidation within the airline industry, including, for example, the combinations of American Airlines and US Airways, Delta Air Lines and Northwest Airlines, United Airlines and Continental Airlines, Southwest Airlines and AirTran Airways, and Alaska Airlines and Virgin America. In the future, there may be additional consolidation in the airline industry. Business combinations could significantly alter industry conditions and competition within the airline industry and could enable our competitors to reduce their fares.

The extremely competitive nature of the airline industry could prevent us from attaining the level of passenger traffic or maintaining the level of fares or revenues related to non-fare services required to achieve and sustain profitable operations in new and existing markets and could impede our growth strategy, which could harm our operating results. Due to our relatively small size, we are susceptible to a fare war or other competitive activities in one or more of the markets we serve, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Our business has been and may in the future be materially adversely affected by the price and availability of aircraft fuel. Unexpected pricing of aircraft fuel or a shortage or disruption in the supply of aircraft fuel could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

The cost of aircraft fuel is highly volatile and in recent years has generally been one of our largest individual operating expenses, accounting for 29%, 29% and 21% of our operating expenses for the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively. High fuel prices or increases in fuel costs (or in the price of crude oil) could result in increased levels of expense, and we may not be able to increase ticket prices sufficiently to cover such increased fuel costs, particularly when fuel prices rise quickly. We also sell a significant number of tickets to passengers well in advance of travel, and, as a result, fares sold for future travel may not reflect such increased fuel costs. In addition, our ability to increase ticket prices to offset an increase in fuel costs is limited by the competitive nature of the airline industry and the price sensitivity associated with air travel, particularly leisure travel, and any increases in fares may reduce the general demand. Conversely, prolonged low fuel prices could also limit our ability to differentiate our product and low fares from those of the legacy network airlines and LCCs, as prolonged low fuel prices could enable such carriers to, among other things, substantially decrease their costs, fly longer stages or utilize older aircraft. In addition, any increases in fuel prices could also benefit the competitive landscape by allowing us to operate and have on order. See also “Risks Related to Our Business—We may be subject to competitive risks due to the long-term nature of our fleet order book and the unproven new engine technology utilized by the aircraft in our order book.” Aircraft fuel expense per gallon decreased 6% in the year ended December 31, 2020 to 2.08 compared to 2019, resulting from lower demand as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic partly offset by losses on fuel hedges during 2020. Any future fluctuations in aircraft fuel prices or sustained high or low prices could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Our business is also dependent on the availability of aircraft fuel (or crude oil), which is not predictable. Weather-related events, natural disasters, terrorism, wars, political disruption or instability involving oil-producing countries, changes in governmental or cartel policy concerning crude oil or aircraft fuel production, labor strikes or other events affecting refinery production, transportation, taxes, marketing, environmental concerns, market manipulation, price speculation and other unpredictable events may drive actual or perceived fuel supply shortages. Shortages in the availability of, or increases in demand for, crude oil in general, other crude oil-based fuel derivatives and aircraft fuel in particular could result in increased fuel prices and could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

As of December 31, 2020, we had no fuel cash flow hedges for future fuel consumption. Our results for the year ended December 31, 2020 include operating expenses of $52 million relating to the de-designation of fuel hedges resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic on the quantities where consumption was not deemed probable. During 2020 our hedges consisted of call options and collar structures, although we have in the past and may in the future use other instruments such as swaps on jet fuel or highly correlated commodities and fixed forward price contracts (“FFPs”) which allow us to lock in the price of jet fuel for specified quantities and at specified locations in future periods. We cannot assure you our fuel hedging program will be effective or that we will maintain a fuel hedging program. Even if we are able to hedge portions of our future fuel requirements, we cannot guarantee that our hedge contracts will provide an adequate level of protection against increased fuel costs or that the counterparties to our hedge contracts will be able to perform. Our fuel hedge contracts may contain margin funding requirements that could require us to post collateral to counterparties in the event of a significant drop in fuel prices in the future. Additionally, our ability to realize the benefit of declining fuel prices may be delayed by the impact of any fuel hedges in place, and we may record significant losses on fuel hedges during periods of declining prices. A failure of our fuel hedging strategy, significant margin funding requirements, overpaying for fuel through the use of hedging arrangements or our failure to maintain a fuel hedging program could prevent us from adequately mitigating the risk of fuel price increases and could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Restrictions on or increased taxes applicable to charges for non-fare products and services paid by airline passengers and burdensome consumer protection regulations or laws could harm our business, results of operations and financial condition.

For the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, we generated non-fare passenger revenues of $1,016 million, $1,240 million and $659 million, respectively. Our non-fare passenger revenue consists primarily of revenue generated from air travel-related services such as baggage fees, service fees, seat selection fees and other passenger-related revenue and are a component of our passenger revenue within the consolidated statements of operations. The Department of Transportation (“DOT”) has rules governing many facets of the airline-consumer relationship, including, for instance, consumer notice requirements, handling of consumer complaints, price advertising, lengthy tarmac delays, oversales and denied boarding process/compensation, ticket refunds, liability for loss, delay or damage to baggage, customer service commitments, contracts of carriage, consumer disclosures and the transportation of passengers with disabilities. The DOT periodically audits airlines to determine whether such airlines have violated any of the DOT rules. The DOT has conducted audits of our business and routine post-audit investigations of our business are ongoing. If the DOT determines that we are not, or have not been, in compliance with these rules or if we are unable to remain compliant, the DOT may subject us to fines or other enforcement action. For instance, in 2017 we were fined $0.4 million by the DOT for certain infractions relating to oversales, passengers with disabilities, and customer service plan rules, $40,000 for certain infractions relating to oversales disclosure and notice requirements, the domestic baggage liability limit rule, and customer service plan rules; and $1.5 million by the DOT relating to lengthy tarmac delays, which was offset by a $0.9 million credit for compensation provided to passengers on the affected flights and other delayed flights.

The DOT may also impose additional consumer protection requirements, including adding requirements to modify our websites and computer reservations system, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. The FAA Reauthorization Act of 2018 provided for several new requirements and rulemakings related to airlines, including but not limited to: (i) prohibition on voice communication cell phone use during certain flights, (ii) insecticide use disclosures, (iii) new training policy best practices for training regarding racial, ethnic, and religious non-discrimination, (iv) training on human trafficking for certain staff, (v) departure gate stroller check-in, (vi) the protection of pets on airplanes and service animal standards, (vii) requirements to refund promptly to passengers any ancillary fees paid for services not received, (viii) consumer complaint process improvements, (ix) pregnant passenger assistance, (x) restrictions on the ability to deny a revenue passenger permission to board or involuntarily remove such passenger from the aircraft, (xi) minimum customer service standards for large ticket agents, (xii) information publishing requirements for widespread disruptions and passenger rights, (xiii) submission of plans pertaining to employee and contractor training consistent with the Airline Passengers with Disabilities Bill of Rights, (xiv) ensuring assistance for passengers with disabilities, (xv) flight attendant duty period limitations and rest requirements, including submission of a fatigue risk management plan, (xvi) submission of policy concerning passenger sexual misconduct, (xvii) development of Employee Assault Prevention and Response Plan related to the customer service agents, (xviii) increased penalties available related to harm to passengers with disabilities or damage to wheelchairs or other mobility aids and (xix) minimum dimensions for passenger seats. The DOT also published a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking in January 2020 regarding the accessibility features of lavatories and onboard wheelchair requirements on certain single-aisle aircraft with an FAA certificated maximum capacity of 125 seats or more, training flight attendants to proficiency on an annual basis to provide assistance in transporting qualified individuals with disabilities to and from the lavatory from the aircraft seat, and providing certain information on request to qualified individuals with a disability or persons inquiring on their behalf, on the carrier’s website, and in printed or electronic form on the aircraft concerning the accessibility of aircraft lavatories. The DOT also recently published Final Rules clarifying that the maximum amount of denied boarding compensation that a carrier may provide to a passenger denied boarding involuntarily is not limited, prohibiting airlines from involuntarily denying boarding to a passenger after the passenger’s boarding pass has been collected or scanned and the passenger has boarded (subject to safety and security exceptions), raising the liability limits for denied boarding compensation, and raising the liability limit for mishandled baggage in domestic air transportation. The U.S. Congress and the DOT have examined the increasingly common airline industry practice of unbundling the pricing of certain products and ancillary services, a practice that is a core component of our business strategy. If new laws or regulations are adopted that make unbundling of airline products and services impermissible, or more cumbersome or expensive, or if new taxes are imposed on non-fare passenger revenues, our business, results of operations and financial condition could be harmed. Congressional, Federal agency and other government scrutiny may also change industry practice or the public’s willingness to pay for non-fare ancillary services. See also “—We are subject to extensive and increasing regulation by the Federal Aviation Administration, the Department of Transportation, the Transportation Security Administration, U.S. Customs and Border Protection and other U.S. and foreign governmental agencies, compliance with which could cause us to incur increased costs and adversely affect our business and financial results.”
The demand for airline services is highly sensitive to changes in economic conditions, and another recession or similar economic downturn in the United States or globally would further weaken demand for our services and have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition, particularly since a substantial portion of our customers travel for leisure or other non-essential purposes.

The demand for travel services is affected by U.S. and global economic conditions. Unfavorable economic conditions, such as those resulting from reaction to the COVID-19 pandemic, have historically reduced airline travel spending. For most cost-conscious leisure travelers, travel is a discretionary expense, and though we believe ULCCs are best suited to attract travelers during periods of unfavorable economic conditions as a result of such carriers’ low base fares, travelers have often elected to replace air travel at such times with various other forms of ground transportation or have opted not to travel at all. Likewise, during periods of unfavorable economic conditions, businesses have deferred air travel or forgone it altogether. Travelers have also reduced spending by purchasing fewer non-fare services, which can result in a decrease in average revenue per passenger. Because airlines typically have relatively high fixed costs as a percentage of total costs, much of which cannot be mitigated during periods of lower demand for air travel, the airline business is particularly sensitive to changes in U.S. and global economic conditions. A reduction in the demand for air travel due to unfavorable economic conditions also limits our ability to raise fares to counteract increased fuel, labor and other costs. If U.S. or global economic conditions are unfavorable or uncertain for an extended period of time, it would have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. In particular, the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic and associated decline in economic activity and increase in unemployment levels are expected to have a severe and prolonged effect on the global economy generally and, in turn, is expected to depress demand for air travel into the foreseeable future. Due to the uncertainty surrounding the duration and severity of the COVID-19 pandemic, we can provide no assurance as to when and at what pace demand for air travel will return to pre-pandemic levels, if at all.

We face competition from air travel substitutes.

In addition to airline competition from legacy network airlines, LCCs and other ULCCs, we also face competition from air travel substitutes, partially as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. On our domestic routes, particularly those with shorter stage lengths, we face competition from some other transportation alternatives, such as bus, train or automobile. In addition, technology advancements may limit the demand for air travel. For example, video teleconferencing, virtual and augmented reality and other methods of electronic communication may reduce the need for in-person communication and add a new dimension of competition to the industry as travelers seek lower-cost substitutes for air travel. If we are unable to stimulate demand for air travel with our low base fares or if we are unable to adjust rapidly in the event the basis of competition in our markets changes, it could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Threatened or actual terrorist attacks or security concerns, particularly involving airlines, could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Past terrorist attacks or attempted attacks, particularly those against airlines, have caused substantial revenue losses and increased security costs, and any actual or threatened terrorist attack or security breach, even if not directly against an airline, could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. For instance, enhanced passenger screening, increased regulation governing carry-on baggage and other similar restrictions on passenger travel may further increase passenger inconvenience and reduce the demand for air travel. In addition, increased or enhanced security measures have tended to result in higher governmental fees imposed on airlines, resulting in higher operating costs for airlines, which we may not be able to pass on to consumers in the form of higher prices. Terrorist attacks made directly on an airline, particularly in the U.S., or the fear of such attacks or other hostilities (including elevated national threat warnings or selective cancellation or redirection of flights due to terror threats), would have a negative impact on the airline industry and have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.
Airlines are often affected by factors beyond their control, including: air traffic congestion at airports; air traffic control inefficiencies; government shutdowns; major construction or improvements at airports; aircraft and engine defects; FAA grounding of aircraft; adverse weather conditions; increased security measures; new travel-related taxes; or the outbreak of disease, any of which could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Like other airlines, our business is affected by factors beyond our control, including air traffic congestion at airports, air traffic control inefficiencies, government shutdowns, major construction or improvements at airports at which we operate, increased security measures, new travel-related identification requirements, taxes and fees, adverse weather conditions, natural disasters and the outbreak of disease. Flight delays caused by these factors may frustrate passengers and may increase costs and decrease revenues, which in turn could adversely affect profitability. The federal government controls all U.S. airspace, and airlines are completely dependent on the FAA to operate that airspace in a safe, efficient and affordable manner. The federal government also controls airport security. The air traffic control system, which is operated by the FAA, faces challenges in managing the growing demand for U.S. air travel. U.S. and foreign air-traffic controllers often rely on outdated technologies that routinely overwhelm the system and compel airlines to fly inefficient, indirect routes resulting in delays. In addition, federal government slowdowns or shutdowns may further impact the availability of federal resources, such as air traffic controllers and security personnel, necessary to provide air traffic control and airport security, which may cause delays or cancellations of flights or may impact our ability to take delivery of aircraft or expand our route network or airport footprint. Further, implementation of the Next Generation Air Transport System, or NextGen, by the FAA could result in changes to aircraft routings and flight paths that could lead to increased noise complaints and other lawsuits, resulting in increased costs. The U.S. Congress could enact legislation that could impose a wide range of consumer protection requirements, which could increase our costs of doing business.

In addition, airlines may also experience disruptions to their operations as a result of the aircraft and engines they operate, such as manufacturing defects, spare part shortages and other factors beyond their control. For example, regulators ordered the grounding of the entire worldwide 737 MAX fleet in March 2019. While such order did not have a direct impact on our fleet, which is comprised entirely of Airbus A320 family aircraft, any similar or other disruption to our operations could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Adverse weather conditions and natural disasters, such as hurricanes, thunderstorms, blizzards, snowstorms or earthquakes, can cause flight cancellations or significant delays. Cancellations or delays due to adverse weather conditions or natural disasters, air traffic control problems or inefficiencies, breaches in security or other factors may affect us to a greater degree than other larger airlines that may be able to recover more quickly from these events, and therefore could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition to a greater degree than other air carriers. Because of our high utilization, point-to-point network, operational disruptions can have a disproportionate impact on our ability to recover. In addition, many airlines re-accommodate their disrupted passengers on other airlines at prearranged rates under flight interruption manifest agreements. We have been unsuccessful in procuring any of these agreements with our peers, which makes our recovery from disruption more challenging than for larger airlines that have these agreements in place. Similarly, outbreaks of contagious diseases, such as COVID-19, ebola, measles, avian flu, severe acute respiratory syndrome (SARS), H1N1 (swine) flu, pertussis (whooping cough) and zika virus, have in the past and may in the future result in significant decreases in passenger traffic and the imposition of government restrictions in service, resulting in a material adverse impact on the airline industry. New identification requirements, such as the implementation of rules under the REAL ID Act of 2005, and increased travel taxes, such as those provided in the Travel Promotion Act, enacted in March 2010, which charges visitors from certain countries a $10 fee every two years to travel into the United States to subsidize certain travel promotion efforts, could also result in decreases in passenger traffic. Any general reduction in airline passenger traffic could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.
Risks associated with our presence in international emerging markets, including political or economic instability, and failure to adequately comply with existing legal requirements, may materially adversely affect us.

Some of our target growth markets include countries with less developed economies, legal systems, financial markets and business and political environments are vulnerable to economic and political disruptions, such as significant fluctuations in gross domestic product, interest and currency exchange rates, civil disturbances, government instability, nationalization and expropriation of private assets, trafficking and the imposition of taxes or other charges by governments. The occurrence of any of these events in markets served by us now or in the future and the resulting instability may have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

We emphasize compliance with all applicable laws and regulations and have implemented and continue to implement and refresh policies, procedures and certain ongoing training of our employees, third-party specialists and partners with regard to business ethics and key legal requirements; however, we cannot assure you that our employees, third-party specialists or partners will adhere to our code of ethics, other policies or other legal requirements. If we fail to enforce our policies and procedures properly or maintain adequate recordkeeping and internal accounting practices to record our transactions accurately, we may be subject to sanctions. In the event we believe or have reason to believe our employees, third-party specialists or partners have or may have violated applicable laws or regulations, we may incur investigation costs, potential penalties and other related costs which in turn may have a material adverse effect on our reputation, business, results of operations and financial condition.

Increases in insurance costs or reductions in insurance coverage may have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

If any of our aircraft were to be involved in a significant accident or if our property or operations were to be affected by a significant natural catastrophe or other event, we could be exposed to material liability or loss. If we are unable to obtain sufficient insurance (including aviation hull and liability insurance and property and business interruption coverage) to cover such liabilities or losses, whether due to insurance market conditions or otherwise, our business, results of operations and financial condition could be materially adversely affected.

We currently obtain third-party war risk (terrorism) insurance as part of our commercial aviation hull and liability policy and additional third-party war risk (terrorism) insurance through a separate policy with a different private insurance company. Our current third-party war risk (terrorism) insurance from commercial underwriters excludes nuclear, radiological and certain other events. If we are unable to obtain adequate war risk insurance or if an event not covered by the insurance we maintain were to take place, our business, results of operations and financial condition could be materially adversely affected.

A decline in or temporary suspension of the funding or operations of the U.S. federal government or its agencies may adversely affect our future operating results or negatively impact the timing and implementation of our growth prospects.

The success of our operations and our future growth is dependent on a number of federal agencies, specifically the FAA, DOT and TSA. In the event of a slowdown or shutdown of the federal government, such as those experienced in October 2013 and December 2018 through January 2019, certain functions of these and other federal agencies may be significantly diminished or completely suspended for an indefinite period of time, the conclusion of which is outside of our control. During such periods, it may not be possible for us to obtain the operational approvals and certifications required for events that are critical to the successful execution of our operational strategy, such as the delivery of new aircraft or the implementation of new routes. Additionally, there may be an impact to critical airport operations, particularly security, air traffic control and other functions that could cause airport delays, flight cancellations and negatively impact consumer demand for air travel.
Furthermore, once a period of slowdown or government shutdown has concluded, there will likely be an operational backlog within the federal agencies, that may extend the length of time that such events continue to negatively impact our business, results of operations and financial condition beyond the end of such period.

Risks Related to Our Business

If we fail to implement our business strategy successfully, our business, results of operations and financial condition will be materially adversely affected.

Our growth strategy includes significantly expanding our fleet and expanding the number of markets we serve. We select target markets and routes where we believe we can achieve profitability within a reasonable timeframe, and we only continue operating on routes where we believe we can achieve and maintain our desired level of profitability. When developing our route network, we focus on gaining market share on routes that have been underserved or are served primarily by higher cost airlines where we believe we have a competitive cost advantage. Effectively implementing our growth strategy is critical for our business to achieve economies of scale and to sustain or increase our profitability. We face numerous challenges in implementing our growth strategy, including our ability to:

- sustain our relatively low unit operating costs;
- continue to realize attractive revenue performance;
- achieve and maintain profitability;
- maintain a high level of aircraft utilization; and
- access airports located in our targeted geographic markets where we can operate routes in a manner that is consistent with our cost strategy.

In addition, in order to successfully implement our growth strategy, which includes the planned growth of our fleet from 104 aircraft as of December 31, 2020 to a fleet of 165 by the end of 2025, we will require access to a large number of gates and other services at airports we currently serve or may seek to serve. We believe there are currently significant restraints on gates and related ground facilities at many of the most heavily utilized airports in the United States, in addition to the fact that three major domestic airports (JFK and LaGuardia in New York and Reagan National in Washington, D.C.) require government-controlled take-off or landing “slots” to operate at those airports. As a result, if we are unable to obtain access to a sufficient number of slots, gates or related ground facilities at desirable airports to accommodate our growing fleet, we may be unable to compete in those markets, our aircraft utilization rate could decrease, and we could suffer a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Our growth is also dependent upon our ability to maintain a safe and secure operation, including enhanced safety procedures as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, and will require additional personnel, equipment and facilities as we continue to induct new aircraft and continue to execute our growth plan. In addition, we will require additional third-party personnel for services we do not undertake ourselves. An inability to hire and retain personnel, secure the required equipment and facilities in a cost-effective and timely manner, efficiently operate our expanded facilities or obtain the necessary regulatory approvals may adversely affect our ability to achieve our growth strategy, which could harm our business. Furthermore, expansion to new markets may have other risks due to factors specific to those markets. We may be unable to foresee all of the existing risks upon entering certain new markets or respond adequately to these risks, and our growth strategy and our business may suffer as a result. In addition, our competitors may reduce their fares and/or offer special promotions following our entry into a new market. We cannot assure you that we will be able to profitably expand our existing markets or establish new markets.

Some of our target growth markets outside of the United States include countries with less developed economies that may be vulnerable to unstable economic and political conditions, such as significant fluctuations in gross domestic product, interest and currency exchange rates, civil disturbances, government instability, nationalization and expropriation of private assets and the imposition of taxes or other charges by governments. The occurrence of any of these events in markets served by us and the resulting instability may adversely affect our ability to implement our growth strategy.

Our low-cost structure is one of our primary competitive advantages, and many factors could affect our ability to control our costs.

Our low-cost structure is one of our primary competitive advantages. However, we have limited control over some of our costs. For example, we have limited control over the price and availability of aircraft fuel, aviation insurance, the acquisition and cost of aircraft, airport and related infrastructure costs, taxes, the cost of meeting changing regulatory requirements and our cost to access capital or financing. In addition, the compensation and benefit costs applicable to a significant portion of our employees are established by the terms of collective bargaining agreements, which could result in increased labor costs. See “— Increased labor costs, union disputes, employee strikes and other labor-related disruption may adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.” We cannot guarantee we will be able to maintain our relatively low costs. If our costs increase and we are no longer able to maintain a competitive cost structure, it could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

We may not be able to grow or maintain our unit revenues or maintain our non-fare revenues.

A key component of our Low Fares Done Right strategy is attracting customers with low fares and garnering repeat business by delivering a high-quality, family-friendly customer experience with a more upscale look and feel than traditionally experienced on ULCCs in the United States. We intend to continue to differentiate our brand and product in order to expand our loyal customer base and grow or maintain our unit revenues and maintain our non-fare revenues. The rising cost of aircraft and engine maintenance may impair our ability to offer low-cost fares resulting in reduced revenues.
Differentiating our brand and product has required and will continue to require significant investment, and we cannot assure you that the initiatives we have implemented will continue to be successful or that the initiatives we intend to implement will be successful. If we are unable to maintain or further differentiate our brand and product from the other U.S. ULCCs, our market share could decline, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. We may also not be successful in leveraging our brand and product to stimulate new demand with low base fares or gain market share from the legacy airlines, particularly if the significant excess capacity caused by the COVID-19 pandemic persists.

In addition, our business strategy includes maintaining our portfolio of desirable, value-oriented, non-fare products and services. However, we cannot assure you that passengers will continue to perceive value in the non-fare products and services we currently offer and regulatory initiatives could adversely affect non-fare revenue opportunities. Failure to maintain our non-fare revenues would have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. Furthermore, if we are unable to maintain our non-fare revenues, we may not be able to execute our strategy to continue to lower base fares in order to stimulate demand for air travel.

Increased labor costs, union disputes, employee strikes and other labor-related disruption, may adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Our business is labor intensive, with labor costs representing approximately 21%, 24% and 33% of our total operating costs for the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively. As of December 31, 2020, approximately 88% of our workforce was represented by labor unions. We have recently ratified labor agreements with several of the labor unions representing our employees and in March 2019 we reached a tentative agreement with the union representing our flight attendants, which was ratified on May 15, 2019. See “Business—Employees.” We cannot assure you that our labor costs going forward will remain competitive or that any new agreements into which we enter will not have terms with higher labor costs or that the negotiations of such labor agreements will not result in any work stoppages.

Relations between air carriers and labor unions in the United States are governed by the RLA. Under the RLA, collective bargaining agreements generally contain “amendable dates” rather than expiration dates, and the RLA requires that a carrier maintain the existing terms and conditions of employment following the amendable date through a multi-stage and usually lengthy series of bargaining processes overseen by the NMB. This process continues until either the parties have reached agreement on a new collective bargaining agreement, or the parties have been released to “self-help” by the NMB. In most circumstances, the RLA prohibits strikes; however, after release by the NMB, carriers and unions are free to engage in self-help measures such as lockouts and strikes.

From June to November 2018, we experienced disruptions to our flight operations during our labor negotiations with the union representing our pilots, Air Line Pilots Association (“ALPA”), which materially impacted our business and results of operations for the period. Upon reaching a tentative agreement with ALPA in December 2018, our flight operations returned to normal. However, we are unable to determine the extent to which this period of prolonged disruption may have harmed our reputation or the length of time it may take for our business to recover from such harm, if ever. In addition, the agreement, which became effective in January 2019, included a significant increase in the annual compensation of our pilots as well as a one-time ratification incentive payment to our pilots of $75 million, plus payroll related taxes. We can provide no assurance that we will not experience another operational disruption resulting from any future negotiations or disagreements with our pilots, nor can we provide assurance that we will not experience an operational disruption as a result of negotiations or disagreements with any of our other union-represented employee groups. In addition, we cannot provide any estimate with regard to the amount or probability of future compensation increases, ratification incentives or other costs that may come as a result of future negotiations with our pilots or our other union represented groups. Future operational disruptions or other costs related to labor negotiations, including reputational harm that may come as a result of such disruptions, if any, may have a material adverse impact on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

In addition, the terms and conditions of our future collective bargaining agreements may be affected by the results of collective bargaining negotiations at other airlines that may have a greater ability, due to larger scale, greater efficiency, superior profitability or other factors, to bear higher costs than we can. One or more of our competitors may also significantly reduce their labor costs, thereby providing them with a competitive advantage over us. Our labor costs may also increase in connection with our growth and we could also become subject to additional collective bargaining agreements in the future as non-unionized workers may unionize. The occurrence of any such event may have a material adverse impact on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Our inability to expand or operate reliably or efficiently out of airports where we maintain a large presence could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

We are highly dependent on markets served from airports that are significant to our business, including Denver, Orlando and Las Vegas, as well as high-traffic locations, such as Philadelphia, Cleveland, Tampa, Chicago, Fort Myers and Atlanta. Our results of operations may be affected by actions taken by governmental or other agencies or authorities having jurisdiction over our operations at these and other airports, including, but not limited to:

- increases in airport rates and charges;
- limitations on take-off and landing slots, airport gate capacity or other use of airport facilities;
- termination of our airport use agreements, some of which can be terminated by airport authorities with little notice to us; increases in airport capacity that could facilitate increased competition; international travel regulations such as customs and immigration;

increases in taxes;

changes in the law that affect the services that can be offered by airlines, in general and in particular markets or at particular airports;

restrictions on competitive practices;

the adoption of statutes or regulations that impact or impose additional customer service standards and requirements, including security standards and requirements; and the adoption of more restrictive locally imposed noise regulations or curfews.

Our existing lease at Denver International Airport expires in December 2021 with an option to extend for two additional one-year periods. We cannot assure you that renewal of the lease will occur on acceptable terms or at all, or that the new lease will not include additional or increased fees. In general, any changes in airport operations could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Our reputation and business could be adversely affected in the event of an emergency, accident or similar public incident involving our aircraft or personnel.

We are exposed to potential significant losses and adverse publicity in the event that any of our aircraft or personnel is involved in an emergency, accident, terrorist incident or other similar public incident, which could expose us to significant reputational harm and potential legal liability. In addition, we could face significant costs or lost revenues related to repairs or replacement of a damaged aircraft and its temporary or permanent loss from service. We cannot assure you that we will not be affected by such events or that the amount of our insurance coverage will be adequate in the event such circumstances arise, and any such event could cause a substantial increase in our insurance premiums. In addition, any future emergency, accident or similar incident involving our aircraft or personnel, even if fully covered by insurance or even if it does not involve our airline, may create an adverse public perception about our airline or that the equipment we fly is less safe or reliable than other transportation alternatives, or, in the case of our aircraft, could cause us to perform time-consuming and costly inspections on our aircraft or engines, any of which could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Negative publicity regarding our customer service could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Our business strategy includes the differentiation of our brand and product from the other U.S. airlines, including other ULCCs, in order to increase customer loyalty and drive future ticket sales. We intend to accomplish this by continuing to offer passengers dependable customer service. However, in the past, we have experienced a relatively high number of customer complaints related to, among other things, our customer service and reservations and ticketing systems, including related to our COVID-19 related refund policy. Passenger complaints, together with reports of lost baggage, delayed and cancelled flights, and other service issues, are reported to the public by the DOT. In addition, we could become subject to complaints about our booking practices. For instance, in 2017 we were fined $0.4 million by the DOT for certain infractions relating to oversales, rules related to passengers with disabilities, customer service plan rules, $40,000 for certain infractions relating to oversales disclosure and notice requirements, domestic baggage liability limit rule, and customer service plan rules; and $1.5 million by the DOT relating to length tarmac delays, which was offset by a $0.9 million credit for compensation provided to passengers on the affected flights and other delayed flights. If we do not meet our customers’ expectations with respect to reliability and service, our brand and product could be negatively impacted, which could result in customers deciding not to fly with us and adversely affect our business and reputation.
We rely on maintaining a high daily aircraft utilization rate to implement our low-cost structure, which makes us especially vulnerable to flight delays, flight cancellations, aircraft unavailability or unplanned reductions in demand such as has been caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

We have maintained a high daily aircraft utilization rate prior to the COVID pandemic and expect our utilization rate to increase as the U.S. market begins to recover from the pandemic. Our average daily aircraft utilization was 12.3 hours, 12.2 hours and 8.0 hours for the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019, and 2020, respectively. Aircraft utilization is the average amount of time per day that our aircraft spend carrying passengers. Part of our business strategy is to maximize revenue per aircraft through high daily aircraft utilization, which is achieved, in part, by quick turnaround times at airports so we can fly more hours on average in a day. Aircraft utilization is reduced by delays and cancellations caused by various factors, many of which are beyond our control, including air traffic congestion at airports or other air traffic control problems or outages, labor availability, adverse weather conditions, increased security measures or breaches in security, international or domestic conflicts, terrorist activity, or other changes in business conditions. A significant portion of our operations are concentrated in markets such as Denver, the Northeast and northern Midwest regions of the United States, which are particularly vulnerable to weather, airport traffic constraints and other delays, particularly in the winter months. In addition, pulling aircraft out of service for unscheduled and scheduled maintenance may materially reduce our average fleet utilization and require that we re-accommodate passengers or seek short-term substitute capacity at increased costs. Further, an unplanned reduction in demand such as has been caused by the COVID-19 pandemic reduces the utilization of our fleet and result in a related increase in unit costs, which may be material. Due to the relatively small size of our fleet, our point-to-point network and high daily aircraft utilization rate, the unexpected unavailability of one or more aircraft and resulting reduced capacity or even a modest decrease in demand could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

It has only been a limited period since our current business and operating strategy has been implemented.

Following our acquisition by an investment fund managed by Indigo, an affiliate of Indigo Partners, in 2013 and the implementation of our current business and operating strategy in 2014, we recorded net income of $80 million and $251 million for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2019, and net loss of $225 million for the year ended December 31, 2020, respectively, which, with respect to 2018 and 2019, are higher levels of net income than we had achieved prior to our acquisition. While we recorded an annual profit for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2019, we recorded a net loss for the year ended December 31, 2020 and we cannot assure you that we will be able to sustain or increase profitability on a quarterly or an annual basis in future periods. In turn, this may cause the trading price of our common stock to decline and may materially adversely affect our business.

We are subject to various environmental and noise laws and regulations, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

We are subject to increasingly stringent federal, state, local and foreign laws, regulations and ordinances relating to the protection of the environment and noise, including those relating to emissions to the air, discharges (including storm water discharges) to surface and subsurface waters, safe drinking water and the use, management, disposal and release of, and exposure to, hazardous substances, oils and waste materials. We are or may be subject to new or proposed laws and regulations that may have a direct effect (or indirect effect through our third-party specialists or airport facilities at which we operate) on our operations. In addition, U.S. airport authorities are exploring ways to limit de-icing fluid discharges. Any such existing, future, new or potential laws and regulations could have an adverse impact on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Similarly, we are subject to environmental laws and regulations that require us to investigate and remediate soil or groundwater to meet certain remediation standards. Under certain laws, generators of waste materials, and current and former owners or operators of facilities, can be subject to liability for investigation and remediation.
costs at locations that have been identified as requiring response actions. Liability under these laws may be strict, joint and several, meaning that we could be liable for the costs of cleaning up environmental contamination regardless of fault or the amount of wastes directly attributable to us.

In addition, the International Civil Aviation Organization (“ICAO”) and jurisdictions around the world have adopted noise regulations that require all aircraft to comply with noise level standards, and governmental authorities in several U.S. and foreign cities are considering or have already implemented aircraft noise reduction programs, including the imposition of overnight curfews and limitations on daytime take-offs and landings. Compliance with existing and future environmental laws and regulations, including emissions limitations and more restrictive or widespread noise regulations, that may be applicable to us could require significant expenditures, increase our cost base and have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition, and violations thereof can lead to significant fines and penalties, among other sanctions.

We generally participate with other airlines in fuel consortia and fuel committees at our airports, which agreements generally include cost-sharing provisions and environmental indemnities that are generally joint and several among the participating airlines. Any costs (including remediation and spill response costs) incurred by such fuel consortia could also have an adverse impact on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

We are subject to risks associated with climate change, including increased regulation of our CO\textsubscript{2} emissions, changing consumer preferences and the potential increased impacts of severe weather events on our operations and infrastructure.

Efforts to transition to a low-carbon future have increased the focus by global, regional and national regulators on climate change and greenhouse gas (“GHG”) emissions, including CO\textsubscript{2} emissions. In particular, ICAO has adopted rules to implement the Carbon Offsetting and Reduction Scheme for International Aviation (“CORSIA”) which will require us to address the growth in CO\textsubscript{2} emissions of a significant majority of our international flights. For more information on CORSIA, see “Business—Government Regulation—Environmental Regulation.”

At this time, the costs of complying with our future obligations under CORSIA are uncertain, primarily because it is difficult to estimate the return of demand for international air travel during and in the recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic. There is also significant uncertainty with respect to the future supply and price of carbon offset credits and sustainable or lower carbon aircraft fuels that could allow us to reduce our emissions of CO\textsubscript{2}. In addition, we will not directly control our CORSIA compliance costs through 2029 because those obligations are based on the growth in emissions of the global aviation sector and begin to incorporate a factor for individual airline operator emissions growth beginning in 2030. Due to the competitive nature of the airline industry and unpredictability of the market for air travel, we can offer no assurance that we may be able to increase our fares, impose surcharges or otherwise increase revenues or decrease other operating costs sufficiently to offset our costs of meeting obligations under CORSIA.

In the event that CORSIA does not come into force as expected, we and other airlines could become subject to an unpredictable and inconsistent array of national or regional emissions restrictions, creating a patchwork of complex regulatory requirements that could affect global competitors differently without offering meaningful aviation environmental improvements. Concerns over climate change are likely to result in continued attempts by municipal, state, regional, and federal agencies to adopt requirements or change business environments related to aviation that, if successful, may result in increased costs to the airline industry and us. In addition, several countries and U.S. states have adopted or are considering adopting programs, including new taxes, to regulate domestic GHG emissions. Finally, certain airports have adopted, and others could in the future adopt, GHG emission or climate-related goals that could impact our operations or require us to make changes or investments in our infrastructure.
All such climate change-related regulatory activity and developments may adversely affect our business and financial results by requiring us to reduce our emissions, make capital investments to purchase specific types of equipment or technologies, purchase carbon offset credits, or otherwise incur additional costs related to our emissions. Such activity may also impact us indirectly by increasing our operating costs, including fuel costs.

In addition, in January 2021, the EPA finalized GHG emission standards for new aircraft engines designed to implement the ICAO standards on the same timeframe contemplated by ICAO. Like the ICAO standards, the final EPA standards would not apply to engines on in-service aircraft. The final standards have been challenged by several states and environmental groups, and the Biden administration has announced plans to review these final standards along with others issued by the prior administration. The outcome of the legal challenge and administrative review cannot be predicted at this time.

Growing recognition among consumers of the dangers of climate change may mean some customers choose to fly less frequently or fly on an airline they perceive as operating in a manner that is more sustainable to the climate. Business customers may choose to use alternatives to travel, such as virtual meetings and workspaces. Greater development of high-speed rail in markets now served by short-haul flights could provide passengers with lower-carbon alternatives to flying with us. Our collateral to secure loans, in the form of aircraft, spare parts and airport slots, could lose value as customer demand shifts and economies move to low-carbon alternatives, which may increase our financing cost.

Finally, the potential acute and chronic physical effects of climate change, such as increased frequency and severity of storms, floods, fires, sea-level rise, excessive heat, longer-term changes in weather patterns and other climate-related events, could affect our operations, infrastructure and financial results. Operational impacts, such as the canceling of flights, could result in loss of revenue. We could incur significant costs to improve the climate resiliency of our infrastructure and otherwise prepare for, respond to, and mitigate such physical effects of climate change. We are not able to predict accurately the materiality of any potential losses or costs associated with the physical effects of climate change.

We are highly dependent upon our cash balances and operating cash flows.

As of December 31, 2020, we had $963 million of total available liquidity, including $378 million of cash and cash equivalents, $424 million available to borrow under the Treasury Loan facility, and a $161 million income tax receivable, primarily resulting from our net operating losses generated in 2020 and expected to be collected in 2021. Furthermore, we have access to a facility to finance a portion of certain aircraft PDPs from which we had drawn $141 million as of December 31, 2020. As of December 31, 2020, our PDP Financing Facility enables us to borrow up to an aggregate of $150 million under a secured, revolving line of credit. In addition, we have a pre-purchased miles facility from which we had drawn $15 million on as of December 31, 2020 and, based on our agreement under the Treasury Loan facility, we are restricted from accessing additional amounts until full repayment and cancellation of the Treasury Loan. Following such date, the amount available under the pre-purchased miles facility will be based on the aggregate amount of fees payable by Barclays to us for pre-purchased miles on a calendar year basis, up to an aggregate maximum amount of $200 million. These facilities are not adequate to finance our operations, and thus we will continue to be dependent on our operating cash flows (if any) and cash balances to fund our operations, and make scheduled payments on our aircraft-related fixed obligations, including substantial PDPs related to the aircraft we have on order. In addition, we have sought, and may continue to seek, financing from other available sources to fund our operations in order to mitigate the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on our financial position and operations, including through the payroll support program or loan program with the Treasury.

Subsequent to December 31, 2020, we entered into the PSP2 Agreement, which is expected to provide us with an incremental $140 million in liquidity. We received the first installment in the amount of $70 million on January 15, 2021.
During the fourth quarter of 2020, we amended our pre-delivery credit facility to provide for a deferral of the fixed charge coverage ratio requirement (the “FCCR Test”) until the first quarter of 2022. If the FCCR Test is not maintained, we are required to test the loan to collateral ratio for the underlying aircraft in the credit facility that are subject to financing (the “LTV Test”) and make any pre-payments or post additional collateral required in order to reduce the loan to value on each aircraft in the credit facility that are subject to financing below a ratio threshold. The LTV Test is largely dependent on the appraised fair value of the underlying aircraft subject to financing. If the LTV Test was required to be performed, we do not expect that there would be any material required pre-payment of the pre delivery credit facility or posting of additional collateral. Additionally, we have also obtained a waiver of relief for the covenant provisions through the first quarter of 2021 related to one of our credit card processors that represents less than 10% of total revenues, which may require future waivers or an amendment to existing covenants to reflect the downturn due to the COVID-19 pandemic. We expect to seek an amendment or waiver, refinance the indebtedness subject to covenants or take other mitigating actions prior to any potential breaches that are not expected to have a material impact to our liquidity and financial position.

As of December 31, 2020, we were not subject to any credit card holdbacks, although if we fail to maintain certain liquidity and other financial covenants, our credit card processors have the right to hold back credit card remittances to cover our obligations to them, which would result in a reduction of unrestricted cash that could be material. In addition, while we recently have been able to arrange aircraft lease financing that does not require that we maintain a maintenance reserve account, we are required by some of our aircraft leases, and could in the future be required, to fund reserves in cash in advance for scheduled maintenance to act as collateral for the benefit of lessors. In those circumstances, a portion of our cash is therefore unavailable until after we have completed the scheduled maintenance in accordance with the terms of the operating leases. Based on the age of our fleet and our growth strategy, we expect these maintenance deposits to decrease as we enter into operating leases for newly-acquired aircraft that do not require reserves. If we fail to generate sufficient funds from operations to meet our operating cash requirements or do not obtain a line of credit, other borrowing facility or equity financing, we could default on our operating lease and fixed obligations. Our inability to meet our obligations as they become due would have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Our ability to obtain financing or access capital markets may be limited.

We have significant obligations to purchase aircraft and spare engines that we have on order from Airbus, CFM International, an affiliate of General Electric Company, and Pratt & Whitney. As of December 31, 2020, we had an obligation to purchase 156 A320neo family aircraft by the end of 2028, one of which had a committed operating lease. We intend to evaluate financing options for the remaining aircraft. There are a number of factors that may affect our ability to raise financing or access the capital markets in the future, including our liquidity and credit status, our operating cash flows, market conditions in the airline industry, U.S. and global economic conditions, the general state of the capital markets and the financial position of the major providers of commercial aircraft financing. We cannot assure you that we will be able to source external financing for our planned aircraft acquisitions or for other significant capital needs, and if we are unable to source financing on acceptable terms, or unable to source financing at all, our business could be materially adversely affected. To the extent we finance our activities with additional debt, we may become subject to financial and other covenants that may restrict our ability to pursue our business strategy or otherwise constrain our growth and operations.

We may be subject to competitive risks due to the long-term nature of our fleet order book and the unproven new engine technology utilized by the aircraft in our order book.

At present, we have existing aircraft purchase commitments through 2028, all of which are for Airbus A320neo family aircraft. In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, we came to an agreement with Airbus to defer four deliveries into 2021 and took nine less deliveries during the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to the prior year period. In addition, of the 156 A320neo family aircraft we have committed to purchase by 2028, 22 will be equipped with the LEAP engine manufactured by CFM International, an affiliate of General Electric Company. The remaining 134 aircraft on our order book will be equipped with Pratt & Whitney GTF engines.
The A320neo family includes next generation engine technology as well as aerodynamic refinements, large curved sharklets, weight savings, a new aircraft cabin with larger hand luggage spaces and an improved air purification system. While the A320neo family represents the latest step in the modernization of the A320 family of aircraft, the aircraft only entered commercial service in January 2016, and we are one of the first airlines to utilize the A320neo and LEAP engine. As a result, we are subject to those risks commonly associated with the initial introduction of a new aircraft type, including with respect to the A320neo’s actual, sustained fuel efficiency and other projected cost savings, which may not be realized, as well as the reliability and maintenance costs associated with a new aircraft and engine. In addition, it could take several years to determine whether the reliability and maintenance costs associated with a new aircraft and engine would have a significant impact on our operations. If we are unable to realize the potential competitive advantages we expect to achieve through the implementation of the A320neo aircraft and LEAP engines into our fleet or if we experience unexpected costs or delays in our operations as a result of such implementation, our business, results of operations and financial condition could be materially adversely affected. Furthermore, as technological evolution occurs in our industry, through the use of composites and other innovations, we may be competitively disadvantaged because we have existing extensive fleet commitments that would prohibit us from adopting new technologies on an expedited basis.

In addition, while our operation of a single family of aircraft provides us with several operational and cost advantages, any FAA directive or other mandatory order relating to our aircraft or engines, including the grounding of any of our aircraft for any reason, could potentially apply to all or substantially all of our fleet, which could materially disrupt our operations and negatively affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Our maintenance costs will increase over the near term, we will periodically incur substantial maintenance costs due to the maintenance schedules of our aircraft fleet and obligations to the lessors and we could incur significant maintenance expenses outside of such maintenance schedules in the future.

As of December 31, 2020, the operating leases for seven, four, six, four and eight aircraft in our fleet were scheduled to terminate during the remainder of 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024 and 2025, respectively. In certain circumstances, such operating leases may be extended. Prior to such aircraft being returned, we will incur costs to restore these aircraft to the condition required by the terms of the underlying operating leases. The amount and timing of these so-called “return conditions” costs can prove unpredictable due to uncertainty regarding the maintenance status of each particular aircraft at the time it is to be returned and it is not unusual for disagreements to ensue between the airline and the leasing company as to the required maintenance on a given aircraft or engine.

In addition, we currently have an obligation to purchase 156 A320neo family aircraft by the end of 2028. We expect that these new aircraft will require less maintenance when they are first placed in service (sometimes called a “maintenance holiday”) because the aircraft will benefit from manufacturer warranties and also will be able to operate for a significant period of time, generally measured in years, before the most expensive scheduled maintenance obligations, known as heavy maintenance, are first required. Following these new initial maintenance holiday periods, the new aircraft we have an obligation to acquire will require more maintenance as they age and our maintenance and repair expenses for each newly purchased aircraft will be incurred at approximately the same intervals. Moreover, because a large portion of our future fleet will be acquired over a relatively short period, significant maintenance to be scheduled on each of these planes may occur concurrently with other aircraft acquired around the same time, meaning we may incur our heavy maintenance obligations across large portions of our fleet around the same time. These more significant maintenance activities result in out-of-service periods during which our aircraft are dedicated to maintenance activities and unavailable to fly revenue service.

Outside of scheduled maintenance, we incur from time to time unscheduled maintenance which is not forecast in our operating plan or financial forecasts, and which can impose material unplanned costs and the loss of flight equipment from revenue service for a significant period of time. For example, a single unplanned engine event can require a shop visit costing several million dollars and cause the engine to be out of service for a number of months.

Furthermore, the terms of some of our lease agreements require us to pay maintenance reserves to the lessor in advance of the performance of major maintenance, resulting in our recording significant prepaid deposits on our consolidated balance sheet. In addition, the terms of any lease agreements that we enter into in the future could also require maintenance reserves in excess of our current requirements. We expect scheduled and unscheduled aircraft maintenance expenses to increase over the next several years. Any significant increase in maintenance and repair expenses would have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. Please see “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Critical Accounting Estimates—Aircraft Maintenance.”

We have a significant amount of aircraft-related fixed obligations that could impair our liquidity and thereby harm our business, results of operations and financial condition.

The airline business is capital intensive and, as a result, many airline companies are highly leveraged. As of December 31, 2020, all 104 aircraft in our fleet were financed under operating leases. For the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, we incurred aircraft rent of $277 million, $368 million and $396 million, respectively, and paid maintenance deposits of $28 million, $18 million and $15 million, respectively. For the year ended December 31, 2020, aircraft rent of $396 million did not include $31 million of aircraft rent related to 2020 that was deferred to 2021 as a result of deferral arrangements agreed to with our lessors due to the COVID-19 pandemic. As of December 31, 2020, we had future operating lease obligations of approximately $2,264 million and future principal debt obligations of $357 million. For the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, we made cash payments for interest related to debt of $11 million, $10 million and $7 million, respectively. In addition, we have significant obligations for aircraft and spare engines that we have ordered from Airbus and CFM International for delivery over the next several years. Also, in April 2020, we entered into an agreement with the Treasury for which we received $211 million in funding through the payroll support program, in the form of a grant and a low-interest 10-year note, and in September 2020 we entered into a $574 million secured term loan facility with the Treasury, of which we borrowed $150 million as of December 31, 2020. In January, we entered into an agreement with the Treasury for at least another $140 million in payroll support funding under the PSP2 Agreement. We received the first installment in the amount of $70 million on January 15, 2021. The funding from the Treasury subjected us to certain restrictions and limitations. Our ability to pay the fixed costs associated with our contractual obligations will depend on our operating performance, cash flow and our ability to secure adequate financing, which will in turn depend on, among other things, the success of our current business strategy, fuel price volatility, any significant weakening or improving in the U.S. economy, availability and cost of financing, as well as general economic and political conditions and other factors that are, to some extent, beyond our control. The amount of our aircraft related fixed obligations and our obligations under our other debt arrangements could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition and could:

- require a substantial portion of cash flow from operations be used for operating lease and maintenance deposit payments, thereby reducing the availability of our cash flow to fund working capital, capital expenditures and other general corporate purposes;
- limit our ability to make required PDPs, including those payable to our aircraft and engine manufacturers for our aircraft and spare engines on order;
- limit our ability to obtain additional financing to support our expansion plans and for working capital and other purposes on acceptable terms or at all;
- make it more difficult for us to pay our other obligations as they become due during adverse general economic and market industry conditions because any related decrease in revenues could cause us to not have sufficient cash flows from operations to make our scheduled payments;
reduce our flexibility in planning for, or reacting to, changes in our business and the airline industry and, consequently, place us at a competitive disadvantage to our competitors with lower fixed payment obligations; and

• cause us to lose access to one or more aircraft and forfeit our maintenance and other deposits if we are unable to make our required aircraft lease rental payments and our lessors exercise their remedies under the lease agreement including cross default provisions in certain of our leases.

A failure to pay our operating lease, debt, fixed cost, and other obligations or a breach of our contractual obligations could result in a variety of adverse consequences, including the exercise of remedies by our creditors and lessors. In such a situation, it is unlikely that we would be able to cure our breach, fulfill our obligations, make required lease payments or otherwise cover our fixed costs, which would have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

We rely on third-party specialists and other commercial partners to perform functions integral to our operations.

We have historically entered into agreements with third-party specialists to furnish certain facilities and services required for our operations, including ground handling, catering, passenger handling, engineering, maintenance, refueling, reservations and airport facilities as well as administrative and support services. In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, we have increased our reliance on such third-parties. In addition, as the U.S. market begins to recover from the pandemic, we are likely to enter into similar service agreements in new markets we decide to enter, and we cannot assure you that we will be able to obtain the necessary services at acceptable rates.

Although we seek to monitor the performance of third parties that furnish certain facilities or provide us with our ground handling, catering, passenger handling, engineering, maintenance, refueling, reservations and airport facilities, the efficiency, timeliness and quality of contract performance by third-party specialists are often beyond our control, and any failure by our third-party specialists to perform up to our expectations may have an adverse impact on our business, reputation with customers, our brand and our operations. In addition, we could experience a significant business disruption if we were to change vendors or if an existing provider ceased to be able to serve us. We expect to be dependent on such third-party arrangements for the foreseeable future.

We rely on third-party distribution channels to distribute a portion of our airline tickets.

We rely on third-party distribution channels, including those provided by or through GDSs conventional travel agents and online travel agents (“OTAs”) to distribute a portion of our airline tickets, and we expect in the future to rely on these channels to collect a portion of our non-fare revenues. These distribution channels are more expensive and at present have less functionality in respect of non-fare revenues than those we operate ourselves, such as our website. Certain of these distribution channels also effectively restrict the manner in which we distribute our products. To remain competitive, we will need to successfully manage our distribution costs and rights, and improve the functionality of third-party distribution channels, while maintaining an industry-competitive cost structure. Negotiations with key GDSs and OTAs designed to manage our costs, increase our distribution flexibility, and improve functionality could be contentious, could result in diminished or less favorable distribution of our tickets, and may not provide the functionality we require to maximize non-fare revenues. In addition, in the last several years there has been significant consolidation among GDSs and OTAs, including the acquisition by Expedia of both Orbitz and Travelocity, and the acquisition by Amadeus of Navitaire (the reservations system that we use). This consolidation and any further consolidation could affect our ability to manage our distribution costs due to a reduction in competition or other industry factors. Any inability to manage such costs, rights and functionality at a competitive level or any material diminishment in the distribution of our tickets could have a material adverse effect on our competitive position and our results of operations. Moreover, our ability to compete in the markets we serve may be threatened by changes in technology or other factors that may make our existing third-party sales channels impractical, uncompetitive or obsolete.
We rely heavily on technology and automated systems to operate our business, and any failure of these technologies or systems or any failure on our part to implement any new technologies or systems could materially adversely affect our business.

We are highly dependent on technology and computer systems and networks to operate our business. These technologies and systems include our computerized airline reservation system provided by Navitaire, now a unit of Amadeus, flight operations systems, telecommunications systems, mobile app, airline website, maintenance systems and check-in kiosks. In order for our operations to work efficiently, our website and reservation system must be able to accommodate a high volume of traffic, maintain secure information and deliver flight information. The Navitaire reservations system, which is hosted and maintained under a long-term contract by a third-party specialist, is critical to our ability to issue, track and accept tickets, conduct check-in, and board and manage our passengers through the airports we serve and provide us with access to global distribution systems, which enlarge our pool of potential passengers. There are many instances in the past where a reservation system malfunctioned, whether due to the fault of the system provider or the airline, with a highly adverse effect on the airline’s operations, and such a malfunction has in the past and could in the future occur on our system, or in connection with any system upgrade or migration in the future. We also rely on third-party specialists to maintain our flight operations systems, and if those systems are not functioning, we could experience service disruptions, which could result in the loss of important data, increase our expenses, decrease our operational performance and temporarily stall our operations.

Any failure of the technologies and systems we use could materially adversely affect our business. In particular, if our reservation system fails or experiences interruptions, and we are unable to book seats for a period of time, we could lose a significant amount of revenue as customers book seats on other airlines, and our reputation could be harmed. In addition, replacement technologies and systems for any service we currently utilize that experiences failures or interruptions may not be readily available on a timely basis, at competitive rates or at all. Furthermore, our current technologies and systems are heavily integrated with our day-to-day operations and any transition to a new technology or system could be complex and time-consuming. In the event that one or more of our primary technology or systems vendors fails to perform, and a replacement system is not available or if we fail to implement a replacement system in a timely and efficient manner, our business could be materially adversely affected.

Unauthorized use, unauthorized incursions or user exploitation of our information technology infrastructure could compromise the personally identifiable information of our passengers, prospective passengers or personnel, and other sensitive information, and expose us to liability, damage our reputation and have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

In the processing of our customer transactions and as part of our ordinary business operations, we and certain of our third-party specialists collect, process, transmit and store a large volume of personally identifiable information of our passengers, prospective passengers or personnel, including email addresses and home addresses and financial data such as credit and debit card information and other sensitive information. The security of the systems and network where we and our third-party specialists store this data is a critical element of our business, and these systems and our network may be vulnerable to cyberattacks and other security issues. Threats to cyber security have increased with the sophistication of malicious actors, and we must manage those evolving risks. We have been the target of cybersecurity attacks in the past and expect that we will continue to be in the future. Recently, several high-profile consumer-oriented companies have experienced significant data breaches, which have caused those companies to suffer substantial financial and reputational harm. Failure to appropriately address these issues could also give rise to potentially material legal risks and liabilities.

A significant cybersecurity incident could result in a range of potentially material negative consequences for us, including lost revenue; unauthorized access to, disclosure, modification, misuse, loss or destruction of company systems or data; theft of sensitive, regulated or confidential data, such as personal identifying information or our intellectual property; the loss of functionality of critical systems through ransomware, denial of service or other attacks; and business delays, service or system disruptions, damage to equipment and injury to persons or property. The costs and operational consequences of defending against, preparing for, responding to and remediating an incident may be substantial. Further, we could be exposed to litigation, regulatory enforcement or other legal action as a result of an incident, carrying the potential for damages, fines, sanctions or other penalties, as well as injunctive relief requiring costly compliance measures. A cybersecurity incident could also impact our brand, harm our reputation and adversely impact our relationship with our customers, employees and stockholders. Additionally, any material failure by us or our third-party specialists to maintain compliance with the Payment Card Industry security requirements or to rectify a data security issue may result in fines and restrictions on our ability to accept credit and debit cards as a form of payment. While we have taken precautions to avoid an unauthorized incursion of our computer systems, we cannot assure you that our precautions are either adequate or implemented properly to prevent and detect a data breach or other cybersecurity incident and its adverse financial and reputational consequences to our business. We are also subject to increasing legislative, regulatory and customer focus on privacy issues and data security in the United States and abroad. The compromise of our technology systems resulting in the loss, disclosure, misappropriation of or access to the personally identifiable information of our passengers, prospective passengers or personnel could result in governmental investigation, civil liability or regulatory penalties under laws protecting the privacy of personal information, any or all of which could disrupt our operations and have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

In addition, a number of our commercial partners, including credit card companies, have imposed data security standards on us, and these standards continue to evolve. We will continue our efforts to meet our privacy and data security obligations; however, it is possible that certain new obligations may be difficult to meet and could increase our costs.

We depend on a sole-source supplier for our aircraft and two suppliers for our engines.

A critical cost-saving element of our business strategy is to operate a single-family aircraft fleet; however, our dependence on the Airbus A320 family aircraft for all of our aircraft and on CFM International and Pratt & Whitney for our engines makes us vulnerable to any design defects, mechanical problems or other technical or regulatory issues associated with this aircraft type or these engines. In the event of any actual or suspected design defects or mechanical problems with the Airbus A320 family aircraft or CFM International or Pratt & Whitney engines, whether involving our aircraft or that of another airline, we may choose or be required to suspend or restrict the use of our aircraft. Our business could also be materially adversely affected if the public avoids flying on our aircraft due to an adverse perception of the Airbus A320 family aircraft or CFM International or Pratt & Whitney engines, whether because of safety concerns or other problems, real or perceived, or in the event of an accident involving such aircraft or engines. Separately, if Airbus, CFM International or Pratt & Whitney becomes unable to perform its contractual obligations and we must lease or purchase aircraft from another supplier, we would incur substantial transition costs, including expenses related to acquiring new aircraft, engines, spare parts, maintenance facilities and training activities, and we would lose the cost benefits from our current single-fleet composition, any of which would have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. These risks may be exacerbated by the long-term nature of our fleet and order book and the unproven new engine technology to be utilized by the aircraft in our order book. See also “—We may be subject to competitive risks due to the long-term nature of our fleet order book and the unproven new engine technology utilized by the aircraft in our order book.”

Although we have significantly reconfigured our network since 2013, our business remains dependent on the Denver market and increases in competition or congestion or a reduction in demand for air travel in this market would harm our business.

We are highly dependent on the Denver market where we maintain a large presence, with 41% of our flights during the year ended December 31, 2020 having Denver International Airport as either their origin or destination. We primarily operate out of Concourse A at Denver International Airport under an operating lease that expires in December 2021 with two one year extension options. We have experienced an increase in flight delays and cancellations at this airport due to airport congestion which has adversely affected our operating performance and results of operations. We have also experienced increased competition since 2017 from carriers adding flights to and from Denver. Also, flight operations in Denver can face extreme weather challenges in the winter, which, at times, has resulted in severe disruptions in our operation and the occurrence of material costs as a consequence of such disruptions. Our business could be further harmed by an increase in the amount of direct competition we face in the Denver market or by continued or increased congestion, delays or cancellations. Our business would also be harmed by any circumstances causing a reduction in demand for air transportation in the Denver area, such as adverse changes in local economic conditions, health concerns, adverse weather conditions, negative public perception of Denver, terrorist attacks or significant price or tax increases linked to increases in airport access costs and fees imposed on passengers.

We are subject to extensive regulation by the Federal Aviation Administration, the Department of Transportation, Transportation Security Administration, U.S. Customs and Border Protection and other U.S. and foreign governmental agencies, compliance with which could cause us to incur increased costs and adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Airlines are subject to extensive regulatory and legal compliance requirements, both domestically and internationally, that involve significant costs. In the last several years, Congress has passed laws and the FAA, DOT and TSA have issued regulations, orders, rulings and guidance relating to the operation, safety, and security of airlines and consumer protections that have required significant expenditures. We expect to continue to incur expenses in connection with complying with such laws and government regulations, orders, rulings and guidance. Additional laws, regulations, taxes and increased airport rates and charges have been proposed from time to time that could significantly increase the cost of airline operations or reduce the demand for air travel. If adopted, these measures could have the effect of raising ticket prices, reducing revenue, and increasing costs. For example, the DOT has broad authority over airlines and their consumer and competitive practices, and has used this authority to issue numerous regulations and pursue enforcement actions, including rules and fines relating to the handling of lengthy tarmac delays, consumer notice and disclosure requirements, consumer complaints, price and airline advertising, oversales and involuntary denied boarding process and compensation, ticket refunds, liability for loss, delay or damage to baggage, customer service commitments, contracts of carriage and the transportation of passengers with disabilities. Among these is the series of Enhanced Airline Passenger Protection rules issued by the DOT. In addition, the FAA Reauthorization Act of 2018, signed into law on October 5, 2018, provided for several new requirements and rulemakings related to airlines, including but not limited to: (i) prohibition on voice communication cell phone use during certain flights, (ii) insecticide use disclosures, (iii) new training policy best practices for training regarding racial, ethnic, and religious non-discrimination, (iv) training on human trafficking for certain staff, (v) departure gate stroller check-in, (vi) the protection of pets on airplanes and service animal standards, (vii) requirements to refund promptly to passengers any ancillary fees paid for services not received, (viii) consumer complaint process improvements, (ix) pregnant passenger assistance, (x) restrictions on the ability to deny a revenue passenger permission to board or involuntarily remove such passenger from the aircraft, (xi) minimum customer service standards for large ticket agents, (xii) information publishing requirements for widespread disruptions and passenger rights, (xiii) submission of plans pertaining to employee and contractor training consistent with the Airline Passengers with Disabilities Bill of Rights, (xiv) ensuring assistance for passengers with disabilities, (xv) flight attendant duty period limitations and rest requirements, including submission of a fatigue risk management plan, (xvi) submission of policy concerning passenger sexual misconduct, (xvii) development of Employee Assault Prevention and Response Plan related to the customer service agents, (xviii) increased penalties available related to harm to passengers with disabilities or damage to wheelchairs or mobility aids, and (xix) minimum dimensions for passenger seats. Furthermore, in 2019, the FAA published an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking regarding flight attendant duty period limitations and rest requirements, including submission of a fatigue risk management plan. The DOT also published a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking in January 2020 regarding, for example, the accessibility features of lavatories and onboard wheelchair requirements on certain single-aisle aircraft with an FAA certificated maximum capacity of 125 seats or more, training flight attendants to proficiency on an annual basis to provide assistance in transporting qualified individuals with disabilities to and from the lavatory from the aircraft seat, and providing certain information on request to qualified individuals with a disability or persons inquiring on their behalf, on the carrier’s website, and in printed or electronic form on the aircraft concerning the accessibility of aircraft.
The DOT also recently published Final Rules regarding traveling by air with service animals and defining unfair or deceptive practices. The DOT also recently published a Final Rule clarifying that the maximum amount of denied boarding compensation that a carrier may provide to a passenger denied boarding involuntarily is not limited, prohibiting airlines from involuntarily denying boarding to a passenger after the passenger’s boarding pass has been collected or scanned and the passenger has boarded (subject to safety and security exceptions), raising the liability limits for denied boarding compensation, and raising the liability limit for mishandled baggage in domestic air transportation. In addition, the FAA issued its final regulations governing pilot rest periods and work hours for all passenger airlines certificated under Part 121 of the Federal Aviation Regulations. The rule known as FAR Part 117, which became effective January 4, 2014, impacts the required amount and timing of rest periods for pilots between work assignments and modifies duty and rest requirements based on the time of day, number of scheduled segments, time zones and other factors. In addition, Congress enacted a law and the FAA issued regulations requiring U.S. airline pilots to have a minimum number of hours as a pilot in order to qualify for an Air Transport Pilot certificate, which all pilots on U.S. airlines must obtain. Compliance with these rules may increase our costs, while failure to remain in full compliance with these rules may subject us to fines or other enforcement action. FAR Part 117 and the minimum pilot hour requirements may also reduce our ability to meet flight crew staffing requirements. We cannot assure you that compliance with these and other laws, regulations, orders, rulings and guidance will not have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

In addition, the TSA mandates the federalization of certain airport security procedures and imposes additional security requirements on airports and airlines, some of which is funded by a security fee imposed on passengers and collected by airlines. We cannot forecast what additional security and safety requirements may be imposed in the future or the costs or revenue impact that would be associated with complying with such requirements.

Our ability to operate as an airline is dependent on our obtaining and maintaining authorizations issued to us by the DOT and the FAA. The FAA from time to time issues directives and other mandatory orders relating to, among other things, operating aircraft, the grounding of aircraft, maintenance and inspection of aircraft, installation of new safety-related items, and removal and replacement of aircraft parts that have failed or may fail in the future. These requirements can be issued with little or no notice, can impact our ability to efficiently or fully utilize our aircraft, and could result in the temporary grounding of aircraft types altogether, such as the March 2019 grounding of the Boeing 737 MAX fleet. A decision by the FAA to ground, or require time-consuming inspections of or maintenance on, our aircraft, for any reason, could negatively affect our business, results of operations and financial condition. Federal law requires that air carriers operating scheduled service be continuously “fit, willing and able” to provide the services for which they are licensed. Our “fitness” is monitored by the DOT, which considers managerial competence, operations, finances, and compliance record. In addition, under federal law, we must be a U.S. citizen (as determined under applicable law). Please see “Business—Foreign Ownership.” While the DOT has seldom revoked a carrier’s certification for lack of fitness, such an occurrence would render it impossible for us to continue operating as an airline. The DOT may also institute investigations or administrative proceedings against airlines for violations of regulations. For instance, in 2017 we were fined $0.4 million by the DOT for certain infractions relating to oversales, rules related to passengers with disabilities, customer service plan rules, $40,000 for certain infractions relating to oversales disclosure and notice requirements, the domestic baggage liability limit rule, and $1.5 million by the DOT relating to lengthy tarmac delays, which was offset by a $0.9 million credit for compensation provided to passengers on the affected flights and other delayed flights.

International routes are regulated by air transport agreements and related agreements between the United States and foreign governments. Our ability to operate international routes is subject to change, as the applicable agreements between the United States and foreign governments may be amended from time to time. Our access to new international markets may be limited by the applicable air transport agreements between the U.S. and foreign governments and our ability to obtain the necessary authority from the U.S. and foreign governments to fly the international routes. In addition, our operations in foreign countries are subject to regulation by foreign governments and our business may be affected by changes in law and future actions taken by such governments, including granting or withdrawal of government approvals, airport slots and restrictions on competitive practices. We are subject to numerous foreign regulations in the countries outside the United States where we currently provide service. If we are not able to comply with this complex regulatory regime, our business could be significantly harmed. Please see “Business—Government Regulation.”

Changes in legislation, regulation and government policy have affected, and may in the future have a material adverse effect on our business.

Changes in, and uncertainty with respect to, legislation, regulation and government policy at the local, state or federal level have affected, and may in the future significantly impact, our business and the airline industry. Specific legislative and regulatory proposals that could have a material impact on us in the future include, but are not limited to, infrastructure renewal programs; changes to operating and maintenance requirements and immigration and security policy and requirements; modifications to international trade policy, including withdrawing from trade agreements and imposing tariffs; changes to consumer protection laws; public company reporting requirements; environmental regulation; tax legislation and antitrust enforcement. Any such changes may make it more difficult and/or more expensive for us to obtain new aircraft or engines and parts to maintain existing aircraft or engines or make it less profitable or prevent us from flying to or from some of the destinations we currently serve. To the extent that any such changes have a negative impact on us or the airline industry in general, including as a result of related uncertainty, these changes may materially impact our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

Any tariffs imposed on commercial aircraft and related parts imported from outside the United States may have a material adverse effect on our fleet, business, results of operations and financial condition.

Certain of the products and services that we purchase, including our aircraft and related parts, are sourced from suppliers located in foreign countries, and the imposition of new tariffs, or any increase in existing tariffs, by the U.S. government on the importation of such products or services could materially increase the amounts we pay for them. In early October 2019, the World Trade Organization ruled that the United States could impose $7.5 billion in retaliatory tariffs in response to illegal European Union subsidies to Airbus. On October 18, 2019, the United States imposed these tariffs on certain imports from the European Union, including a 10% tariff on new commercial aircraft. In February 2020, the United States announced an increase to this tariff from 10% to 15%. These tariffs apply to aircraft that we are already contractually obligated to purchase. These tariffs are under continuing review and at any time could be increased, decreased, eliminated or applied to a broader range of products we use. While we have recently accepted deliveries of Airbus aircraft principally from the Airbus Mobile, Alabama facility, which has enabled us to avoid the imposition of tariffs on such aircraft, there can be no assurance that we will continue to be able to do so. Any imposition of these tariffs could substantially increase the cost of, among other things, imported new Airbus aircraft and parts required to service our Airbus fleet, which in turn could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and/or results of operations. We may also seek to postpone or cancel delivery of certain aircraft currently scheduled for delivery, and we may choose not to purchase as many aircraft as we intended in the future. Any such action could have a material adverse effect on the size of our fleet, business, results of operations and financial condition.

If we are unable to attract and retain qualified personnel at reasonable costs or fail to maintain our company culture, our business could be harmed.

Our business is labor intensive. We require large numbers of pilots, flight attendants, maintenance technicians and other personnel. We compete against other U.S. airlines for pilots, mechanics and other skilled labor and certain U.S. airlines offer wage and benefit packages exceeding ours. The airline industry has from time to time experienced a shortage of qualified personnel. In particular, as more pilots in the industry approach mandatory retirement age, the U.S. airline industry is being affected by a pilot shortage. As is common with most of our competitors, we have faced considerable turnover of our employees. As a result of the foregoing, there can be no assurance that we will be able to attract or retain qualified personnel or may be required to increase wages.

and/or benefits in order to do so. In addition, we may lose personnel due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on air travel and we may lose executives as a result of compensation restrictions imposed under the CARES Act. Such restrictions may present retention challenges in the case of executives presented with alternative, non-airline opportunities or with opportunities from airlines that are not subject to such restrictions because they never entered into such Treasury loans or have repaid their Treasury loans prior to us. If we are unable to hire, train and retain qualified employees, our business could be harmed and we may be unable to implement our growth plans.

In addition, as we hire more people and grow, we believe it may be increasingly challenging to continue to hire people who will maintain our company culture. Our company culture, which we believe is one of our competitive strengths, is important to providing dependable customer service and having a productive, accountable workforce that helps keep our costs low. As we continue to grow, we may be unable to identify, hire or retain enough people who meet the above criteria, including those in management or other key positions. Our company culture could otherwise be adversely affected by our growing operations and geographic diversity. If we fail to maintain the strength of our company culture, our competitive ability and our business, results of operations and financial condition could be harmed.

Our business could be materially adversely affected if we lose the services of our key personnel.

Our success depends to a significant extent upon the efforts and abilities of our senior management team and key financial and operating personnel. In particular, we depend on the services of our senior management team, particularly Barry L. Biffle, our President and Chief Executive Officer, and James G. Dempsey, our Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer. Competition for highly qualified personnel is intense, and the loss of any executive officer, senior manager, or other key employee without adequate replacement or the inability to attract new qualified personnel could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. We do not maintain key-man life insurance on our management team.

We rely on our private equity sponsor.

Our majority stockholder is presently an investment fund managed by Indigo, an affiliate of Indigo Partners, a private equity fund with significant expertise in the ultra low-cost airline space. This expertise has been available to us through the representatives Indigo has on our board of directors and through a Professional Services Agreement that was put in place in connection with the 2013 acquisition from Republic and pursuant to which we pay Indigo Partners a fee of approximately $375,000 per quarter, plus expenses. Several members of our board of directors are also affiliated with Indigo Partners and we pay each of them an annual fee as compensation. Our engagement of Indigo Partners pursuant to the Professional Services Agreement will continue until the date that Indigo Partners and its affiliates own less than 10% of the 5.2 million shares of our common stock acquired by an affiliate of Indigo Partners in December 2013. After this offering, Indigo Partners may nonetheless elect to reduce its ownership in our company or reduce its involvement on our board of directors, which could reduce or eliminate the benefits we have historically achieved through our relationship with Indigo Partners such as management expertise, industry knowledge and volume purchasing. For a further description of our Professional Services Agreement, please see “Certain Relationships and Related Party Transactions—Management Services.” See also “—Risks Related to Owning Our Common Stock—Indigo’s current control of the Company severely limits the ability of our stockholders to influence matters requiring stockholder approval and could adversely affect our other stockholders and the interests of Indigo could conflict with the interests of other stockholders.”

Our quarterly results of operations fluctuate due to a number of factors, including seasonality.

We expect our quarterly results of operations to continue to fluctuate due to a number of factors, including actions by our competitors, price changes in aircraft fuel and the timing and amount of maintenance expenses, as well as the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic. As a result of these and other factors, quarter-to-quarter comparisons of our results of operations and month-to-month comparisons of our key operating statistics may not be reliable indicators of our future performance. In addition, seasonality may cause our quarterly and monthly results to fluctuate since passengers tend to fly more during the summer months and less in the winter months, apart from the holiday season. We cannot assure you that we will find profitable markets in which to operate during the winter season. Such periods of low demand for air travel during the winter months could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Our lack of membership in a marketing alliance or codeshare arrangements (other than with Volaris) could harm our business and competitive position.

Many airlines, including the domestic legacy network airlines (American, Delta and United), have marketing alliances with other airlines, under which they market and advertise their status as marketing alliance partners. These alliances, such as oneworld, SkyTeam, and Star Alliance, generally provide for codesharing, frequent flyer program reciprocity, coordinated scheduling of flights to permit convenient connections and other joint marketing activities. In addition, certain of these alliances involve highly integrated antitrust immunized joint ventures. Such arrangements permit an airline to market flights operated by other alliance members as its own. This increases the destinations, connections and frequencies offered by the airline and provides an opportunity to increase traffic on that airline’s segment of flights connecting with alliance partners. We currently do not have any marketing alliances or codeshare arrangements with U.S. or foreign airlines, other than the codeshare arrangement we entered into with Volaris in 2018. Our lack of membership in any other marketing alliances and codeshare arrangements puts us at a competitive disadvantage to traditional network carriers who are able to attract passengers through more widespread alliances, particularly on international routes, and that disadvantage may result in a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Risks Related to Owning Our Common Stock

The market price of our common stock may be volatile, which could cause the value of an investment in our stock to decline.

Prior to this offering, there has been no public market for shares of our common stock, and an active public market for these shares may not develop or be sustained after this offering. We and the representatives of the underwriters determined the initial public offering price of our common stock through negotiation. This price does not necessarily reflect the price at which investors in the market will be willing to buy and sell our shares following this offering. In addition, the market price of our common stock may fluctuate substantially due to a variety of factors, many of which are beyond our control, including:

- announcements concerning our competitors, the airline industry or the economy in general;
- developments with respect to the COVID-19 pandemic, and government restrictions related thereto;
- strategic actions by us or our competitors, such as acquisitions or restructurings;
- media reports and publications about the safety of our aircraft or the aircraft type we operate;
- new regulatory pronouncements and changes in regulatory guidelines;
- changes in the price of aircraft fuel;
- announcements concerning the availability of the type of aircraft we use;
- general and industry-specific economic conditions;
- changes in financial estimates or recommendations by securities analysts or failure to meet analysts’ performance expectations;
• sales of our common stock or other actions by investors with significant shareholdings, including sales by our principal stockholders;
• trading strategies related to changes in fuel or oil prices; and
• general market, political and other economic conditions.

The stock markets in general have experienced substantial volatility that has often been unrelated to the operating performance of particular companies. Broad market fluctuations may materially adversely affect the trading price of our common stock.

In the past, stockholders have sometimes instituted securities class action litigation against companies following periods of volatility in the market price of their securities. Any similar litigation against us could result in substantial costs, divert management’s attention and resources and have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

If securities or industry analysts do not publish research or reports about our business or publish negative reports about our business, our stock price and trading volume could decline.

The trading market for our common stock depends in part on the research and reports that securities and industry analysts may publish about us or our business. If one or more of the analysts who cover us downgrade our stock or publish inaccurate or unfavorable research about our business, the trading price of our common stock would likely decline. If one or more of these analysts ceases to cover our company or fails to publish reports on us regularly, demand for our stock could decrease, which may cause the trading price of our common stock and the trading volume of our common stock to decline.

Purchasers of our common stock in this offering will experience immediate and substantial dilution in the tangible net book value of their investment.

The initial public offering price of our common stock is substantially higher than the net tangible book value per share of our common stock immediately after this offering. Therefore, if you purchase our common stock in this offering, you will incur an immediate dilution of $ in net tangible book value per share from the price you paid. In addition, as of December 31, 2020, we had outstanding options to purchase 259,980 shares of our common stock, 50,559 shares of common stock issuable upon the vesting of outstanding restricted stock units, an aggregate of 641,090 shares of common stock reserved for issuance pursuant to future awards under our 2014 Equity Incentive Plan, an aggregate of shares of common stock reserved for issuance pursuant to future awards under our 2021 Equity Incentive Award Plan. The exercise of these outstanding options or the issuance of such reserved shares will result in further dilution. For a further description of the dilution that you will experience immediately after this offering, see “Dilution” elsewhere in this prospectus.

The issuance or sale of shares of our common stock, or rights to acquire shares of our common stock, or the exercise of the PSP Warrants, PSP2 Warrants or Treasury Warrants issued to the Treasury, could depress the trading price of our common stock.

We may conduct future offerings of our common stock, preferred stock or other securities that are convertible into or exercisable for our common stock to finance our operations or fund acquisitions, or for other purposes. In connection with our participation in the PSP, we issued warrants to the Treasury, which are exercisable for up to 13,752 shares of our common stock. Furthermore, in the first quarter of 2021 we will issue an additional 2,711 warrants in connection with our participating in the PSP2 based on the $140 million of funding. In connection with the initial $150 million borrowing the secured loan provided under the Loan and Guarantee Agreement the “Treasury Loan Agreement”) we entered into with the Treasury pursuant to the CARES Act, we issued warrants to the Treasury which are exercisable for up to approximately 62,055 shares of our common stock. Moreover, we may issue additional warrants to the Treasury exercisable for up to 51 175,410 shares of our common stock, assuming we draw the full $424 million remaining under the Treasury Loan Agreement. See “—We have agreed to certain restrictions on our business by accepting financing under the CARES Act.” Further, we reserve shares of our common stock for future issuance under our equity incentive plans, which shares are eligible for sale in the public market to the extent permitted by the provisions of various agreements and, to the extent held by affiliates, the volume and manner of sale restrictions of Rule 144. If these additional shares are sold, or if it is perceived that they will be sold, into the public market, the price of our common stock could decline substantially. If we issue additional shares of our common stock or rights to acquire shares of our common stock, if any of our existing stockholders sells a substantial amount of our common stock, or if the market perceives that such issuances or sales may occur, then the trading price of our common stock may significantly decline. In addition, our issuance of additional shares of common stock will dilute the ownership interests of our existing common stockholders.

The value of our common stock may be materially adversely affected by additional issuances of common stock or preferred stock by us or sales by our principal stockholder.

Any future issuances or sales of our common stock by us will be dilutive to our existing common stockholders. We had 5,248,371 shares of common stock outstanding as of December 31, 2020. All of the shares of common stock sold in this offering will be freely tradable without restrictions or further registration under the Securities Act. The holders of substantially all of the outstanding shares of our common stock have signed lock-up agreements with the underwriters of this offering, under which they have agreed, subject to certain exceptions, not to offer, sell, contract to sell, pledge or otherwise dispose of, directly or indirectly, any of our common stock or securities convertible into or exchangeable or exercisable for shares of our common stock, enter into a transaction which would have the same effect, without the prior written consent of certain of the underwriters, for a period of 180 days after the date of this prospectus. After this offering, an investment fund managed by Indigo, the holder of approximately 5.2 million shares of our common stock as of December 31, 2020, will be entitled to rights with respect to registration of such shares under the Securities Act pursuant to a registration rights agreement. Please see “Certain Relationships and Related Transactions—Registration Rights” elsewhere in this prospectus. Sales of substantial amounts of our common stock in the public or private market, a perception in the market that such sales could occur, or the issuance of securities exercisable or convertible into our common stock, could adversely affect the prevailing price of our common stock.

Indigo’s current control of the Company severely limits the ability of our stockholders to influence matters requiring stockholder approval and could adversely affect our other stockholders and the interests of Indigo could conflict with the interests of other stockholders.

When this offering is completed, an investment fund managed by Indigo will beneficially own approximately % of our outstanding common stock, assuming no exercise of the underwriters’ option to purchase additional shares of our common stock from Indigo as the selling stockholder.

As a result, Indigo will be able to exert a significant degree of influence over our management and affairs and over matters requiring stockholder approval, including the election of directors, a merger, consolidation or sale of all or substantially all of our assets and other significant business or corporate transactions.

Until such time as Indigo and its affiliates beneficially own shares of our common stock representing less than a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, Indigo will have the ability to take stockholder action by written consent without calling a stockholder meeting and to approve amendments to our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws and to take other actions without the vote of any other stockholder. Investors in this offering will not be able to affect the outcome of any stockholder vote during such time. As a result, Indigo will have the ability to control all such matters affecting us, including:

• the composition of our board of directors and, through our board of directors, any determination with respect to our business plans and policies;
our acquisition or disposition of assets;
• our financing activities, including the issuance of additional equity securities;
• any determinations with respect to mergers, acquisitions and other business combinations;
• corporate opportunities that may be suitable for us and Indigo;
• the payment of dividends on our common stock; and
• the number of shares available for issuance under our stock plans for our existing and prospective employees.

This concentrated control will limit the ability of other stockholders to influence corporate matters and, as a result, we may take actions that our other stockholders do not view as beneficial. Indigo’s voting control may also discourage or block transactions involving a change of control of the Company, including transactions in which you, as a stockholder, might otherwise receive a premium for your shares over the then-current market price. For example, this concentration of ownership could have the effect of delaying or preventing a change in control or otherwise discouraging a potential acquirer from attempting to obtain control of us, which in turn could cause the market price of our common stock to decline or prevent our stockholders from realizing a premium over the market price for their common stock. Moreover, Indigo is not prohibited from selling a controlling interest in us to a third party and may do so without your approval and without providing for a purchase of your shares of common stock. Accordingly, your shares of common stock may be worth less than they would be if Indigo did not maintain voting control over us.

In addition, the interests of Indigo could conflict with the interests of other stockholders. According to a Schedule 13D filed with the SEC in February 2021, investment funds managed by Indigo Partners holds approximately 18% of the total outstanding Common Stock shares of Volaris, and two of our directors, William A. Franke and Brian H. Franke, are members of the board of directors of Volaris, with Brian H. Franke serving as chair since April 2020. We entered into a codeshare arrangement with Volaris in January 2018. As of December 31, 2020, we did not compete directly with Volaris on any of our routes other than one route that we currently operate during different months of the year. However, there can be no assurances that we will not compete directly with Volaris in the future. Furthermore, neither Indigo Partners, its portfolio companies, funds or other affiliates, nor any of their officers, directors, agents, stockholders, members or current or future partners will have any duty to refrain from engaging, directly or indirectly, in the same business activities, similar business activities or lines of business in which we operate. See “—Our certificate of incorporation will contain a provision renouncing our interest and expectancy in certain corporate opportunities.”

For additional information about our relationship with Indigo and Indigo Partners, please see “Certain Relationships and Related Party Transactions” and “Principal and Selling Stockholder” elsewhere in this prospectus.

Our anti-takeover provisions may delay or prevent a change of control, which could adversely affect the price of our common stock.

Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering contain provisions that may make it difficult to remove our board of directors and management and may discourage or delay “change of control” transactions, which could adversely affect the price of our common stock. These provisions include, among others:

• our board of directors is divided into three classes, with each class serving for a staggered three-year term, which prevents stockholders from electing an entirely new board of directors at an annual meeting;
no cumulative voting in the election of directors, which prevents the minority stockholders from electing director candidates;

the exclusive right of our board of directors to elect a director to fill a vacancy created by the expansion of the board of directors or the resignation, death or removal of a director, which prevents stockholders from being able to fill vacancies on our board of directors;

from and after such time as Indigo and its affiliates no longer hold a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, actions to be taken by our stockholders may only be effected at an annual or special meeting of our stockholders and not by written consent;

from and after such time as Indigo and its affiliates no longer hold a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, special meetings of our stockholders can be called only by the Chairman of the Board or by our corporate secretary at the direction of our board of directors;

advance notice procedures that stockholders, other than Indigo for so long as it and its affiliates hold a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, must comply with in order to nominate candidates to our board of directors and propose matters to be brought before an annual meeting of our stockholders may discourage or deter a potential acquirer from conducting a solicitation of proxies to elect the acquirer’s own slate of directors or otherwise attempting to obtain control of our company; from and after such time as Indigo and its affiliates hold less than a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, a majority stockholder vote is required for removal of a director only for cause (and a director may only be removed for cause), and a 66\(\frac{2}{3}\)% stockholder vote is required for the amendment, repeal or modification of certain provisions of our certificate of incorporation and bylaws; and our board of directors may, without stockholder approval, issue series of preferred stock, or rights to acquire preferred stock, that could dilute the interest of, or impair the voting power of, holders of our common stock or could also be used as a method of discouraging, delaying or preventing a change of control.

Certain anti-takeover provisions under Delaware law also apply to our company. While we have elected not to be subject to the provisions of Section 203 of the DGCL in our amended and restated certificate of incorporation to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering, such certificate of incorporation will provide that in the event Indigo Partners and its affiliates cease to beneficially own at least 15% of the then outstanding shares of our voting common stock, we will automatically become subject to Section 203 of the DGCL to the extent applicable. Under Section 203, a corporation may not, in general, engage in a business combination with any holder of 15% or more of its voting stock unless the holder has held the stock for three years or, among other things, the board of directors has approved the transaction.

Our certificate of incorporation and bylaws currently provide, and our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws will provide, for an exclusive forum in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware for certain disputes between us and our stockholders, and that the federal district courts of the United States will be the exclusive forum for the resolution of any complaint asserting a cause of action under the Securities Act of 1933.

Our certificate of incorporation and bylaws currently provide, and our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws will provide, that: (i) unless we consent in writing to the selection of an alternative forum, the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware (or, if such court does not have subject matter jurisdiction thereof, the federal district court of the State of Delaware) will, to the fullest extent permitted by law, be the sole and exclusive forum for: (A) any derivative action or proceeding brought on behalf of the company, (B) any action asserting a claim for or based on a breach of a fiduciary duty owed by any of our current or former director, officer, other employee, agent or stockholder to the company or our stockholders, including without limitation a claim alleging the aiding and abetting of such a breach of fiduciary duty, (C) any action asserting a claim against the company or any of our current or former director, officer, employee, agent or stockholder arising pursuant to any provision of the Delaware General Corporation Law or our certificate of incorporation or bylaws or as to which the Delaware General Corporation Law confers jurisdiction on the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware, or (D) any action asserting a claim related to or involving the company that is governed by the internal affairs doctrine; (ii) unless we consent in writing to the selection of an alternative forum, the federal district courts of the United States will, to the fullest extent permitted by law, be the sole and exclusive forum for the resolution of any complaint asserting a cause or causes of action arising under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the “Securities Act”), and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, including all causes of action asserted against any defendant to such complaint; (iii) any person or entity purchasing or otherwise acquiring or otherwise holding any interest in shares of capital stock of the company will be deemed to have notice of and consented to these provisions; and (iv) failure to enforce the foregoing provisions would cause us irreparable harm, and we will be entitled to equitable relief, including injunctive relief and specific performance, to enforce the foregoing provisions. This exclusive forum provision will not apply to suits brought to enforce any liability or duty created by the Exchange Act or any other claim for which the federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction. Nothing in our current certificate of incorporation or bylaws or our amended and restated certificate of incorporation or amended and restated bylaws precludes stockholders that assert claims under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the “Exchange Act”), from bringing such claims in federal court to the extent that the Exchange Act confers exclusive federal jurisdiction over such claims, subject to applicable law.

We believe these provisions may benefit us by providing increased consistency in the application of Delaware law and federal securities laws by chancellors and judges, as applicable, particularly experienced in resolving corporate disputes, efficient administration of cases on a more expedited schedule relative to other forums and protection against the burdens of multi-forum litigation. If a court were to find the choice of forum provision that is contained in our current certificate of incorporation or bylaws or will be contained in our amended and restated certificate of incorporation or amended and restated bylaws to be inapplicable or unenforceable in an action, we may incur additional costs associated with resolving such action in other jurisdictions, which could materially adversely affect our business, results of operations, and financial condition. For example, Section 22 of the Securities Act creates concurrent jurisdiction for federal and state courts over all suits brought to enforce any duty or liability created by the Securities Act or the rules and regulations thereunder. Accordingly, there is uncertainty as to whether a court would enforce such a forum selection provision as written in connection with claims arising under the Securities Act.

The choice of forum provisions may limit a stockholder’s ability to bring a claim in a judicial forum that it finds favorable for disputes with us or any of our current or former director, officer, other employee, agent, or stockholder to the company, which may discourage such claims against us or any of our current or former director, officer, other employee, agent, or stockholder to the company and result in increased costs for investors to bring a claim.

Our certificate of incorporation will contain a provision renouncing our interest and expectancy in certain corporate opportunities.

Our certificate of incorporation will provide for the allocation of certain corporate opportunities between us and Indigo. Under these provisions, neither Indigo, its portfolio companies, funds or other affiliates, nor any of their agents, stockholders, members, partners, officers, directors and employees will have any duty to refrain from engaging, directly or indirectly, in the same business activities, similar business activities or lines of business in which we operate. For instance, a director of our company who also serves as a stockholder, member, partner, officer, director or employee of Indigo or any of its portfolio companies, funds or other affiliates may pursue certain acquisitions or other opportunities that may be complementary to our business and, as a result, such acquisitions or other opportunities may not be available to us. These potential conflicts of interest could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations or financial condition, if attractive corporate opportunities are allocated by Indigo to itself or its portfolio companies, funds or other affiliates instead of to us. The terms of our certificate of incorporation are more fully described in “Description of Capital Stock.”
Our corporate charter and bylaws include provisions limiting ownership and voting by non-U.S. citizens.

To comply with restrictions imposed by federal law on foreign ownership and control of U.S. airlines, our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering restrict ownership, voting and control of shares of our common stock by non-U.S. citizens. The restrictions imposed by federal law and DOT policy require that we must be owned and controlled by U.S. citizens, that no more than 25.0% of our voting stock be owned or controlled, directly or indirectly, by persons or entities who are not U.S. citizens, as defined 49 U.S.C. § 40102(a)(15), that no more than 49.0% of our stock be owned or controlled, directly or indirectly, by persons or entities who are not U.S. citizens and are from countries that have entered into “open skies” air transport agreements with the U.S., that our president and at least two-thirds of the members of our board of directors and other managing officers be U.S. citizens, and that we be under the actual control of U.S. citizens. Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and bylaws to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering provide that the failure of non-U.S. citizens to register their shares on a separate stock record, which we refer to as the “foreign stock record,” would result in a loss of their voting rights in the event and to the extent that the aggregate foreign ownership of the outstanding common stock exceeds the foreign ownership restrictions imposed by federal law. Our amended and restated bylaws further provide that no shares of our common stock will be registered on the foreign stock record if the amount so registered would exceed the foreign ownership restrictions imposed by federal law. If it is determined that the amount registered in the foreign stock record exceeds the foreign ownership restrictions imposed by federal law, shares will be removed from the foreign stock record, resulting in the loss of voting rights, in reverse chronological order based on the date of registration therein, until the number of shares registered therein does not exceed the foreign ownership restrictions imposed by federal law. We are currently in compliance with these ownership restrictions. See “Business—Foreign Ownership” and “Description of Capital Stock—Anti-Takeover Provisions of Our Certificate of Incorporation and Bylaws—Limited Ownership and Voting by Foreign Owners.”

We expect to be a “controlled company” within the meaning of the Nasdaq Stock Market rules, and, as a result, expect to qualify for, and intend to rely on, exemptions from certain corporate governance requirements. You will not have the same protections afforded to stockholders of companies that are subject to such requirements.

Following the consummation of this offering, we expect that Indigo will continue to control approximately % of our outstanding common stock. As a result, we expect to be a “controlled company” within the meaning of the Nasdaq Stock Market rules and exempt from the obligation to comply with certain corporate governance requirements, including the requirements that a majority of our board of directors consists of “independent directors,” as defined under the rules of the Nasdaq Stock Market, and that we have a compensation committee and a nominating and corporate governance committee that are composed entirely of independent directors. These exemptions do not modify the requirement for a fully independent audit committee, which is permitted to be phased-in as follows: (1) one independent committee member at the time of our initial public offering; (2) a majority of independent committee members within 90 days of our initial public offering; and (3) all independent committee members within one year of our initial public offering. Similarly, once we are no longer a “controlled company,” we must comply with the independent board committee requirements as they relate to the compensation committee and the nominating and corporate governance committee, on the same phase-in schedule as set forth above, with the trigger date being the date we are no longer a “controlled company” as opposed to our initial public offering date. Additionally, we will have 12 months from the date we cease to be a “controlled company” to have a majority of independent directors on our board of directors.

If we utilize the “controlled company” exemption, you will not have the same protections afforded to stockholders of companies that are subject to all of the corporate governance requirements of the Nasdaq Stock Market. Our status as a controlled company could make our common stock less attractive to some investors or otherwise adversely affect its trading price.
We are a holding company and rely on dividends, distributions, and other payments, advances, and transfers of funds from our subsidiaries to meet our obligations.

As of the date of this prospectus, we are prohibited from making repurchases of our common stock and paying dividends on our common stock by operation of restrictions imposed by the CARES Act and the PSP Extension Law. Following the end of those restrictions, we cannot guarantee that we will repurchase shares of our common stock or pay dividends on our common stock, or that our capital deployment program will enhance long-term stockholder value. Our capital deployment program could increase the volatility of the price of our common stock and diminish our cash reserves.

In connection with our receipt of payroll support under the PSP and PSP2 and acceptance of the Treasury Loan Agreement, we agreed not to repurchase shares of our common stock until the later of March 31, 2022 or one year after the Treasury Loan facility loan is repaid. In addition, we are prohibited from paying dividends on common stock until the later of March 31, 2022 or one year after the Treasury Loan facility loan is repaid. Any future determination to pay dividends will be at the discretion of our board of directors and will depend on our results of operations, financial condition, capital requirements, restrictions contained in current or future financing instruments, business prospects and such other factors as our board of directors deems relevant.

General Risk Factors
The requirements of being a public company may strain our resources, divert management’s attention and affect our ability to attract and retain qualified board members or executive officers.

As a public company, we will incur significant legal, accounting and other expenses that we did not incur as a private company, including costs associated with public company reporting requirements. We also have incurred and will incur costs associated with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended, the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, related rules implemented or to be implemented by the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) and the listing rules of the Nasdaq Stock Market. In recent years, the expenses incurred by public companies generally for reporting and corporate governance purposes have been increasing. We expect these rules and regulations to increase our legal and financial compliance costs and to make some activities more time-consuming and costly, although we are currently unable to estimate these costs with any degree of certainty. These laws and regulations could also make it more costly for us to obtain certain types of insurance, including director and officer liability insurance, and we may be forced to accept reduced policy limits and coverage or incur substantially higher costs to obtain the same or similar coverage. These laws and regulations could also make it more difficult for us to attract and retain qualified persons to serve on our board of directors or our board committees or as our executive officers and may divert management’s attention. Furthermore, if we are unable to satisfy our obligations as a public company, our common stock could be delisted, which could restrict our access to capital, and we could be subject to fines, sanctions and other regulatory action and potentially civil litigation.
We will be required to assess our internal control over financial reporting on an annual basis, and any future adverse findings from such assessment could result in a loss of investor confidence in our financial reports, result in significant expenses to remediate any internal control deficiencies and have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Pursuant to Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as amended, and beginning with our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ending December 31, 2022, our management will be required to report on, and our independent registered public accounting firm to attest to, the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting. The rules governing management’s assessment of our internal control over financial reporting are complex and require significant documentation, testing and possible remediation. We are currently in the process of reviewing, documenting and testing our internal control over financial reporting. We may encounter problems or delays in completing the implementation of any changes necessary to make a favorable assessment of our internal control over financial reporting. In connection with the attestation process by our independent registered public accounting firm, we may encounter problems or delays in implementing any requested improvements and receiving a favorable attestation. In addition, if we fail to maintain the adequacy of our internal control over financial reporting, we will not be able to conclude on an ongoing basis that we have effective internal control over financial reporting in accordance with Section 404. If we fail to achieve and maintain an effective internal control environment, we could suffer material misstatements in our financial statements and fail to meet our reporting obligations, which would likely cause investors to lose confidence in our reported financial information. Additionally, ineffective internal control over financial reporting could expose us to increased risk of fraud or misuse of corporate assets and subject us to potential delisting from the Nasdaq Stock Market, regulatory investigations, civil or criminal sanctions and litigation, any of which would have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

We may become involved in litigation that may have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

From time to time, we may become involved in various legal proceedings relating to matters incidental to the ordinary course of our business, including patent, commercial, product liability, employment, class action, whistleblower and other litigation and claims, and governmental and other regulatory investigations and proceedings. In particular, in recent years, there has been significant litigation in the United States and abroad involving patents and other intellectual property rights. We have in the past faced, and may face in the future, claims by third parties that we infringe upon their intellectual property rights. Such matters can be time-consuming, divert management’s attention and resources, cause us to incur significant expenses or liability and/or require us to change our business practices. Because of the potential risks, expenses and uncertainties of litigation, we may, from time to time, settle disputes, even where we believe that we have meritorious claims or defenses. Because litigation is inherently unpredictable, we cannot assure you that the results of any of these actions will not have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

This prospectus includes forward-looking statements. We have based these forward-looking statements largely on our current expectations and projections about future events and financial trends affecting the financial condition of our business. In addition, in this prospectus, the words “believe,” “may,” “estimate,” “continue,” “anticipate,” “intend,” “expect,” “predict,” “potential” and similar expressions, as they relate to our company, our business and our management, are intended to identify forward-looking statements. In light of these risks and uncertainties, the forward-looking events and circumstances discussed in this prospectus may not occur and actual results could differ materially from those anticipated or implied in the forward-looking statements.

All forward-looking statements attributable to us or persons acting on our behalf are expressly qualified in their entirety by the cautionary statements set forth above. Forward-looking statements speak only as of the date of this prospectus. You should not put undue reliance on any forward-looking statements. We assume no obligation to update forward-looking statements to reflect actual results, changes in assumptions or changes in other factors affecting forward-looking information, except to the extent required by applicable law. If we update one or more forward-looking statements, no inference should be drawn that we will make additional updates with respect to those or other forward-looking statements.
USE OF PROCEEDS

We estimate that the net proceeds to us from this offering will be approximately $ million, based on an assumed initial public offering price of $ per share (the mid-point of the price range set forth on the cover page of this prospectus) and after deducting the estimated underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us. We will not receive any of the proceeds from any sale of shares in this offering by the selling stockholder, whether in the firm offering or upon any exercise of the underwriters’ option to purchase additional shares. Each $1.00 increase (decrease) in the assumed public offering price of $ per share would increase (decrease) the net proceeds to us from this offering, after deducting the estimated underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us, by approximately $ million. We may also increase or decrease the number of shares we are offering. An increase (decrease) of 1,000,000 in the number of shares we are offering would increase (decrease) the net proceeds to us from this offering, after deducting the estimated underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us, by approximately $ million, assuming that the assumed offering price stays the same. We do not expect that a change in the offering price or the number of shares by these amounts would have a material effect on our intended uses of the net proceeds from this offering, although it may impact the amount of time prior to which we may need to seek additional capital.

We currently expect to use the net proceeds from this offering for general corporate purposes, including cash reserves, working capital, capital expenditures, including flight equipment acquisitions, sales and marketing activities, general and administrative matters and for possible debt repayment.

Our expected use of the net proceeds to us from this offering represents our current intentions based upon our present plans and business condition. As such, our management will retain discretion over the use of the net proceeds from this offering.

Pending the use of the proceeds to be received by us from this offering, we intend to invest the net proceeds in interest-bearing, investment-grade securities, certificates of deposit or government securities.
DIVIDEND POLICY

In September 2018 and February 2019, we declared cash dividends with respect to our common stock in the amounts of $38.47 and $28.85 per share, respectively (representing aggregate obligations of $221 million and $166 million, respectively, after giving effect to related adjustments for the benefit of holders of stock options and phantom equity units).

In connection with our receipt of financial assistance under the PSP and PSP2 and acceptance of the Treasury Loan Agreement, we agreed not to make dividend payments in respect of our common stock until the later of March 31, 2022 or one year after the Treasury Loan facility loan is repaid. We also entered into the Treasury Loan Agreement and, as a result, we are prohibited from paying dividends on our common stock through the date that is one year after the secured loan provided under the Treasury Loan Agreement is fully repaid. Any future determination as to the declaration and payment of dividends, if any, will be at the discretion of our board of directors and will depend on then existing conditions, including our financial condition, operating results, contractual restrictions, capital requirements, business prospects and other factors our board of directors may deem relevant.

As a holding company, our ability to pay dividends also depends on our receipt of cash dividends, distributions or other payments from our subsidiaries. Our ability to pay dividends will therefore be restricted as a result of restrictions on its ability to pay dividends to us under the CARES Act and may be restricted under future indebtedness that we or they may incur. See “Risk Factors—Risks Related to Owning Our Common Stock.”
The following table sets forth our cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash, current maturities of long-term debt, net and capitalization as of December 31, 2020:

- on an actual basis; and
- on an as adjusted basis to give effect to this offering and the application of the net proceeds to be received by us.

Also, as of December 31, 2020, we had $424 million available to borrow from our Treasury Loan.

You should read this capitalization table together with our financial statements and the related notes appearing at the end of this prospectus, the "Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations" section, and other financial information included in this prospectus.

(1) The unaudited adjusted pro forma capitalization table gives effect to the receipt of the estimated net proceeds by us from the sale of shares of our common stock offered by us (based on an assumed initial public offering price of $ per share, the midpoint of the price range set forth on the cover of this prospectus), after deducting the estimated underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us, and the application of the net proceeds received by us.

(2) Each $1.00 increase or decrease in the assumed initial public offering price of $ per share would increase or decrease, respectively, the amount of cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash, additional paid-in capital, total stockholders’ equity and total capitalization by $ million (assuming the number of shares offered by us, as set forth on the cover page of this prospectus, remains the same), after deducting the estimated underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us. We may also increase or decrease the number of shares we are offering. An increase or decrease of 1,000,000 in the number of shares we are offering would increase or decrease, respectively, the amount of cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash, stockholders’ equity and total capitalization by approximately $ million (based on an assumed initial public offering price of $ per share, the midpoint of the price range as set forth on the cover page of this prospectus), after deducting the estimated underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us. The pro forma as adjusted information is illustrative only, and we will adjust this information based on the actual initial public offering price and other terms of this offering determined at pricing.

The number of shares of our common stock outstanding after this offering is based on 5,248,371 shares outstanding as of December 31, 2020, and excludes:

- an aggregate of 259,980 shares of common stock issuable upon the exercise of outstanding stock options as of December 31, 2020, having a weighted average exercise price of $73.42 per share;
- an aggregate of 50,559 shares of common stock issuable upon the vesting of outstanding RSUs as of December 31, 2020;
- an aggregate of 13,752 shares of common stock issuable upon the exercise of warrants issued pursuant to the PSP Agreement with the Treasury, with respect to PSP established under Subtitle B of Title IV of Division A of the CARES Act (the “PSP Warrants”), having an exercise price of $241.72 per share;
- an aggregate of 62,055 shares of common stock issuable upon the exercise of warrants issued pursuant to the Treasury Warrant Agreement with the Treasury related to the Treasury Loan (the “Treasury Warrants”) having an exercise price of $241.72 per share;
- an aggregate of 2,711 shares of common stock issuable upon the exercise of warrants to be issued pursuant to the PSP2 Agreement with the Treasury, based on the $140 million of funding, with respect to PSP2 established under Subtitle A of Title IV of Division N of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021 (the “PSP2 Warrants”), having an exercise price of $442.69 per share;
- an aggregate of 641,090 shares of common stock reserved for issuance pursuant to future awards under our 2014 Equity Incentive Plan as of December 31, 2020, which will become available for issuance under our 2021 Equity Incentive Award Plan after consummation of this offering; and
- an aggregate of     shares of common stock reserved for issuance pursuant to future awards under our 2021 Equity Incentive Award Plan, as well as any automatic increases in the number of shares of our common stock reserved for future issuance under this plan, which will become effective immediately prior to the consummation of this offering.
If you invest in our common stock, your interest will be diluted to the extent of the difference between the initial public offering price per share of our common stock and the pro forma net tangible book value per share of our common stock immediately after the offering.

The historical net tangible book value of our common stock as of December 31, 2020 was $ million, or $ per share. Historical net tangible book value per share is determined by dividing the net tangible book value by the number of shares of outstanding common stock. If you invest in our common stock in this offering, your ownership interest will be immediately diluted to the extent of the difference between the initial public offering price per share and the pro forma as adjusted net tangible book value per share of our common stock.

After giving effect to our issuance of shares of common stock at an assumed initial public offering price of $ per share of common stock, the mid-point of the range of the estimated initial offering price of between $ and $ as set forth on the cover page of this prospectus, after deducting estimated underwriting discounts and estimated offering expenses payable by us, our pro forma net tangible book value as adjusted as of December 31, 2020 would have been approximately $ million, or approximately $ per pro forma share of common stock. This represents an immediate increase in pro forma net tangible book value of $ per share to our existing stockholders and an immediate dilution of $ per share to new investors in this offering.

The following table illustrates this dilution on a per share basis to new investors:

(1) Pro forma net tangible book value per share, as adjusted, gives effect to this offering (based on the assumed initial public offering price of $ per share, the mid-point of the price range set forth on the cover page of this prospectus).

Each $1.00 increase or decrease in the assumed public offering price of $ per share, the mid-point of the price range set forth on the cover page of this prospectus, would increase or decrease, respectively, our pro forma net tangible book value, as adjusted to give effect to this offering, by $ million, or $ per share, and the dilution per share to investors participating in this offering by $ per share (assuming that the number of shares offered by us, as set forth on the cover page of this prospectus, remains the same), after deducting estimated underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us. We may also increase or decrease the number of shares we are offering. At the assumed public offering price per share, after deducting the estimated underwriting discounts and commissions and estimated offering expenses payable by us, an increase of 1,000,000 in the number of shares we are offering would increase our pro forma net tangible book value, as adjusted to give effect to this offering, by approximately $ million, or $ per share, and decrease the dilution per share to investors participating in this offering by $ per share, and a decrease of 1,000,000 in the number of shares we are offering would decrease our pro forma net tangible book value, as adjusted to give effect to this offering, by approximately $ million, or $ per share, and increase the dilution per share to investors participating in this offering by $ per share.

The pro forma as adjusted information is illustrative only, and we will adjust this information based on the actual initial public offering price and other terms of this offering determined at pricing. We will not receive any of the proceeds from any sale of shares of our common stock in this offering by the selling stockholder, including if the underwriters exercise their option to purchase additionnal shares of our common stock from the selling stockholder; accordingly, there is no dilutive impact as a result of these sales.

The table below summarizes as of December 31, 2020, on a pro forma as adjusted basis described above, the number of shares of our common stock, the total consideration and the average price per share (i) paid to us by existing stockholders, and (ii) to be paid by new investors purchasing our common stock in this offering at an assumed initial public offering price of $ per share (in thousands except per share and percentage data).

If the underwriters exercise in full their option to purchase additional shares of our common stock from the selling stockholder, our existing stockholders would own % and our new investors would own % of the total number of shares of our common stock outstanding upon completion of this offering. The total consideration paid by our existing stockholders would be approximately $ million, or %, and the total consideration paid by investors purchasing shares in this offering would be $ million, or %.

(1) Prior to January 1, 2019 and our adoption of ASU 2016-02, Leases, (“ASU 2016-02”) any gains on completed sale-leaseback transactions were deferred and recognized as a reduction to aircraft rent expense over the lease term for each aircraft or engine. Due to the adoption of ASU 2016-02 on January 1, 2019, gains from sale-leaseback transactions are now recognized in full immediately upon sale as a reduction to other operating expense within the consolidated statements of operations, and are therefore no longer amortized over the life of the lease. During the year ended December 31, 2019 and 2020, the gain on sale-leaseback transactions, net was $107 million and $48 million, respectively.

(1) Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA are included as supplemental disclosures because we believe they are useful indicators of our operating performance. Derivations of net income and EBITDA are well-recognized performance measurements in the airline industry that are frequently used by our management, as well as by investors, securities analysts and other interested parties in comparing the operating performance of companies in our industry.

Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA have limitations as analytical tools. Some of the limitations applicable to these measures include: Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA do not reflect the impact of certain cash charges resulting from matters we consider not to be indicative of our ongoing operations; Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA do not reflect our cash expenditures, or future requirements, for capital expenditures or contractual commitments; EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA do not reflect changes in, or cash requirements for, our working capital needs; EBITDA, and Adjusted EBITDA do not reflect the interest expense, or the cash requirements necessary to service interest or principal payments, on our indebtedness or possible cash requirements related to our warrants; although depreciation and amortization are non-cash charges, the assets being depreciated and amortized will often have to be replaced in the future, and EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA do not reflect any cash requirements for such replacements; and other companies in our industry may calculate Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA differently than we do, limiting its usefulness as a comparative measure. Because of these limitations, Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA should not be considered in isolation from or as a substitute for performance measures calculated in accordance with GAAP. In addition, because derivations of Adjusted net income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA are not determined in accordance with GAAP, such measures are susceptible to varying calculations and not all companies calculate the measures in the same manner. As a result, derivations of Net income and EBITDA, including Adjusted Net Income and Adjusted EBITDA, as presented may not be directly comparable to similarly titled measures presented by other companies.

For the foregoing reasons, each of Adjusted Net Income, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA has significant limitations which affect its use as an indicator of our profitability. Accordingly, you are cautioned not to place undue reliance on this information.

(2) Adjusted EBITDAR is included as a supplemental disclosure because we believe it is useful solely as a valuation metric for airlines as its calculation isolates the effects of financing in general, the accounting effects of capital spending and acquisitions (primarily aircraft, which may be acquired directly, directly subject to acquisition debt, by capital lease or by operating lease, each of which is presented differently for accounting purposes), and income taxes, which may vary significantly between periods and for different airlines for reasons unrelated to the underlying value of a particular airline. However, Adjusted EBITDAR is not determined in accordance with GAAP, is susceptible to varying calculations and not all companies calculate the measure in the same manner. As a result, Adjusted EBITDAR, as presented, may not be directly comparable to similarly titled measures presented by other companies. In addition, Adjusted EBITDAR should not be viewed as a measure of overall performance since it excludes aircraft rent, which is a normal, recurring cash operating expense that is necessary to operate our business. Accordingly, you are cautioned not to place undue reliance on this information.

(a) Due to the significant reduction in demand resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic, our future anticipated consumption of fuel dropped significantly and we therefore de-designated hedge accounting in March 2020 on the derivative positions.
and quantities where the future consumption was not deemed probable, which primarily related to our written put options on our costless collars. The $52 million charge is the result of the de-designation and the resulting mark to market impact on the quantities where fuel consumption was not deemed probable.

(b) Represents accelerated depreciation of $12 million and aircraft rent of $4 million for the year ended December 31, 2016 as a result of significantly shortened lease terms for ten of our A319ceo aircraft. During 2017, a $2 million benefit was recognized as a result of costs associated with returning the aircraft to the lessor being lower than previously estimated.

(c) Represents the impact of the change in value of phantom equity units pursuant to the Pilot Phantom Equity Plan. In accordance with the amended and restated phantom equity agreement, the remaining phantom equity obligation became fixed as of December 31, 2019 and is no longer subject to valuation adjustments. See “Executive Compensation—Equity Compensation Plans—Pilot Phantom Equity Plan.”

(d) Represents (i) $75 million of costs related to a one-time contract ratification incentive, plus payroll-related taxes and certain other compensation and benefits-related accruals earned through December 31, 2018 and committed to by us as part of a tentative agreement with the union representing our pilots that was reached in December 2018 and was ratified by the pilots in January 2019 and (ii) $15 million of costs related to a one-time contract ratification incentive, plus payroll-related taxes and certain other compensation and benefits-related accruals earned through March 31, 2019 and committed to by us as part of a tentative agreement with the union representing our flight attendants that was reached in March 2019 for a contract that was ratified and became effective in May 2019, in addition to $4 million in pilot vacation accrual adjustments during the fourth quarter of 2019 as a result of the ratified agreement with the union representing our pilots specifically tied to the implementation of a preferred bidding system.

(e) Represents losses incurred on the sale of our six owned aircraft in December 2018, which enabled us to accelerate a critical part of our fleet plan by shortening our time with certain of our older less fuel-efficient aircraft. The loss was measured as the excess of the net book value of the aircraft over the sale price at the date of sale and was recognized within other operating expenses in the consolidated statements of operations. All aircraft were held for use through the date of sale.

(f) Represents the $40 million settlement and $3 million of payroll taxes relating to the Letter of Agreement entered into with the union representing our flight attendants (AFA-CWA) on March 15, 2017. Additionally, includes expenses associated with an early out program for our flight attendants during 2017 and 2019 and ratification of our aircraft technicians and material specialists collective bargaining agreements during 2017.

(g) Represents the recognition of the $178 million grant received from the U.S. government for payroll support from April 2020 through September 2020 as part of the PSP under the CARES Act net of $1 million of deferred financing costs along with $16 million of employee retention credits we qualified for under the CARES Act.

(h) Represents the write-off of our deferred initial public offering preparation costs during the first quarter of 2020 due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting uncertainty in our ability to access the capital markets.

(i) Represents the mark to market adjustment to the value of the warrants issued as part of the funding provided by the U.S. Treasury under the CARES Act. This amount is a component of interest expense.

(j) Represents aircraft rent expense included in Adjusted EBITDA. Excludes aircraft rent expense (benefit) of $4 million and $(2) million for the years ended 2016 and 2017, respectively, included in Lease Modification Program (excluding depreciation). See footnote (1) above under the caption “Selected Consolidated Financial and Operating Data” with respect to the effect of our adoption of ASU 2016-02 on January 1, 2019.

Overview

Frontier Airlines is an ultra low-cost carrier whose business strategy is focused on Low Fares Done Right®. We offer flights throughout the United States and to select near international destinations in the Americas. Our unique strategy is underpinned by our low-cost structure and superior low-fare brand. As of December 31, 2020, we had a fleet of 104 narrow-body Airbus A320 family aircraft, and a commitment to purchase 156 A320neo (New Engine Option) family aircraft by the end of 2028. During the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2020, we served approximately 23 million and 11 million passengers, respectively, across a network of approximately 110 airports.

In December 2013, we were acquired by an investment fund managed by Indigo, an affiliate of Indigo Partners, an experienced and successful global investor in ULCCs. Following the acquisition, Indigo reshaped our management team to include experienced veterans of the airline industry with a significant history operating ULCCs. Working with Indigo and supported by a highly productive workforce, our management team developed and implemented our unique Low Fares Done Right strategy, which significantly reduced our unit costs, introduced low fares, provided the choice of optional services to our customers, enhanced our operational performance and improved the customer experience. Through the implementation of our new operating model, we have positioned our brand as a leading low-fare airline and had seen a dramatic improvement to our profitability prior to COVID-19.

The implementation of Low Fares Done Right has significantly reduced our cost base by increasing aircraft utilization (prior to the COVID-19 pandemic), transitioning our fleet to larger aircraft, maximizing seat density, renegotiating the majority of our distribution agreements, realigning our network, replacing our reservation system, enhancing our website, boosting employee productivity and contracting with third-party specialists to provide us with select operating and other services. As a result of these and other initiatives, we were able to reduce our CASM (excluding fuel) from 7.89¢ for the year ended December 31, 2013 to 5.55¢ for the year ended December 31, 2019, and our Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) from 7.89¢ for the year ended December 31, 2013 to 5.44¢ for the year ended December 31, 2019, an improvement of 30% and 31%, respectively. For the year ended December 31, 2020, our CASM (excluding fuel) was 7.53¢ and our Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) was 8.63¢, which was principally a result of a reduced aircraft utilization as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. For a discussion and reconciliation of CASM to Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest, please see “Glossary of Airline Terms” and “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Results of Operations.”

The COVID-19 pandemic has presented significant challenges to the global airline industry since February 2020. We have experienced a significant decline in demand related to the COVID-pandemic, which has caused a material decline in our revenues and negatively impacted our business, operating results, financial condition and liquidity, with approximately $2 million per day on average of cash burn during the year ended December 31, 2020. We have worked diligently to navigate such challenges by implementing disciplined capacity deployment and taking steps to protect liquidity and cash flow, and towards being an industry leader with respect to the implementation of new health and safety initiatives. Due to such efforts, we believe we are well positioned to take advantage of the anticipated demand recovery as vaccine distribution continues. As an example, throughout the pandemic, the U.S. airline industry has seen stronger domestic demand than international demand, and the segments of domestic travel that have recovered fastest have been VFR (visiting friends or relatives) and vacation travel (which together we refer to as leisure travel) in contrast to business travel, both of which are trends that we believe position us to outperform the airline industry as a whole. According to the Airlines Reporting Corporation, for the week ended February 21, 2021, the number of tickets purchased as a percentage of the same time period in 2019 was 54% for online travel agencies with a primary focus on leisure travel, 32% for traditional leisure/other agencies with a primary focus on leisure travel, and 15% for corporate agencies whose primary business model is managed corporate or government travel. We design our route network to capture low fare demand among leisure travelers and our three largest bases are Denver, Orlando and Las Vegas, which draw a significant proportion of leisure travelers.

In the seven months ending February 29, 2020, according to a post-travel survey we conducted, 89% of our customers were leisure travelers. We believe the restrictions and health concerns that have depressed demand during the pandemic are also likely to lead to increased levels of pent-up demand for leisure travel once the effects of the pandemic decrease. As a result, we expect to see a significant recovery in our performance as the U.S. market recovers. Within our current network of approximately 110 airports served, we plan to strategically deploy our capacity where demand is highest during the recovery in order to more quickly return to normal capacity levels. More broadly, after being restricted from travel, we believe many customers will take advantage of the opportunity to travel more in the coming years. We also believe new working patterns and the increasing growth of work from home will lead to increasing numbers of employees choosing to live remotely from their office location. We believe this trend will lead to an increased number of shorter leisure trips by Americans. We believe our low fares, supported by our low cost structure, will enable us to grow our network and take advantage of new demand patterns as they arise. We also believe that we will expand our relative unit cost advantage as compared to those airlines which borrowed more heavily through the pandemic. Furthermore, we believe that low-cost airlines have historically recovered more quickly than the airline industry overall following past crises, including the 1991 Gulf War, the 2001 Terrorist Attacks, and the late-2000s Financial Crisis. In the wake of these crises, low-cost airlines further expanded the magnitude of their superior margin profile and profitability relative to the airline industry as a whole.

Impact of the COVID-19 Pandemic

In December 2019, a novel strain of coronavirus was reported in Wuhan, China, and on March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization classified the virus as a pandemic. The rapid spread of this pandemic, or fear of such an event, along with government mandated restrictions on travel, required stay-in-place orders, and other social distancing measures resulted in a drastic decline in near-term air travel demand beginning in the United States in March 2020, causing sharp reductions in revenues and income levels as compared to prior period performance. The decline in demand for air travel has and will continue to have a material adverse effect on our business and results of operations in 2020 and during 2021.

While we experienced a modest uptick in demand during the latter half of the second quarter and continuing into the third and fourth quarters of 2020, demand was negatively impacted by a resurgence of COVID-19 cases in certain domestic markets. The length and severity of the decline in demand due to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic is uncertain given the impact of the pandemic on the overall U.S. and global economy. Additionally, we are unable to predict the future spread of COVID-19 and resulting measures that may be introduced by governments or other parties and what impact they may have on the demand for air travel. As such, we expect the adverse impact to persist during 2021.

In December 2020, the FDA issued emergency use authorizations for the Pfizer and BioNTech vaccine and for the Moderna vaccine for the prevention of COVID-19. On February 4, 2021, Johnson & Johnson submitted a request for an emergency use authorization for its vaccine for the prevention of COVID-19. While it will take time for vaccines to be widely distributed, we expect confidence in travel to increase as vaccine distribution occurs, particularly in the domestic leisure market on which our business is focused.
In response to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, in March 2020 we began taking measures to address the significant cash outflows resulting from the sharp decline in demand and we continue to evaluate options should the lack of demand for air travel continue beyond the near term. Also during 2020, we reduced our flight schedule to match demand levels and implemented various other initiatives to reduce costs and manage liquidity, including, but not limited to:

- reducing planned headcount increases;
- reducing employee related costs, including:
  - salary reductions and/or deferrals for our officers and board members;
  - suspension of merit salary increases for 2020; and
  - voluntary paid and unpaid leave of absence programs for employees not covered under labor arrangements, as well as certain employees covered under such arrangements, including pilots and flight attendants, that range from one month to six months;
- deferring aircraft deliveries;
- reducing discretionary expenses;
- reaching agreements with major vendors, which are primarily related to many of our aircraft and engine leases as well as airports, for deferral of payments and deliveries until late in 2020 and into 2021;
- delaying non-essential maintenance projects and reducing or suspending other discretionary spending
- reducing non-essential capital projects;
- securing current funding and future liquidity from the CARES Act, PSP, PSP2 and other financing sources; and
- amending certain debt covenant metrics to align with current and expected demand.

As a result of the measures to reduce costs and manage liquidity as outlined above, we believe our financial position and available liquidity as of the date of this prospectus, after giving effect to this offering, will allow us to continue to navigate through any short-term demand declines and that we are well positioned to recover once the demand for air travel increases. As of December 31, 2020, we had $963 million of total available liquidity, including $378 million of cash and cash equivalents, $424 million available to borrow under the Treasury Loan facility, and a $161 million income tax receivable, primarily resulting from our net operating losses generated in 2020 and expected to be collected in 2021. Additionally, subsequent to December 31, 2020, we entered into the PSP2 Agreement, which provided us with at least an incremental $140 million in liquidity. We received the first installment in the amount of $70 million on January 15, 2021. During the year ended December 31, 2020, our cash burn was approximately $2 million per day on average. We continue to monitor the impacts of the pandemic on our operations and financial condition and believe that our plans intended to mitigate these conditions and events will help alleviate liquidity risks presented.

Fleet Plan

As of December 31, 2020, we had a fleet of 104 narrow-body Airbus A320 family aircraft, and a commitment to purchase 156 A320neo (New Engine Option) family aircraft by the end of 2028. We began operating the A320neo family aircraft in October 2016. For the year ended December 31, 2019, we had the most fuel-efficient fleet of all U.S. carriers of significant size when measured by ASMs per fuel gallon consumed. The A320neo family aircraft that we continue to place in service are expected to continue delivering approximately 15% improved fuel efficiency compared to the prior generation of A320ceo family aircraft. As of December 31, 2020, we had an obligation to purchase 156 A320neo family aircraft by the end of 2028, one of which had a committed operating lease. We are evaluating financing options for the remaining aircraft. All of the aircraft in our fleet are financed with operating leases, the last of which is scheduled to expire by the end of 2032. As of December 31, 2020, the operating leases for seven aircraft in our fleet are scheduled to expire during 2021. As of December 31, 2020 leases for eight of our aircraft could generally be renewed at rates based on fair market value at the end of the lease term for four years. Our fleet plan will result in the retirement of all remaining A319ceo aircraft (150 seats), which we expect to replace with larger new A320neo aircraft (186 seats) and A321neo aircraft (up to 240 seats). In December 2018, we accelerated a component of this plan by completing the sale-leaseback of our six owned aircraft, which included four A319ceo aircraft and two A320ceo aircraft. Once the four A319ceo leases expire in December 2021, we expect that we will no longer operate any A319ceo aircraft and will exclusively operate A320ceo, A320neo, A321ceo and, commencing in 2022, A321neo aircraft moving forward.

During 2018, 2019 and 2020, we executed sale-leaseback transactions with third-party lessors for deliveries of new Airbus A320 family aircraft, with 16 delivered in 2018, 18 delivered in 2019 and nine delivered in 2020. We also completed sale-leaseback transactions on two engines in both 2018 and 2019, and one engine in 2020. Prior to January 1, 2019 and our adoption of the Financial Accounting Standards Board (the “FASB”) Accounting Standards Update (“ASU”) 2016-02, Leases, (“ASU 2016-02”), any gains on completed sale-leaseback transactions were deferred and recognized as a reduction to aircraft rent expense over the lease term for each aircraft or engine. Due to the adoption of ASU 2016-02 on January 1, 2019, gains from sale-leaseback transactions are now recognized in full immediately upon sale as a reduction to other operating expense within the consolidated statements of operations, and are therefore no longer amortized over the life of the lease. As such, commencing in 2019 our earnings in a particular year became significantly more sensitive to the number of aircraft delivered and the terms of the related sale-leaseback financing than under the prior method which deferred any gains over the lease term.

Operating Revenues

Our operating revenue consists of passenger and other revenues.

Passenger Revenues. Passenger revenue consists of base fares for air travel, including mileage credits redeemed under our frequent flyer program, unused and expired passenger credits, and other redeemed or expired travel credits. In addition, passenger revenue also includes non-fare revenues generated from air travel-related services such as baggage fees, itinerary service fees, seat selection fees, change and cancellation fees, booking fees and other passenger related revenue.

As a result of the reduction in demand resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic which has persisted into 2021, beginning in March 2020, we extended the expiration dates of mileage credits issued under our frequent flyer program, waived cancellation and change fees for customers for most of 2020 after the start of the pandemic and extended the expiration of credits for future travel to 12 months in the fourth quarter of 2020. Our decision to waive cancellation and change fees may reduce future revenues and the extension of expiration of mileage credits and change fees for customers may delay the recognition of future revenues. Additionally, the CARES Act, which became law on March 27, 2020 and includes various provisions to protect the U.S. airline industry, its employees, and many other stakeholders, provided a tax holiday through December 31, 2020 for excise taxes related to airline fares which favorably impacted our results and is not expected to extend into future years.

Other Revenues. Other revenue primarily consists of services not directly related to providing transportation, such as the advertising, marketing and brand elements of the Frontier Miles (formerly EarlyReturns) affinity credit card program and commissions revenue from the sale of items such as rental cars and hotels.
Our operating expenses consist of the following items:

Aircraft Fuel. Aircraft fuel expense is one of our largest operating expenses. It includes jet fuel and associated into-plane costs, federal and state taxes, and gains and losses associated with fuel hedge contracts. During the year ended December 31, 2020, aircraft fuel included $82 million in losses associated with fuel hedges primarily as a result of the precipitous decline in jet fuel prices caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, which created a significant liability position at the settlement of our collar trades. The CARES Act, which became law on March 27, 2020, provided a tax holiday through December 31, 2020 for excise taxes on jet fuel purchases which favorably impacted our results of operations during the year ended December 31, 2020 and is not expected to extend into future years.

Salaries, Wages and Benefits. Salaries, wages and benefits expense includes salaries, hourly wages, bonuses, equity-based compensation and profit sharing paid to employees for their services, as well as related expenses associated with employee benefit plans, including health care costs, employer payroll taxes and other employee-related costs. During the first and second quarters of 2019, we entered into new collective bargaining agreements with our pilot and flight attendant labor unions, which become amendable in 2024 and which provide for increases in salaries, wages and benefits during the five-year contract term. As a result of COVID-19, we received installment funding under the PSP, which is part of the CARES Act, including a $178 million grant (“PSP Grant”) for payroll support for the period from April 2020 through September 30, 2020. The PSP contained certain conditions impacting salaries, wages and benefits including, among others, that there were to be no involuntary furloughs or pay and benefit reductions through September 30, 2020. We expect to receive further funding during the first quarter of 2021 under a second Payroll Support Program, including a $128 million grant (“PSP2 Grant”) for the continuation of payroll support through March 31, 2021. The PSP and PSP2 funding is and will continue to be recognized net of deferred financing costs over the periods intended to support payroll, within CARES Act credits in our consolidated statements of operations. See the “CARES Act Credits” discussion below for more details. Similar to the PSP, PSP2 requires that there are to be no involuntary furloughs or pay and benefit reductions through March 31, 2021. The CARES Act also provides for deferred payment of the employer portion of social security taxes through the end of 2020, which have been accrued as of December 31, 2020, with 50% of the deferred amount due December 31, 2021 and the remaining 50% due December 31, 2022. We offered voluntary leave of absence programs to pilots and flight attendants in increments of one or three-month time frames through March 31, 2021 in anticipation of the lapse of the original PSP to help defray costs in the low demand environment. As a result of the subsequent PSP2 Agreement, we increased the minimum pay provided under these programs, while maintaining no requirement to work.

Aircraft Rent. Aircraft rent expense consists of monthly lease charges for aircraft and spare engines under the terms of the related operating leases and is recognized on a straight-line basis. Aircraft rent expense also includes that portion of maintenance reserves, also referred to as supplemental rent, which is paid monthly to aircraft lessors for the cost of future heavy maintenance events and which is not probable of being reimbursed to us by the lessor during the lease term, as well as lease return costs, which consist of all costs that would be incurred at the return of the aircraft, including costs incurred to return the airframe and engines to the condition required by the lease. Prior to January 1, 2019 and our adoption of ASU 2016-02, aircraft rent expense was generally recognized net of any amortization of deferred gains on sale-leaseback transactions on our flight equipment. Due to the adoption of ASU 2016-02 on January 1, 2019, gains from sale-leaseback transactions are now recognized in full immediately upon sale as a reduction to other operating expense within the consolidated statements of operations and are therefore no longer amortized over the life of the lease. As of December 31, 2020, all of our 104 aircraft and 16 spare engines were financed under operating leases.

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, beginning in March 2020, we were granted payment deferrals on leases included in our right-of-use assets for certain aircraft and engines from lessors along with airport facilities and other vendors that are not included in our right-of-use assets, which generally span two to seven months. On March 10, 2020, the FASB released Topic 842 and 840: Accounting for Lease Concessions Related to the Effects of the COVID-19 Pandemic (“FASB Q&A”) and we elected to account for lease concessions as though enforceable rights and obligations for those concessions existed at lease inception and to account for the concessions as if no changes to the lease contract were made as all deferrals resulted in substantially the same total payments as required by the original contract. We have elected to account for deferred payments as variable lease payments where the deferral payments are not recognized in our consolidated statements of operations until the payment is made. As such, $33 million of rent related to 2020 was deferred to 2021, favorably impacting our cash flows and results of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020, with $31 million and $2 million relating to aircraft rent expense and station operations expense, respectively.

Station Operations. Station operations expense includes the fixed and variable fees charged by airports for the use or lease of airport facilities and fees charged by third-party vendors for ground handling, interrupted trip expenses and other related services. Station operations expense also includes the impact of the payment deferrals on certain leases associated with our airport facilities, with a favorable impact of $2 million reflected for the year ended December 31, 2020, in rent payments related to 2020 being deferred to 2021.

Sales and Marketing. Sales and marketing expense includes credit card processing fees, travel agent commissions and related global distribution systems fees, advertising, sponsorship and distribution costs such as the costs of our call center and costs associated with our frequent flyer program.

Maintenance Materials and Repairs. Aircraft maintenance expense includes the cost of all parts, materials and fees for repairs performed by us and our third-party vendors to maintain our fleet, excluding capitalized heavy maintenance events. It excludes direct labor cost related to our own mechanics, which are included within salaries, wages and benefits in the consolidated statements of operations.

Depreciation and Amortization. Depreciation and amortization expense includes depreciation of fixed assets we own and depreciation of leasehold improvements and finite-lived intangible assets. It also includes the amortization of heavy maintenance expenses that we defer under the deferral method of accounting for heavy maintenance events and recognize as expense on a straight-line basis until the earlier of the next estimated heavy maintenance event or the remaining lease term.

CARES Act Credits. The CARES Act became law on March 27, 2020 and includes various provisions to protect the U.S. airline industry, its employees, and many other stakeholders. On April 30, 2020, we entered into an agreement with the Treasury under which we received $211 million of installment funding comprised of a $178 million PSP Grant for payroll support for the period from April 2020 through September 30, 2020, and a $33 million unsecured 10-year, low interest loan (“PSP Promissory Note”) and we granted the Treasury warrants to purchase 13,752 shares of our common stock, which have a five-year term and are settled in cash, or shares upon an IPO at our option, upon notice from the Treasury. On January 15, 2021, the Company entered into an agreement with the Treasury for a minimum of $140 million of additional installment funding under the PSP2 Agreement, comprised of a $128 million PSP2 Grant for the continuation of payroll support through March 31, 2021, and a $12 million unsecured 10-year low interest loan (“PSP2 Promissory Note”) and expect to issue 2,711 additional warrants.

The PSP and PSP2 funding contains certain conditions, that if not met, may require payroll assistance funds to be paid back to the U.S. government. The primary conditions include, but are not limited to:

- no involuntary furloughs or pay and benefit reductions through March 31, 2021;
- no repurchases of equity securities listed on a national securities exchange or payment of dividends are permitted through March 31, 2022;
- maintain a certain level of scheduled air transportation as deemed necessary by the Department of Transportation to ensure that all routes we had scheduled air travel to before the downturn due to the COVID-19 pandemic are still served between May and September 2020, and between January and March 2021; and
- put in place certain limits on the compensation and termination benefits of all non-union employees who made in excess of $425,000 in 2019, through October 1, 2022
As of December 31, 2020, we had received the full $178 million under the PSP, which was recognized net of $1 million in deferred financing costs over the periods it was intended to support payroll within CARES Act Credits in our consolidated statements of operations.

The CARES Act also provides an employee retention credit ("CARES Employee Retention Credit"), which is a refundable tax credit against certain employment taxes of up to $5,000 per employee for eligible employers. The credit is equal to 50% of qualified wages paid to employees during a quarter, capped at $10,000 of qualified wages through year end. We qualified for the credit beginning on April 1, 2020 and received credits for qualified wages through December 31, 2020. During the year ended December 31, 2020, we recognized $16 million related to the CARES Employee Retention Credit within CARES Act Credits in our consolidated statements of operations and other current assets in our consolidated balance sheet.

As a result of the extension of the CARES Act benefits in December 2020, the CARES Employee Retention Credit program was extended and enhanced. The updated program, effective as of January 1, 2021, was extended through June 30, 2021 and increased the credit to be equal to 70% of qualified wages paid to employees during a quarter and increased the cap from $10,000 of qualified wages for the entire period to $10,000 per quarter. However, we also expect headwinds in our financial results related to the December 31, 2020 expiration of certain tax holidays created by the CARES Act.

Other Operating Expenses. Other operating expenses include crew and other employee travel, information technology, outside services, property taxes and all insurance, including hull liability insurance, supplies, legal and other professional fees, facilities and all other administrative and operational overhead expenses. In addition, other operating expenses includes the quarterly fee of $375,000 as well as other expenses that we pay to Indigo Partners on a quarterly basis pursuant to the Professional Services Agreement. Beginning in 2019, as a result of the adoption of ASU 2016-02, other operating expenses also includes gains recognized in full immediately upon the completion of sale-leaseback transactions.

Other Income (Expense)

Interest Expense. Interest expense is related to our PDP Financing Facility, our floating rate building note, our unsecured debt and the PSP Promissory Note and Treasury Loan. As part of the PSP Promissory Note and the Treasury Loan, we issued to the Treasury warrants to acquire shares of our common stock, which have a five-year term and are settled in cash, or shares upon an IPO at our option, upon notice from the Treasury. The warrants issued in conjunction with the CARES Act financing have been classified as liability-based awards within other current liabilities within the consolidated balance sheet. Given the liability-based classification, at the end of each period the warrant liability is adjusted to its fair market value, calculated utilizing the Black Scholes option pricing model, with the corresponding fair market value adjustment classified as interest expense.

Capitalized Interest. We capitalize interest attributable to pre-delivery payments as an additional cost of the related asset beginning when activities necessary to get the asset ready for its intended use commence. We capitalize interest at our weighted average interest rate on long-term debt or, where applicable, the interest rate related to specific borrowings.

Interest Income and Other: Interest income and other includes interest income on our cash and cash equivalent balances, as well as activity not classified in any other area of the consolidated statements of operations.

Trends and Uncertainties Affecting Our Business

We believe our operating and business performance is driven by various factors that typically affect airlines and their markets, including trends which affect the broader travel industry, as well as trends which affect the specific markets and customer base that we target. The following key factors may affect our future performance:
Competition. The airline industry is highly competitive. The principal competitive factors in the airline industry are the fare and total price, flight schedules, number of routes served from a city, frequent flyer programs, product and passenger amenities, customer service, fleet type and reputation. The airline industry is particularly susceptible to price discounting as, once a flight is scheduled, airlines incur only nominal incremental costs to provide service to passengers occupying otherwise unsold seats. Price competition occurs on a market-by-market basis through price discounts, changes in pricing structures, fare matching, target promotions and frequent flyer initiatives. Airlines typically use discount fares and other promotions to stimulate traffic during normally slower travel periods to generate cash flow and to maximize RASM. The prevalence of discount fares can be particularly acute when a competitor has excess capacity that it is under financial pressure to sell. A key element of our competitive strategy is to maintain very low unit costs in order to permit us to compete successfully in price-sensitive markets. In addition, some of the legacy network carriers match low-cost carrier and ULCC pricing on portions of their network. We believe that fare discounts have and will continue to stimulate demand for Frontier due to our Low Fares Done Right strategy.

Our Low Fares Done Right strategy is underpinned by our low-cost structure, and has significantly reduced our cost base by increasing aircraft utilization (prior to the COVID-19 pandemic), transitioning to larger and more fuel-efficient aircraft, maximizing seat density, renegotiating the majority of our distribution agreements, realigning our network, replacing our call center, enhancing our website and mobile app, boosting employee productivity and contracting with leading specialists to provide us with select operating and other services. As a result of these and other initiatives, prior to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, our unit operating costs, as measured by our CASM (excluding fuel), declined 30% from 7.89¢ for the year ended December 31, 2013 to 5.55¢ for the year ended December 31, 2019, and our Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) declined 31% from 7.89¢ for the year ended December 31, 2013 to 5.44¢ for the year ended December 31, 2019. For a reconciliation of CASM to Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest, see “Glossary of Airline Terms” and “—Results of Operations.”

During 2019, we had the lowest Adjusted CASM including net interest of any airline of significant size in the United States. Due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, for the year ended December 31, 2020, our Adjusted CASM including net interest was 10.31¢ as compared to 7.65¢ for the year ended December 31, 2019. The increase in Adjusted CASM including net interest versus the levels achieved during 2019 was driven by the decrease in capacity as measured by available seat miles (ASMs) due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic combined with the fixed nature of aircraft rent net of the impact of any related lease deferrals achieved to manage liquidity. For a discussion and reconciliation of CASM to Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest, please see “Glossary of Airline Terms” and “—Results of Operations.”

Our cost structure has generally allowed us to achieve strong results from operations relative to the rest of the industry during periods of competitive pricing and price discounts and has helped our ability to manage through the COVID-19 pandemic. While we have already completed the substantial majority of strategic initiatives to reduce our unit operating costs, we believe that we are well positioned to maintain our low unit operating costs relative to our competitors through on-going strategic initiatives, including continuing our cost optimization efforts and further realizing economies of scale. To the extent that we are unable to maintain our low-cost structure, our ability to compete effectively may be impaired, even if demand does return to pre-pandemic levels. In addition, if our competitors engage in fare wars or similar behavior, our financial performance could be adversely impacted.

Aircraft Fuel. Fuel expense represents one of the single largest operating expense for most airlines, including ours. Jet fuel prices and availability are subject to market fluctuations, refining capacity, periods of market surplus and shortage and demand for heating oil, gasoline and other petroleum products, as well as meteorological, economic and political factors and events occurring throughout the world, which we can neither control nor accurately predict. The future cost and availability of jet fuel cannot be predicted with any degree of certainty.

We have historically hedged our exposure to jet fuel prices using call options and collar structures, although we have in the past and may in the future utilize other instruments such as swaps on jet fuel or highly correlated commodities and FFPs, which allow us to lock in the price of jet fuel for specific quantities and at specified locations in future periods.

Although the use of collar structures and swap agreements can reduce the overall cost of hedging, these instruments carry more risk than call options in that we could end up in a liability position when the collar structure or swap agreement settles. Our fuel hedging policy considers many factors, including our assessment of market conditions for fuel, competitor hedging activity, our access to the capital necessary to purchase coverage and support margin requirements, the pricing of hedges and other derivative products in the market and applicable regulatory policies. As of December 31, 2020, we had no fuel cash flow hedges for future fuel consumption.

Volatility. The air transportation business is volatile and highly affected by economic cycles and trends. Global pandemics and related health scares, consumer confidence and discretionary spending, fear of terrorism or war, weakening economic conditions, fare initiatives, fluctuations in fuel prices, labor actions, changes in governmental regulations on taxes and fees, weather and other factors have resulted in significant fluctuations in revenue and results of operations in the past.

Seasonality. Our results of operations for any interim period are not necessarily indicative of those for the entire year because the air transportation business and our route network are subject to seasonal fluctuations. We generally expect demand to be greater in the calendar second and third quarters compared to the rest of the year. While we have, over recent years, reduced our concentration in Denver to decrease the impact of seasonality in our business, 41% of our flights during the year ended December 31, 2020 had Denver International Airport as either their origin or destination.

Labor. The airline industry is heavily unionized. The wages, benefits and work rules of unionized airline industry employees are determined by CBAs. Relations between air carriers and labor unions in the United States are governed by the RLA. Under the RLA, CBAs generally contain “amendable dates” rather than expiration dates and the RLA requires that a carrier maintain the existing terms and conditions of employment following the amendable date through a multi-stage and usually lengthy series of bargaining processes overseen by the NMB. This process continues until either the parties have reached agreement on a new CBA or the parties have been released to “self-help” by the NMB. In most circumstances, the RLA prohibits strikes. However, after release by the NMB, carriers and unions are free to engage in self-help measures such as lockouts and strikes. From June until November 2018, we experienced disruption to our flight operations during our labor negotiations with ALPA, which materially impacted on our business and results of operations for the period.

We have seven union-represented employee groups comprising approximately 88% of our employees as of December 31, 2020. Our pilots are represented by ALPA; our flight attendants are represented by the Association of Flight Attendants (“AFA-CWA”); our aircraft technicians, aircraft appearance agents, material specialists and maintenance control employees are all represented by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (“IBT”); and our dispatchers are represented by the Transport Workers Union (“TWU”). Conflicts between airlines and their unions can lead to work stoppages. During the fourth quarter of 2016, a new five-year collective bargaining agreement was reached with the dispatchers. In February 2017 and March 2017, the aircraft technicians and material specialists contracts were ratified to include new amendable dates of February 2022 and March 2022, respectively. In October 2018, new five-year collective bargaining agreements were reached with the aircraft appearance agents and maintenance controllers. In March 2016 and July 2015, our collective bargaining agreements with our pilots, represented by ALPA, and our flight attendants, represented by AFA, respectively, became amendable. In December 2018, we and the pilots, represented by ALPA, reached a tentative agreement, which was approved by the pilots and became effective in January 2019. The agreement has a term of five years and includes a significant increase in the annual compensation for the pilots as well as a one-time ratification incentive payment to our pilots of $75 million plus payroll related taxes. The one-time ratification incentive and related taxes were recognized as an expense in the fourth quarter of 2018 as the obligation committed to as part of the tentative agreement was probable as of December 31, 2018 and was substantially paid during the first quarter of 2019. In March 2019, a new five-year collective bargaining agreement was reached with our aircraft technicians.

We reached a tentative agreement with the union representing our flight attendants, AFA-CWA, in March 2019, which was ratified by the flight attendants and became effective in May 2019. The new agreement provides for a one-time ratification incentive payment to our flight attendants of $15 million, plus payroll-related taxes. The one-time ratification incentive and related taxes were recognized as an expense in the first quarter of 2019 as the obligation committed to as part of the tentative agreement was probable as of March 31, 2019. The one-time ratification incentive was substantially paid during the second quarter of 2019.

During 2019, we entered into an agreement with the flight attendants which outlined terms of an early out program offered to flight attendants meeting certain employment status and seniority requirements, payable to participating flight attendants throughout the fourth quarter of 2019, 2020 and 2021. The $5 million to be paid under the program, including related payroll taxes, is reflected within salaries, wages and benefits in the consolidated statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 2019. During the year ended December 31, 2020, $2 million was paid to participating flight attendants, and the remaining $3 million to be paid under the program is accrued for within other current liabilities in the consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2020. The remaining obligation is expected to be settled during the year ending December 31, 2021.

During September 2020, and in anticipation of the lapse of the provisions set forth in the PSP under the CARES Act as described below, we reached agreement with the labor unions for our pilots and flight attendants to provide for voluntary paid leave of absence programs. Under the arrangements, the pilots and flight attendants were granted paid leave of absence periods of either one, three or six-month time frames. In exchange for accepting a voluntary leave of absence, the pilots and flight attendants receive minimum monthly pay and continue to accrue certain benefits with no requirement to work. We can require pilots and flight attendants to return to service and forego any remaining leave of absence if demand increases. These temporary programs have helped to defray our employee costs during the downturn caused by the pandemic, but should enable us to scale operations back up quickly as demand returns. As employees covered under such paid voluntary programs are still considered active employees, the costs of such programs are recognized as period expenses.

As a result of the PSP2 Agreement, the Company altered its voluntary leave of absence programs with pilots and flight attendants, which are offered in increments of one or three-month time frames through March 31, 2021. While the Company continues to offer these programs to help defray costs as a result of the downturn caused by the pandemic, the Company increased the minimum pay provided while maintaining no requirement to work.

Maintenance Materials and Repairs. The amount of total maintenance costs and related depreciation of heavy maintenance expense is subject to variables such as estimated usage, government regulations, the size, age and makeup of the fleet in future periods, and the level of unscheduled maintenance events and their actual costs. Accordingly, we cannot reliably quantify future maintenance-related expenses for any significant period of time.

As of December 31, 2020, the average age of our aircraft was approximately four years and we had taken delivery of 87 new aircraft since the start of 2015. All of the aircraft in our fleet are financed with operating leases, the last of which is scheduled to expire by the end of 2032. As of December 31, 2020, the operating leases for seven aircraft in our fleet were scheduled to expire during 2021. In certain circumstances, such operating leases may be extended. We currently have an obligation to purchase 156 aircraft by the end of 2028. We expect that these new aircraft will require less maintenance when they are first placed in service (sometimes called a “maintenance holiday”) because the aircraft will benefit from manufacturer warranties and also will be able to operate for a significant period of time, generally measured in years, before the most expensive scheduled maintenance obligations, known as heavy maintenance, are required. Once these maintenance holidays expire, these aircraft will require more maintenance as they age and our maintenance and repair expenses for each of our aircraft will be incurred at approximately the same intervals. When these more significant maintenance activities occur, this will result in out-of-service periods during which our aircraft are dedicated to maintenance activities and unavailable to generate revenue.

We account for heavy maintenance events under the deferral method. Accordingly, heavy maintenance is depreciated over the shorter of either the remaining lease term or the period until the next estimated heavy maintenance event. As a result, maintenance events occurring closer to the end of the lease term will generally have shorter depreciation periods than those occurring earlier in the lease term. This will create higher depreciation expense specific to any aircraft related to heavy maintenance during the final years of the lease as compared to earlier periods. Please see “—Critical Accounting Estimates—Aircraft Maintenance.”

Maintenance Reserve Obligations. The terms of certain of our aircraft lease agreements require us to post deposits for future maintenance, also known as maintenance reserves, to the lessor in advance of and as collateral for the performance of heavy maintenance events, resulting in us recording significant prepaid deposits on our consolidated balance sheet. As a result, for leases requiring maintenance reserves, the cash costs of scheduled heavy maintenance events are paid in advance of the recognition of the maintenance event in our results of operations. Please see “—Critical Accounting Estimates—Aircraft Maintenance.”

Critical Accounting Estimates

We prepare our consolidated financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States (“U.S. GAAP”). In doing so, we make estimates and assumptions that affect our reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenue and expenses, as well as related disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities. To the extent that there are material differences between these estimates and actual results, our financial condition or results of operations would be affected. We base our estimates on past experience and other assumptions that we believe are reasonable under the circumstances, and we evaluate these estimates on an ongoing basis. We refer to accounting estimates of this type as critical accounting estimates, which we discuss below. For a detailed discussion of our significant accounting policies, please refer to “Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements - 1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies.”

Frequent Flyer Program

Our Frontier Miles (formerly EarlyReturns) frequent flyer program provides frequent flyer travel awards to program members based on accumulated mileage credits. Mileage credits are accumulated as a result of travel, purchases using the co-branded credit card and purchases from other participating partners.

The contract to sell mileage credits under the co-branded credit card partnership has multiple performance obligations. The agreement provides for joint marketing and we account for this agreement consistently with the accounting method that allocates the consideration received to the individual products and services delivered. Total consideration is allocated to each performance obligation, which generally consists of (i) mileage credits to be awarded, (ii) brand licensing and (iii) access to member lists and advertising and marketing efforts based on each relative standalone selling price and are recognized over time as mileage credits are delivered. We determined the best estimate of the selling prices by considering discounted cash flow analysis using multiple inputs and assumptions, including: (1) the expected number of miles awarded and number of miles redeemed, (2) equivalent ticket value (“ETV”) for the award travel obligation, (3) licensing of brand and access to member lists and (4) advertising and marketing efforts.

We defer the amount for mileage credits under the co-branded credit card partnership as part of the frequent flyer liability on the balance sheet and recognize loyalty travel awards in passenger revenue as the mileage credits are used for travel. Revenue allocated to the remaining performance obligations, primarily marketing components, is recorded in other revenue as miles are delivered. We estimate breakage (mileage credits not utilized) based on statistical models derived from historical redemption patterns. Breakage assumptions, including the period over which mileage credits are expected to be redeemed, the actual redemption activity for mileage credits, the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, or the estimated fair value of mileage credits expected to be redeemed, could have an impact on revenues in the year in which the change occurs and in future years.
Aircraft Maintenance

Under our aircraft operating lease agreements and FAA regulations, we are obligated to perform all required maintenance activities on our fleet, including component repairs, scheduled air frame checks and major engine restoration events. We account for heavy maintenance and major overhauls under the deferral method, whereby the cost of heavy maintenance and major overhauls is deferred and recorded as a component of property and equipment, net and depreciated over the lesser of the remaining lease term or the period until the next scheduled heavy maintenance event.

Maintenance Reserves

Certain of our aircraft and spare engine lease agreements provide that we pay maintenance reserves to aircraft lessors to be held as collateral in advance of our required performance of heavy maintenance events. Maintenance reserve payments are reflected as aircraft maintenance deposits in the accompanying balance sheets.

We make certain assumptions at the inception of the lease and at each balance sheet date to determine the recoverability of maintenance deposits, including estimated time between the maintenance events, the cost of such maintenance events, the date the aircraft is due to be returned to the lessor and the number of flight hours and cycles the aircraft is estimated to be utilized before it is returned to the lessor. Changes in estimates are accounted for on a cumulative catch-up basis. On a regular basis, the credit worthiness of our lessors is assessed to ensure deposits are collectible. We continue to evaluate the creditworthiness of our lessors as a result of COVID-19 downturns and specifically whether any credit losses existed for aircraft maintenance deposits and determined no allowance was necessary as of December 31, 2020.

Certain of our lease agreements also provide that some or all of the maintenance reserves held by the lessor at the expiration of the lease are nonrefundable to us and will be retained by the lessor. Consequently, we have determined that any usage-based maintenance reserve payments after the last major maintenance event are not substantively related to the maintenance of the leased asset and, therefore, are accounted for as supplemental rent.

Leased Aircraft Return Costs

Our aircraft lease agreements often require us to return aircraft airframes and engines to the lessor in a certain condition or pay an amount to the lessor based on the airframe and engine's actual return condition. Lease return costs are recognized beginning when it is probable that such costs will be incurred and they can be estimated. When costs become both probable and estimable, they are accrued as a component of supplemental rent through the remaining lease term.

When determining the need to accrue lease return costs, there are various factors which need to be considered such as the contractual terms of the lease agreement, current condition of the aircraft, the age of the aircraft at lease expiration, projected number of hours run on the engine at the time of return, and the number of projected cycles run on the airframe at the time of return, among others.

Income Tax Valuation Allowance

We periodically assess whether it is more likely than not that sufficient taxable income will be generated to realize deferred income tax assets, and a valuation allowance is established if it is not likely that deferred income tax assets will be realized. All available positive and negative evidence is evaluated and certain assumptions are applied to make this determination. Projected future taxable income, scheduled reversals of deferred tax liabilities, the general business environment, historical financial results and tax planning strategies are considered. Significant factors that are considered include 1) our recent history of profitability, 2) growth in the U.S. and global economies, 3) forecast of airline revenue trends, and 4) future impact of taxable temporary differences.
At December 31, 2020 our net deferred tax liability balance was $9 million, including $9 million of deferred tax assets related to state net operating losses. Although we are not currently in a three-year cumulative loss position as of December 31, 2020, we may be in a three-year cumulative loss position during the 2021 tax year. We have a recent history of significant earnings prior to the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. We expect to return to profitability as the effects of the pandemic subside and to generate sufficient taxable income to utilize our federal net operating loss carryforwards before any expire. Under current tax law, federal net operating losses generated in 2020 do not expire and most state net operating losses can also be carried forward indefinitely or at a minimum expire after five years.

Therefore, we have not recorded a valuation allowance on our deferred tax assets as we expect they will be fully utilized within the expiration periods. There can be no assurance that an additional valuation allowance on our net deferred tax assets will not be required. Such valuation allowance could be material.

CARES Act Warrants

As a result of the funding received under the Treasury Loan and the PSP Promissory Note, we issued 75,807 of warrants to the US Treasury, which are outstanding as of December 31, 2020. The warrants issued have a five-year term and are settled upon notice from the Treasury in cash, or shares (at our option) if we become publicly traded. The warrants issued in conjunction with the CARES Act financing have been classified as liability-based awards within other current liabilities. Given the liability-based classification, at the end of each reporting period the warrant liability is adjusted to its fair market value, calculated utilizing the Black-Scholes option pricing model, with the corresponding fair market value adjustment classified as interest expense within our consolidated statement of operations. The subsequent fair value measurement of the warrants and the resulting impact to interest expense are largely driven by several key assumptions, namely our determination of the fair value of our common stock, expected share price volatility and the estimated term that the warrants are expected to be outstanding.

The value of our common stock was determined by our board of directors based, in part, on the most recent third-party valuation report obtained by our board of directors as of December 31, 2020. There are significant judgments and estimates inherent in these valuations, which include assumptions regarding our future operating performance, the time to complete an initial public offering or other liquidity event and the determinations of the appropriate valuation methods. Our valuation methods include using market multiples and a discounted cash flow analysis based on plans and estimates used by management to manage the business and included evaluation of comparable publicly-traded companies in the airline industry. Additionally, our determination of the expected volatility of our share price is based primarily on the historical volatility of a group of peer entities within the same industry. The estimated term that our warrants are expected to be outstanding is based on a simplified method, which is the midpoint between the date the warrants were issued, as there are no vesting periods, and the contractual term.

The determination of the fair value of our non-public common stock is based on estimates and forecasts described above that may not reflect actual market results. The determination of our common stock fair value, share price volatility and estimated time the warrants will be outstanding utilize estimates and forecasts that require us to make judgments that are highly complex and subjective. Additionally, these valuations rely on reference to other companies for the determination of certain inputs.

Results of Operations

Our capacity, as measured by ASMs, decreased by 40% during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the corresponding prior year period, due to the COVID-19 pandemic. As a result, our total operating revenue decreased by $1,258 million, or 50%, during the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to the corresponding prior year period, and our total revenue per available seat mile decreased by 17% from 8.92¢ to 7.37¢ over the same period. Fuel expense was 47% lower during the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to the corresponding prior year period, as fuel consumption decreased 44% as a result of lower capacity, and fuel cost per gallon decreased 6% due to reduced fuel rates which were offset by losses from fuel hedging. Although our non-fuel expenses decreased by 18%, our CASM (excluding fuel) increased from 5.55¢ to 7.53¢ from the year ended December 31, 2019 to the year ended December 31, 2020 driven by lower aircraft utilization and the fixed nature of aircraft rent coupled with additional aircraft and related crew costs, noting that as part of our participation in the PSP there were no involuntary furloughs or pay and benefit reductions through September 30, 2020, which cost was partly offset by the benefit from the CARES Act credits from our PSP and employee retention credits, as well as the favorable impact of lease deferrals agreed to with our vendors to manage our liquidity, resulting in $33 million of aircraft and station rent related to 2020 being deferred to 2021. Our Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel), which excludes the impact of the CARES Act credits, increased from 5.44¢ to 8.63¢ from the year ended December 31, 2019 to the year ended December 31, 2020.

We generated a net loss of $225 million during the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to net income of $251 million during the year ended December 31, 2019, as a result of the significant reduction in demand caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. Our results for the year ended December 31, 2019 include certain charges that increased our operating expenses by $32 million and include $22 million of contract ratification costs primarily related to the new collective bargaining agreement ratified with our flight attendants during the year ended December 31, 2019, $5 million in expenses associated with an early out program agreed to in 2019 with our flight attendants, and $5 million in operating expenses associated with the mark to market of our pilot phantom equity obligation, which became fixed as of December 31, 2019 and is no longer subject to valuation adjustments in accordance with the amended and restated phantom equity agreement. Our results for the year ended December 31, 2020 include certain items that reduced our operating expenses by $134 million and include $193 million related to PSP Grant credits and employee retention credits partly offset by $52 million in expenses resulting from the de-designation of certain derivative contracts as a result of the estimated future fuel consumption for gallons subjected to fuel hedges no longer deemed probable due to the decline in demand from the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and the subsequent mark to market adjustments, and $7 million relating to a one-time write-off of deferred registration statement timing costs due to the uncertainty in the capital markets caused by the pandemic. Additionally, our total other expense for the year ended December 31, 2020 was negatively impacted by $9 million of mark to market adjustments due to the warrants issued as part of the CARES Loan and PSP Promissory Note. Excluding these credits and charges, our adjusted net loss was $301 million for the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to adjusted net income of $276 million for the comparable prior year period.

(a) Represents the impact of the change in value of phantom equity units pursuant to the Pilot Phantom Equity Plan. In accordance with the amended and restated phantom equity agreement, the remaining phantom equity obligation became fixed as of December 31, 2019 and is no longer subject to valuation adjustments. See “Executive Compensation—Equity Compensation Plans—Pilot Phantom Equity Plan.”

(b) Represents $15 million of costs related to a one-time contract ratification incentive, plus payroll-related taxes and certain other compensation and benefits-related accruals earned through March 31, 2019 and committed to by us as part of a tentative agreement with the union representing our flight attendants that was reached in March 2019 for a contract that was ratified and became effective in May 2019, in addition to $4 million in pilot vacation accrual adjustments during the fourth quarter of 2019 as a result of the ratified agreement with the union representing our pilots specifically tied to the implementation of a preferred bidding system.

(c) Represents expenses associated with an early out program agreed to in 2019 with our flight attendants, payable throughout 2019, 2020 and 2021.

(d) Represents the recognition of the $178 million grant received from the U.S. government for payroll support from April 2020 through September 2020 as part of the PSP under the CARES Act net of $1 million of deferred financing costs along with $16 million of employee retention credits we qualified for under the CARES Act.

(e) Represents the write-off of our deferred initial public offering preparation costs during the first quarter of 2020 due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting uncertainty on our ability to access the capital markets.

(f) Due to the significant reduction in demand resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic, our future anticipated consumption of fuel dropped significantly and we therefore de-designated hedge accounting in March 2020 on the derivative positions where the future consumption was not deemed probable, which primarily related to our written put options on our costless collars. The $52 million charge is the result of the de-designation and the resulting mark to market impact on the quantities where consumption was not deemed probable.

(g) Represents the mark to market adjustment to the value of the warrants issued as part of the funding provided under the CARES Act. This amount is a component of interest expense.

(h) Adjusted CASM including net interest reflects the sum of Adjusted CASM and Net interest expense (income) excluding special items per ASM. Adjusted CASM including net interest is included as a supplemental disclosure because we believe it is a useful metric to properly compare our cost management and performance to other peers that may have different capital structures and financing strategies particularly as it relates to financing primary operating assets such as aircraft and engines. Additionally, we believe this metric is a useful comparator because it removes certain items that may not be indicative of base operating performance or future results. Adjusted CASM including net interest is not determined in accordance with GAAP, may not be comparable across all carriers and should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for performance measures calculated in accordance with GAAP.

Aircraft Fuel. Aircraft fuel expense decreased by $302 million, or 47%, during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the corresponding prior year period. The decrease was primarily due to the 44% decrease in fuel gallons consumed due to the lower capacity as a result of COVID-19. In addition fuel rates decreased by 6%, offset by $52 million of expenses during the year ended December 31, 2020 resulting from the de-designation of certain derivative contracts as a result of the estimated consumption for gallons subjected to fuel hedges no longer deemed probable due to the decline in demand from the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and the subsequent mark to market adjustments.
Salaries, Wages and Benefits. Salaries, wages and benefits expense increased by $4 million, or 1%, during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the corresponding prior year period driven primarily by the growth in our crew base to support our increased fleet size and the impact of the pilot and flight attendant contracts ratified in 2019, partly offset by employee participation in voluntary leave of absence programs, which primarily were implemented in the fourth quarter of 2020 after the lapse of provisions under the PSP and the impact of $32 million in costs incurred in 2019 which did not repeat in 2020. These included $22 million of contract ratification costs primarily related to the new collective bargaining agreement ratified with our flight attendants during the year ended December 31, 2019, $5 million in expenses associated with an early out program agreed to in 2019 with our flight attendants, and $5 million in non-cash compensation expense related to the increased value of our pilot phantom equity obligation, which became fixed as of December 31, 2019 and is no longer subject to valuation adjustments in accordance with the amended and restated phantom equity agreement. As part of our participation in the PSP under the CARES Act, we agreed to not involuntarily terminate or reduce pay or benefits of our employee base from enactment of the CARES Act through September 30, 2020 and are prohibited from doing so as a result of the PSP2 Agreement reached and effective from January 2021 until March 31, 2021.

Aircraft Rent. Aircraft rent expense increased by $28 million, or 8%, during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the corresponding prior period primarily due to the full year 2020 rent impact of the 18 aircraft delivered throughout 2019, an increase of six aircraft in our fleet from December 31, 2019 to December 31, 2020 and due to higher costs associated with anticipated lease returns, partly offset by the favorable impact of lease deferrals negotiated with our vendors to manage liquidity during the COVID-19 pandemic, resulting in $31 million of aircraft rent related to 2020 being deferred to 2021. Our fleet is comprised of 60 A320neos, 19 A320ceos, 21 A321ceos, and four A319ceos as of December 31, 2020.

Station Operations. Station operations expense decreased by $79 million or 24% during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the corresponding prior year period, due to a 36% decrease in departures as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, partly offset by the fixed nature of certain rent and other station related costs paid under our airport lease arrangements.

Sales and Marketing. Sales and marketing expense decreased by $52 million, or 40%, during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the corresponding prior year period due to lower credit card fees resulting from the 50% reduction in revenue, lower distribution fees due to lower bookings from a reduction in demand resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic and lower distribution fees due to a focus on our internal distribution channels, and lower paid media advertising to manage liquidity during the pandemic. The following table presents our distribution channel mix:

Maintenance Materials and Repairs. Maintenance materials and repair costs decreased $3 million, or 3%, during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the corresponding prior year period, primarily due to lower operating volumes and the grounding of a large portion of our fleet due to the COVID-19 pandemic, partially offset by increases relating to the timing and mix of maintenance events.

Depreciation and Amortization. Depreciation and amortization expense decreased by $13 million, or 28%, during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the corresponding prior year period. The decrease was primarily due to reduced heavy maintenance activity as a result of the decrease of capacity and the replacement of older aircraft in our fleet with new aircraft, which do not require as much heavy maintenance early in their life cycles.
CARES Act Credits. The $193 million of CARES Act Credits relates to both (i) the recognition of the $177 million payroll support grant received from the U.S. government for payroll support for the period from April 2020 through September 30, 2020 as part of the Payroll Support Program under the CARES Act, which is net of $1 million in deferred financing costs associated with the program, and (ii) $16 million in Employee Retention Credits we qualified for under the CARES Act. The PSP and PSP2 funding contains certain conditions that must be met, including, among other things, no involuntary furloughs or pay and benefit reductions to March 31, 2021 and the requirement to recall, effective December 1, 2020, any employees involuntarily terminated or furloughed after September 30, 2020.

Other Operating Expenses. Other operating expenses increased by $26 million, or 41%, during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to the prior year period. The increase was driven primarily by a $59 million decrease in the gains from sale-leaseback transactions as we took fewer deliveries during the year ended December 31, 2020 as compared to the prior year period as a result of our agreement with Airbus to defer four deliveries into 2021. Additionally, other operating expenses increased during the year ended December 31, 2020 due to the $7 million write off of our deferred registration costs partly offset by a $32 million decrease in travel expenses relating to less crew accommodations resulting from the decrease in flight activity due to the COVID-19 pandemic and declines in other operating expenses due to lower capacity in 2020.

Other Income (Expense). Other income decreased by $23 million, from $16 million of income during the year ended December 31, 2019 to a $7 million expense during the year ended December 31, 2020 primarily due to $12 million of lower interest income from a lower average cash balance and lower interest rates due to the COVID-19 pandemic, in addition to $9 million in interest expenses due to the issuance and subsequent mark to market adjustments of warrants issued in conjunction with the CARES Act Grant and Treasury Loan.

Income Taxes. Our effective tax rate reflected a 39.5% income tax benefit during the year ended December 31, 2020, as compared to 22.8% of income tax expense during the corresponding prior year period. The favorability in the effective tax rate was driven by our ability under the CARES Act to carry the current year net operating losses back five years and obtain the benefit of a 14% higher federal rate on the losses generated. The effective tax rate for the year ended December 31, 2020 was also favorably impacted by the current year tax deduction for payments made in March 2020 to substantially settle our pilot phantom equity obligation, as described further in Note 11 to our consolidated financial statements.

Our capacity, as measured by ASMs, increased by 14% during the year ended December 31, 2019, as compared to the prior year, as a result of our continued shift toward larger and more fuel-efficient aircraft in our fleet, with an increase in the average number of aircraft in service from 76 during the year ended December 31, 2018 to 88 during the year ended December 31, 2019. We increased our total revenue by $352 million, or 16%, during the year ended December 31, 2019 as compared to the prior year, with our total revenue per available seat mile increasing from 8.75¢ to 8.92¢. Fuel costs increased by $51 million, or 9%, during the year ended December 31, 2019, as compared to the prior year primarily due to a 10% increase in fuel gallons consumed, which was less than our 14% increase in ASMs, due to the benefit of our newer and more fuel-efficient aircraft. Our CASM (excluding fuel) decreased from 5.99¢ to 5.55¢ and our Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) of 5.44¢ from the year ended December 31, 2019 was in line with the 5.44¢ from the comparable prior year period.

We generated net income of $251 million during the year ended December 31, 2019 as compared to $80 million for the year ended December 31, 2018. Our results for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2019 included $22 million and $5 million, respectively, in non-cash compensation expense related to the increased value of our pilot phantom equity obligation. In addition, during the year ended December 31, 2018, we incurred $88 million of costs related to a one-time contract ratification incentive and payroll-related taxes, plus certain other compensation and benefits-related accruals earned through December 31, 2018 and committed to by us as part of a tentative agreement with ALPA that was reached in December 2018 and was ratified by the pilots in January 2019. We incurred $22 million of contract ratification costs primarily related to the new collective bargaining agreement.
ratified with our flight attendants during the year ended December 31, 2019, and $5 million in expenses associated with an early out program agreed to in 2019 with our flight attendants, payable throughout 2019, 2020 and 2021. In addition, we completed the sale-leaseback of our six owned aircraft in December 2018, which enabled us to accelerate the elimination of the A319ceo aircraft in our fleet to ultimately replace them with larger, more efficient A320neo family aircraft, resulting in a loss of $25 million for the year ended December 31, 2018. Our adjusted net income was $183 million and $276 million for the year ended December 31, 2018 and 2019, respectively.

Total revenue per available seat mile increased 2% as a result of revenue growth slightly exceeding capacity growth. Our fare passenger revenues increased by 11% and our non-fare passenger revenues increased by 22% during the period.

See “Executive Compensation—Equity Compensation Plans—Pilot Phantom Equity Plan.”

(b) Represents costs related to a one-time contract ratification incentive plus payroll-related taxes and certain other compensation and benefits-related accruals committed to by us as part of (i) a tentative agreement with the union representing our pilots that was reached in December 2018 and was ratified by the pilots in January 2019 and (ii) a tentative agreement with the union representing our flight attendants that was reached in March 2019 and ratified in May 2019.

(c) Represents amounts expected to be paid under the terms of an early out program with our flight attendants meeting certain employment status and seniority requirements, payable throughout 2019, 2020 and 2021.

(d) Represents losses incurred on the sale of our six owned aircraft in December 2018, which enabled us to accelerate a critical part of our fleet plan by shortening our time with certain of our older less fuel-efficient aircraft. The loss was measured as the excess of the net book value of the aircraft over the sale price at the date of sale and was recognized within other operating expenses on the consolidated statements of operations. All aircraft were held for use through the date of sale. See “Business—Fleet Plan.”
Table of Contents

Aircraft Fuel. Aircraft fuel expense increased by $51 million, or 9%, during the year ended December 31, 2019, as compared to the prior year. The increase was driven by the 14% increase in capacity partly offset by a slightly lower fuel cost per gallon and the continued shift to larger and more fuel-efficient aircraft.

Salaries, Wages and Benefits. Salaries, wages and benefits expense increased by $88 million, or 20%, during the year ended December 31, 2019, as compared to the prior year. The increase was driven by higher crew levels to support the capacity growth plus the higher pay rates from our new collective bargaining agreements with our pilots and flight attendants ratified in January 2019 and May 2019, respectively, partly offset by the $88 million of costs accrued in 2018 relating to a one-time contract ratification incentive plus payroll related taxes and certain other compensation and benefits-related accruals committed to by us as part of a tentative agreement with the union representing our pilots that was reached in December 2018 and was ratified by the pilots in January 2019.

Aircraft Rent. Aircraft rent expense increased by $91 million, or 33%, during the year ended December 31, 2019, as compared to the prior year, primarily as a result of the net addition of 14 new, larger aircraft during 2019. We had 98 aircraft as of December 31, 2019, comprised of 51 A320neos, 20 A320ceos, 21 A321ceos, and six A319ceos, as compared to 84 aircraft as of December 31, 2018 comprised of 21 A320ceos, 21 A321ceos, nine A319ceos, and 33 A320neos. Aircraft rent expense also increased during 2019 due to the adoption of ASU 2016-02 on January 1, 2019. As a result of the adoption of the new standard, gains from sale-leaseback transactions are now recognized in full immediately upon sale as a reduction to other operating expense within the consolidated statements of operations, and are therefore no longer amortized over the life of the lease. Aircraft rent expense in 2018 includes $18 million of amortization of gains on sale leaseback transactions.

Station Operations. Station operations expense increased by $13 million, or 4%, during the year ended December 31, 2019, as compared to the prior year, due to the addition of new stations and a 13% increase in departures, partly offset by lower interrupted trip expenses subsequent to the ratification of our pilot contract in January 2019. As a result, station operations expense per ASM decreased by 9% during the year ended December 31, 2019, as compared to the prior year.

Sales and Marketing. Sales and marketing expense increased by $20 million, or 18%, and increased 2% on a per ASM basis during the year ended December 31, 2019, as compared to the prior year, with a continued focus on our internal distribution channels. The following table presents our distribution channel mix:

Maintenance Materials and Repairs. Maintenance materials and repair costs increased by $11 million, or 15%, during the year ended December 31, 2019, as compared to the prior year. The increase in maintenance, materials, and repairs was primarily driven by an increase in maintenance labor related to the growing fleet. These costs remained relatively consistent on a per ASM basis.

Depreciation and Amortization. Depreciation and amortization expense decreased by $32 million, or 41%, during the year ended December 31, 2019, as compared to the prior year primarily due to reduced heavy maintenance activity related to aircraft returns with our lessors and the sale of our six owned aircraft in the fourth quarter of 2018.

Other Operating Expenses. Other operating expenses decreased by $107 million, or 63%, driven by the adoption of ASU 2016-02 on January 1, 2019. Under ASU 2016-02, gains from sale-leaseback transactions are now recognized in full immediately upon sale. In the year ended December 31, 2019, the gain on sale-leaseback transactions totaled $107 million. We also had a $25 million loss on the sale of our six owned aircraft in 2018. These factors were partially offset by the impact of increased capacity in our business as compared to the prior year.
Other Income (Expense). The $3 million increase in other income was driven by higher interest rates as compared to the prior year period.

Income Taxes. During the year ended December 31, 2019, our effective tax rate was 22.8% as compared to 23.7% during the year ended December 31, 2018. Our effective tax rate will vary depending on the amount of income we earn in each state and the state tax rate applicable to such income.

Liquidity, Capital Resources and Financial Position

As of December 31, 2020, we had $963 million of total available liquidity, including $378 million of cash and cash equivalents, $424 million available to borrow under the Treasury Loan facility, and a $161 million income tax receivable, primarily resulting from our net operating losses generated in 2020 and expected to be collected in 2021. As of December 31, 2020, we had $101 million of short-term debt and $247 million of long-term debt. The $348 million of total debt is comprised of our $150 million Treasury Loan, $141 million PDP Financing Facility, $33 million PSP Promissory Note, $18 million in secured indebtedness for our headquarters building, and a $15 million pre-purchased miles facility with Barclays, partly offset by $9 million in deferred debt acquisition costs and other discounts. Our primary uses of liquidity are for working capital, capital expenditures, aircraft pre-delivery payments, maintenance reserve deposits and debt repayments. During the year ended December 31, 2020, our cash burn was approximately $2 million per day on average. We continue to monitor the impacts of the pandemic on our operations and financial condition and believe it is probable that the plans intended to mitigate these conditions and events will alleviate liquidity risks presented.

Subsequent to December 31, 2020, we entered into the PSP2 Agreement, which provided us with at least an incremental $140 million in liquidity. We received the first installment in the amount of $70 million on January 15, 2021.

Our single largest capital commitment relates to the acquisition of aircraft. As of December 31, 2020, we operated all of our 104 aircraft under operating leases. Pre-delivery payments relating to future deliveries under our agreement with Airbus are required at various times prior to each aircraft’s delivery date. As of December 31, 2020, we had $224 million of pre-delivery payments held by Airbus, $141 million of which was outstanding under our PDP Financing Facility, which as of December 31, 2020 allowed us to draw up to an aggregate of $150 million. The PDP Financing Facility also provides us flexibility to potentially obtain commitments from other lenders in an amount not to exceed $200 million. No commitments have been secured from other lenders as of December 31, 2020. As of December 31, 2020, we had an obligation to purchase 156 A320neo family aircraft by 2028, one of which had a committed operating lease. We are evaluating financing options for the remaining aircraft.

We are required by some of our aircraft lessors to fund cash reserves in advance for required scheduled maintenance; these payments act as collateral for lessors to ensure aircraft are returned in the agreed upon condition at the end of the lease period. Qualifying payments that are expected to be recovered from lessors are recorded as aircraft maintenance deposits in our consolidated balance sheets. A portion of our cash is, therefore, unavailable until after we have completed the scheduled maintenance in accordance with the terms of the operating leases. During the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, we made $28 million, $18 million and $15 million, respectively, in maintenance deposit payments to our lessors. As of December 31, 2020, we had $82 million in recoverable aircraft maintenance deposits on our consolidated balance sheets, of which less than $1 million was included in accounts receivable because the eligible maintenance had been performed.

In December 2013, an agreement was reached to amend and restate a phantom equity agreement that was previously in place prior to the acquisition. Under the terms of this agreement, pilots received phantom equity units which became fully vested in 2016. Each unit constituted the right to receive the cash value of a share of our common stock or, in certain circumstances, a share of common stock in connection with certain events. As of December 31, 2019, the final associated liability agreed to by FAPAInvest, LLC and us was $137 million, with $111 million included in other current liabilities and $26 million included within other long-term liabilities. In accordance with the amended and restated phantom equity agreement, the obligation became fixed as of December 31, 2019 and is no longer subject to valuation adjustments. In March 2020, we paid $111 million, included in other current liabilities as of December 31, 2019, to the Participating Pilots. As of December 31, 2020, the remaining FAPAInvest LLC liability of $26 million, which is payable in 2022, was included within other long-term liabilities.

In March 2016 and July 2015, our collective bargaining agreements with our pilots, represented by ALPA, and our flight attendants, represented by AFA, respectively, became amendable. In December 2018, we and the pilots, represented by ALPA, reached a tentative agreement, which was approved by the pilots and became effective in January 2019. The agreement has a term of five years and includes a significant increase in the annual compensation for the pilots as well as a one-time ratification incentive payment to our pilots of $75 million plus payroll-related taxes. The one-time ratification incentive and related taxes were recognized as an expense in the fourth quarter of 2018 as the obligation committed to as part of the tentative agreement was probable as of December 31, 2018 and was substantially paid during the first quarter of 2019.

In March 2019, we and the flight attendants, represented by AFA, reached a tentative collective bargaining agreement, which became effective in the second quarter of 2019. The agreement has a term of five years and includes a significant increase in the annual compensation of our flight attendants, as well as a one-time ratification incentive payment to our flight attendants of $15 million, plus applicable payroll taxes. Substantially all of the one-time contract ratification incentive and payroll related taxes was paid in May 2019.

During September 2020, and in anticipation of the lapse of the provisions set forth in the PSP under the CARES Act, we reached an agreement with our pilot and flight attendant labor unions that provides for voluntary paid leave of absence programs. Under the arrangements, the participating pilots and flight attendants will be granted paid leave of absence periods of either one, three or six month time frames. In exchange for accepting a voluntary leave of absence, the pilots and flight attendants will receive minimum monthly pay and continue to accrue certain benefits with no requirement to work. We can require pilots and flight attendants to return to service and forego any remaining leave of absence if demand increases. These temporary programs will help to defray our employee costs during the downturn caused by the pandemic, but also allow us to scale operations back up quickly as demand returns. As employees covered under such paid voluntary programs are still considered active employees, the costs of such programs are recognized as period expenses.

As a result of the PSP2 Agreement, the Company altered its voluntary leave of absence programs with pilots and flight attendants, which are offered in increments of one or three-month time frames through March 31, 2021. While the Company continues to offer these programs to help defray costs as a result of the downturn caused by the pandemic, the Company increased the minimum pay provided while maintaining no requirement to work.

We continue to monitor our covenant compliance with various parties, including, but not limited to, our lenders and credit card processors, as any noncompliance could have a material impact on our financial position, cash flows and results of operations. As of December 31, 2020, we are in compliance with all of our covenants, except we have obtained a waiver of relief for the covenant provisions through the first quarter of 2021 related to one of our credit card processors that represents less than 10% of total revenues, which may require future waivers or an amendment to existing covenants to reflect the downturn due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Additionally, during the fourth quarter of 2020, we amended our pre-delivery credit facility to provide for a deferral of the FCCR Test until the first quarter of 2022. If the FCCR test is not maintained, we are required to test the loan to collateral ratio for the underlying aircraft in the credit facility that are subject to financing (the “LTV Test”) and make any pre-payments or post additional collateral required in order to reduce the loan to value on each aircraft in the credit facility that are subject to financing below a ratio threshold. The LTV Test is largely dependent on the appraised fair value of the underlying aircraft subject to financing. If the LTV Test was required to be performed, we do not expect that there would be any material required pre-payment of the pre-delivery credit facility or posting of additional collateral. We expect to obtain an amendment or waiver, refinance the indebtedness subject to covenants or take other mitigating actions prior to any potential breaches that are not expected to have a material impact to our liquidity and financial position.

As a result of the measures to reduce costs and manage liquidity as outlined above, we believe our financial position and available liquidity as of the date of the financial statements will allow us to continue to navigate through any short-term demand declines and that we are well positioned to recover if and when the demand for air travel increases. During the year ended December 31, 2020, our cash burn was approximately $2 million per day on average. We continue to monitor the impacts of the pandemic on our operations and financial condition and believe it is probable that the plans intended to mitigate these conditions and events will alleviate liquidity risks presented.

Operating Activities

During the year ended December 31, 2020, net cash used in operating activities totaled $557 million, which was primarily driven by the detrimental impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on our operations and the resulting $225 million net loss. Our net loss of $225 million includes $82 million in cash outflows related to fuel hedges and the following significant non-cash items: $48 million of gains recognized on sale-leaseback transactions, deferred tax benefit of $14 million, depreciation and amortization of $33 million, stock-based compensation expense of $8 million and an unrealized loss of $9 million on the mark to market of our warrant liability primarily associated with the Treasury Loan. We also had net cash outflows for aircraft interest rate swaptions of $4 million and cash inflows from operating leases of $17 million from the return of previously unrecoverable maintenance reserves for two aircraft. In addition, we had net outflows within other net operating assets and liabilities of $333 million, which was largely driven by $161 million of current income tax receivables due primarily to the current period operating losses, $111 million phantom equity payment to our pilots in March 2020 and an $114 million decrease in our air traffic liability resulting from the impact of COVID-19 on demand, the total of which was partly offset by decreases in accounts receivable.

During 2019, net cash provided by operating activities totaled $171 million. We generated net income of $251 million, which included the following significant non-cash items: a deferred tax expense of $52 million, depreciation and amortization of $46 million and stock-based compensation expense of $8 million. During the period, we also had $107 million in gains recognized on sale-leaseback transactions and $1 million of net cash outflows related to hedging. In addition, during the period we had net outflows of $78 million within other net operating assets and liabilities, which was largely driven by the timing of payments, the most significant of which related to the $88 million of costs related to a one-time contract ratification incentive payment and payroll-related taxes and other compensation and benefits-related accruals committed to by us as part of a tentative agreement with ALPA that was reached in December 2018 and approved by the pilots in January 2019, substantially all of which was paid during the first quarter of 2019.

During 2018, net cash provided by operating activities totaled $189 million. We had net income of $80 million, which included the following significant non-cash items: depreciation and amortization of $78 million, stock-based compensation expense of $26 million, a loss on the sale of our six owned aircraft of $25 million, a deferred tax benefit of $72 million and amortization of deferred gains on sale-leaseback transaction of $18 million. During the period, we had cash outflows from fuel hedging primarily related to premiums paid for new call options for our fuel hedging program, which were offset by proceeds from the settlement of hedges during 2018. In addition, during the period we had net inflows of $70 million within other net operating assets and liabilities, which was largely driven by the timing of payments, most significant of which was the accrual of approximately $88 million of costs related to the one-time contract ratification incentive payment and payroll-related taxes and other compensation and benefits-related accruals committed to by us as part of a tentative agreement with ALPA that was reached in December 2018 and approved by the pilots in January 2019, substantially all of which was paid during the first quarter of 2019. This increase, along with the $15 million increase in our air traffic liability due to our continued growth, was partly offset by heavy maintenance events during the year and the timing of payments.

Investing Activities

During the year ended December 31, 2020, net cash provided by investing activities totaled $11 million, driven by net refunds for pre-delivery deposit activity of $28 million. Additionally, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, we minimized our investments in property and equipment and reduced capital expenditures to $16 million, along with other investing activity of $1 million.

During 2019, net cash used in investing activities totaled $62 million. During the period, we made $45 million of investments in property and equipment, and made $17 million of net pre-delivery payments for future aircraft deliveries.

During 2018, net cash used in investing activities totaled $59 million. During the period, we made net pre-delivery payments of $35 million for future aircraft deliveries and approximately $24 million of investments in property and equipment.

Financing Activities

During the year ended December 31, 2020, net cash provided by financing activities was $156 million, primarily driven by $110 million in proceeds from the issuance of long-term debt, net of principal repayments and $47 million in net proceeds received from sale-leaseback transactions related to A320 family aircraft delivered during 2020. The proceeds from the issuance of long-term debt primarily related to the $150 million drawn under the Treasury Loan, $33 million issued under the PSP Promissory Note, partly offset by $38 million paydown of our pre-paid miles facility with Barclays as a condition precedent to closing on the Treasury Loan facility and $35 million in repayments of the PDP Financing Facility for aircraft delivered in 2020.

During 2019, net cash used in financing activities was $39 million. We made distributions of $159 million to common stockholders and others with participating rights. These outflows were partially offset primarily by $92 million in net proceeds received from sale-leaseback transactions related to A320 family aircraft delivered during 2019 and $31 million in net proceeds received from the issuance of long-term debt net of principal repayments.
During 2018, net cash used in financing activities was $149 million. We made distributions of $211 million to common stockholders and others with participating rights. We also made $186 million in principal repayments on long-term debt primarily related to (i) our PDP Financing Facility, and (ii) our floating- and fixed-rate equipment notes related to the six owned aircraft that were sold during the year. We also repaid a $50 million note payable during the period. These outflows were partially offset by $152 million in net proceeds received from sale-leaseback transactions related to A320 family aircraft delivered during 2018 and the sale and lease-back of the six owned aircraft during December 2018 and $146 million in proceeds received from the issuance of long-term debt.

Commitments and Contractual Obligations

Our contractual purchase commitments as of December 31, 2020 include future aircraft and engine acquisitions. Except to the extent set forth in the applicable accompanying footnotes, the table does not include commitments that are contingent on events or other factors that are uncertain or unknown at this time. Due to uncertainty surrounding the timing of delivery of certain aircraft, the amounts in this and the following tables represent our current best estimate; however, the actual delivery schedule may differ from the tables below, potentially materially.

During December 2017, we entered into an amendment to our previously existing master purchase agreement with Airbus. Pursuant to the amendment, we have a commitment to purchase an incremental 100 A320neo and 34 A321neo aircraft which were scheduled to be delivered through 2026. During July 2019, we entered into an amendment to the previously existing master purchase agreement that included the conversion of 15 A320neo aircraft to A321neo aircraft and in December 2020, we entered into an amendment to convert an additional 18 A320neo aircraft to A321neo aircraft, which both also updated the timing of original scheduled delivery dates as reflected in the table above. Additionally, we entered into subsequent amendments that allow us to convert 18 A320neo aircraft to A321XLR aircraft and, therefore, the conversion is not reflected in the table above. The existing and incremental purchase commitments were amended during the fourth quarter of 2020 and are reflected in the table above, with deliveries to occur through 2028.

During April 2020, we entered into an agreement with Pratt & Whitney for a purchase commitment to supply all engines and the related maintenance services for the incremental order book. These deliveries will begin in 2022 and are expected to occur through 2027. In addition, Pratt & Whitney will supply a certain number of spare engines from 2022 through 2029. These commitments are reflected within the table above and in the future commitments below.

(1) Includes principal only associated with our PDP Financing Facility due through 2022, our floating rate building note through 2023, the Treasury Loan through 2025, our affinity card unsecured debt due through 2029, the PSP Promissory Note through 2030. See Note 9 to our consolidated financial statements.

(2) Represents interest on long-term debt.

(3) Represents fixed maintenance reserve payments for aircraft and spare engines, including estimated amounts for contractual price escalations.

As of December 31, 2020, all 104 aircraft in our fleet were subject to operating leases. These leases expire between 2021 and the end of 2032. Leases for eight of our aircraft could generally be renewed at rates based on fair market value at the end of a lease term for a four-year extension. Prior to our adoption of ASU 2016-02 on January 1, 2019, aircraft leases were classified as operating leases and therefore the obligations associated with those leases were not reflected in our consolidated balance sheets. As of January 1, 2019, all lease liabilities with corresponding right-of-use assets for operating leases have been recognized in the consolidated balance sheets.

Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements

We have significant obligations for aircraft that are classified as operating leases, which are not reflected in our consolidated balance sheets for periods prior to our adoption of ASU 2016-02 on January 1, 2019. Aircraft rent expense related to operating leases was $277 million for the year ended December 31, 2018 including supplemental rent expense of $5 million for maintenance related reserves as required by our lessors that were deemed non-recoverable and $15 million related to probable lease return condition obligations. As of December 31, 2020, in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Company was granted $33 million in rent payment deferrals which are not included within aircraft rent expense for the year ended December 31, 2020. These payment deferrals will be recognized in 2021 as aircraft and station rent expense as such amounts are paid.

We have various leases with respect to real property as well as various agreements among airlines relating to fuel consortia or fuel farms at airports. Under some of these contracts, we are party to joint and several liability regarding damages. Under others, where we are a member of an LLC or other entity that contracts directly with the airport operator, liabilities are borne through the fuel consortia structure.

Our aircraft, services, equipment lease and sale and financing agreements typically contain provisions requiring us, as the lessee, obligor or recipient of services, to indemnify the other parties to those agreements, including certain of those parties’ related persons, against virtually any liabilities that might arise from the use or operation of the aircraft or such other equipment. We believe that our insurance would cover most of our exposure to liabilities and related indemnities associated with the commercial real estate leases and aircraft, services, equipment lease and sale and financing agreements described above.

Certain of our aircraft and other financing transactions include provisions that require us to make payments to preserve an expected economic return to the lenders if that economic return is diminished due to certain changes in law or regulations. In certain of these financing transactions and other agreements, we also bear the risk of certain changes in tax laws that would subject payments to non-U.S. entities to withholding taxes.
Certain of these indemnities survive the length of the related financing or lease. We cannot reasonably estimate our potential future payments under the indemnities and related provisions described above because we cannot predict when and under what circumstances these provisions may be triggered and the amount that would be payable if the provisions were triggered because the amounts would be based on facts and circumstances existing at such time.

We have also made certain guarantees and indemnities to other unrelated parties that are not reflected on our consolidated balance sheets which we believe will not have a significant impact on our results of operations, financial condition or cash flows.

We have no other off-balance sheet arrangements.

Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosure About Market Risk

We are subject to market risks in the ordinary course of our business. These risks include commodity price risk, specifically with respect to aircraft fuel, as well as interest and foreign exchange rate risk. The adverse effects of changes in these markets could pose a potential loss as discussed below. The sensitivity analysis provided does not consider the effects that such adverse changes may have on overall economic activity, nor does it consider additional actions we may take to mitigate our exposure to such changes. Actual results may differ.

Aircraft Fuel. Our results of operations can vary materially due to changes in the price and availability of aircraft fuel and are also impacted by the number of aircraft in use and the number of flights we operate. Aircraft fuel represented approximately 29% of total operating expenses for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2019 and 21% for the year ended December 31, 2020. Unexpected changes in the pricing of aircraft fuel or a shortage or disruption in the supply could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. Our strategy has been primarily to purchase out-of-the-money call options which are intended to provide protection against a large upward movement in fuel prices, while also allowing us to participate in any material fall in fuel prices. While this has been our strategy, we entered into collars during 2019 that resulted in significant payment in 2020 when the price of fuel went below the put. The fair value of our fuel derivative contracts as of December 31, 2018 and 2019 was a net asset of $7 million and $5 million, respectively. As of December 31, 2020, we had no fuel cash flow hedges for future fuel consumption. We had no collateral posted against fuel-related derivatives as of December 31, 2018, 2019, or 2020.

We measure our fuel derivative instruments at fair value, which is determined using standard option valuation models that use observable market inputs including contractual terms, market prices, yield curves, fuel price curves and measures of volatility. Changes in the related commodity derivative instrument cash flows may change by more or less than the fair value based on further fluctuations in futures prices. Outstanding financial derivative instruments expose us to credit loss in the event of non-performance by the counterparties to the agreements. As of December 31, 2020, no assets and liabilities were associated with a fuel and interest rate derivative instruments.

Interest Rates. We are subject to market risk associated with changing interest rates, due to LIBOR-based interest rates on our PDP credit facility, floating rate building note, PSP Promissory Note, Treasury Loan and our affinity card advance purchase of mileage credits. With respect to the PDP credit facility, we are exposed to interest rate risk through aircraft lease contracts for the time period between agreement of terms and commencement of the lease, where portions of the rental payments are adjusted and become fixed based on the seven or nine year swap rate. As part of our risk management program, we enter into contracts in order to limit the exposure to fluctuations in interest rates. During the year ended December 31, 2019 and 2020, the Company paid upfront premiums of $10 million and $4 million, respectively, for the option to enter into and exercise cash settled swaps with a forward starting effective date. As of December 31, 2020, the Company has hedged $440 million in aircraft rent payments for 11 aircraft to be delivered by the end of the next year.
Foreign Exchange. We have de minimis foreign currency risks related to our station operating expenses denominated in currencies other than the U.S. dollar, primarily the Mexican peso, Dominican Republic peso and Canadian dollar. Our revenue is U.S. dollar denominated.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

In June 2018, the FASB issued ASU 2018-07, Compensation—Stock Compensation (Topic 718): Improvements to Nonemployee Share-Based Payment Accounting (“ASU 2018-07”). ASU 2018-07 expands the scope of Topic 718 to include share-based payment transactions for acquiring goods and services from nonemployees. ASU 2018-07 also clarifies that Topic 718 does not apply to share-based payments used to effectively provide (1) financing to the issuer or (2) awards granted in conjunction with selling goods or services to customers as part of a contract accounted for under Revenue from Contracts with Customers (Topic 606). ASU 2018-07 is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2018, including interim periods within those fiscal years. We adopted the new standard as of January 1, 2019. The adoption of ASU 2018-07 did not have a material impact on our consolidated financial statements during the year ended December 31, 2019 or the year ended December 31, 2020.

In February 2016, the FASB issued ASU 2016-02, Leases (“ASU 2016-02”). This ASU and subsequently issued amendments requiring most leases with durations greater than 12 months to be recognized on the balance sheet. The standard is effective for interim and annual reporting periods beginning after December 15, 2018. We adopted the new standard as of January 1, 2019. See Note 10 to our consolidated financial statements for more information.

In June 2016, the FASB issued ASU 2016-13, Measurement of Credit Losses on Financial Instruments, (“ASU 2016-13”). ASU 2016-13 replaces the incurred loss impairment methodology with an “expected loss” model which requires consideration of a broader range of reasonable and supportable information to inform credit loss estimates. The new guidance is effective for annual periods beginning after December 15, 2019 and interim reporting periods within those reporting periods. We adopted the new standard as of January 1, 2020, which did not have a material impact on our results of operations or financial position as of the adoption date.

(1) Only includes the identified carriers listed above and based on total domestic passengers for the year ended December 31, 2019 according to DOT data, inclusive of mainline and regional operations.

Within these three market share-based categories, these carriers may be further segmented by operating strategy into legacy network airlines, LCCs and ULCCs. As a result of a series of merger transactions, there are presently three very large legacy network carriers in the United States, American Airlines, Delta Air Lines and United Airlines, which together with Southwest Airlines, which classifies itself as an LCC, are commonly referred to as the “Big Four” carriers. There are presently two additional legacy network carriers in the United States, Alaska Airlines and Hawaiian Airlines, which together with JetBlue Airways, which classifies itself as an LCC, are commonly referred to as the “Middle Three” carriers. Finally, there are presently three ULCCs in the United States, Frontier, Allegiant and Spirit.

The largest three legacy airlines offer scheduled flights to most large cities within the United States and abroad (directly or through membership in one of the global airline alliances: oneworld, SkyTeam or Star Alliance) and also serve numerous smaller cities. These airlines operate predominantly through a “hub-and-spoke” network route system. This system concentrates most of an airline’s operations in a limited number of hub cities, serving other destinations in the system by providing one-stop or connecting service through hub airports to end destinations on the spokes. Such an arrangement permits travelers to fly from a given point of origin to more destinations without switching airlines. While hub-and-spoke systems result in low marginal costs for each additional passenger, they also result in high fixed costs. The unit costs incurred by legacy network carriers to provide the gates, airport ground operations and maintenance facilities needed to support a hub-and-spoke operation are generally higher than those of the point-to-point network typically operated by low-cost carriers and ultra low-cost carriers. Aircraft schedules at legacy network carriers also tend to be inefficient to meet the requirements of connecting banks of flights in hubs, resulting in lower aircraft utilization and crew productivity. Serving a large number of markets of different sizes requires the legacy carriers to have multiple aircraft types along with the related complexities and additional costs for crew scheduling, crew training and maintenance. As a result, legacy network carriers typically have higher cost structures than other airlines due to, among other things, higher labor costs, flight crew and aircraft scheduling inefficiencies, concentration of operations in higher cost airports, and the offering of multiple classes of service, including multiple premium classes of service.

The legacy network carriers supplement their networks by entering into marketing, codeshare and/or joint venture arrangements with other airlines and/or by contracting with regional airlines, such as Air Wisconsin Airlines, Envoy Air (formerly American Eagle), Horizon Air, Mesa Airlines, Republic Airways and SkyWest Airlines. Several regional airlines are wholly-owned subsidiaries of legacy network carriers. Regional airlines generally enter into capacity purchase agreements with one or more major airlines under which the regional airline agrees to use its smaller aircraft to carry passengers booked and ticketed by the major airline between a city served by a major airline and a smaller outlying location. In exchange for such services, the regional airline’s capacity purchase agreement with the legacy network carrier typically provides an agreed upon margin on the regional airline’s fixed operating costs and passes through variable costs, such as fuel, to the major airline scheduling and selling the seats on the flight. Less commonly, regional airlines receive a pro rata portion of the total fare generated in a given market. While the use of a regional carrier provides a legacy network carrier with the ability to outsource labor at lower rates and access smaller aircraft on less traveled routes, such operations tend to operate with higher unit costs than the mainline operations of the legacy network airlines.

In addition to American Airlines, Delta Air Lines and United Airlines, Alaska Airlines and Hawaiian Airlines, while smaller, have a similar product offering to the legacy network carriers and primarily serve particular regions of the United States with a service offering that includes network hubs and multiple classes of service. On December 14, 2016, Alaska Airlines acquired Virgin America making it the fifth largest airline in the United States in terms of total domestic revenue passenger miles (RPMs).

LCCs largely developed in the wake of deregulation of the U.S. airline industry in 1978, which permitted competition on many routes for the first time and thereby introduced fare competition on those routes. LCCs generally have lower cost structures than legacy network carriers, which permits them to offer flights to and from many of the same markets as the legacy network carriers, but at lower prices. As initially conceived, LCCs flew direct, point-to-point flights, a system that tends to improve aircraft and crew scheduling efficiency, but results in somewhat less convenient flight schedules and services to fewer markets compared to the hub-and-spoke system used by legacy network carriers. In addition, LCCs historically served major markets through secondary, lower cost airports in the same region as those major population markets, provided only a single class of service, thereby avoiding the significant incremental cost of offering premium-class services, and operated fleets with only one or at most two aircraft families in order to maximize the utilization of flight crews across the fleet, improve aircraft scheduling flexibility and minimize aircraft maintenance costs. As the LCC model has developed in the United States, carriers in this category have begun to exhibit some of the characteristics of the legacy network airlines such as, depending on the carrier, a premium class of service, schedules that accommodate connecting traffic and service to high-cost airports in major markets, including slot-controlled airports. The largest airlines based in the United States that define themselves as LCCs are Southwest Airlines and JetBlue Airways.

The emerging category of airlines operating in the United States are carriers that have developed a business model as a ULCC. This operating strategy was pioneered by Ryanair in Europe and was built on the model initially adopted by the LCCs, but combined with a focus on increased aircraft utilization, increased seat density and the unbundling of revenue sources aside from ticket prices with multiple products and services offered for additional cost. ULCCs have significantly lower unit costs than the legacy network carriers and the LCCs. In addition, ULCCs are capable of driving significant increases in passenger volumes as a result of their low fares. The airlines executing ULCC operating strategies in the United States are Allegiant and Spirit, in addition to ourselves. There are also parties who have announced their intention to start-up new ULCC airlines. For the year ended December 31, 2020, Allegiant had revenue of $1.0 billion and Spirit had revenue of $1.8 billion, compared to our revenue of $1.3 billion. Allegiant, Spirit and ourselves ended 2020 with fleets of 95, 157 and 104 aircraft, respectively. Our operating strategy is differentiated from both Allegiant and Spirit, as we incorporate a unique combination of ULCC business attributes. For example, similar to Spirit and unlike Allegiant, we operate a high-utilization model. Similar to Allegiant and unlike Spirit, we operate many routes on a less-than-daily basis and have a significant route network presence outside of large metropolitan airports.
According to the DOT, there were approximately 590 million domestic passenger journeys in the United States during the year ended December 31, 2019, and the five-year (year ended December 31, 2014 to December 31, 2019) compound annual growth rate for domestic passenger journeys was approximately 5.5%.

The ULCC operating strategy is more mature in Europe than it is in the United States. For example, at the time that Spirit adopted a ULCC model in 2007, three European ULCCs, EasyJet, Ryanair and Wizz Air, already had more than 4.5 times the number of aircraft in operation as domestic competitors Allegiant and Spirit. The size of the European ULCCs’ operations is evidence of the substantial increases in passenger volumes they have been able to drive since their adoption of ULCC operating models, which first started in the mid-1990s. Over the 15-year period from the end of 2004 to 2019, according to World Bank and public filings of other carriers, total passenger volume in Europe had a compound annual growth rate of approximately 4.8%, of which approximately 76% was attributable to ULCC growth and market stimulation. During the same 15-year period, Europe’s three largest consolidated airline groups (International Consolidated Airlines Group (“IAG”), Lufthansa Group and Air France-KLM) and the three European ULCCs grew passengers at a compound annual growth rate of approximately 4.7% and 12.4% respectively. Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, over the last ten years, this passenger growth has coincided with a period of stability and expanding profitability margins for both the consolidated groups and the ULCCs. According to historic schedule data, the three European ULCCs grew their intra-Europe, excluding Turkey and Russia, market share as measured by seat capacity from approximately 15% in the year ended December 31, 2007 to 24% in the year ended December 31, 2014 and to 30% in the year ended December 31, 2019. In the United States, at the time of Spirit’s conversion to the ULCC model in 2007, ULCCs held an approximately 1% domestic United States market share as measured by seat capacity for the year ended December 31, 2007, which, including the conversion of Frontier to the ULCC model in 2014, grew to approximately 4% for the year ended December 31, 2014 and to approximately 8% for the year ended December 31, 2019, which remains significantly below the level of European ULCCs. In addition, according to each airline’s most recent fiscal year public filings, European ULCCs, including Ryanair, EasyJet and Wizz Air, had 938 aircraft in operation in 2020, and have had a 9.2% compound annual growth rate in the number of aircraft since 2007. By comparison, U.S. ULCCs had 356 aircraft in 2020 and have had a compound annual growth rate in the number of aircraft of 7.9% since 2007 on a fleet that is less than 40% the size of the European ULCC fleet.
Overview

Frontier Airlines is an ultra low-cost carrier whose business strategy is focused on Low Fares Done Right®. We offer flights throughout the United States and to select near international destinations in the Americas. Our unique strategy is underpinned by our low-cost structure and superior low-fare brand. As of December 31, 2020, we had a fleet of 104 narrow-body Airbus A320 family aircraft, and a commitment to purchase 156 A320neo (New Engine Option) family aircraft by the end of 2028. During the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2020, we served approximately 23 million and 11 million passengers, respectively, across a network of approximately 110 airports.

In December 2013, we were acquired by an investment fund managed by Indigo, an affiliate of Indigo Partners, an experienced and successful global investor in ULCCs. Following the acquisition, Indigo reshaped our management team to include experienced veterans of the airline industry with a significant history operating ULCCs. Working with Indigo and supported by a highly productive workforce, our management team developed and implemented our unique Low Fares Done Right strategy, which significantly reduced our unit costs, introduced low fares, provided the choice of optional services to our customers, enhanced our operational performance and improved the customer experience. Through the implementation of our new operating model, we have positioned our brand as a leading low-fare airline and had seen a dramatic improvement to our profitability prior to COVID-19.

The implementation of Low Fares Done Right has significantly reduced our cost base by increasing aircraft utilization (prior to the COVID-19 pandemic), transitioning our fleet to larger aircraft, maximizing seat density, renegotiating the majority of our distribution agreements, realigning our network, replacing our reservation system, enhancing our website, boosting employee productivity and contracting with third-party specialists to provide us with select operating and other services. As a result of these and other initiatives, we were able to reduce our CASM (excluding fuel) from 7.89¢ for the year ended December 31, 2013 to 5.55¢ for the year ended December 31, 2019, and our Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) from 7.89¢ for the year ended December 31, 2013 to 5.44¢ for the year ended December 31, 2019, an improvement of 30% and 31%, respectively. For the year ended December 31, 2020, our CASM (excluding fuel) was 7.53¢ and our Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) was 8.63 ¢, which was principally a result of a reduced aircraft utilization as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. For a discussion and reconciliation of CASM to Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest, please see “Glossary of Airline Terms” and “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Results of Operations.”

The COVID-19 pandemic has presented significant challenges to the global airline industry since February 2020. We have experienced a significant decline in demand related to the COVID-pandemic, which has caused a material decline in our revenues and negatively impacted our business, operating results, financial condition and liquidity, with our cash burn being approximately $2 million per day on average during the year ended December 31, 2020. We have worked diligently to navigate such challenges by implementing disciplined capacity deployment and taking steps to protect liquidity and cash flow, and towards being an industry leader with respect to the implementation of new health and safety initiatives. Due to such efforts, we believe we are well positioned to take advantage of the anticipated demand recovery as vaccine distribution continues. As an example, throughout the pandemic, the U.S. airline industry has seen stronger domestic demand than international demand, and the segments of domestic travel that have recovered fastest have been VFR (visiting friends or relatives) and vacation travel (which together we refer to as leisure travel) in contrast to business travel, both of which are trends that we believe position us to outperform the airline industry as a whole. According to the Airlines Reporting Corporation, for the week ended February 21, 2021, the number of tickets purchased as a percentage of the same time period in 2019 was 54% for online travel agencies with a primary focus on leisure travel, 32% for traditional leisure/other agencies with a primary focus on leisure travel, and 15% for corporate agencies whose primary business model is managed corporate or government travel. We design our route network to capture low fare demand among leisure travelers and our three largest bases are Denver, Orlando and Las Vegas, which draw a significant proportion of leisure travelers. In the seven months ending February 29, 2020, according to a post-travel survey we conducted, 89% of our customers were leisure travelers. We believe the restrictions and health concerns that have depressed demand during the pandemic are also likely to lead to increased levels of pent-up demand for leisure travel once the effects of the pandemic decrease. As a result, we expect to see a significant recovery in our performance as the U.S. market recovers. Within our current network of approximately 110 airports served, we plan to strategically deploy our capacity where demand is highest during the recovery in order to more quickly return to normal capacity levels. More broadly, after being restricted from travel, we believe many customers will take advantage of the opportunity to travel more in the coming years. We also believe new working patterns and the increasing growth of work from home will lead to increasing numbers of employees choosing to live remotely from their office location. We believe this trend will lead to an increased number of shorter leisure trips by Americans. We believe our low fares, supported by our low cost structure, will enable us to grow our network and take advantage of new demand patterns as they arise. We also believe that we will expand our relative unit cost advantage as compared to those airlines which borrowed more heavily through the pandemic. Furthermore, we believe that low-cost airlines have historically recovered more quickly than the airline industry overall following past crises, including the 1991 Gulf War, the 2001 Terrorist Attacks and the late-2000s Financial Crisis. In the wake of these crises, low-cost airlines have further expanded the magnitude of their superior margin profile and profitability relative to the airline industry as a whole.

The leisure-driven recovery has been evident even pre-vaccine. According to the Airlines Reporting Corporation, for the week ended February 21, 2021, the number of tickets purchased as a percentage of tickets purchased in the same time period in 2019 was 54% for online travel agencies with a primary focus on leisure travel, 32% for traditional leisure/other agencies with a primary focus on leisure travel, and 15% for corporate agencies whose primary business model is managed corporate or government travel. These numbers compare to 7%, 7% and 4%, respectively, for tickets purchased the week ended April 12, 2020, the week of the largest percentage decline in ticket purchases during the pandemic, as a percentage of tickets purchased in the same time period in 2019.

COVID-19 has differentially impacted demand by passenger age with a proportionally greater decrease in demand from older passengers during the pandemic resulting in a lower overall average passenger age as compared to pre-pandemic levels. With elders generally prioritized for early vaccination, to date in 2021, we have observed increases in the share of passengers aged 55+ booking tickets as compared to the share of passengers aged 55+ flown in December 2020.

In addition to low unit costs and our focus on leisure travel, a key component of our Low Fares Done Right model has been to attract customers with low fares and garner repeat business by delivering a high value, family-friendly customer experience with a more upscale look and feel than historically experienced on ULCCs globally. For instance, we currently offer flexible optional services through both unbundled and bundled service options. Our bundled options include The Works, a hassle-free option that includes a guaranteed seat assignment, carry-on and checked baggage, ticket refundability and changes, and priority boarding, all at an attractive low price and available only on our website, and The Perks, which enables customers to book the same amenities included in The Works, excluding refundability and ticket changes. We operate a customer-friendly digital platform that includes our website and mobile app, which makes booking and travel easy for our customers. We also promote and sell products in-flight to enhance the customer experience. Our brand and product are family-friendly, featuring popular animals on our aircraft tails, novelty cards for children and we provide certain offers tailored for families including our Kids Fly Free program. We reward our repeat customers through our Frontier Miles (formerly EarlyReturns) frequent flyer program, and we also offer our Discount Den membership program, which provides subscribers with exclusive access to some of our lowest fares. In addition to enhancing the customer experience, these offerings have helped us to increase our ancillary revenues from $12.80 per passenger in 2013 to $57.11 per passenger in 2019 and $62.45 per passenger in 2020.
Low Fares Done Right differentiates Frontier from the historical ULCC model by providing a more dependable and higher quality customer service experience than traditionally offered by such carriers. We pioneered this concept in the United States through our disciplined approach to operational integrity and by using a modern fleet with comfortable cabin seating and other amenities, including extra seat padding and our Stretch extra space seating option on all of our flights. Our commitment to operational integrity is reflected in our approach to recruiting, workforce training and employee engagement, which we believe enables us to offer a standardized and predictable travel experience. We believe the association of our brand with our ability to achieve a high level of operational performance will continue to differentiate us from the other U.S. ULCCs and enable us to generate greater customer loyalty.

The combination of low unit costs, high quality service and dependability that makes Low Fares Done Right successful has enabled us to successfully diversify our network across a wide range of leisure destinations as well as implement a network strategy that primarily targets markets where our low fares stimulate demand. Our current network is geographically diversified across the United States and our top five cities for the year ended December 31, 2020 were Denver (20% of departures), Orlando (11%), Las Vegas (8%), Philadelphia (4%), and Phoenix (3%). As a leisure focused airline, the preferences of our customers allow us to fly a low average frequency to and from individual destinations as our customers are generally not focused on frequency but instead on getting the best value for travel. Our schedule of flights available for sale as of February 2021 includes 335 nonstop routes across a network of approximately 110 airports, at an average frequency of 0.6 flights per day, as compared to an average frequency of 1.8 flights per day for all U.S. carriers of significant size based on publicly available information with each route, on average, representing less than 0.3% of our total capacity.

We believe that using low fares to stimulate demand positions us to benefit from significant growth opportunities, including as the U.S. market recovers from the COVID-19 pandemic. On the 111 routes where we began nonstop service during the second or third quarter of 2017 or the second or third quarter of 2018, and continued to serve for at least three of the six months preceding September in the year following our market entry. DOT data indicates passenger volume grew by approximately 41% in total, as measured by comparing passenger volume in the six months ending September 30th in the year prior to our entry (2016 or 20147, respectively) compared to passenger volume in the six months ending September 30th in the year after our entry (2018 or 2019, respectively). At the end of those periods, our market share of passenger volumes on such routes was approximately 24% which represented approximately 34% of passenger volumes on such routes during the six-month period prior to our entry into the market. We believe our entry into new markets stimulates substantial passenger volume growth because of our ability to offer significantly lower fares than other airlines. On the same 111 routes noted above. DOT data indicates our average gross fare, including most taxes and fees, was approximately $67, as compared to an average gross fare of approximately $148 on all other U.S. airlines of significant size, for the six months ending September 30th of the year following our entry.

Based upon our analysis of the most recently available annual DOT data, during the year ended December 31, 2019, passengers on over 273 million U.S. domestic routes paid a fare that was at least 30% above our cost basis per passenger during the same period for the stage length associated with such fares. Such domestic routes were operated by non-ULCCs, are within the range of A320 family aircraft and exclude routes arriving or departing from federally slot-controlled airports, routes operating entirely within the state of Hawaii and routes with a market size of less than 100 passengers per day each way. As a result, and assuming the continued recovery of the U.S. market from the COVID-19 pandemic, we believe that there are a significant number of markets in which we could operate profitably with our low fares, and we believe our entry into such markets could drive substantial passenger growth in those markets.

We believe we are also in a better position than the other U.S. ULCCs to capitalize on this market stimulation opportunity because of our strong presence in high-demand markets and underserved markets, including mid-sized cities. We believe we have an opportunity to provide service on approximately 518 additional domestic routes between airports within our existing network that are not currently served by a ULCC, while Spirit has the opportunity to serve up to approximately 214 additional domestic routes, and Allegiant has the opportunity to serve up to approximately 152 additional domestic routes using the same criteria. Average industry-wide daily passenger volumes on these opportunity routes the year ended December 31, 2019 were approximately 308,000, 149,000 and 84,000, respectively, based on the most recent available annual DOT data. Such domestic routes are currently not operated by ULCCs, are within the range of A320 family aircraft, and exclude routes arriving or departing from federally slot-controlled airports and routes with a market size of less than 100 passengers per day each way.

According to the DOT, there were approximately 590 million domestic passenger journeys in the United States during the year ended December 31, 2019, and the five-year (year ended December 31, 2014 to December 31, 2019) compound annual growth rate for domestic passenger journeys was approximately 5.5%. Based upon the foregoing, and subject to the U.S. market fully recovering from the COVID-19 pandemic, we believe that over the next 10 years there is an opportunity for U.S. ULCCs to stimulate demand of approximately 159 million incremental annual domestic passengers, as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019, when U.S. ULCCs flew approximately 69 million passengers.

The ULCC operating strategy is more mature in Europe than it is in the United States. For example, at the time that Spirit adopted a ULCC model in 2007, three European ULCCs, EasyJet, Ryanair and Wizz Air, already had more than 4.5 times the number of aircraft in operation as domestic competitors Allegiant and Spirit. The size of the European ULCCs’ operations is evidence of the substantial increases in passenger volumes they have been able to drive since their adoption of ULCC operating models, which first started in the mid-1990s. Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, over the last ten years, this passenger growth has coincided with a period of stability and expanding profitability margins for both the consolidated groups and the ULCCs. According to historic schedule data, the three European ULCCs grew their intra-Europe, excluding Turkey and Russia, market share as measured by seat capacity from approximately 15% in the year ended December 31, 2007 to 24% in the year ended December 31, 2014 and to 30% in the year ended December 31, 2019. We were incorporated in September 2013 as a newly-formed corporation initially wholly-owned by an investment fund managed by Indigo to facilitate the acquisition of Frontier and its holding company from Republic. That acquisition was completed on December 3, 2013. Following the acquisition, Indigo reshaped our management team to include experienced veterans of the airline industry with significant history operating ULCCs. Working with Indigo, our management team developed and implemented our unique strategy, Low Fares Done Right.

Indigo Partners is a private equity fund focused on investing in air transportation companies, with current investments in other ULCC airlines, including JetSMART based in Chile.

Our Business Model

Our business model is based on our unique Low Fares Done Right strategy. While our strategy is similar to the business models utilized by other ULCCs, including with respect to low-cost structure, low fares and flexible optional services, we believe Low Fares Done Right differentiates us from other U.S. ULCCs as a result of our focus on delivering a higher quality, family-friendly customer experience with a more upscale look and feel than traditionally than historically experienced on ULCCs globally. From the perspective of our customers, our business model provides a product offering that combines low base fares with dependable customer service, a customer-friendly digital platform, a rewarding frequent flyer program, a modern fleet, comfortable cabin seating, flexible optional services and operational integrity.

Our Competitive Strengths

Our competitive strengths include:

Our Low-Cost Structure. Our low-cost structure, built around low aircraft ownership cost, fuel efficiency and low operational costs, is our key strategic advantage. Our unit costs, measured by Adjusted CASM including net interest, were among the lowest in the industry for the year ended December 31, 2020. Our Adjusted CASM including net interest, stage length adjusted to 1,000 miles, for the year ended December 31, 2020 was 10.30¢, compared to an average of 16.52¢ for the airlines we refer to as the “Big Four” carriers (American Airlines, Delta Air Lines, Southwest Airlines and United Airlines), an average of 16.25¢ for the airlines we refer to as the “Middle Three” carriers (Alaska Airlines, Hawaiian Airlines and JetBlue Airways), 8.35¢ for Allegiant and 10.00¢ for Spirit, respectively. Comparatively, for the year ended December 31, 2019 prior to the impacts of the pandemic, our Adjusted CASM including net interest, stage length adjusted to 1,000 miles was 7.84¢, compared to an average of 11.70¢ for the big Four carriers, an average of 11.70¢ for the Middle Three carriers, 8.79¢ for Allegiant and 8.09¢ for Spirit, respectively. Our low-cost structure is driven by several factors:

• High Aircraft Utilization. Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, we operated with high aircraft utilization, averaging 12.2 hours per day during the year ended December 31, 2019. This compares to the domestic mainline utilization average of 10.4 hours per day for the Big Four carriers, an average of 10.6 hours per day for Middle Three carriers, and an average of 12.3 and 8.0 hours per day for Spirit and Allegiant, respectively, in each case, as measured for the year ended December 31, 2019. For the year ended December 31, 2020, our aircraft utilization decreased to 8.0 hours per day due to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, including significantly reduced capacity and the related grounding of many of our aircraft.

• Modern Fleet and Attractive Order Book. We operate a modern fleet comprised solely of Airbus A320 family aircraft, which are recognized as having high reliability and low operating costs. Operating a single family of aircraft provides us with several operational and cost advantages, including the ability to optimize crew scheduling, training and maintenance. Since 2013, we have steadily reduced the number of A319ceo aircraft (150 seats) in our fleet, replacing them with larger and more fuel-efficient A320ceo aircraft, A320neo aircraft (180 to 186 seats) and A321ceo aircraft (230 seats) and, commencing in 2022, A321neo aircraft (up to 240 seats). As of December 31, 2020, the average age of our fleet was approximately four years and we have taken delivery of 87 new aircraft since the start of 2015. In addition, we have an attractive order book of 156 new, fuel-efficient A320neo family aircraft. As of December 31, 2019, we maintained the youngest average fleet age of any U.S. airline of significant size based on the latest public reports of each carrier and our present fleet plan contemplates maintaining an average fleet age of approximately four years through December 31, 2024. As of December 31, 2019, we believe we had the highest adoption rate of new engine technology aircraft (consisting of the A220, A320neo family, A330neo, A350 and similar aircraft from other manufacturers) (as a percentage of total fleet) among U.S. airlines. Based on currently announced fleet plans, we expect to maintain the highest adoption rate of new engine technology aircraft of any U.S. ULCC in the near term.
• Fuel-Efficient Fleet. In 2019, we had the most fuel-efficient fleet of all U.S. carriers of significant size when measured by ASMs per fuel gallon consumed. For the year ended December 31, 2019, ASMs per fuel gallon consumed were 97.5 as compared to the weighted industry average of 68.1 based on public reports of each carrier. The A320neo family aircraft that we continue to place in service are expected to continue delivering approximately 15% improved fuel efficiency compared to the prior generation of A320ceo family aircraft. For the year ended December 31, 2020, our ASMs per fuel gallon consumed increased to 104.5, as a result of grounding our least fuel-efficient aircraft due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

• High Capacity Fleet. We increased the seat density on our A319ceo aircraft from 138 seats to 150 seats and the seat density on our prior generation of A320ceo aircraft from 168 seats to 180 seats during 2015. Across our entire fleet, we have increased our average seats per departure from 145 seats in 2013 to 191 seats during the year ended December 31, 2020, a 32% increase. Our entire fleet features new and lightweight slim-line seats, which eliminate excess weight and reduce fuel consumption per seat. As of January 2021, we had the highest seat density per A320ceo/neo and A321ceo aircraft operated by any U.S. airline.

• Low-Cost Distribution Model. For the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, approximately 71%, 73% and 76%, respectively, of our tickets were sold directly to customers through our direct distribution channels, including our website and mobile app, our low cost distribution channels. We also reduced our distribution costs per passenger following the renegotiation of the majority of our distribution agreements in 2020.

• Highly Productive Workforce and Third Party Specialist Providers. Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, we had a highly productive workforce which delivered and maintained a high quality of service to our customers, with 4,625 passengers supported per full time equivalent employee for the year ended December 31, 2019. In 2019, we also entered into new collective bargaining agreements with several of our union-represented employee groups. For the year ended December 31, 2020, we had 2,259 passengers supported per full time equivalent employee.

• Outsourcing Model. We outsource our non-core functions, including customer call centers, lost bag services, ground handling services and catering services. The outsourcing model not only enables us to provide high quality services at low costs, but also provides flexibility for us to align our costs with capacity and demand.

Our Brand. We believe establishing our brand as a leading low-fare airline enhances our ability to generate customer loyalty. The strength of our brand is demonstrated by our significant number of repeat customers. According to a January 2019 survey we conducted with respect to recent customers who had flown with us at least once, 91% of survey respondents were repeat customers and 69% had flown with us two or more times during the previous 12 months. The key features of our brand include:

• Significant customer value delivered through low fares with the choice of reasonably priced unbundled and bundled options, including The Works and The Perks.

• Family-friendly elements that appeal to a large audience, such as an attentive staff, popular animals on our aircraft tails, novelty cards for children and certain offers tailored for families including our Kids Fly Free program.

• A commitment to sustainability and environmental responsibility, including our position as “America’s Greenest Airline” as measured by fuel efficiency in 2019. Our 2019 fuel savings of 125 million gallons, as compared to the average of other U.S. airlines, per information included in the public reports of each carrier, is equivalent to flying the distance of 130 missions to the moon and back at our 2019 average fuel burn rate, or in carbon savings, equivalent to eliminating 18.6 billion plastic bottles, eliminating 438 billion plastic straws, or the benefit of growing 18 million trees for a decade. In 2017, we moved our headquarters to a LEED Certified building, which was designed to achieve energy savings, water efficiency and lower CO2 emissions.
Industry leading healthy travel initiatives, including being the only U.S. airline conducting temperature screenings for all passengers and crew prior to boarding.

A carefully curated aesthetic for our livery, our website and mobile app, uniforms, seat design and on-board products, which are designed to look and feel more upscale than traditional ULCCs.

A strong online presence with a customer-friendly digital platform that includes our passenger reservation system, improved website and mobile app.

Our modern fleet with amenities such as extra seat padding and our Stretch seating option, which provides a comfortable 33-inch seat pitch.

An enhanced frequent flyer program, Frontier Miles, and Discount Den membership program.

Our Network Management. We plan our route network and airport footprint to focus on profitable existing routes and new routes where we believe our business model will stimulate demand and growth, including those where we expect demand to be highest during the U.S. recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic. This strategy enabled us to reduce the seasonality of our revenue, improve utilization, lower unit costs, increase revenues and enhance profitability from 2013 through 2019. The key features of our network include:

- A broad geographic footprint, which enables us to service a wide range of VFR and vacation destinations.
- A strong presence in high-demand markets and underserved markets, including mid-sized cities.
- A disciplined and methodical approach to both route selection and the removal of underperforming routes.
- An operational platform that includes nationwide crew and maintenance bases, creating access to lower-risk growth opportunities while maintaining high operational standards and enabling high utilization.
- A codeshare arrangement with Volaris, a ULCC based in Mexico and an affiliate of Indigo Partners, which enables both carriers to sell tickets and connecting itineraries on select routes within the airlines’ combined networks. We believe this is the world’s first ULCC codeshare arrangement.

Our Talented ULCC Leadership Team. Our management team has extensive day-to-day experience operating ULCCs and other airlines.

- Barry L. Biffle, our President and Chief Executive Officer, previously served as Chief Executive Officer of VivaColombia, Executive Vice President for Spirit and held various management roles with US Airways and American Eagle Airlines, a regional airline subsidiary of American Airlines.

- James G. Dempsey, our Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, previously served as Treasurer and Head of Investor Relations for Ryanair after serving in management roles within the advisory practice of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

- Daniel M. Shurz, our Senior Vice President, Commercial, previously served in various roles with United Airlines and Air Canada.

- Howard M. Diamond, our Senior Vice President, General Counsel and Corporate Secretary, previously served as Vice President, General Counsel and Corporate Secretary for Thales USA.

- Jake F. Filene, our Senior Vice President, Customers, previously served as our Deputy Chief Operating Officer and as Vice President, Airport Services and Corporate Real Estate for Spirit Airlines.

- Trevor J. Stedke, our Senior Vice President, Operations, previously served as Vice President, Aircraft Technical Operations for Southwest Airlines.
Our goal is to offer the most attractive option for air travel with a compelling combination of value, product and service, and, in so doing, to grow profitably and enhance our position among airlines in the United States. Through the key elements of our business strategy, we seek to achieve:

Low Unit Costs. We intend to strengthen and maintain our low unit costs, including by:
- Maintaining high utilization levels once the U.S. market recovers from the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Utilizing new generation, fuel-efficient aircraft that deliver lower operating costs compared to prior generation aircraft.
- Increasing the average size and seat capacity of the aircraft in our fleet through the continued introduction and operation of new 186-seat A320neo and up to 240-seat A321neo aircraft, and the exit of A319ceo aircraft.
- Taking a disciplined approach to our operational performance in order to reduce disruption.

A Superior Low-Fare Brand. In order to enhance our brand and drive revenue growth, we intend to continue to deliver a higher-quality flight experience than historically offered by ULCCs globally and generate customer loyalty by:
- Continuing to offer attractive low fares.
- Expanding our marketing efforts, including through the addition of new animals for each of our new aircraft, particularly highlighting endangered species on our signature animal tails, to continue to position our brand as a family- and environmentally-friendly ULCC.
- Continuing to improve penetration of our bundle options, including The Works and The Perks.
- Further enhancing our Frontier Miles offering to improve reward opportunities for our branded credit card customers.
- Providing our customers a dependable, reliable, on-time and friendly travel experience.

Strong Growth Driven by an Expanding and Efficient Network. We believe that our cost structure enables us to fly to more places profitably than any other U.S. airline, and we strategically focus on routes that we believe are the most profitable. We intend to continue to utilize our disciplined and methodical approach to expand our network in an efficient manner, including by:
- Strategically deploying our capacity where demand is highest during the recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Continuing to take advantage of opportunities in overpriced and/or underserved markets across the U.S. and select international destinations in the Americas.
- Leveraging our diverse geographic footprint and existing crew and maintenance base infrastructure to take advantage of lower-risk network growth opportunities while maintaining high operational standards.
- Utilizing our low-cost structure to offer low fares which organically drive growth through market stimulation.
- Continuing to rebalance our network to mitigate seasonal fluctuations in our results.
- Focusing on what we believe are the most profitable opportunities where our cost differential drives the largest competitive advantage.
Strong Liquidity and Capital Structure. We intend to maintain our strong capital structure, which enables us to obtain financing for our aircraft pursuant to attractive operating leases, in order to support our growth strategies and the expansion of our fleet and network.

Our largest sources of liquidity as of December 31, 2020 totaled $963 million and were comprised of:

- Our cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash, of which we had a balance of $378 million as of December 31, 2020.
- $424 million available to borrow under the loan we received from the United States Department of the Treasury (the “Treasury Loan”) as of December 31, 2020. The Treasury Loan has a five-year term ending September 28, 2025, is collateralized by our co-branded credit card arrangement and bears an annual interest rate based on adjusted LIBOR plus 2.5%. We may borrow additional amounts in up to two subsequent borrowings until May 28, 2021, subject to satisfaction of certain conditions precedent in the Treasury Loan Agreement, including maintenance of a collateral coverage ratio of 2.0 to 1.0 and compliance with the relevant provisions of the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (the “CARES Act”). See “Description of Principal Indebtedness—Treasury Loan Agreement”.
- $161 million of income tax receivables expected to be collected in 2021, primarily resulting from the net operating losses generated in 2020 and permitted under the CARES Act to be carried back to 2015 and 2016 tax years (pre-Tax Cuts and Jobs Act) in which a federal 35% tax rate applied.

Additionally, subsequent to December 31, 2020, we entered into the Payroll Support Program Extension Agreement (the “PSP2 Agreement”), which provided us with at least an incremental $140 million in liquidity. We received the first installment in the amount of $70 million on January 15, 2021.

As of December 31, 2020, our capital structure was comprised of the following (please refer to “Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements - 9. Debt”):

- $141 million of the available $150 million under the secured, revolving line of credit from our PDP Financing Facility.
- $15 million from our pre-purchased miles facility. The facility cannot be extended above $15 million until full extinguishment of the Treasury Loan pursuant to the CARES Act. Upon full extinguishment of the Treasury Loan, the pre-purchased miles facility amount is to be reset annually based on the aggregate amount of fees payable to us by Barclays on a calendar year basis, up to an aggregate maximum facility amount of $200 million.
- $183 million in loans from the CARES Act, comprised of $150 million under the Treasury Loan, and $33 million under the PSP Promissory Note.
- $18 million under the floating rate building note.

COVID-19 Response

The COVID-19 pandemic has and continues to present significant challenges to the global airline industry since February 2020, but we have worked diligently to navigate such challenges by implementing disciplined capacity deployment, and taking steps to protect liquidity and cash flow, and further strengthening our health and safety initiatives.

Capacity Recovery

For the year ended December 31, 2020, our capacity, as measured by available seat miles, declined by approximately 40% as compared to the year ended December 31, 2019. While we experienced a modest uptick in demand during the latter half of the second quarter and into the third and fourth quarters of 2020, demand was negatively impacted by a resurgence of COVID-19 cases in certain domestic markets. The length and severity of the decline in demand due to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic is uncertain and, as such, we expect the adverse impact to persist during 2021. As the pace and breadth of COVID-19 vaccination grows, however, we believe the leisure travel demand recovery will accelerate, particularly during the second half of 2021.

Capitalizing on our low cost structure and leisure travel focus, we plan to deploy capacity at or above pre-pandemic levels as leisure demand recovers, which we expect to occur well in advance of total airline demand returning to pre-pandemic levels.

Health & Safety Measures

We are an industry leader in healthy travel initiatives and are currently the only U.S. airline conducting temperature screenings for all passengers and crew prior to boarding. Anyone with a temperature of 100.4 degrees Fahrenheit or higher is denied boarding as a step to better protect other passengers. Additionally, we have implemented sweeping health and safety enhancements affecting every step of a customer’s travel journey with the airline. Such initiatives include requiring face coverings that must be worn by all customers and team members throughout every flight maintaining social distance with signage, boarding process changes, partitions, and a health acknowledgement. Prior to completing check-in via the Company’s website or mobile app, passengers are required to confirm that (i) neither they nor anyone in their household has exhibited COVID-19 related symptoms in the 14 days preceding the flight, (ii) they will wash or sanitize their hands before boarding the flight, and (iii) they understand and acknowledge our covering policy and pre-boarding temperature screening policies.

We also introduced a fogging disinfectant to our already stringent aircraft cleaning and sanitation protocols, which provides a safe, certified disinfecting solution proven to be effective against viruses. The fogging includes virtually every surface in the passenger cabin. Planes are wiped down every night with additional disinfectant. During flight, main cabin air is a mix of fresh air drawn from outside and air that has been passed through an air filtration system that features HEPA filters capable of capturing respiratory virus particles at more than 99.9% efficiency, similar to those used in hospital environments, with air exchange up to every three minutes.

Our Fares and the Choices We Offer

We provide low-fare passenger airline service primarily to leisure travelers. Our low fares are designed to stimulate demand from price-sensitive travelers and consist of a base fare, plus taxes and governmental fees. For the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, our total revenue per passenger was $108.65, $109.91, and $111.23, respectively.

We combine our low fares with flexible optional services for an additional cost. Such additional options include carry-on and checked baggage, advance seat selection, our extended-legroom Stretch seats, ticket changes and cancellations, refundability, and commissions from the sale of hotel rooms, rental cars and trip insurance. Our bundled options include The Works, a hassle-free option that includes a guaranteed seat assignment, carry-on and checked baggage, ticket refundability and changes and priority boarding, all at an attractive low price and available only on our website, and The Perks, which enables customers to book the same amenities included in The Works, excluding refundability and ticket changes. We also promote and sell products in-flight to enhance the customer experience. In 2016, we also introduced a new convenient onboard payment system that enables customers to bundle products together to save money, make multiple purchases with a single credit card transaction and provide gratuities to our flight attendants. We reward our repeat customers through our Frontier Miles (formerly EarlyReturns) frequent flyer program and also offer our Discount Den membership program, which provides subscribers with exclusive access to some of our lowest fares. In addition to enhancing the customer experience, these offerings have helped us to increase our ancillary revenues from $12.80 per passenger in 2013 to $57.11 per passenger in 2019 and $62.45 per passenger in 2020. Additionally, in the third quarter of 2018, we restructured our change fees, eliminating and reducing certain fees for changes made in advance of departure. Our other revenues also include services such as our Frontier Miles affinity credit card program and commissions revenue from the sale of items such as rental cars and hotels.
The following table represents our revenue, on a per-passenger basis for the periods presented:

Route Network

The low unit cost, high quality of service and dependability that make Low Fares Done Right successful have enabled us to successfully diversify our network across a wide range of leisure destinations as well as implement a network strategy that primarily targets high demand or underserved markets, where our low fares stimulate new traffic flows.

During the year ended December 31, 2020, we served approximately 110 airports throughout the United States and international destinations in the Americas. In addition, during the year ended December 31, 2020, 41% of our flights had Denver International Airport as its origin or destination and approximately 19% of our ASMs were produced on flights departing Denver. The following five cities were the next most significant in terms of share of our ASMs: Orlando (11%), Las Vegas (9%), Philadelphia (4%), Cleveland (3%) and Chicago (3%). Together, these six cities made up a majority of our ASMs. While our primary focus is to capture point-to-point demand on the nonstop routes that we serve, we also sell connecting itineraries, providing us with the opportunity to capture demand across a large number of routes beyond our nonstop footprint.

Below is a map of the destinations we serve as of our scheduled flights available for sale as of February 2021:
We use publicly available data related to existing traffic, fares and capacity in domestic markets as well as other data sources to identify growth opportunities. To monitor the profitability of each route, we analyze monthly profitability reports as well as actual and forecast advanced bookings. We routinely make capacity adjustments within our network based on the financial performance of our markets, and we discontinue service in markets where we determine that long-term profitability is not likely to meet our expectations.

Since our acquisition in December 2013, we have broadened our network, with 16 of the approximately 110 airports where we operate having nonstop service to 10 or more destinations within our flights available for sale as of February 2021. In addition, as of February 2021, we were one of the top three airlines by number of destinations served in 28 of the approximately 110 airports where we operate. By continuing to add routes between other markets, we expect to leverage our brand and our existing base of loyal customers in these markets to enable us to grow our share of revenue in such markets. We expect to utilize our current footprint to further diversify our route network, provide growth into additional strategic markets and expand our customer base as we gain new customers in such markets. We are not currently pursuing the expansion of our network to, or our existing operations at, any of the three federally slot controlled airports (New York LaGuardia, New York Kennedy, and Washington Reagan National) or any of the locally slot controlled airports in southern California (Orange County and Long Beach). However, if any slots at such airports were to become available on attractive terms, we would assess the viability of our expansion in such markets in a manner consistent with our broader network strategy.

While the COVID-19 pandemic has presented significant challenges to the management of our network, we believe we are well positioned to take advantage of the recovery as a result of our broad current footprint and focus on leisure travel, where the U.S. airline industry has seen strongest domestic demand during the pandemic. In 2021 and beyond, we plan to continue to strategically deploy our capacity where demand is highest during the recovery in order to increase our capacity metrics. While under the CARES Act and our related agreements with the Treasury, we are required to maintain a specified level of scheduled air transportation deemed necessary by the DOT to ensure that all routes we had scheduled air travel to before the COVID-19 pandemic are still served, such added schedule requirements have to date been immaterial in comparison to the routes that we had already planned to operate without the requirements in place, representing approximately 2% of the total ASMs operated by us between May and September 2020. As such, we do not expect them to significantly alter our route network plans.

As a result of the diversification of our network, we believe we are also in a better position than the other U.S. ULCCs to capitalize on current market stimulation opportunities. For instance, based upon our analysis of DOT data for the year ended December 31, 2019, we believe our network is more closely aligned with overall domestic passenger volumes as shown in the table below.

As a result of the wide breadth of our network and extensive airport footprint, we believe we have an opportunity to provide service on approximately 518 additional domestic routes between airports within our existing network that are not currently served by a ULCC, while Spirit has the opportunity to serve up to approximately 214 additional domestic routes, and Allegiant has the opportunity to serve up to approximately 152 additional domestic routes using the same criteria. Average industry-wide daily passenger volumes on these opportunity routes, as reported in DOT data for the year ended December 31, 2019, were approximately 308,000, 149,000 and 84,000, respectively. Such domestic routes are currently not operated by ULCCs, are within the range of A320 family aircraft, and exclude routes arriving or departing from federally slot-controlled airports, and routes with a market size of less than 100 passengers per day each way.

DOT data indicates that the average fare per domestic journey for legacy airlines American, Delta and United in 2019 stood at $202, with the top 50% of customers paying an average fare of $294, and the other 50% paying an average of $110. If 10% of the demand mix shifts from the higher fare to the lower fare, the legacy airlines would need to charge $140 to lower fare customers in order to maintain the $202 average fare. Should the mix shift by 20% from the higher fare to the lower fare, the legacy airlines would need to increase the leisure fare to $162, an increase of $52 compared to the 2019 level, in order to maintain the $202 average fare. By comparison, Frontier’s average fare per domestic journey using the same DOT data in 2019 stood at $54, with the average fare for the top 50% standing at $85 and the other 50% at $24.

In January 2018, we entered into a codeshare arrangement with Volaris and in August 2018, we began operating scheduled codeshare flights on certain flights with Volaris that are identified by our designator code. Conversely, Volaris is operating scheduled codeshare flights with Frontier, identified by their designator code. Any flight bearing a Frontier code designator that is operated by Volaris is disclosed in our reservations systems and on the customer’s flight itinerary, boarding pass and ticket, if a paper ticket is issued. As a result of the Volaris codeshare arrangement, our customers are able to purchase single ticket service on our route network and connect to Volaris’ route network. The codeshare arrangement also provides for codeshare fees and revenue sharing for the codeshare flights. See “Certain Relationships and Related Party Transactions—Codeshare Arrangement.”

Competition

The airline industry is highly competitive. The principal competitive factors in the airline industry are fare pricing, total price, flight schedules, aircraft type, passenger amenities, number of routes served from a city, customer service, safety record and reputation, codesharing relationships, and frequent flyer programs and redemption opportunities. Our competitors and potential competitors include legacy network carriers, LCCs, ULCCs and new entrant airlines. We typically compete in markets served by traditional network airlines, LCCs, the other U.S. ULCCs and regional airlines.

Our principal competitors on domestic routes are Alaska Airlines, Allegiant, American Airlines, Delta Air Lines, JetBlue Airways, Southwest Airlines, Spirit and United Airlines. There are also parties who have announced their intention to start-up new ULCC airlines. With respect to the Big Four and Middle Three carriers, our principal competitive advantage is our low-cost structure, low base fares and our focus on the leisure traveler. We believe our low-cost structure allows us to price our fares at levels where we can be profitable while the Big Four and Middle Three airlines cannot. We believe the association of our brand with a high level of operational performance differentiates us from the other U.S. ULCCs and enables us to generate greater customer loyalty.

Overall, for the year ended December 31, 2020, the average Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) of the Big Four carriers was 15.58¢, of the Middle Three was 14.57¢ and of ULCCs was 7.81¢.

The following table summarizes the RASM, Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest of the Big Four carriers, Middle Three carriers and ULCCs of significant size in the United States for the year ended December 31, 2019 and 2020. Adjusted CASM including net interest reflects the inclusion of interest expense and income as well as capitalized interest, which takes into account a significant component of the costs of an airline’s capital structure and is therefore a useful metric when taken into account in combination with earnings per share. We believe it is appropriate to provide cost data for airlines other than ULCCs because other carriers, including the Big Four and Middle Three, provide alternative service on most of the routes we fly and we believe that our relative cost advantage is a significant economic element that allows us to compete with those carriers while providing attractive fares to our customers.

(1) See “Glossary of Airline Terms.” For a reconciliation of CASM to Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) and Adjusted CASM including net interest, see “Management’s Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Results of Operations.”

(2) As formulated by each carrier in its public reports or, if not reported, derived from or based upon information included in such public reports, excluding, among other things, special charges, non-airline business expenses and fuel. Adjusted CASM (excluding fuel) is not determined in accordance with GAAP, may not be comparable across all carriers and should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for performance measures calculated in accordance with GAAP.

(3) Adjusted CASM including net interest is calculated and derived from information included in the public reports of each carrier with certain adjustments, excluding, among other things, special charges and non-airline business expenses, as available. For Frontier, Adjusted CASM including net interest reflects the sum of Adjusted CASM and Net interest expense (income) excluding special items per ASM. Adjusted CASM including net interest is not determined in accordance with GAAP; may not be comparable across all carriers and should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for performance measures calculated in accordance with GAAP.

(4) If not provided by each carrier in its public reports, RASM has been calculated as total operating revenue divided by total available seat miles. RASM is not determined in accordance with GAAP, may not be comparable across all carriers and should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for performance measures calculated in accordance with GAAP.

The airline industry is particularly susceptible to price discounting because, once a flight is scheduled, airlines incur only nominal incremental costs to provide service to passengers occupying otherwise unsold seats. Price competition occurs on a market-by-market basis through price discounts, changes in pricing structures, fare matching, target promotions and frequent flyer initiatives. Airlines typically use discount fares and other promotions to stimulate traffic during normally slower travel periods to generate cash flow and to maximize RASM. The prevalence of discount fares can be particularly acute when a competitor has excess capacity that is under financial pressure to sell. A key element of our competitive strategy is to maintain very low unit costs in order to permit us to compete successfully in price-sensitive markets. However, there can be no assurance that we will be successful in doing so and, given the high levels of excess capacity among U.S. airlines generally as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, we expect to face significant discounted fares competition as the U.S. market recovers. See also “Risk Factors—Risks Related to Our Industry—The airline industry is exceedingly competitive, and we compete against legacy network carriers, low-cost carriers and other ultra low-cost carriers; if we are not able to compete successfully in our markets, our business will be materially adversely affected.”

Many airlines have marketing alliances and codeshare arrangements with other airlines, under which they market and advertise their status as a marketing alliance, as well as provide for codesharing, frequent flyer program reciprocity, coordinated scheduling of flights to permit convenient connections and other joint marketing activities. We currently do not have any marketing alliances or codeshare arrangements with U.S. or foreign airlines, other than the codeshare arrangement we entered into with Volaris in 2018. Please see “Risk Factors—Risks Related to Our Industry—Our lack of membership in a marketing alliance or codeshare arrangement (other than with Volaris) could harm our business and competitive position.”

Distribution

We primarily sell our product through direct distribution channels, including our website, mobile app and our call center with our website and mobile app serving as the primary platforms for ticket sales. Approximately 71%, 73% and 76% of our total tickets sold for the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively, were sold directly to our customers through these distribution channels. Sales through our website and mobile app represent our low cost distribution channels.
We also offer the option to purchase tickets through third parties, such as travel agents who access us through GDSs (e.g., Amadeus, Galileo, Sabre and Worldspan) and select OTAs (e.g., Priceline and websites owned by Expedia, including Orbitz and Travelocity). Third-party channels represented approximately 29%, 27% and 24% of sales for the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively. We maintain a zero percent standard commission policy for travel agency bookings worldwide unless local regulations mandate that we pay a commission. We also have agreements with all the leading GDSs. GDSs provide flight schedules and pricing information and allow travel agents to electronically book a flight reservation without separately contacting our reservations facility.

Marketing and Brand

According to a post-travel survey we conducted, in the seven months ending February 29, 2020, 89% of our customers were leisure travelers. Our principal marketing message to our customers is our Low Fares Done Right strategy. Consistent with our ULCC business model, we use a simple marketing message to keep marketing costs low and we regularly offer promotional base fares of $29 or less.

Our principal marketing tools are our proprietary email distribution list consisting of over seven million email addresses, our Frontier Miles frequent flyer program and our Discount Den subscription service as well as advertisements in online, television, radio and other channels. Our objective is to use our low prices, superior customer service, price-based promotions and creativity to produce viral marketing programs that are cost effective.

In 2014, we redesigned the livery of our aircraft in order to enhance our brand. Our new and improved livery includes our unique and Frontier stylized “F” that was first introduced in 1978, our website address, a large arrow that was first adopted on a fleet of our predecessor’s DC-3s and signature Frontier green color scheme. In addition, each of our aircraft features one of our widely-recognized animals on its tail and is named after such bird or animal. We utilize these animals in several of our online marketing campaigns and on the novelty cards we distribute to children onboard. In 2019, we introduced an initiative to highlighting endangered species on our signature animal tails.

We spent approximately 5.1%, 5.2% and 6.2% as a percentage of total revenues on marketing, brand and distribution during the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively.

Loyalty and Membership Programs

We redesigned and enhanced our Frontier Miles frequent flyer program in 2018. The new program includes a number of attractive new customer benefits, including new family pooling benefits and new elite status levels (Elite50K and Elite100K). The Frontier Miles World Elite MasterCard is the primary vehicle whereby customers earn mileage credits and our frequent flyer program is geared specifically towards supporting adoption and continued use of the credit card. The credit card now includes higher spending benefits, including the ability to earn bonus mileage credits on Frontier and restaurant purchases. In addition, every card member who spends over a certain threshold on the card in any calendar year receives a Frontier voucher.

Frontier Miles offers award travel on every flight without blackout dates. All award tickets are subject to redemption fees, which are waived for all Frontier Elite Members and certain other bookings in advance of travel dates. There are three types of travel awards: Value Award Tickets require the lowest mileage credits, Standard Award Tickets are more widely available at double the mileage credit requirement and the highest mileage credit requirement Last Seat Availability Award Tickets are exclusively available to Frontier Elite Members. The program also calculates a year-end status level, and mileage credits never expire as long as a customer earns mileage credits at least every six months.

The Discount Den is an annual subscription-based service that allows members exclusive access to the lowest fares on offer and first access to seats when our selling schedule is extended. Members pay an annual fee to join the Discount Den.
Customers

We believe our product appeals to price-sensitive customers because we give them the choice to pay only for the products and services they want. In addition, we believe our product is particularly attractive to families, featuring popular animals on our aircraft tails, novelty cards for children and certain offers tailored for families, including our Kids Fly Free program and a staff that is committed to our goal of providing excellent customer service. Overall, our business model is designed to deliver what we believe our customers want: low fares and a high-quality flight experience. While we are not focused on stimulating business travel, we believe our low fares do attract a significant number of small business travelers who may be more sensitive to travel costs.

Operational Performance

We are committed to delivering excellent operational performance, which we believe will strengthen customer loyalty and attract new customers. The DOT publishes statistics regarding measures of customer satisfaction for domestic airlines, including on-time performance and completion factor. In addition, the DOT can assess civil penalties for failure to comply with certain customer service obligations. We are also periodically subject to audit by the DOT. The ranges of on-time performance and completion factor for the 10 airlines of significant size in the United States ranged from 71.3% to 87.5% and 85.5% to 97.8% and we ranked 6th and 4th, respectively, for the year ended December 31, 2020. According to the DOT, for domestic routes only, our performance under operational performance measures for the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020 was as follows:

(2) Percentage of our scheduled flights that were completed by us, whether or not delayed (i.e., not cancelled), derived from DOT cancellation statistics.
(3) From June to November 2018, we experienced disruptions to our flight operations during our labor negotiations with ALPA, which materially impacted our on-time performance and completion factor. Upon reaching a tentative agreement in December 2018, our flight operations returned to normal.

Fleet

We fly only Airbus A320 family aircraft, which provides us significant operational and cost advantages compared to airlines that operate multiple fleet types. Flight crews are entirely interchangeable across all of our aircraft, and maintenance, spare parts inventories and other operational support are highly simplified relative to more complex fleets. Due to this commonality among Airbus single-aisle aircraft, we can retain the benefits of a fleet composed of a single type of aircraft while still having the flexibility to match the capacity and range of the aircraft to the demands of each route.

As of December 31, 2020, we had a fleet of 104 Airbus single-aisle aircraft, consisting of four A319ceos, 19 A320ceos, 60 A320neos and 21 A321ceos. The average age of the fleet was approximately four years as of December 31, 2020 and we have taken delivery of 87 new aircraft since the start of 2015. As of December 31, 2020, all 104 aircraft in our fleet were financed under operating leases. As of December 31, 2020, the operating leases for seven, four, six, four and eight aircraft in our fleet were scheduled to terminate during 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024 and 2025, respectively. We intend to replace those 29 aircraft with newly-delivered A320neo family aircraft. In December 2018, we completed the sale-leaseback of our six owned aircraft. As a result, all aircraft in our fleet were financed with operating leases as of December 2018.

We have a firm purchase commitment with Airbus to acquire 156 A320neo (New Engine Option) family aircraft and 23 additional spare aircraft engines by the end of 2028. In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, we came to an agreement with Airbus to defer four deliveries into 2021. We may elect to supplement these deliveries by additional acquisitions from the manufacturer or in the open market if demand conditions merit. Except to the extent set forth in the applicable accompanying footnotes, the table does not include commitments that are contingent on events or other factors that are uncertain or unknown at this time. Our fleet and engine commitments as of December 31, 2020 were comprised of the following aircraft:

During October 2019, the Company entered into an amendment to the previously existing master purchase agreement that allows the Company to convert 18 A320neo aircraft to A321XLR aircraft and, therefore, the conversion is not reflected in the table above. Additionally, we amended our aircraft delivery order book with Airbus in December 2020 which has been reflected in the chart above.

Our A319ceos equipped with two over-wing exits accommodate 150 passengers (compared to 145 on Spirit, 132 on Delta Air Lines, up to 128 on United Airlines and 128 on American Airlines), our A320ceos/neos accommodate up to 186 passengers (compared to up to 186 on Allegiant, up to 182 on Spirit, up to 162 on JetBlue Airways, 157 on Delta Air Lines, and 150 on Alaska Airlines, United Airlines and American Airlines) and our A321ceos accommodate 230 passengers (compared to 228 on Spirit, up to 200 on JetBlue Airways, 191 on Delta Air Lines and up to 187 on American Airlines).

In December 2018, we accelerated a component of our fleet plan by completing the sale-leaseback of our six owned aircraft, which included four A319ceo aircraft and two A320ceo aircraft. Once the four A319ceo leases terminate in December 2021, we expect that we will no longer operate any A319ceo aircraft and will exclusively operate A320ceo, A320neo, A321ceo and A321neo aircraft moving forward.

Aircraft Fuel

Aircraft fuel is one of our largest expense representing 29%, 29% and 21% of our total operating costs for the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively. Our entire fleet features new and lightweight slim-line seats, which eliminate excess weight and reduce fuel consumption per seat. For the year ended December 31, 2020, we had the most fuel-efficient fleet of all U.S. carriers of significant size. The price and availability of jet fuel are volatile due to global economic and geopolitical factors as well as domestic and local supply factors. Our historical fuel consumption and costs were as follows:

<tr>
<th>Gallons consumed (millions)</th>
<th>2018</th>
<th>2019</th>
<th>2020</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Average price per gallon</td>
<td>$2.25</td>
<td>$2.22</td>
<td>$2.08</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Average price per gallon includes related fuel fees and taxes as well as effective fuel-hedging gains and losses.

We have historically maintained an active hedging program designed to reduce our exposure to sudden, sharp increases in fuel prices. We regularly review our fuel hedging program and, accordingly, the specific hedging instruments we use, the amount of our future hedges and the time period covered by our hedge portfolio vary from time to time depending on our view of market conditions and other factors. Among the hedging instruments we have used in the past and may use in the future include swaps and collar contracts on jet fuel, FFPs, which allow us to lock in the price of jet fuel for specified quantities and at specified locations in future periods, and call options. As of December 31, 2020, we had no fuel cash flow hedges for future fuel consumption. Our results for the year ended December 31, 2020 include $82 million in losses associated with fuel hedges primarily as a result of the precipitous decline in jet fuel prices caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, which created a significant liability position at the settlement of our collar trades. These losses included $52 million relating to the designation of fuel hedges resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic on the fuel quantities where consumption was not deemed probable.

Maintenance and Repairs

We have a FAA mandated and approved maintenance program, which is administered by our technical operations department. Our maintenance technicians undergo extensive initial and recurrent training. Aircraft maintenance and repair consists of routine and non-routine maintenance, and work performed is divided into three general categories: line maintenance, heavy maintenance and component service.

Line maintenance consists of routine daily and weekly scheduled maintenance checks on our aircraft. We categorize our line maintenance into four classes of stations, with each class categorized by the scope and complexity of work performed. The majority of and the most extensive line maintenance we and our specialist partners perform is conducted in Denver, Chicago, Cleveland, Orlando, Atlanta and Las Vegas.

Major airframe maintenance checks consist of a series of more complex tasks that can take from one to four weeks to accomplish and typically are required approximately every 20 months. Engine overhauls and engine performance restoration events are quite extensive and can take two months. We maintain an inventory of spare engines to provide for continued operations during engine maintenance events. We expect to begin the initial planned engine maintenance overhauls on our new engine fleet approximately four to six years after the date of manufacture and introduction into our fleet, with subsequent engine maintenance every four to six years thereafter. Due to our relatively small fleet size and projected fleet growth, we believe contracting with third-party specialists for all of our heavy maintenance, engine restoration and major part repair, is more economical. We have entered into a long-term flight hour agreement for our engine overhaul services and an hour-by-hour basis agreement for component services. We also contract with third-party specialists for our heavy airframe maintenance. These contracts cover the majority of our aircraft component inventory acquisition, replacement and repairs, thereby eliminating the need to carry expensive spare parts inventory.

As of December 31, 2020, the operating leases for seven, four, six, four and eight aircraft in our fleet were scheduled to terminate during the remainder of 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024 and 2025, respectively. In certain circumstances, such operating leases may be extended. Prior to such aircraft being returned to lessors, we will incur costs to restore these aircraft to the condition required by the terms of the underlying operating leases.

We currently have an obligation to purchase 156 aircraft by the end of 2028. We expect that these new aircraft will require less maintenance when they are first placed in service (sometimes called a “maintenance holiday”) because the aircraft will benefit from manufacturer warranties and also will be able to operate for a significant period of time, generally measured in years, before the most expensive scheduled maintenance obligations, known as heavy maintenance, are required. Once these maintenance holidays expire, these aircraft will require more maintenance as it ages and our maintenance and repair expenses for each of our aircraft will be incurred at approximately the same intervals. See “Risk Factors—Risks Relating to Our Business—Our maintenance costs will increase over the near term, and we will periodically incur substantial maintenance costs due to the maintenance schedules of our aircraft fleet.”
Human Capital Resources

As of December 31, 2020, we had 5,005 employees, consisting of 1,589 pilots, 2,587 flight attendants, 117 aircraft technicians, 38 aircraft appearance agents, 22 material specialists, 14 maintenance controllers and 610 employees in administrative roles.

FAA regulations require pilots to have commercial licenses with specific ratings for the aircraft to be flown, and to be medically certified as physically fit to fly. FAA and medical certifications are subject to periodic renewal requirements including recurrent training and recent flying experience. Mechanics, quality-control inspectors and flight dispatchers must be certificated and qualified for specific aircraft. Flight attendants must have initial and periodic competency training and qualification. Training programs are subject to approval and monitoring by the FAA. Management personnel directly involved in the supervision of flight operations, training, maintenance, and aircraft inspection must also meet experience standards prescribed by FAA regulations. All safety-sensitive employees are subject to pre-employment, random and post-accident drug testing.

We focus on hiring highly productive employees and, where feasible, designing systems and processes around automation and the utilization of third-party specialists in order to maintain our low-cost base. With respect to pilots, given the pilot shortage being experienced by parts of the industry, particularly regional airlines, one of our operational priorities is to maintain a robust pipeline of qualified pilot candidates. We intend to maintain our pipeline through the continuation of the recruiting and selection arrangements that we have entered into with several regional airlines that are not affiliated with any of the legacy network airlines. Under these mutual recruiting and selection arrangements, we jointly recruit, interview and select candidates to become Frontier pilots after successfully meeting defined training and flight experience requirements with one of the feeder regional airlines. We have found these arrangements to be beneficial to our company because we are able to identify an attractive flow of pilot candidates and to be beneficial to the feeder regional airline because we are able to identify an attractive flow of pilot candidates and to graduate to a mainline airline, such as Frontier. In addition, under these arrangements, once we have selected a regional airline’s pilot for our career development program, the regional airline will not provide such pilot with an opportunity to participate in any similar programs with any other airline. Each of these arrangements is terminable at will by either party upon 60 days’ notice. In addition, we believe we are an attractive employer for pilots as a result of our strong growth, which provides our pilots with career progression opportunities and enables them to achieve substantial pay increases under the collective bargaining agreement. For example, as a result of our continuing fleet expansion, First Officers hired since late-2013 have been eligible for upgrade to Captain within 24 to 48 months of joining the company. As of December 31, 2020, our median pilot and flight attendant seniority was approximately five and three years, respectively.

We are committed to providing equal employment opportunities for all persons and prohibiting discrimination in all aspects of our operation, and have established employee business resource groups, including the Women’s Leadership Network and the Veterans’ Resource Group. We also partner with organizations such as the Latino Pilots Association, Girls in Aviation and RTAG (Rotary to Airline Group) to help foster opportunities and careers in aviation.
As of December 31, 2020, approximately 88% of our employees were represented by labor unions under collective-bargaining agreements. The table below sets forth our employee groups and status of the collective bargaining agreements with each as of December 31, 2020:

The RLA governs our relations with labor organizations. Under the RLA, the collective bargaining agreements generally do not expire, but instead become amendable as of a stated date. If either party wishes to modify the terms of any such agreement, they must notify the other party in the manner agreed to by the parties. Under the RLA, after receipt of such notice, the parties must meet for direct negotiations, and if no agreement is reached, either party may request the NMB to appoint a federal mediator. The RLA prescribes no set timetable for the direct negotiation and mediation process. It is not unusual for those processes to last for many months, and even for a few years. If no agreement is reached in mediation, the NMB in its discretion may declare at some time that an impasse exists, and if an impasse is declared, the NMB proffers binding arbitration to the parties. Either party may decline to submit to arbitration. If arbitration is rejected by either party, a 30-day “cooling off” period commences. During that period (or after), a Presidential Emergency Board (“PEB”), may be established, which examines the parties’ positions and recommends a solution. The PEB process lasts for 30 days and is followed by another “cooling off” period of 30 days. At the end of a “cooling off” period, unless an agreement is reached or action is taken by the U.S. Congress, the labor organization may strike and the airline may resort to “self-help,” including the imposition of any or all of its proposed amendments and the hiring of new employees to replace any striking workers. The U.S. Congress and the President have the authority to prevent “self-help” by enacting legislation that, among other things, imposes a settlement on the parties.

During the fourth quarter of 2016, we ratified a new five-year collective bargaining agreement with the dispatchers. In February 2017 and March 2017, the aircraft technicians and material specialists contracts were ratified to include new amendable dates of February 2022 and March 2022, respectively. In October 2018, new five-year collective bargaining agreements were reached with the aircraft appearance agents and maintenance controllers, and in March 2019 a new five-year collective bargaining agreement was reached with the aircraft technicians.

In March 2016 and July 2015, our collective bargaining agreements with our pilots, represented by ALPA, and our flight attendants, represented by AFA, respectively, became amendable. In December 2018, we and the pilots, represented by ALPA, reached a tentative agreement, which was subsequently approved by the pilots and became effective in January 2019. The agreement has a term of five years and includes a significant increase in the annual compensation of our pilots as well as a one-time ratification incentive payment to our pilots of $75 million plus applicable payroll taxes. We entered into NMB mediation with the union representing our flight attendants, AFA-CWA, in July 2017 and in March 2019 we reached a tentative agreement, which was ratified in May 2019.
Safety and Security

We are committed to the safety and security of our passengers and employees. Some of the safety and security measures we have taken include: aircraft security and surveillance, positive bag matching procedures, enhanced passenger and baggage screening and search procedures, and securing of cockpit doors. We strive to comply with or exceed health and safety regulation standards. In pursuing these goals, we maintain an active aviation safety program and all of our personnel are expected to participate in the program and take an active role in the identification, reduction and elimination of hazards.

Our ongoing focus on safety relies on training our employees to proper standards and providing them with the tools and equipment they require so they can perform their job functions in a safe and efficient manner. Safety in the workplace targets several areas of our operation including: flight operations, maintenance, in-flight, dispatch, and station operations.

TSA is charged with aviation security for both airlines and airports. We maintain active, open lines of communication with the TSA at all of our locations to ensure proper standards for security of our personnel, customers, equipment and facilities are exercised throughout the operation. In September 2016, we introduced TSA Precheck for our flights to improve our customers’ airport experience.

We are also an industry leader in healthy travel initiatives and are currently the only U.S. airline conducting temperature screenings for all passengers and crew prior to boarding. Anyone with a temperature of 100.4 degrees Fahrenheit or higher is denied boarding as a step to better protect other passengers while flying. Additionally, we have implemented sweeping health and safety enhancements affecting every step of a customer’s travel journey with the airline. Such initiatives include requiring face coverings that must be worn by all customers and team members throughout every flight and a health acknowledgement. Prior to completing check-in via our website or mobile app, passengers are required to confirm that (i) neither they nor anyone in their household has exhibited COVID-19 related symptoms in the 14 days preceding the flight, (ii) they will wash or sanitize their hands before boarding the flight, and (iii) they understand and acknowledge the airline’s face covering policy and pre-boarding temperature screening policies.

Facilities

We lease or rent all of our facilities at the airports we serve. Our leases for our terminal passenger service facilities, which include ticket counter and gate space, operations support area and baggage service office, generally contain provisions for periodic adjustments of lease rates. We are typically responsible for maintenance, insurance and other facility-related expenses and services under these agreements. We also have entered into use agreements at many of the airports we serve that provide for the non-exclusive use of runways, taxiways and other facilities. Landing fees under these agreements are based on the number of landings and weight of the aircraft.

We primarily operate out of Concourse A at Denver International Airport under an operating lease that expires in December 2021 with two one year extension options. We currently use up to eleven gates within Concourse A. We have preferential access to nine of the Concourse A gates and common use access to the remaining two Concourse A gates. Our operating lease also includes a 154,900 square foot hangar, which includes office space and is where we provide certain maintenance on our aircraft.

Our second largest operation is at Terminal A at Orlando International Airport, where we operate under an airport lease agreement that provides us with the preferential use of five airport gates and access to up to two additional common-use gates. Our lease agreement extends through September 2024.

Our principal executive offices and headquarters are located in owned premises at 4545 Airport Way, Denver, Colorado 80239, consisting of approximately 90,000 square feet.
Insurance

We maintain insurance policies we believe are of the types customary in the airline industry and as required by the DOT, lessors and other financing parties. The policies principally provide liability coverage for public and passenger injury; damage to property; loss of or damage to flight equipment; fire; auto; directors’ and officers’ liability; advertiser and media liability; cyber risk liability; fiduciary; workers’ compensation and employer’s liability; and war risk (terrorism). Although we currently believe our insurance coverage is adequate, we cannot assure you that the amount of such coverage will not be changed or that we will not be forced to bear substantial losses from accidents.

Foreign Ownership

Under federal law and DOT policy, we must be owned and controlled by U.S. citizens. The restrictions imposed by federal law and DOT policy currently require that at least 75% of our voting stock must be owned and controlled, directly and indirectly, by persons or entities who are U.S. citizens, as defined in 49 U.S.C. § 40102(a)(15), that our president and at least two-thirds of the members of our board of directors and other managing officers be U.S. citizens, and that we be under the actual control of U.S. citizens. In addition, at least 51% of our total outstanding stock must be owned and controlled by U.S. citizens and no more than 49% of our stock may be owned or controlled, directly or indirectly, by persons or entities who are not U.S. citizens and are from countries that have entered into “open skies” air transport agreements with the U.S. which allow unrestricted access between the United States and the applicable foreign country and to points beyond the foreign country on flights serving the foreign country. We are currently in compliance with these ownership provisions. For a discussion of the procedures we instituted to ensure compliance with these foreign ownership rules, please see “Description of Capital Stock—Anti-Takeover Provisions of Our Certificate of Incorporation and Bylaws—Limited Ownership and Voting by Foreign Owners.”

Government Regulation

Aviation Regulation

The DOT and FAA have regulatory authority over air transportation in the United States. The DOT has authority to issue certificates of public convenience and necessity, exemptions and other economic authority required for airlines to provide domestic and foreign air transportation. International routes and international codesharing arrangements are regulated by the DOT and by the governments of the foreign countries involved. A U.S. airline’s ability to operate flights to and from international destinations is subject to the air transport agreements between the United States and the foreign country and the carrier’s ability to obtain the necessary authority from the DOT and the applicable foreign government. Our codeshare arrangement with Volaris is subject to regulatory oversight in the United States and Mexico. In the United States, we received a Statement of Authorization from the DOT in June 2018 to display Volaris’ designator on flights operated by us under the Codeshare Agreement. Likewise, in Mexico, codeshare authority was granted to Frontier by the Dirección General de Aeronáutica Civil (the “DGAC”) in June 2018 to display Frontier’s designator on flights operated by Volaris.

The U.S. government has negotiated “open skies” agreements with many countries, which allow unrestricted access between the United States and the applicable foreign country and to points beyond the foreign country on flights serving the foreign country. With certain other countries, however, the United States has a restricted air transportation agreement. Our international flights to Mexico are governed by a liberalized bilateral air transport agreement which the DOT has determined has all of the attributes of an “open skies” agreement. Our flights to the Dominican Republic, Jamaica and Canada are governed by bilateral air transport agreements between the United States and such countries. Changes in U.S. aviation policies could result in the alteration or termination of the corresponding air transport agreement, diminish the value of our international route authorities or otherwise affect our operations to/from these countries.
The FAA is responsible for regulating and overseeing matters relating to the safety of air carrier flight operations, including the control of navigable air space, the qualification of flight personnel, flight training practices, compliance with FAA airline operating certificate requirements, aircraft certification and maintenance requirements and other matters affecting air safety. The FAA requires each commercial airline to obtain and hold an FAA air carrier certificate. We currently hold an FAA air carrier certificate.

Airport Access

In the United States, the FAA currently regulates the allocation of landing and takeoff authority, slots, slot exemptions, operating authorizations or similar capacity allocation mechanisms which limit takeoffs and landings at three U.S. airports (Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport (DCA), and New York’s LaGuardia Airport (LGA) and JFK International Airport (JFK)), two of which we serve (DCA and LGA). In addition, John Wayne Airport (SNA) in Orange County, California and Long Beach Airport (LGB) in Long Beach, California, have a locally imposed slot system. Our operations at these airports generally require the allocation of slots or analogous regulatory authorizations. We currently have sufficient slots or operating authorizations to operate our existing flights, but there is no assurance that we will be able to do so in the future because, among other reasons, such allocations are subject to changes in governmental regulations and policies. Our ability to retain slots or operating authorizations is subject to “use-or-lose” provisions of the governing regulations, and our ability to expand service at slot-controlled airports similarly is limited. The DOT also regulates slot transactions between airlines.

Consumer Protection Regulation

The DOT also has jurisdiction over certain economic issues affecting air transportation and consumer protection matters, including unfair or deceptive practices and unfair methods of competition, lengthy tarmac delays, airline advertising, denied boarding compensation, ticket refunds, baggage liability, contracts of carriage, customer service commitments, consumer notices and disclosures, customer complaints and transportation of passengers with disabilities. The DOT frequently adopts new consumer protection regulations, such as rules to protect passengers addressing lengthy tarmac delays, chronically delayed flights, codeshare disclosure and undisclosed display bias. The DOT also has adopted, and may adopt, rules on airline advertising and marketing practices. The DOT also has authority to review certain joint venture agreements, marketing agreements, codesharing agreements (where an airline places its designator code on a flight operated by another airline) and wet-leasing agreements (where one airline provides aircraft and crew to another airline) between carriers and regulates other economic matters such as slot transactions.

Security Regulation

The TSA and the U.S. Customs and Border Protection, each a division of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, are responsible for certain civil aviation security matters, including passenger and baggage screening at U.S. airports, and international passenger prescreening prior to entry into or departure from the U.S. International flights are subject to customs, border, immigration and similar requirements of equivalent foreign governmental agencies. We are currently in compliance with all directives issued by such agencies.

Environmental Regulation

We are subject to various federal, state, foreign and local laws and regulations relating to the protection of the environment and affecting matters such as air emissions (including GHG emissions), noise emissions, discharges to surface and subsurface waters, safe drinking water, and the use, management, release, discharge and disposal of, and exposure to, materials and chemicals.

In particular, in June 2015, the EPA issued revised underground storage tank regulations that could affect airport fuel hydrant systems and reissued the Multi-Sector General Permit for Stormwater Discharges from Industrial Activities. Among other revisions, the reissued permit incorporates the EPA's previously issued Airport Deicing Effluent Limitation Guidelines and New Source Performance Standards. In addition, California adopted a revised State Industrial General Permit for Stormwater Discharges on April 1, 2014, which became effective July 1, 2015. This permit places additional reporting and monitoring requirements on permittees and requires implementation of mandatory best management practices. Cost estimates to comply with the above permitting requirements have not been defined, but we, along with other airlines, would share a portion of these costs at applicable airports. In addition to the EPA and state regulations, several U.S. airport authorities are actively engaged in efforts to limit discharges of de-icing fluid to the environment, often by requiring airlines to participate in the building or reconfiguring of airport de-icing facilities. Such efforts are likely to impose additional costs and restrictions on airlines using those airports.

We are also subject to environmental laws and regulations that require us to investigate and remediate soil or groundwater to meet certain remediation standards. Under certain laws, generators of waste materials, and current and former owners or operators of facilities, can be subject to liability for investigation and remediation costs at locations that have been identified as requiring response actions. Liability under these laws may be strict, joint and several, meaning that we could be liable for the costs of cleaning up environmental contamination regardless of fault or the amount of wastes directly attributable to us.

GHG Emissions

Concern about climate change and greenhouse gases may result in additional regulation or taxation of aircraft emissions in the United States and abroad. In particular, in June 2015, the EPA announced a proposed endangerment finding that aircraft engine GHG emissions cause or contribute to air pollution that may reasonably be anticipated to endanger public health or welfare. If the EPA makes a final, positive endangerment finding, the EPA is obligated under the Clean Air Act to set GHG emissions standards for aircraft. Several states are also considering or have adopted initiatives to regulate emissions of GHGs, primarily through the planned development of GHG emissions inventories and/or regional cap-and-trade programs. On March 6, 2017, ICAO adopted new carbon dioxide certification standards for new aircraft beginning in 2020. The new CO2 standards will apply to new aircraft type designs from 2020, and to aircraft type designs already in production as of 2023. In-production aircraft that do not meet the standard by 2028 will no longer be able to be produced unless their designs are modified to meet the new standards. In January 2021, the EPA finalized GHG emission standards for new aircraft engines designed to implement the ICAO standards on the same timeframe contemplated by ICAO. Like the ICAO standards, the final EPA standards would not apply to engines on in-service aircraft. The final standards have been challenged by several states and environmental groups, and the Biden administration has announced plans to review these final standards along with others issued by the prior administration. The outcome of the legal challenge and administrative review cannot be predicted at this time.

In the event that such legislation or regulation is enacted in the United States or in the event similar legislation or regulation is enacted in jurisdictions where we operate or where we may operate in the future, it could result in significant costs for us and the airline industry. In addition to direct costs, such regulation may have a greater effect on the airline industry through increases in fuel costs that could result from fuel suppliers passing on increased costs that they incur under such a system.

In addition, we are subject to the requirements of CORSIA, an international, market-based emissions reduction program adopted by ICAO in 2016. CORSIA is intended to achieve carbon-neutral growth in the international aviation sector from 2021 through 2035 by requiring airlines to compensate for the growth in CO2 emissions, relative to a predetermined baseline, of a significant majority of international flights through the purchase of carbon offsets or the use of low-carbon fuels. For each year from 2021 through 2029, CORSIA requires each airline to compensate for the rate of growth of the CO2 emissions of the aviation sector as a whole as determined by ICAO. Starting in 2030, CORSIA will require airlines to compensate for growth in CO2 emissions using a formula determined by ICAO that will combine the growth in aviation sector emissions and the growth in the individual airline’s emissions, with the proportion of the latter rising from at least 20 percent over the period 2030-2032 to at least 70 percent over the period 2033-2035.
ICAO originally defined the baseline as the average emissions from covered flights in 2019 and 2020. However, due to the impact of the pandemic on air travel, in June 2020 ICAO determined to remove 2020 from the baseline for the first few years of CORSIA implementation (2021-2023). Accordingly, we do not expect to be required to purchase offset credits over that period, unless the recovery in demand for international travel is unexpectedly strong and exceeds that of 2019 in those years.

At this time, the costs of complying with our future obligations under CORSIA are uncertain, primarily because of the difficulty in estimating the return of demand for international air travel in the recovery from the pandemic. There is also significant uncertainty with respect to the future supply and price of carbon offset credits and sustainable or lower carbon aircraft fuels that could allow us to reduce our emissions of CO2. In addition, as described above, we will not directly control our CORSIA compliance costs because our compliance obligations through 2029 are based on the growth in emissions of the global aviation sector and begin to incorporate a factor for individual airline operator emissions growth starting in 2030.

Noise

Federal law recognizes the right of airport operators with special noise problems to implement local noise abatement procedures so long as those procedures do not interfere unreasonably with interstate and foreign commerce and the national air transportation system, subject to FAA review under the Airport Noise and Capacity Act (ANCA) of 1990. These restrictions can include limiting nighttime operations, directing specific aircraft operational procedures during take-off and initial climb and limiting the overall number of flights at an airport. While we have had sufficient scheduling flexibility to accommodate local noise restrictions in the past, our operations could be adversely impacted if locally imposed regulations become more restrictive or widespread.

Other Regulations

Airlines are also subject to various other federal, state, local and foreign laws and regulations. For example, the U.S. Department of Justice has jurisdiction over certain airline competition matters. Labor relations in the airline industry are generally governed by the Railway Labor Act. The privacy and security of passenger and employee data is regulated by various domestic and foreign laws and regulations.

Future Regulations

The U.S. government and foreign governments may consider and adopt new laws, regulations, interpretations and policies regarding a wide variety of matters that could directly or indirectly affect our results of operations. We cannot predict what laws, regulations, interpretations and policies might be considered in the future, nor can we judge what impact, if any, the implementation of any of these proposals or changes might have on our business.

Legal Proceedings

We are subject to commercial litigation claims and to administrative and regulatory proceedings and reviews that may be asserted or maintained from time to time. We currently believe that the ultimate outcome of such lawsuits, proceedings and reviews will not, individually or in the aggregate, have a material adverse effect on our financial position, liquidity or results of operations.

Daniel M. Shurz has served as our Senior Vice President, Commercial since January 2012. Mr. Shurz also served as our Vice President, Strategy and Planning from June 2009 to January 2012. Prior to that, Mr. Shurz served as vice president, network planning from August 2006 to April 2009 and director, business development from May 2005 to August 2006 at Air Canada. Mr. Shurz also served in various roles at United Airlines from 1996 to 2001. Mr. Shurz holds a B.A. from Cambridge University and an M.B.A. from the University of Chicago Booth School of Business.

Jake F. Filene has served as our Senior Vice President, Customers since March 2019. Prior to serving in this role, Mr. Filene served as our Deputy Chief Operating Officer since joining us in July 2017. Mr. Filene served as vice president, airport services and corporate real estate at Spirit Airlines, Inc. from January 2016 to June 2017, also holding that position from January 2012 to June 2013. Board Composition

Our board of directors is presently comprised of 10 members. In accordance with our amended and restated certificate of incorporation to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering, our board of directors will be divided into three classes with staggered three-year terms effective immediately prior to the completion of this offering. At each annual general meeting of stockholders, the successors to directors whose terms then expire will be elected to serve from the time of election and qualification until the third annual meeting following election. Our directors will be divided among the three classes as follows:

• The Class I directors are Messrs. W. Franke and Connor and Ms. Pineda, and their terms will expire at the annual general meeting of stockholders to be held in 2022;
• The Class II directors are Messrs. Han, MacDonald, Broderick and Wolff, and their terms will expire at the annual general meeting of stockholders to be held in 2023; and
• The Class III directors are Messrs. Biffle, B. Franke and Genise, and their terms will expire at the annual general meeting of stockholders to be held in 2024.

Any additional directorships resulting from an increase in the number of directors will be distributed among the three classes so that, as nearly as possible, each class will consist of one-third of the directors.

An investment fund managed by Indigo owns more than 50% of our outstanding voting securities and we are therefore considered a “controlled company” within the meaning of the Nasdaq Stock Market rules. Following the consummation of this offering, we expect to remain a “controlled company” and we intend to rely upon the “controlled company” exception to the board of directors and committee independence requirements under the Nasdaq Stock Market rules. Pursuant to this exception, we will be exempt from the rules that would otherwise require that our board of directors be comprised of a majority of independent directors and that our compensation and nominating and corporate governance committees be composed entirely of independent directors. The “controlled company” exception does not modify the independence requirements for the audit committee, and we expect to rely on certain phase-in provisions to comply with the requirements of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and the Nasdaq Stock Market rules, requiring that our audit committee be comprised exclusively of independent directors within one year of this offering.

Our board of directors has undertaken a review of the independence of each director and considered whether any director has a material relationship with us that could compromise his or her ability to exercise independent judgment in carrying out his or her responsibilities. As a result of this review, our board of directors determined that Messrs. Connor, Han, Genise, MacDonald, Wolff and Ms. Pineda are “independent directors” as defined under the applicable rules and regulations of the SEC and the Nasdaq Stock Market.

Family Relationships

William A. Franke is the father of Brian H. Franke. Otherwise, there are no family relationships among any of our directors or executive officers.

Leadership Structure

We have historically separated the roles of CEO and Chairman of the Board in recognition of the differences between the two roles. The CEO is responsible for setting our strategic direction and our day-to-day leadership and performance, while the Chairman of the Board provides guidance to the CEO, sets the agenda for board meetings and presides over meetings of the full board of directors.

Board Committees

Our board of directors has the following committees: an audit committee, a compensation committee and a nominating and corporate governance committee. The composition and responsibilities of each committee are described below. Members serve on these committees until their resignation or until otherwise determined by our board.

Audit Committee

Our audit committee oversees our corporate accounting and financial reporting process and the audits of our financial statements. Among other matters, the audit committee evaluates the independent auditors’ qualifications, independence and performance; determines the engagement of the independent auditors; reviews and approves the scope of the annual audit and the audit fee; discusses with management and the independent auditors the results of the annual audit and the review of our quarterly financial statements; approves the retention of the independent auditors to perform any proposed permissible non-audit services; monitors the rotation of partners of the independent auditors on the Company’s engagement team as required by law; reviews our critical accounting policies and estimates; oversees our internal audit function and annually reviews the audit committee charter and the committee’s performance. The current members of our audit committee are Messrs. Broderick, Connor, and MacDonald, with Mr. Han serving as the chair of the committee. All members of our audit committee meet the requirements for financial literacy under the applicable rules and regulations of the SEC and the Nasdaq Stock Market. Our board has determined that Mr. Han is an audit committee financial expert as defined under the applicable rules of the SEC and has the requisite financial sophistication as defined under the applicable rules and regulations of the Nasdaq Select Global Market. Messrs. Han, Connor and MacDonald are independent directors as defined under the applicable rules and regulations of the SEC and the Nasdaq Stock Market. The audit committee operates under a written charter that satisfies the applicable standards of the SEC and the Nasdaq Stock Market. Our audit committee will consist of at least one member that is independent upon the effectiveness of our registration statement of which this prospectus forms a part, a majority of members that are independent within 90 days thereafter and all members that are independent within one year thereafter.
Compensation Committee

Our compensation committee reviews our compensation philosophy, reviews and approves corporate goals and objectives relevant to compensation of our Chief Executive Officer and other executive officers, evaluates our performance in light of those goals and objectives, and sets the compensation of these officers based on such evaluations. The compensation committee also considers market trends in executive compensation with respect to the compensation of these officers. The compensation committee or a subcommittee thereof also administers the issuance of stock options and other awards under our stock plans. The compensation committee reviews and evaluates, at least annually, the performance of the compensation committee and its members, including compliance of the compensation committee with its charter. The current members of our compensation committee are Messrs. Genise Wolf, and Ms. Pineda, with Mr. W. Franke serving as the chair of the committee.

In order for our compensation committee to continue to make recommendations or determinations with respect to executive compensation, such committee must be composed of a majority of independent directors within 90 days from the date our common stock is listed on the Nasdaq Stock Market and entirely of independent directors within one year from the date our common stock is listed on the Nasdaq Stock Market. However, if we remain or become a “controlled company,” we will qualify for, and expect to rely on, exemptions from the Nasdaq Stock Market corporate governance requirements that require such committee to be composed entirely of independent directors. Our board of directors has affirmatively determined that each of Messrs. Genise and Wolf and Ms. Pineda meets the definition of “independent director” for purposes of the Nasdaq Stock Market listing rules and is and will be a “non-employee director” as defined in Rule 16b-3 promulgated under the Exchange Act.

Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee

Our nominating and corporate governance committee is responsible for making recommendations to our board of directors regarding candidates for directorships and the size and composition of our board of directors. In addition, the nominating and corporate governance committee is responsible for overseeing our corporate governance policies and reporting and making recommendations to our board of directors concerning governance matters. The nominating and corporate governance committee reviews and evaluates, at least annually, the performance of the nominating and corporate governance committee and its members, including compliance of the nominating and corporate governance committee with its charter. The current members of our nominating and corporate governance committee are Messrs. W. Franke and Genise, and Ms. Pineda, with Mr. B. Franke serving as the chair of the committee.

In order for our nominating and corporate governance committee to continue to make recommendations or determinations with respect to the composition of our board, such committee must be composed of a majority of independent directors within 90 days from the date our common stock is listed on the Nasdaq Stock Market and entirely of independent directors within one year from the date our common stock is listed on the Nasdaq Stock Market. However, if we remain or become a “controlled company,” we will qualify for, and expect to rely on, exemptions from the Nasdaq Stock Market corporate governance requirements that require such committee to be composed entirely of independent directors. Our board of directors has affirmatively determined that each of Mr. Genise and Ms. Pineda meets the definition of “independent director” for purposes of the Nasdaq Stock Market listing rules.

Compensation Committee Interlocks and Insider Participation

None of the members of our compensation committee is or has at any time during the past year been an officer or employee of ours. None of our executive officers currently serves or in the past year has served as a member of the board of directors or compensation committee of any entity that has one or more executive officers serving on our board or compensation committee.
Code of Ethics

Our board of directors has adopted a Code of Ethics. The Code of Ethics is applicable to all members of the board, officers and other employees, including our Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer and principal accounting officer. The Code of Ethics will be available under the Investor Relations section on our website at www.FlyFrontier.com under “Code of Ethics” at or around the time of this offering. The Code of Ethics addresses, among other things, issues relating to conflicts of interests, including internal reporting of violations and disclosures, and compliance with applicable laws, rules and regulations. The purpose of the Code of Ethics is to deter wrongdoing and to promote, among other things, honest and ethical conduct and to ensure the greatest possible extent that our business is conducted in a legal and ethical manner. We intend to promptly disclose (1) the nature of any amendment to our code of ethics that applies to our directors, executive officers or other principal financial officers, or an immediate family member of a director, executive officer or other principal financial officer, and (2) the nature of any waiver, including an implicit waiver, from a provision of our code of ethics that is granted to one of these specified directors, officers or other principal financial officers, or an immediate family member of a specified director, executive officer or other principal financial officer, the name of such person who is granted the waiver and the date of the waiver on our website in the future.

Limitation of Liability and Indemnification

Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation, which will be in effect upon the completion of this offering, contains provisions that limit the liability of our directors for monetary damages to the fullest extent permitted by Delaware law. Consequently, our directors will not be personally liable to us or our stockholders for monetary damages for any breach of fiduciary duties as directors, except liability for:

- any breach of the director’s duty of loyalty to us or our stockholders;
- any act or omission not in good faith or that involves intentional misconduct or a knowing violation of law;
- unlawful payments of dividends or unlawful stock repurchases or redemptions as provided in Section 174 of the Delaware General Corporation Law; or
- any transaction from which the director derived an improper personal benefit.

Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering provides that we shall indemnify our directors and officers, in each case to the fullest extent permitted by Delaware law. Our amended and restated bylaws to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering also provide that we shall indemnify our directors and officers to the fullest extent permitted by Delaware law and advance expenses incurred by a director or officer in advance of the final disposition of any action or proceeding, and permit us to secure insurance on behalf of any officer, director, employee or other agent for any liability arising out of his or her actions in that capacity regardless of whether we would otherwise be permitted to indemnify him or her under the provisions of Delaware law. We have entered and expect to continue to enter into agreements to indemnify our directors, executive officers and other employees as determined by our board of directors. With specified exceptions, these agreements provide for indemnification for judgments, fines and settlement amounts as well as for related expenses including, among other things, attorneys’ fees incurred by any of these individuals in any action or proceeding. We believe these limitation of liability provisions and indemnification agreements are necessary to attract and retain qualified persons as directors and officers. We also maintain directors’ and officers’ liability insurance.

The limitation of liability and indemnification provisions in our amended and restated certificate of incorporation, amended and restated bylaws and indemnification agreements may discourage stockholders from bringing a lawsuit against our directors and officers for breach of their fiduciary duty. Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation provides that any such lawsuit must be brought in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware. The foregoing provisions may also reduce the likelihood of derivative litigation against our directors and officers, even though an action, if successful, might benefit us and other stockholders. Further, a stockholder’s investment may be adversely affected to the extent that we pay the costs of settlement and damage awards against directors and officers as required by these indemnification provisions. Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act may be permitted to our directors, officers and controlling persons pursuant to the foregoing provisions, or otherwise, we have been advised that, in the opinion of the SEC, such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act, and is, therefore, unenforceable. At present, there is no pending litigation or proceeding involving any of our directors, officers or employees for which indemnification is sought, and we are not aware of any threatened litigation that may result in claims for indemnification.
EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION

Compensation Discussion and Analysis

The following discussion and analysis of compensation arrangements of our named executive officers (“NEOs”) should be read together with the compensation tables and related disclosures set forth below. This discussion contains forward-looking statements that are based on our current plans, considerations, expectations and determinations regarding future compensation programs. Actual compensation programs that we adopt may differ materially from currently planned programs as summarized in this discussion. Our employees, including the NEOs, are employed with Frontier and all employee compensation matters have historically been decided by the board of directors of Frontier and its compensation committee, except for grants of equity awards, which have been made by our board of directors. Following the closing of this offering, all compensation matters in respect to our NEOs will be determined by the compensation committee of our board of directors. All references to “we,” “us” or “our” in this Executive Compensation section will refer to Frontier and Frontier’s board of directors and its compensation committee for actions taken in respect of equity awards prior to the completion of this offering to FGHI and FGHI’s board of directors and its compensation committee for actions taken in respect of cash compensation on and after the completion of this offering.

Our compensation committee, which is appointed by our board of directors, is responsible for establishing, implementing and monitoring our compensation philosophy and objectives. We seek to ensure that the total compensation paid to our executive officers is reasonable and competitive. Compensation of our executives is structured around the achievement of individual performance and near-term corporate targets as well as long-term business objectives.

Our NEOs for fiscal year 2020 were as follows:

• Barry L. Biffle, President and Chief Executive Officer;
• James G. Dempsey, Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer;
• Howard M. Diamond, Senior Vice President, General Counsel and Secretary;
• Daniel M. Shurz, Senior Vice President, Commercial; and • Jake F. Filene, Senior Vice President, Customers.

Compensation Philosophy and Objectives

We strive to find the best talent, resources and infrastructure to better serve our customers. Our goal is to attract and retain the most highly qualified executives to manage and oversee each of our business functions. We seek out individuals who we believe will be able to contribute to our business and our vision of future success, our culture and values, and who will promote the long-term interests and growth of our company. Our philosophy is that executive officer compensation should be structured to be straightforward and evolve alongside our company, provide incentive compensation to motivate and reward executive officers to attain established company and individual goals, supply competitive base salaries and benefits to attract and retain superior employees and utilize equity-based compensation that is consistent with increasing stockholder value and encourages an ownership mentality by our executives.

In determining the form and amount of compensation payable to the NEOs, we are guided by the following objectives and principles:

• Compensation programs should be straightforward, clear and evolve with our business. As part of our development as a business, we aim to ensure our compensation programs are straightforward and clear in order to provide transparency to our stakeholders. Our executive compensation program should give strong, clear incentives to our executives and adapt and evolve to reflect the growth and development of our company to ensure we remain competitive in the marketplace.
Compensation should relate directly to performance, and variable compensation should constitute a significant portion of total compensation. We believe that our compensation programs foster an environment of innovation that rewards outstanding performance. Accordingly, a significant portion of total compensation should be based on variable compensation that is tied to and varies with our financial, operational and strategic performance, as well as individual performance. Executives with greater roles and the ability to directly impact our company’s goals and long-term results should bear a greater proportion of the risk if these goals and results are not achieved.

Compensation levels should be designed to attract, motivate and retain exceptional executives in the markets in which we operate. The market for talented management is highly competitive in our industry. We aim to provide an executive compensation program that attracts, motivates and retains high-performing talent and rewards them for our achieving and maintaining a competitive position in our industry. Total compensation should increase with position and responsibility.

Long-term equity-based compensation should align executives’ interests with our stockholders’ interests. Long-term incentive awards, including equity-based compensation, incentivize executives to manage the company from a perspective that is beneficial to our stockholders, promoting the long-term growth of our company. Equity-based compensation should be utilized to foster an ownership mentality among our executives and to align the interests of our executives with our stockholders.

Determination of Compensation

Our compensation committee meets periodically to review and consider recommendations from Mr. Biffle with respect to each NEO’s base salary, annual bonus compensation and long-term equity awards, other than with respect to himself. At the same time, our compensation committee reviews and determines adjustments, if necessary, to Mr. Biffle’s compensation, including his base salary, annual bonus compensation and long-term equity awards. Our compensation committee annually evaluates our company-wide performance against the approved performance targets for the prior fiscal year. Our committee also meets periodically to discuss compensation-related matters as they arise during the year. For fiscal year 2020, our compensation committee determined each individual component of compensation for our NEOs. Mr. Biffle evaluates each other NEO's individual performance and contributions to our company at the end of each fiscal year and reports his recommendations regarding each element of the other NEOs’ compensation to our compensation committee. Mr. Biffle does not participate in any formal discussion with our compensation committee regarding decisions on his own compensation and he recuses himself from meetings when his compensation is discussed. Following the completion of this offering, our compensation committee will oversee the annual compensation review process for all NEOs.

We generally rely on a flexible compensation program that allows us to adapt components and levels of compensation to motivate and reward individual executives to attain certain company-wide and individual goals. Subjective factors considered in compensation determinations include an executive’s experience and capabilities, contributions to the executive’s business unit or department, contributions to our overall company performance and whether the total compensation structure is sufficient to ensure the retention of the executive after taking into account the compensation potential that may be available elsewhere.

In early fiscal year 2020, our compensation committee began with a review of the primary aspects of our compensation programs for our named executive officers, including base salaries, performance-based bonuses and equity grants. As part of this process, our compensation committee consulted compensation surveys and gained a general understanding of current compensation practices through its compensation consultant, Willis Towers Watson. The surveys provided by Willis Towers Watson reported statistics on the total compensation, position and responsibilities of executives employed by similarly situated companies in our industry and other companies based on revenue. Willis Towers Watson led our compensation committee through a detailed review of recent executive compensation trends, including as to the form and amount of cash compensation and equity grants. For fiscal year 2020, Willis Towers Watson recommended, and our compensation committee approved, the following peer group (the “Compensation Peer Group”), consisting of competitor airlines, for compensation market comparison purposes:

- Alaska Air Group, Inc.
- Hawaiian Holdings Inc.
- JetBlue Airways Corporation
- Spirit Airlines, Inc.
- Sun Country, Inc.
- WestJet Airlines, Ltd.

The selection of companies for the Compensation Peer Group focused on small to medium-sized passenger carriers as an appropriate population for assessing the amounts and percentile rankings of compensation elements for NEOs, including base salaries, short-term incentives (bonuses) and long-term equity-based incentives. Our compensation committee determined that our competition for executive talent came significantly from these carriers. Willis Towers Watson primarily used the Compensation Peer Group to assess the competitiveness of our Chief Executive Officer’s compensation, as this position would normally be recruited from other passenger airlines.

In assessing the compensation of our Chief Financial Officer, General Counsel and Secretary, Senior Vice President, Commercial, and Senior Vice President, Customers, Willis Towers Watson used a blended approach consisting of both Compensation Peer Group proxy data and broader survey data, adjusted for revenue size, as these positions could also be recruited from companies in other industries. Willis Towers Watson weighted the general industry companies at 25% and the airline peer group companies at 75% when evaluating our executive compensation and recommending adjustments. For its 2020 analysis, the survey data were pulled from the following three executive pay surveys:

- Seabury Airline Industry Compensation Survey Analysis;
- Willis Towers Watson Compensation Data Bank (CDB) General Industry Executive Compensation Survey Report; and

The data from the two general industry executive surveys were cut in scope to focus on companies with revenues approximating our revenue of approximately $2.0 billion. Our compensation committee was not aware of the individual companies participating in the surveys and reviewed the data in a summarized fashion.

Our compensation committee has historically approved an overall guideline of total direct compensation for our senior management generally around the market median. Our executive compensation philosophy contemplates that our compensation committee would annually select a mix of base salary, annual target incentive compensation and long-term target incentive compensation intended to deliver total target direct compensation for our executive officers, in the aggregate, at approximately the market 50th percentile. However, our compensation committee reserved discretion to deviate from the above guidelines as necessary to account for changing industry characteristics, our particular business model, individual performance and other factors. Willis Towers Watson’s February 2020 analysis indicated that, in the aggregate, our NEOs’ 2019 total target cash compensation (base salary plus target bonus opportunity) were generally aligned with the desired pay positioning, approximating the 50th percentile of the market.

After establishing our compensation programs for 2020, we entered into a payroll support agreement and a loan agreement with the federal government pursuant to which we have received assistance under the CARES Act and the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021, which were enacted to provide emergency assistance to individuals, families and businesses affected by the COVID-19 pandemic. In accordance with such legislation, the agreements impose certain caps on executive compensation as a condition to the assistance. Pursuant to the limit, each of our NEO’s total compensation during any 12-month period from March 24, 2020 until the first anniversary of the date on which the loan is no longer outstanding is capped at an amount equal to the lesser of (i) the NEO’s total compensation for 2019 or (ii) the sum of (a) $3 million and (b) 50% of the total compensation in excess of $3 million received by the NEO in calendar year 2019, in each case, based on the total compensation for 2019 set forth in the Summary Compensation Table below. The programs established by our compensation committee for fiscal year 2020 have not caused any compensation to reach a NEO’s cap; however, in future years, the caps could require us to reduce compensation otherwise payable to our NEOs.

Components of Compensation for Fiscal Year 2020

Our performance-driven compensation program for our NEOs consists of the following main components:

- base salary;
- performance-based cash incentives;
- equity-based incentives;
- benefits;
- perquisites; and
- termination-based compensation.

We will continue to build our executive compensation program around each of these elements because each individual component is useful in furthering our compensation philosophy and we believe that, collectively, they are effective in achieving our overall objectives.

Base Salary. We provide our NEOs with a base salary to compensate them for their service to our company during each fiscal year. The base salary payable to each NEO is intended to provide a fixed component of compensation that adequately reflects the executive’s qualifications, experience, role and responsibilities. Base salary amounts are established based on consideration of, among other factors, the scope of the NEO’s position, responsibilities and years of service and our compensation committee’s general knowledge of the competitive market, based on, among other things, experience with other similarly situated companies and our industry and market data provided by Willis Towers Watson.

In early 2020, after consultation with Mr. Biffle (except for his own base salary) and Willis Towers Watson, Mr. Biffle’s base salary was increased to $625,000, Mr. Dempsey’s base salary was increased to $525,000, Mr. Diamond’s base salary was increased to $400,000, Mr. Shurz’s base salary was increased to $370,000 and Mr. Filene’s base salary was increased to $360,000 in order to better align their total direct compensation with the 50th percentile of the market and to reward them for their outstanding performance and dedication to our company. The following table represents our NEOs’ base salaries in effect for fiscal year 2020 after taking into account each NEO’s increase.

(1) During the second calendar quarter of 2020, Mr. Biffle voluntarily waived his base salary in light of the challenges presented to our business by COVID-19. This voluntary waiver is reflected in the chart above. Mr. Biffle’s salary resumed in the third quarter of 2020.
Performance-Based Cash Incentives. As a cornerstone of our compensation policy, we aim to create a direct correlation between the executive’s role and responsibilities and the ability to earn variable pay. We provide cash bonuses to reward and incentivize superior individual and business performance, resulting in a performance-based organizational culture. Our performance-based cash incentive plans are designed to reward our executives for innovation and motivate them to achieve both corporate targets and individual goals, thereby tying the executives’ goals and interests to those of our company and its stockholders.

Each of our NEOs was eligible for performance-based cash incentives under our fiscal year 2020 Management Bonus Plan. The Management Bonus Plan is reviewed and approved annually by our compensation committee. The determination of the amount of bonuses paid to our NEOs generally reflects a number of considerations, including our costs and revenues among other corporate targets and, when relevant, individual targets. The formula used to calculate a participating executive’s performance-based bonus amount is the sum of the amount calculated for each performance goal, which is found by multiplying the overall target bonus opportunity times the weighting for such performance goal times the achievement level for such performance goal.

Our compensation committee expresses each executive’s target bonus opportunity as a percentage of base salary earned for the year. Our compensation committee did not follow a formula but rather used the factors as general background information prior to determining the target bonus opportunity rates for our NEOs. Our compensation committee set these rates based on each NEO’s experience in his role with the company and the level of responsibility held by each NEO, which our compensation committee believes directly correlates to his ability to influence corporate results. For fiscal year 2020, based on market data provided by Willis Towers Watson, our compensation committee used a guideline target bonus opportunity of 125% for Mr. Biffle, 90% for Mr. Dempsey, 70% for Messrs. Diamond and Shurz, and 65% for Mr. Filene.

When determining the bonus amounts for our NEOs under the Management Bonus Plan, our compensation committee sets certain performance goals, using a mixture of corporate and individual performance. The individual performance under our Management Bonus Plan is not based on any specific performance targets, but rather is determined by our compensation committee in its sole discretion after evaluating overall individual performance in a fiscal year and after receiving recommendations from Mr. Biffle, other than for himself. Our compensation committee’s determinations of the individual performance of our NEOs are not expected to result in payments of the annual bonus based on average or below average performance by the NEOs. Corporate goals and performance targets and individual performance are reviewed and approved by our compensation committee prior to any allocation of the bonus. For fiscal year 2020, our compensation committee determined the overall funding of the Management Bonus Plan was based on the achievement of corporate goals, with individual bonuses weighted 75% based on corporate performance and 25% based on individual performance.

In early fiscal year 2020, our compensation committee established corporate performance targets for each NEO. Our compensation committee does not establish any specific individual performance targets; instead our compensation committee reviews at the end of each fiscal year each NEO’s individual performance overall and determines any satisfaction of individual performance based on their review of each NEO’s overall contributions to us during the fiscal year.

The corporate performance targets established by our compensation committee in early 2020 were as follows:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Performance Metric</th>
<th>Weighing</th>
<th>Definition</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Full Year Ex-Fuel Stage Adjusted CASM including net interest (1,047 miles)</td>

<tr>
<td>Full Year Net Margin (Industry Rank)</td>
<td>30%</td>
<td>Annual operating margin, calculated in accordance with GAAP, as reported in our</td>
</tr>
For each of these performance goals under the Management Bonus Plan, our compensation committee sets a threshold, target, stretch and maximum achievement level. A component of performance must be achieved at no less than 50% before it is taken into account in calculating an executive’s bonus amount and achievement cannot exceed 200% of the target for any component. The threshold goals correspond to an achievement level of 50%, the target goals correspond to an achievement level of 100%, the stretch goals correspond to an achievement level of 150% and the maximum goals are satisfied with an achievement level of 200%. The threshold, target, stretch and maximum achievement levels for fiscal year 2020 are included in the table below. In early 2021, our compensation committee reviewed our fiscal year 2020 company-wide performance with respect to determining bonuses to executive officers, as well as individual performance achievements. Our compensation committee determined the corporate performance goal achievement set forth in the tables below and achievement of the individual performance goals for Mr. Biffle at 115%, for Mr. Dempsey at 115%, for Mr. Diamond at 112%, for Mr. Shurz at 100% and for Mr. Filene at 110% based on our compensation committee’s determination, in its discretion, that each NEO had outstanding individual performance in their various roles with us and showed continued dedication to us throughout the year.
Following its review and determinations, our compensation committee awarded cash bonuses to each NEO as set forth in the table below. The NEOs’ 2020 bonuses are set forth under the “Summary Compensation Table” below.

(1) Mr. Biffle’s bonus target is based on the amount he would have earned in 2020 had he not taken a voluntary salary reduction.

For fiscal year 2021, our compensation committee has approved the Fiscal Year 2021 Management Bonus Plan for all executives. The 2021 Management Bonus Plan for our executives is similar to our current annual cash incentive plan.

Equity-based incentives. Our compensation committee fosters an environment of executive ownership that encourages and incentivizes long-term investment and engagement by our NEOs through the use of equity-based awards. Our aim is to promote long-term, sustainable growth and align executive performance and behaviors to create a culture conducive to stockholder investment.

In order to attract and retain the best available management and other personnel with the training, experience and ability to make substantial contributions to the success of our business and to motivate and provide additional incentives to our employees, non-employee board members and consultants, we maintain the 2014 Equity Incentive Plan (the “2014 Plan”). The 2014 Plan provides for the grant of options, restricted stock, restricted stock units and other stock-based awards. We intend to adopt a 2021 Incentive Award Plan (the “2021 Plan”), which will be effective immediately prior to the consummation of this offering. The 2021 Plan will replace the 2014 Plan and no further grants will be made under the 2014 Plan, and the 2014 Plan will terminate, except with regard to grants then outstanding under the 2014 Plan.

We have granted options and restricted stock units to each of our NEOs under the 2014 Plan, which is administered by our full board of directors. When determining the size of the grants for NEOs, our board of directors takes into account the size of past equity grants, the NEO’s position (level) in our company, compensation, the NEO’s value for our company based on their experience, innovation, expertise and leadership capabilities and the recommendation of our compensation committee. The philosophy behind the option grants is to provide the NEO with a strong incentive to build long-term value in our company. Generally, options and restricted stock unit granted under the 2014 Plan to our executives vests in equal annual installments over four years, subject to continued service with our company. In addition, the exercise price of options granted under the 2014 Plan is equal to the fair market value of our common stock on the date of grant as determined by our board of directors.

On February 19, 2020, our board of directors granted each of our NEOs an award of restricted stock units as follows: Mr. Biffle, 7,411; Mr. Dempsey, 2,381; Mr. Diamond, 2,381; Mr. Shurz, 2,024; and Mr. Filene, 1,702. Each award of restricted stock units vests as to 1/3rd of the total number of restricted stock units awarded on each anniversary of the date of grant, subject to the NEO’s continued service to us.

Equity forms an integral part of the overall compensation for each executive officer and will be considered each year as part of the annual performance review process and incentive payout calculation. In the future, we may consider awarding additional forms of equity incentives, such as grants of restricted stock and performance-based awards, and may also determine to seek additional input from compensation consultants. We expect that our equity awards we make to our executive officers will be driven by our sustained performance and growth, our executive officers’ ability to impact our results that influence stockholder value, their organization level and their potential to take on roles of increasing responsibility.

Benefits. We provide the following benefits to all our employees, including our NEOs:

- medical, dental and vision insurance;
- life insurance, accidental death and dismemberment and business travel and accident insurance;
- employee assistance program;
- health and dependent care flexible spending accounts;
- short and long-term disability; and
- 401(k) plan, which includes an employer matching contribution of 50% of the applicable employee’s first 6% of plan contributions.

Our compensation committee, in its discretion, may revise, amend or add to any executive’s benefits if it deems necessary. Consistent with our overall compensation philosophy, we intend to continue to maintain our current benefits plans for executives as well as other employees.

Perquisites. We determine perquisites on a case-by-case basis and will provide a perquisite to a NEO when we believe it is necessary to attract or retain the executive officer. Any perquisites we supply are reasonable and consistent with market trends. We believe that providing these benefits is a relatively inexpensive way to enhance the competitiveness of the executive’s compensation package. As is common in the airline industry, we provide a Universal Air Travel Plan (“UATP”) to our officers and members of the board of directors, whereby each individual receives a yearly dollar value that they may use for personal travel on our flights for themselves and certain qualifying friends and family. Each one-way flight they take is valued at $75, which is the average cost to us of a one-way flight for us. For fiscal year 2020, each NEO received a travel bank under the UATP equal to $11,000 for Mr. Biffle and $8,250 for Messrs. Diamond, Filene, Shurz and Dempsey. We do not provide any other significant perquisites or personal benefits to our named executive officers.

Termination-Based Compensation. We believe that terminations of employment are causes of great concern and uncertainty for our senior executives. We aim to alleviate these concerns and allow executives to remain focused on their duties and responsibilities to our company by providing protections to our executives in the termination context. As such, each of our NEOs is eligible for severance benefits under his employment agreement.

Each of our NEOs is eligible for severance benefits, both in connection with and outside of a change in control, under his respective employment agreement with our company. Our compensation committee and/or our board approves of termination benefits to our NEOs based on its general knowledge of severance practices in our industry and as the result of arms’ length negotiations at the time our executives enter into employment with us or at the time they are requested to take on additional responsibilities. The level of benefits varies from executive to executive based on the level of responsibility of the executive and accommodations made through arms’ length negotiations. Severance payments are typically comprised of a cash payment in lieu of salary or bonus, continuation of flight benefits under the UATP for a limited period of time and coverage of health benefits for a limited period of time. Executives whose employment is terminated by us are required to sign a general release of all claims to receive any severance benefits. For more detailed descriptions of the benefits provided to our named NEOs upon a termination of employment, please see “Employment and Separation Agreements with Named Executive Officers” below.

Tax and Accounting Considerations. While our board of directors and our compensation committee generally consider the financial accounting and tax implications of their executive compensation decisions, neither element has been a material consideration in the compensation awarded to our NEOs historically.
Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code, which governs the form and timing of payment of deferred compensation, imposes sanctions, including a 20% penalty and an interest penalty, on the recipient of deferred compensation that does not comply with Section 409A. Our compensation committee will take into account the implications of Section 409A in determining the form and timing of compensation awarded to our executives and will strive to structure any nonqualified deferred compensation plans or arrangements to be exempt from or to comply with the requirements of Section 409A.

Section 280G of the Internal Revenue Code disallows a company’s tax deduction for payments received by certain individuals in connection with a change in control to the extent that the payments exceed an amount approximately three times their average annual compensation and Section 4999 of the Internal Revenue Code imposes a 20% excise tax on those payments. Our compensation committee will take into account the implications of Section 280G in determining potential payments to be made to our executives in connection with a change in control. Nevertheless, to the extent that certain payments upon a change in control are classified as excess parachute payments, such payments may not be deductible pursuant to Section 280G.

(1) Amounts in the “Estimated Future Payouts Under Non-Equity Incentive Plan Awards” column relate to amounts payable under our 2020 Management Bonus Plan. The threshold column assumes the achievement of the corporate and individual goals at the threshold level. The threshold bonus amount can be calculated by multiplying the target bonus of each named executive officer times the threshold achievement percentage of 50%. The target column assumes the target achievement for both corporate and individual goals. The target bonus amount can be calculated by multiplying the base salary of each named executive officer for 2020 times the target bonus percentage established by our compensation committee times the target achievement percentage of 100%. The maximum column assumes the maximum achievement for both corporate and individual goals. The maximum bonus amount can be calculated by multiplying the target bonus of each named executive officer times the maximum achievement percentage of 200%.

(2) Constitutes restricted stock units that vest as to 1/3rd of the total number of RSUs on each anniversary of the date of grant, subject to the executive continuing to provide services to us through such date.

Employment and Separation Agreements with Named Executive Officers

Barry L. Biffle. In March 2016, we entered into a new employment agreement with Mr. Biffle in connection with his promotion to our President and Chief Executive Officer, which is terminable by us at any time and by Mr. Biffle upon 30 days’ notice. The term of his employment agreement is through March 15, 2021 and renews for successive one year periods unless either party gives the other notice of non-extension at least 90 days before the expiration of the applicable term. Mr. Biffle’s employment agreement entitles him to a base salary and target bonus opportunity as part of our Management Bonus Plan, a performance-based program that allows for a cash bonus based upon achievement of certain objectives. Mr. Biffle’s employment agreement provides that he will serve on our board of directors and be eligible to participate in all employee benefit plans made available to executive officers (including the flight benefits discussed above). It also contains certain confidential information covenants and Mr. Biffle must abide by non-competition and non-solicitation restrictive covenants during the term of his employment and for 12 months thereafter (or 24 months in the event he is terminated without Cause, as defined below, or resigns for Good Reason, as defined below). Mr. Biffle’s employment agreement also provided for the grant of an option to purchase our common stock, as detailed in the table “Outstanding Equity Awards at Fiscal Year End” above.

Mr. Biffle’s employment agreement also provides him with severance in the event of a termination of his employment without Cause or a resignation by him for Good Reason, both within and apart from a Change in Control (as defined below). Mr. Biffle’s employment agreement provides that in the event of the termination of his employment by us without Cause or a resignation by Mr. Biffle for Good Reason, Mr. Biffle is entitled to (a) a lump sum payment equal to one times the sum of his base salary plus his target annual performance bonus, (b) the payment of continued health, dental and vision insurance premiums for Mr. Biffle and any covered dependents for 12 months, (c) continued flight benefits under the UATP for one year and (d) a pro-rated annual performance bonus with respect to the year in which the termination occurs based on actual performance and payable at the same as other continuing executive officers. Mr. Biffle’s employment agreement provides that in the event of the termination of his employment with us by us without Cause or a resignation by him for Good Reason, in each case, within 12 months following a Change in Control, Mr. Biffle is entitled to (a) lump sum payment equal to two times the sum of his base salary plus his target annual performance bonus, (b) the payment of continued health, dental and vision insurance premiums for Mr. Biffle and any covered dependents for 24 months, (c) continued flight benefits under the UATP for two years, (d) a pro-rated annual performance bonus with respect to the year in which the termination occurs based on actual performance and payable at the same as other continuing executive officers, and (d) 100% accelerated vesting of all of his equity awards. Mr. Biffle must execute, and not revoke, a general release of all claims against us and our affiliates to receive of the severance payments described above, and any payments are subject to Mr. Biffle continuing to abide by the confidentiality, non-competition and non-solicitation provisions of his employment agreement.

For purposes of Mr. Biffle’s employment agreement, “Cause” means (i) Mr. Biffle’s gross negligence or willful misconduct in the performance of the duties and services required of him pursuant to the new employment agreement or any other written agreement between Mr. Biffle and us; (ii) Mr. Biffle’s conviction of, or plea of guilty or nolo contendere to, a felony or crime involving moral turpitude (or any similar crime in any jurisdiction outside the United States); (iii) Mr. Biffle’s willful refusal to perform the duties and responsibilities required of him under the new employment agreement or as lawfully directed by our board which remains uncorrected for thirty (30) days following written notice; (iv) Mr. Biffle’s material breach of any material provision of the employment agreement, any confidential information or restrictive covenant agreement with us or corporate code or policy which remains uncorrected for thirty (30) days following written notice; (v) any act of fraud, embezzlement, material misappropriation or dishonesty committed by Mr. Biffle against us; or (v) any acts, omissions or statements by Mr. Biffle which we determine to be materially detrimental or damaging to our reputation, operations, prospects or business relations; provided that an act or failure to act shall be considered “willful” only if done or omitted to be done without a good faith reasonable belief that such act or failure to act was in our best interests. “Change in Control” means (i) the acquisition by any person or group of affiliated or associated persons of more than 50% of the outstanding capital stock of us or Frontier or voting securities representing more than 50% of the total voting power of outstanding securities of us or Frontier (other than such an acquisition by a person or group that holds more than 50% of the outstanding capital stock of us or Frontier or voting securities representing more than 50% of the total voting power of outstanding securities of us or Frontier in each case, as of either the March 15, 2016 or immediately prior to such acquisition); (ii) the consummation of a sale of all or substantially all of our assets to a third party; (iii) the consummation of any merger involving us or Frontier in which, immediately after giving effect to such merger, less than a majority of the total voting power of outstanding stock of the surviving or resulting entity is then beneficially owned in the aggregate by the stockholders of us or Frontier, as applicable, immediately prior to such merger; provided, however, in no event will a transaction constitute a “Change in Control” if: (w) its sole purpose is to change the form of our ownership or the state of our incorporation; (x) its sole purpose is to create a holding company that will be owned in substantially the same proportions by the persons who held our securities immediately before such transaction; (y) it is effected primarily for the purpose of financing us with cash; or (z) it constitutes, or includes sales of shares in connection with, the initial public offering of our common stock or the common stock of any of our affiliates.

Finally, “Good Reason” means a resignation from employment that is effective within 120 days after the occurrence, without Mr. Biffle’s written consent, of any of the following: (i) a material diminution in Mr. Biffle’s base salary that is not proportionately applicable to other officers and key employees generally; (ii) a material diminution in Mr. Biffle’s job responsibilities or duties inconsistent in any material respect with his duties or responsibilities in effect immediately prior to such change, provided, that any change made solely as the result of our company becoming a subsidiary or business unit of a larger company in a Change in Control shall not provide for Good Reason; (iii) the relocation of Mr. Biffle’s direction to a facility or a location more than 50 miles from his then-present location; or (iv) the failure by any successor entity or corporation following a Change in Control to assume the obligations under the new employment agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a resignation is not for Good Reason unless the condition giving rise to such resignation continues uncured by us more than 30 days following Mr. Biffle’s written notice of such condition provided within 60 days of the first occurrence of such condition and such resignation is effective within 30 days following the end of such notice period.

James G. Dempsey. We entered into an employment agreement with Mr. Dempsey as our Chief Financial Officer, which is terminable by us at any time and by Mr. Dempsey upon 30 days’ notice, which was amended and restated in April 2017. The initial term of his employment agreement was through March 12, 2018, and the term renews for successive one year periods unless either party gives the other notice of non-extension at least 120 days before the expiration of the applicable term. Mr. Dempsey’s employment agreement entitles him to a base salary and a target bonus opportunity as part of our Management Bonus Plan. Mr. Dempsey’s employment agreement provides that he will be eligible to participate in all employee benefit plans made available to executive officers (including the flight benefits discussed above) and also contains certain confidential information covenants. In addition, Mr. Dempsey must abide by non-competition and non-solicitation restrictive covenants during the term of his employment and for 12 months thereafter.

Mr. Dempsey’s employment agreement provides him with severance in the event of a termination of his employment without Cause (as defined below) or a resignation by him for Good Reason (as defined below), both within and apart from a Change in Control (as defined below). Mr. Dempsey’s employment agreement provides that in the event of the termination of his employment by us without Cause, Mr. Dempsey is entitled to (a) a lump sum payment equal to one times the sum of his base salary plus his target annual performance bonus, (b) the payment of continued health, dental and vision insurance premiums for Mr. Dempsey and any covered dependents for 12 months and (c) continued flight benefits under the UATP for one year.
Mr. Dempsey’s employment agreement provides that in the event of the termination of his employment with us by us without Cause or a resignation by him for Good Reason, in each case, within 12 months following a Change in Control, Mr. Dempsey is entitled to (a) lump sum payment equal to two times the sum of his base salary plus his target annual performance bonus, (b) the payment of continued health, dental and vision insurance premiums for Mr. Dempsey and any covered dependents for 24 months, (c) continued flight benefits under the UATP for two years, (d) 100% accelerated vesting of all of his outstanding equity awards and (e) a pro-rated annual performance bonus with respect to the year in which the termination occurs based on actual performance and payable at the same as other continuing executive officers. Under the employment agreement, Mr. Dempsey must execute, and not revoke, a general release of all claims against us and our affiliates to receive of the severance payments described above, and any payments are subject to Mr. Dempsey continuing to abide by the confidentiality, non-competition and non-solicitation provisions of his employment agreement.

For purposes of Mr. Dempsey’s employment agreement, “Cause” means any action or inaction involving his moral turpitude, misfeasance, malfeasance, willful misconduct, gross negligence or material breach of fiduciary duty or a breach of any non-competition, non-solicitation or confidentiality obligations to us or Frontier. In the event we give Mr. Dempsey a notice of non-extension of his employment agreement and he serves as our Chief Financial Officer until the end of the term, Mr. Dempsey’s employment will have been deemed terminated by us without Cause. “Change in Control” means that (i) the acquisition by any person or group of affiliated or associated persons of more than 50% of the outstanding capital stock of us or Frontier or voting securities representing more than 50% of the total voting power of outstanding securities of us or Frontier (other than such an acquisition by a person or group that holds more than 50% of the outstanding capital stock of us or Frontier or voting securities representing more than 50% of the total voting power of outstanding securities of us or Frontier, in each case, as of either March 12, 2014 or immediately prior to such acquisition); (ii) the consummation of a sale of all or substantially all of our assets to a third party; (iii) the consummation of any merger involving us or Frontier in which, immediately after giving effect to such merger, less than a majority of the total voting power of outstanding stock of the surviving or resulting entity is then beneficially owned in the aggregate by the stockholders of us or Frontier, as applicable, immediately prior to such merger; provided, however, in no event will an acquisition, sale or other transaction constitute a “Change in Control” if: (w) its sole purpose is to change the form of our ownership or the state of our incorporation; (x) its sole purpose is to create a holding company that will be owned in substantially the same proportions by the persons who held our securities immediately before such transaction; (y) it is effected primarily for the purpose of financing us with cash; or (z) it constitutes, or includes sales of shares in connection with, the initial public offering of our common stock or the common stock of any of our affiliates. Finally, “Good Reason” will be deemed to have occurred if, in conjunction with the closing of a Change in Control or within 12 months after the closing of a Change in Control, (i) our board of directors effectively terminates, or substantially curtails the scope of, Mr. Dempsey’s authority as Chief Financial Officer, (ii) we fail to provide Mr. Dempsey with a reasonable compensation package that is, as determined at the discretion of the board, at least comparable to the level of his compensation package as of immediately prior to the Change in Control, (iii) we default in any material obligation owed to him, or (iv) we relocate our principal office to any place that is more than 100 miles from both Denver, Colorado and Mr. Dempsey’s then principal residence, provided, that, in each case, Mr. Dempsey will not be deemed to have resigned for Good Reason unless (x) he first provides the board with written notice of the condition giving rise to Good Reason within 30 days of its initial occurrence, (y) we fail to cure such condition within 30 days after receiving such written notice and (z) his resignation based on such Good Reason is effective within 30 days after the expiration of such cure period.

Howard M. Diamond. We entered into an offer letter agreement with Mr. Diamond on June 30, 2014 as our Senior Vice President, General Counsel and Secretary. Mr. Diamond’s offer letter agreement entitles him to a base salary and a target bonus opportunity as part of our Management Bonus Plan. Mr. Diamond’s offer letter agreement provides that he will be eligible to participate in all employee benefit plans made available to executive officers (including the flight benefits discussed above) and also contains certain confidential information covenants. In addition, Mr. Diamond must abide by non-competition and non-solicitation restrictive covenants during the term of his employment and for 12 months thereafter (or 24 months in the event he is terminated without Cause (as defined in the 2014 Plan) or resigns for Good Reason (as defined below), within 12 months following a Change in Control (as defined in the 2014 Plan). Mr. Diamond’s offer letter agreement also provided for the grant of an option to purchase our common stock, as detailed in the table “Outstanding Equity Awards at Fiscal Year End” above, and such option grant will vest in full upon a Change in Control.

Mr. Diamond’s offer letter agreement provides him with severance in the event of a termination of his employment without Cause or, within 12 months following a Change in Control, a resignation by him for Good Reason. Mr. Diamond’s offer letter agreement provides that in the event of the termination of his employment with us by us without Cause, Mr. Diamond is entitled to (a) lump sum payment equal to one times the sum of his base salary plus his target annual performance bonus (or two times such sum if such termination occurs or Mr. Diamond resigns for Good Reason, in each case, within 12 months following a Change in Control) and (b) continued flight benefits under the UATP for one year (or two years if such termination occurs or Mr. Diamond resigns for Good Reason, in each case, within 12 months following a Change in Control). Under the offer letter agreement, Mr. Diamond must execute and not revoke a general release of claims against us and our affiliates. For purposes of his offer letter agreement, “Good Reason” means Mr. Diamond’s duties are substantially diminished within 12 months following a Change in Control and Mr. Diamond resigns within such 12-month period.

Daniel M. Shurz. We entered into an employment agreement with Mr. Shurz, as amended in September 2013. Mr. Shurz’s employment agreement provides that Mr. Shurz will be our Senior Vice President, Commercial, and is terminable by us at any time and by Mr. Shurz upon 30 days’ notice. Mr. Shurz’s employment agreement entitles him to a base salary and a target bonus opportunity as part of our Management Bonus Plan. Mr. Shurz’s employment agreement provides that he will be eligible to participate in all employee benefit plans made available to executive officers (including the flight benefits discussed above) and also contains certain confidential information covenants. In addition, Mr. Shurz must abide by non-competition and non-solicitation restrictive covenants during the term of his employment and for 12 months thereafter.

Mr. Shurz’s employment agreement provides him with severance in the event of a termination of his employment without Cause (as defined below), because of death or disability or a resignation by him for Good Reason (as defined below), both within and apart from a Change in Control (as defined below). Mr. Shurz’s employment agreement provides that in the event of the termination of his employment (1) as a result of his death or permanent disability, (2) by us without Cause or (3) by him for Good Reason, Mr. Shurz is entitled to (a) a lump sum payment of one times his base salary, (b) the payment of continued health, dental and vision insurance premiums for Mr. Shurz and any covered dependents for 12 months (unless his resignation with Good Reason is a result of subsection (ii) or (iii) in the below definition of Good Reason, in which case this will be 24 months) and (c) continued flight benefits under the UATP for one year (unless his resignation with Good Reason is a result of subsection (ii) or (iii) in the below definition of Good Reason, in which case this will be two years). Mr. Shurz’s employment agreement provides that in the event of the termination of his employment with us by us without Cause or a resignation by him for Good Reason, in each case, within 12 months following a Change in Control, Mr. Shurz is entitled to (a) a lump sum payment of two times his base salary, (b) the payment of continued health, dental and vision insurance premiums for Mr. Shurz and any covered dependents for 24 months and (c) continued flight benefits under the UATP for two years. Under the employment agreement, Mr. Shurz must execute, and not revoke, a general release of all claims against us and our affiliates to receive of the severance payments described above.

For purposes of Mr. Shurz’s employment agreement, “Cause” means that Mr. Shurz has (i) willfully or materially refused to perform a material part of his duties under the employment agreement, (ii) materially breached the restrictive covenants contained in the employment agreement, (iii) acted fraudulently or dishonestly in his relations with us, (iv) committed larceny, embezzlement, conversion or any other act involving the misappropriation of our funds or assets in the course of his employment, or (v) been indicted or convicted of any felony or other crime involving an act of moral turpitude. “Change in Control” means that (i) any person or group of affiliated or associated persons acquires a majority of more of our voting power, (ii) the consummation of a sale of all or substantially all of our assets, (iii) our dissolution or (iv) the consummation of any merger, consolidation or reorganization involving us in which, immediately after giving effect to such merger consolidation or reorganization, less than majority of the total voting power of outstanding stock of the surviving or resulting entity is then beneficially owned in the aggregate by our stockholders immediately prior to such merger, consolidation or reorganization. In no event will an initial public offering of our common stock or the common stock of any of our affiliates or any sales by stockholders in connection with such initial public offering constitute a Change in Control. Finally, “Good Reason” means that (i) we have materially diminished the duties and responsibilities of Mr. Shurz in comparison to his title and salary immediately prior to the changes, (ii) we relocate our principal offices more than 25 miles from Denver to another location without Mr. Shurz’s consent or (iii) we have materially breached the terms of Mr. Shurz’s employment agreement.

Jake F. Filene. We entered into an employment agreement with Mr. Filene in June 2017. Mr. Filene’s employment agreement provides that Mr. Filene is terminable by us or Mr. Filene at any time. Mr. Filene’s employment agreement entitles him to a base salary and a target bonus opportunity as part of our Management Bonus Plan. Mr. Filene’s employment agreement provides that he will be eligible to participate in all employee benefit plans made available to executive officers (including the flight benefits discussed above) and also contains certain confidential information covenants. In addition, Mr. Filene must abide by non-competition and non-solicitation restrictive covenants during the term of his employment and for 12 months thereafter.

Mr. Filene’s employment agreement provides that the vesting of his initial grant of restricted stock units will fully accelerate upon the consummation of a Change in Control (as defined below). Mr. Filene’s employment agreement also provides him with severance in the event of a termination of his employment without Cause (as defined below) both within and apart from a Change in Control. Mr. Filene’s employment agreement provides that in the event of the termination of his employment by us without Cause, Mr. Filene is entitled to (a) a lump sum payment of one times the sum of his base salary and target bonus (or two times such sum if such termination occurs or Mr. Filene resigns for Good Reason, in each case, within 12 months following a Change in Control) and (b) continued flight benefits under the UATP for one year (or two years if such termination occurs or Mr. Filene resigns for Good Reason, in each case, within 12 months following a Change in Control). Under the employment agreement, Mr. Filene must execute, and not revoke, a general release of all claims against us and our affiliates to receive the severance payments described above. For purposes of his offer letter agreement, “Good Reason” means Mr. Filene’s duties are substantially diminished within 12 months following a Change in Control and Mr. Filene resigns within such 12-month period.

For the purposes of Mr. Filene’s employment agreement, “Cause” means (i) Mr. Filene’s unauthorized use or disclosure of our confidential information or trade secrets or any material breach of a written agreement between Mr. Filene and us, including without limitation a material breach of any employment, confidentiality, non-compete, non-solicit or similar agreement; (ii) Mr. Filene’s commission of, indictment for or the entry of a plea of guilty or nolo contendere by Mr. Filene to, a felony under the laws of the United States or any state thereof or any crime involving dishonesty or moral turpitude (or any similar crime in any jurisdiction outside the United States); (iii) Mr. Filene’s negligence or willful misconduct in the performance of Mr. Filene’s duties or Mr. Filene’s willful or repeated failure or refusal to substantially perform assigned duties; (iv) any act of fraud, embezzlement, material misappropriation or dishonesty committed by Mr. Filene against us; or (v) any acts, omissions or statements by Mr. Filene which we determine to be materially detrimental or damaging to the our reputation, operations, prospects or business relations. For the purposes of Mr. Filene’s employment agreement, subject to certain limitations, “Change in Control” means (i) the acquisition by any person or group of affiliated or associated persons of more than fifty percent (50%) of our outstanding capital stock or voting securities representing more than fifty percent (50%) of the total voting power of our outstanding securities; (ii) the consummation of a sale of all or substantially all of our assets to a third party; (iii) the consummation of any merger involving us in which, immediately after giving effect to such merger, less than a majority of the total voting power of outstanding stock of the surviving or resulting entity is then “beneficially owned” in the aggregate by our stockholders immediately prior to such merger.

Potential Payments upon Termination or Change in Control

The information below describes and quantifies certain compensation and benefits that would have become payable to each of our NEOs if our NEO’s employment had terminated on December 31, 2020 (and that a Change in Control occurred on December 31, 2020, as applicable) as a result of each of the termination scenarios described below, taking into account the named executive’s compensation as of that date. All of the below payments and benefits are subject to the NEO executing and not revoking a general release of claims against us and our affiliates, except for the equity acceleration for Mr. Filene upon a Change in Control, and, for Messrs. Biffle and Dempsey, continuing to comply with the restrictive covenants set forth in each of their employment agreements. The information below does not generally reflect compensation and benefits available to all salaried employees upon termination of employment with us under similar circumstances. Capitalized terms used below are as defined above in the applicable NEO’s employment agreement or offer letter agreement.

\(^{(1)}\) Represents a lump sum cash payment of 12 months of base salary.

\(^{(2)}\) Represents a lump sum cash payment of one times the NEO’s target annual performance bonus amount. In addition, for Mr. Biffle, represents a pro-rated annual performance bonus for the year in which the termination occurs (based on actual performance and payable at the same time other continuing executives) in the event of a termination without Cause or for Good Reason. For Mr. Biffle’s pro-rated bonus, we included the full amount he was paid for fiscal year 2020 under the Management Bonus Plan since the assumed termination date would be December 31, 2020.

(3) Represents continued coverage under COBRA for 12 months for each NEO based on the incremental cost of our contribution as of December 31, 2020 to provide this coverage. Diamond and Filene are not eligible for any continued coverage under COBRA.

(4) Represents the value of continued UATP flight benefits for one year following the NEOs’ termination of employment, which must be used in the year following termination, based on the values each NEO was eligible to receive under the UATP for fiscal 2020.

(5) Represents a lump sum cash payment of 24 months of base salary.

(6) Represents a lump sum cash payment of two times a NEO’s target annual performance bonus amount. In addition, for Messrs. Biffle and Dempsey, represents a pro-rated annual performance bonus for the year in which the termination occurs (based on actual performance and payable at the same time other continuing executives) in the event of a termination without Cause or for Good Reason. For Messrs. Biffle’s and Dempsey’s pro-rated bonuses, we included the full amount each was paid for fiscal year 2020 under the Management Bonus Plan since the assumed termination date would be December 31, 2020. Mr. Shurz is not eligible for any bonus severance payment.

(7) Represents the aggregate value of Mr. Biffle’s and Mr. Dempsey’s restricted stock units and unvested option awards that would have vested on an accelerated basis immediately prior to a qualifying termination following the consummation of a Change in Control, based on the fair market value of our common stock ($266.00) as of December 31, 2020, less, in the case of an option with an exercise price less than fair market value, the option’s exercise price. Mr. Biffle and Mr. Dempsey each receive 100% accelerated vesting of their respective equity awards in the event of a termination without Cause or for Good Reason, in each case, within 12 months following a Change in Control.

(8) Represents continued coverage under COBRA for 24 months for each NEO based on the incremental cost of our contribution as of December 31, 2020 to provide this coverage. Diamond and Filene are not eligible for any continued coverage under COBRA.

(9) Represents the value of continued UATP flight benefits for two years following the NEOs’ termination of employment, within 12 months following a Change in Control, which must be used in the years following termination, based on the values each NEO was eligible to receive under the UATP for fiscal 2020.

(10) Mr. Shurz receives 12 months of COBRA premiums upon a termination (i) without Cause, (ii) as a result of his death or disability or (iii) for Good Reason, where Good Reason is limited to material diminution in his duties and responsibilities; and he receives 24 months of COBRA premiums upon a termination for Good Reason (not in connection with a Change in Control), where Good Reason results from a relocation of our principal offices more than 25 miles from Denver or material breach of Mr. Shurz’s employment agreement by us. Amount shown reflects 12 months of COBRA premiums.

(11) Mr. Shurz receives one year of flight benefits upon a termination (i) without Cause, (ii) as a result of his death or disability or (iii) for Good Reason, where Good Reason is limited to material diminution in his duties and responsibilities; and he receives two years of flight benefits upon a termination for Good Reason (not in connection with a Change in Control), where Good Reason results from a relocation of our principal offices more than 25 miles from Denver or material breach of Mr. Shurz’s employment agreement by us. Amount shown reflects one year of flight benefits.

(12) Represents the aggregate value of Mr. Filene’s July 2017 restricted stock units that would have vested on an accelerated basis on the consummation of a Change in Control, based on the fair market value of our common stock ($266.00) as of December 31, 2020.

Equity Compensation Plans

The principal features of our equity incentive plans and our stockholder agreements are summarized below. These summaries are qualified in their entirety by reference to the text of the plans or agreements, which are filed as exhibits to the registration statement.

2014 Plan

We currently maintain the 2014 Plan, which became effective on April 18, 2014. The principal purpose of the 2014 Plan is to enhance our ability to attract, retain and motivate our service providers by providing such individuals with equity ownership opportunities and aligning their interests with those of our stockholders. We have granted stock options to our NEOs and restricted stock to Frontier’s board of directors under the 2014 Plan, as described in more detail above. In connection with the closing of this offering, we intend to adopt the 2021 Incentive Award Plan (the “2021 Plan”). We expect that, upon the effectiveness of the 2021 Plan, no further awards will be made under the 2014 Plan. The material terms of the 2014 Plan are summarized below.
Share Reserve. The aggregate number of shares of common stock reserved for issuance pursuant to awards granted under the 2014 Plan is 1,000,000.

Administration. Our board of directors is authorized to administer the 2014 Plan, but consistent with its authority under the 2014 Plan, the board has delegated some of its administrative authority to our compensation committee. Subject to the terms and conditions of the 2014 Plan, the plan administrator has the authority to select the persons to whom awards are to be made, to determine the number of shares to be subject to awards and the terms and conditions of awards, and to make all other determinations and to take all other actions necessary or advisable for the administration of the 2014 Plan. The administrator is also authorized to adopt, amend or repeal rules relating to administration of the 2014 Plan.

Eligibility. Options, restricted stock, restricted stock units and other stock-based awards under the 2014 Plan may be granted to officers, employees, consultants and directors of us and our subsidiaries.

Awards. The 2014 Plan provides for the grant of non-qualified stock options (or NSOs), restricted stock, restricted stock units (or RSUs), other stock-based awards, or any combination thereof. No determination has been made as to the types or amounts of awards that will be granted to specific individuals in the future pursuant to the 2014 Plan (and, as noted above, following the effectiveness of this offering, we will not make any further awards under the 2014 Plan). Each award will be set forth in a separate agreement and will indicate the type and terms and conditions of the award.

- Stock Options. Stock options provide for the right to purchase shares of our common stock in the future at a specified price that is established on the date of grant. The exercise price of a stock option may not be less than 100% of the fair market value of the underlying share on the date of grant, except with respect to certain substitute options granted in connection with a corporate transaction. The term of a stock option may not be longer than ten years. Vesting conditions determined by the plan administrator may apply to stock options and may include continued service, performance and/or other conditions.

- Restricted Stock. Restricted stock is an award of shares of our common stock that remains forfeitable unless and until specified vesting conditions are met. In general, restricted stock may not be sold or otherwise transferred until restrictions are removed or expire. Holders of restricted stock will have voting rights and, except with respect to performance vesting awards, will have the right to receive dividends, if any, prior to the time when the restrictions lapse.

- Restricted Stock Units. RSUs are contractual promises to deliver shares of our common stock (or the fair market value of such shares in cash) in the future, which may also remain forfeitable unless and until specified vesting conditions are met. RSUs generally may not be sold or transferred until vesting conditions are removed or expire. The shares underlying RSUs will generally not be issued until the RSUs have vested, and recipients of RSUs generally will have no voting or dividend rights prior to the time when the RSUs are settled in shares, unless the RSU includes a dividend equivalent right (in which case the holder may be entitled to dividend equivalent payments under certain circumstances). Delivery of the shares underlying RSUs may be deferred under the terms of the award or at the election of the participant, if the plan administrator permits such a deferral.

- Other Stock-Based Awards. Other stock-based awards are awards denominated in shares of our common stock and other awards that are valued by reference to, or are based on, shares of our common stock or other property. Other stock-based awards may be paid in shares, cash or other property, as determined by the plan administrator. The plan administrator will determine the terms and conditions of other stock-based awards, including any purchase price, transfer, vesting and/or other conditions.

Certain Transactions. The plan administrator has broad discretion to take action under the 2014 Plan, as well as to make adjustments to the terms and conditions of existing and future awards, to prevent the dilution or enlargement of intended benefits and to facilitate necessary or desirable changes in the event of certain transactions and events affecting our common stock, such as stock dividends, stock splits, extraordinary dividends, mergers, acquisitions, consolidations and other corporate transactions. In addition, in the event of certain non-reciprocal transactions with our stockholders known as “equity restructurings,” the plan administrator will make equitable adjustments to the 2014 Plan and outstanding awards.

Call Rights. Under agreements entered into with employees and directors who we granted equity awards under the 2014 Plan, we have the right to repurchase options and our common stock from terminated service providers for a price equal to fair market value on the date of repurchase. Our right to repurchase options and shares of our common stock expires upon the completion of this offering.

Transferability and Restrictions. With limited exceptions for the laws of descent and distribution, awards under the 2014 Plan are generally non-transferable prior to vesting unless otherwise determined by the plan administrator, and are exercisable only by the participant. Additionally, awards granted under the 2014 Plan are subject to a right of first refusal in favor of us.

Section 280G. The 2014 Plan includes a cutback provision under Section 280G of the Code, pursuant to which any payment or benefit under the 2014 Plan that would not be deductible by us or the payor as a result of Section 280G of the Code (relating to “excess parachute payments”) will be reduced to the extent necessary so that any such payments and benefits will remain deductible to the maximum extent possible. The 2014 Plan also provides that we will seek stockholder approval of any amounts under the 2014 Plan that would constitute “parachute payments” under Section 280G of the Code.

Amendment and Termination. The plan administrator may terminate, amend or modify the 2014 Plan at any time. However, we must generally obtain stockholder approval to the extent required by applicable law In addition, no amendment of the 2014 Plan may, without the consent of the holder, materially and adversely affect any award previously granted. No award may be granted pursuant to the 2014 Plan after the tenth anniversary of the date on which the 2014 Plan was adopted by our board of directors (or, if later, approved by our stockholders); however, we expects to cease granting any awards under the 2014 Plan upon the effectiveness of the 2021 Plan. Any award that is outstanding on the termination date of the 2014 Plan will remain in force according to the terms of the 2014 Plan and the applicable award agreement.

2021 Incentive Award Plan

Prior to the completion of this offering, our board of directors will adopt, and our stockholder will approve, the 2021 Plan, under which we are authorized to grant cash and equity incentive awards to eligible service providers in order to attract, motivate and retain the talent for which we compete. The material terms of the 2021 Plan, as currently contemplated, are summarized below.

Share Reserve. Under the 2021 Plan, shares of our common stock are initially reserved for issuance pursuant to a variety of stock-based compensation awards, including stock options, stock appreciation rights, or SARs, restricted stock awards, restricted stock unit awards and other stock-based awards. The number of shares initially reserved for issuance or transfer pursuant to awards under the 2021 Plan will be increased by (i) the number of shares represented by outstanding awards under our 2014 Plan that are forfeited or lapse unexercised and which following the effective date are not issued under our 2014 Plan and (ii) an annual increase on the first day of each fiscal year beginning in 2022 and ending in 2031, equal to the lesser of (A) one percent (1%) of the shares of stock outstanding (on an as converted basis) on the last day of the immediately preceding fiscal year and (B) such smaller number of shares of stock as determined by our board of directors; provided, however, that no more than shares of stock may be issued upon the exercise of incentive stock options.
The following counting provisions will be in effect for the share reserve under the 2021 Plan:

• to the extent that an award terminates, expires or lapses for any reason or an award is settled in cash without the delivery of shares, any shares subject to the award at such time will be available for future grants under the 2021 Plan;

• to the extent the shares are tendered or withheld to satisfy the grant, exercise price or tax withholding obligation with respect to any award under the 2021 Plan, such tendered or withheld shares will be available for future grants under the 2021 Plan;

• to the extent that shares of our common stock subject to SARs are not issued in connection with the stock settlement of SARs on exercise thereof, such shares will be available for future grants under the 2021 Plan; and

• to the extent permitted by applicable law or any exchange rule, shares issued in assumption of, or in substitution for, any outstanding awards of any entity acquired in any form of combination by us or any of our subsidiaries will not be counted against the shares available for issuance under the 2021 Plan.

In addition, the sum of the grant date fair value of all equity-based awards and the maximum that may become payable pursuant to all cash-based awards to any individual for services as a non-employee director during any calendar year may not exceed $ for the first year of such individual’s service and $ for each year thereafter.

Administration. Our board of directors will administer the 2021 Plan with respect to awards granted to non-employee directors and our compensation committee will administer the 2021 Plan with respect to awards granted to other participants. The board or compensation committee may delegate their duties and responsibilities to committees of directors and/or officers, subject to certain limitations that may be imposed under Section 16 of the Exchange Act and/or applicable stock exchange rules. The plan administrator must consist of at least two members of our board of directors, each of whom is intended to qualify as a “non-employee director” for purposes of Rule 16b-3 under the Exchange Act to the extent required to comply with the provisions thereof. Subject to the terms and conditions of the 2021 Plan, the plan administrator has the authority to select the persons to whom awards are to be made, to determine the number of shares to be subject to awards and the terms and conditions of awards, and to make all other determinations and to take all other actions necessary or advisable for the administration of the 2021 Plan. The administrator is also authorized to adopt, amend or rescind rules relating to administration of the 2021 Plan.

Eligibility. Awards under the 2021 Plan may be granted to our officers, employees, consultants and directors and the officers, employees, consultants and directors of our subsidiaries. Only our employees and the employees of our subsidiaries may be granted incentive stock options.

Awards. The 2021 Plan provides for the grant of stock options (including incentive stock options, or ISOs, and NSOs), SARs, restricted stock, RSUs, dividend equivalents, performance awards and other stock- or cash-based awards, or any combination thereof. No determination has been made as to the types or amounts of awards that will be granted to specific individuals pursuant to the 2021 Plan. Each award will be set forth in a separate agreement and will indicate the type and terms and conditions of the award.

• Stock Options. Stock options provide for the right to purchase shares of our common stock in the future at a specified price that is established on the date of grant. ISOs, by contrast to NSOs, may provide tax deferral beyond exercise and favorable capital gains tax treatment to their holders if certain holding period and other requirements of the Code are satisfied. The exercise price of a stock option may not be less than 100% of the fair market value of the underlying share on the date of grant (or 110% in the case of ISOs granted to certain significant stockholders), except with respect to certain substitute options granted in connection with a corporate transaction. The term of a stock option may not be longer than ten years (or five years in the case of ISOs granted to certain significant stockholders).
Vesting conditions determined by the plan administrator may apply to stock options and may include continued service, performance and/or other conditions.

- Restricted Stock. Restricted stock is an award of nontransferable shares of our common stock that remains forfeitable unless and until specified vesting conditions are met. In general, restricted stock may not be sold or otherwise transferred until restrictions are removed or expire. Holders of restricted stock will have voting rights and, except with respect to performance vesting awards, will have the right to receive dividends, if any, prior to the time when the restrictions lapse.

- Restricted Stock Units (RSUs). RSUs are contractual promises to deliver shares of our common stock (or the fair market value of such shares in cash) in the future, which may also remain forfeitable unless and until specified vesting conditions are met. RSUs generally may not be sold or transferred until vesting conditions are removed or expire. The shares underlying RSUs will not be issued until the RSUs have vested, and recipients of RSUs generally will have no voting or dividend rights prior to the time when the RSUs are settled in shares, unless the RSU includes a dividend equivalent right (in which case the holder may be entitled to dividend equivalent payments under certain circumstances). Delivery of the shares underlying RSUs may be deferred under the terms of the award or at the election of the participant, if the plan administrator permits such a deferral.

- Stock Appreciation Rights (SARs). SARs entitle their holder, upon exercise, to receive an amount equal to the appreciation of the shares subject to the award between the grant date and the exercise date. The exercise price of any SAR granted under the 2021 Plan must be at least 100% of the fair market value of a share of our common stock on the date of grant (except with respect to certain substitute SARs granted in connection with a corporate transaction) and the term of a SAR may not be longer than ten years. Vesting conditions determined by the plan administrator may apply to SARs and may include continued service, performance and/or other conditions. SARs under the 2021 Plan will be settled in cash or shares of our common stock, or in a combination of both, as determined by the administrator.

- Dividend Equivalents. Dividend equivalents represent the right to receive the equivalent value of dividends paid on shares of our common stock and may be granted alone or in tandem with awards. Dividend equivalents may be paid currently or credited to an account for the participant, settled in cash or shares and subject to restrictions as determined by the plan administrator. In addition, dividend equivalents with respect to an award subject to vesting will either not be paid or credited or be accumulated and subject to vesting to the same extent as the related award.

- Performance Awards. Performance bonus awards or performance stock units are denominated in cash or shares/unit equivalents, respectively, and may be linked to one or more performance or other criteria as determined by the plan administrator.

- Other Stock or Cash Based Awards. Other stock or cash-based awards are awards of cash, fully vested shares of our common stock and other awards valued wholly or partially by referring to, or otherwise based on, shares of our common stock. Other stock or cash based awards may be granted to participants and may also be available as a payment form in the settlement of other awards, as standalone payments and as payment in lieu of base salary, bonus, fees or other cash compensation otherwise payable to any individual who is eligible to receive awards. The plan administrator will determine the terms and conditions of other stock or cash based awards, which may include vesting conditions based on continued service, performance and/or other conditions.

Certain Transactions. The plan administrator has broad discretion to take action under the 2021 Plan, as well as make adjustments to the terms and conditions of existing and future awards, to prevent the dilution or enlargement of intended benefits and facilitate necessary or desirable changes in the event of certain transactions and events affecting our common stock, such as stock dividends, stock splits, mergers, acquisitions, consolidations and other corporate transactions. In addition, in the event of certain non-reciprocal transactions with our stockholders known as “equity restructurings,” the plan administrator will make equitable adjustments to the 2021 Plan and outstanding awards.
In the event of a change in control, unless the plan administrator elects to terminate an award in exchange for cash, rights or other property, or cause an award to accelerate in full prior to the change in control, such award will continue in effect or be assumed or substituted by the acquirer, provided that any performance-based portion of the award will be subject to the terms and conditions of the applicable award agreement. In the event the acquirer refuses to assume or replace awards granted, prior to the consummation of such transaction, awards issued under the 2021 Plan will be subject to accelerated vesting such that 100% of such awards will become vested and exercisable or payable, as applicable. The administrator is also authorized to provide for the acceleration, cash-out, termination, assumption, substitution or conversion of such awards in the event of a change in control.

Foreign Participants, Claw-Back Provisions, Transferability, and Participant Payments. The plan administrator may modify award terms, establish subplans and/or adjust other terms and conditions of awards, subject to the share limits described above, in order to facilitate grants of awards subject to the laws and/or stock exchange rules of countries outside of the United States. All awards will be subject to the provisions of any claw-back policy implemented by us to the extent set forth in such claw-back policy and/or in the applicable award agreement. Except by will or the laws of descent and distribution, awards under the 2021 Plan are generally non-transferable prior to vesting unless otherwise determined by the plan administrator, and are exercisable only by the participant. With regard to tax withholding, exercise price and purchase price obligations arising in connection with awards under the 2021 Plan, the plan administrator may, in its discretion, accept cash or check, shares of our common stock that meet specified conditions, a market sell order or such other consideration as it deems suitable.

Amendment and Termination. Our board of directors may terminate, amend or modify the 2021 Plan at any time. However, we must generally obtain stockholder approval to increase the number of shares available under the 2021 Plan (other than in connection with certain corporate events, as described above) or to the extent required by applicable law, rule or regulation (including any applicable stock exchange rule). Notwithstanding the foregoing, an option may be amended to reduce the per share exercise price below the per share exercise price of such option on the grant date and options may be granted in exchange for, or in connection with, the cancellation or surrender of options having a higher per share exercise price without receiving additional stockholder approval. In addition, no amendment, suspension or termination of the 2021 Plan may, without the consent of the holder, materially and adversely affect any rights or obligations under any award previously granted, unless the award itself otherwise expressly so provides. No incentive stock option may be granted pursuant to the 2021 Plan after the tenth anniversary of the effective date of the 2021 Plan, and no additional annual share increases to the 2021 Plan’s aggregate share limit will occur from and after the tenth anniversary of the effective date of the 2021 Plan. Any award that is outstanding on the termination date of the 2021 Plan will remain in force according to the terms of the 2021 Plan and the applicable award agreement.

Pilot Phantom Equity Plan

On December 3, 2013, to give effect to the reorganization of our corporate structure in connection with the acquisition by Indigo, an agreement was reached to amend and restate a phantom equity agreement that was in place with our predecessor and Frontier pre-acquisition. Under the terms of this agreement, our pilots employed by Frontier in June 2011, when an amendment to the underlying collective bargaining agreement was approved, who we refer to as the Participating Pilots, through their agent, FAPAInvest, LLC, received phantom equity units which were the economic equivalent of 231,000 shares of our common stock, representing 4% of our common stock as of June 30, 2014. Each unit constituted the right to receive common stock or cash in connection with certain events. As of December 31, 2019, the units became a fixed cash obligation, with the initial cash installment paid to the Participating Pilots in 2020 and the remaining cash installment of approximately $26 million to be paid in 2022 based on a predetermined formula.
Stockholders Agreements

Each executive officer has entered into a Stockholders Agreement with us and our controlling stockholder, Indigo Frontier Holdings Company, LLC ("Indigo Fund"), in connection with the executive’s holdings of shares of our common stock under the 2014 Plan. Each Stockholders Agreement provides us with certain rights that effectively restrict the transfer of shares of our common stock until the end of the 180-day period following the consummation of an underwritten initial public offering. The restrictive rights provided to us include a call right whereby we may repurchase shares upon a termination of employment and a bring along right whereby Indigo can require participants to sell shares alongside Indigo Fund. Each executive holds a tag-along right whereby each executive may require Indigo successor to allow the executive to sell alongside Indigo in certain transactions. Generally, our restrictive rights lapse on the closing of this offering.

Rule 10b5-1 Sales Plans

Our directors and executive officers may adopt written plans, known as Rule 10b5-1 plans, in which they will contract with a broker to buy or sell our common stock on a periodic basis. Under a Rule 10b5-1 plan, a broker executes trades pursuant to parameters established by the director or officer when entering into the plan, without further direction from them. The director or officer may amend or terminate the plan in some circumstances. Our directors and executive officers may also buy or sell additional shares outside of a Rule 10b5-1 plan when they are not in possession of material, nonpublic information.

DIRECTOR COMPENSATION

Compensation Arrangements for our Non-Employee Directors

Prior to the completion of this offering, we have not compensated any members of our board of directors. Rather, we have compensated our directors for their service on the Frontier board of directors pursuant to our non-employee director compensation policy. We do not pay director fees to Frontier directors who are employees. All references to director compensation in this section prior to the completion of this offering are to service on Frontier’s board of directors. After the completion of this offering, the director compensation policy described below will apply to service on our board, and no additional compensation will be paid for service on the Frontier board of directors. In addition, from and after the completion of this offering, all non-employee directors, whether or not affiliated with Indigo, will receive the same director compensation.

Prior to this offering, each non-employee Frontier director received an annual fee of $100,000 if such director was affiliated with Indigo (an “Indigo Director”), and $80,000 if such director was not affiliated with Indigo (a “Non-Indigo Director”). In addition, the chairperson of the audit committee received an additional annual fee of $20,000 and the chairpersons for our compensation committee and our nominating and corporate governance committee would have received an additional annual fee of $15,000 had such chairpersons not been an Indigo Director. Non-Indigo Directors also received a grant of restricted shares of our common stock with an annual fair market value equal to approximately $120,000 as of July 1, 2020. The restricted shares vest and all restrictions thereon lapse on the first anniversary of the date of grant subject to continued service.

As is common in the airline industry, we provide flight benefits to the members of Frontier’s board of directors under the UATP, whereby each individual receives a yearly dollar value that they may use for personal travel on Frontier’s flights for themselves and certain qualifying friends and family. Each one-way flight they take is valued at $75, which is the average cost to Frontier of a one-way flight for us. For fiscal year 2020, each non-employee director received a travel bank under the UATP equal to $5,500 (except for Mr. W. Franke who received a travel bank under the UATP equal to $13,750 as the chairman of Frontier’s board of directors). In addition, Frontier provides reimbursement to the non-employee directors for their reasonable expenses incurred in attending meetings.

During the second calendar quarter of 2020, our non-employee directors determined not to pay cash retainers in light of the COVID-19 pandemic and its impact on our business.

Following the completion of this offering, all non-employee directors will be compensated as follows:

- annual fee of $80,000 payable in cash;
- annual restricted share units to have a grant date fair value of $120,000 to vest on the first anniversary of the date of grant (subject to continued service);
- additional annual fee to the chairperson of the audit committee of $20,000 payable in cash;
- additional annual fee to the chairpersons for our compensation committee and nominating and corporate governance committee of $15,000 in cash each; and
- travel benefits as discussed above.
Director Compensation Table

(1) Amounts shown represent the grant date fair value of stock awards granted during fiscal year 2020 as calculated in accordance with ASC Topic 718. See Note 11 to the financial statements included in this registration statement for the assumptions used in calculating this amount. As of December 31, 2020, Messrs. Connor, Genise, Han, MacDonald and Wolff and Ms. Pineda each held 436 restricted shares of our common stock. No other non-employee director held any equity awards.

(2) Amounts shown represent the flight benefits under our UATP for fiscal year 2020 based on our calculation of the incremental cost to the Company providing the flight benefits to the directors based on each one-way flight they take being valued at the lesser of (i) the actual cost of the ticket and (ii) $75, which is the average cost to us of a one-way flight.

Director Stock Ownership Guidelines

Pursuant to our director stock ownership guidelines, each current non-employee director and any newly appointed non-employee director is required to, by the later of five years from the consummation of this offering or, for newly elected directors, the date five years from the date of his or her election to the board, own shares of our common stock having an aggregate value at least equal to $240,000 or, for newly elected directors, two times the value of the equity grant made in connection with the director’s election or appointment. For purposes of this calculation, shares of our common stock held directly or indirectly by the non-employee director are included (including shares held by the employer of such director in the case of the directors affiliated with Indigo), including restricted stock units (vested or unvested) and deferred stock units, if any, while any outstanding and unvested or vested but unexercised stock option awards are excluded. We will continue to periodically review best practices and re-evaluate our position with respect to stock ownership guidelines.
CERTAIN RELATIONSHIPS AND RELATED TRANSACTIONS

We describe below transactions and series of similar transactions, during our last three fiscal years, to which we were a party or will be a party, in which:

- the amounts involved exceeded or will exceed $120,000; and
- any of our directors, executive officers, holders of more than 5% of our common stock or any member of their immediate family had or will have a direct or indirect material interest.

Each agreement described below is filed as an exhibit to the registration statement of which this prospectus forms a part, and the following descriptions are qualified by reference to such agreements.

Management Services

In December 2013, we entered into a Professional Services Agreement with Indigo Partners, pursuant to which Indigo Partners agreed to provide our board and our management with financial and management consulting services, including business strategy, budgeting of future corporate investments, acquisition and divestiture strategies and debt and equity financing consulting services. In exchange for these services, we incur a fixed quarterly fee of $375,000 to Indigo Partners and reimburse Indigo Partners for out of pocket expenses incurred in connection with the rendering of services pursuant to the Professional Services Agreement. In addition, we pay the annual fees of each member of our board of directors that is affiliated with Indigo Partners. We incurred an aggregate of approximately $2 million for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2019 and $1 million for the year ended December 31, 2020 relating to the quarterly fees, related expense reimbursements and director compensation. In addition, we have agreed to indemnify Indigo Partners and its affiliates for losses arising from or relating to the services provided pursuant to the Professional Services Agreement. Our engagement of Indigo Partners pursuant to the Professional Services Agreement will continue until the date that Indigo Partners and its affiliates own less than 10% of the 5.2 million shares of our common stock acquired by an affiliate of Indigo Partners in December 2013.

Registration Rights Agreement

Immediately prior to the consummation of this offering, we intend to grant the registration rights described below to an affiliate of Indigo Partners, which holds 5.2 million shares of our common stock, pursuant to the terms of a Registration Rights Agreement, to be entered into by us at such time. This agreement will be entered into pursuant to the terms of the Subscription Agreement, dated December 3, 2013, pursuant to which Indigo, an affiliate of Indigo Partners funded the equity component of the acquisition from Republic Airways Holdings, Inc. For a description of the Registration Rights Agreement, please see “Description of Capital Stock—Registration Rights.”

Codeshare Arrangement

In January 2018, we entered into a codeshare agreement with Controladora Vuela Compañía de Aviación, S.A.B. de C.V. (an airline based in Mexico doing business as Volaris). According to a Form 20-F filed by Controladora Vuela Compañía de Aviación, S.A.B. de C.V. with the SEC in April 2018, investment funds managed by Indigo Partners holds approximately 18% of the total outstanding Common Stock shares of Volaris and two of our directors, William A. Franke and Brian H. Franke, are members of the board of directors of Volaris. In August 2018, we began operating scheduled codeshare flights on certain flights with Volaris that are identified by our designator code. Conversely, Volaris is operating scheduled codeshare flights with Frontier, identified by their designator code. Any flight bearing a Frontier code designator that is operated by Volaris is disclosed in our reservations systems and on the customer’s flight itinerary, boarding pass, and ticket, if a paper ticket is issued. As a result of the Volaris codeshare arrangement, our customers are able to purchase single ticket service on our route network and connect to Volaris’ route network.
The codeshare agreement provides for codeshare fees and revenue sharing for the codeshare flights, with such amounts prorated between the parties based upon an agreed formula. Each party bears its own costs and expenses of performance under the agreement, is required to indemnify the other party for certain claims and losses arising out of or related to the agreement and is responsible for complying with certain marketing and product display guidelines. The codeshare agreement also establishes a joint management committee, which includes representatives from both parties and generally oversees the management of the transactions and relationships contemplated by the agreement. The codeshare agreement will remain effective for a period of three years from its effective date, is subject to automatic renewal and may be terminated by either party at any time upon the satisfaction of certain conditions. During 2020, total revenues and expenses from this related party did not exceed $120,000.

Policies and Procedures for Related Party Transactions

Our board of directors intends to adopt a written related party policy to set forth the policies and procedures for the review and approval or ratification of related person transactions. This policy will cover any transaction, arrangement or relationship, or any series of similar transactions, arrangements or relationships in which we (or any of our subsidiaries) are to be a participant, the amount involved exceeds $120,000 and a related party had or will have a direct or indirect material interest, including purchases of goods or services by or from the related party or entities in which the related party has a material interest, indebtedness, guarantees of indebtedness and employment by us of a related party.
The following table sets forth, as of February 1, 2021, information regarding beneficial ownership of our capital stock by:

- each person, or group of affiliated persons, known by us to beneficially own more than 5% of our voting securities;
- each of our named executive officers;
- each of our directors;
- all of our executive officers and directors as a group; and
- the selling stockholder.

Beneficial ownership is determined according to the rules of the SEC and generally means that a person has beneficial ownership of a security if he, she or it possesses sole or shared voting or investment power of that security, including options and warrants that are currently exercisable or exercisable within 60 days. Except as indicated by the footnotes below, we believe, based on the information furnished to us, that the persons named in the table below have sole voting and investment power with respect to all shares of common stock shown that they beneficially own, subject to community property laws where applicable.

Common stock subject to stock options and warrants currently exercisable or exercisable within 60 days of February 1, 2021, are deemed to be outstanding for computing the percentage ownership of the person holding these options and warrants and the percentage ownership of any group of which the holder is a member but are not deemed outstanding for computing the percentage of any other person.

We have based our calculation of the percentage of beneficial ownership prior to the offering on shares of common stock outstanding on February 1, 2021. We have based our calculation of the percentage of beneficial ownership after the offering of shares of our common stock outstanding immediately after the completion of this offering (assuming no exercise of the underwriters’ option to purchase additional shares of our common stock from the selling stockholder).

Unless otherwise noted below, the address for each of the stockholders in the table below is c/o Frontier Group Holdings, Inc., 4545 Airport Way, Denver, Colorado 80239.
Table of Contents

The information in the table below with respect to each selling stockholder has been obtained from that selling stockholder. When we refer to the “selling stockholder” in this prospectus, we mean the entity listed in the table below as offering shares, as well as the pledgees, donees, assignees, transferees, successors and others who may hold any of the selling stockholder’s interest.

DESCRIPTION OF PRINCIPAL INDEBTEDNESS

Pre-Delivery Deposits Financing

Our direct subsidiary, Frontier Airlines Holdings, Inc. (“FAH”), and our operating subsidiary, Frontier Airlines, Inc. (“Frontier”) are party to a debt facility that is available to finance a portion of certain pre-delivery payments (“PDP Payments”) that Frontier is required to pay to Airbus S.A.S. (“Airbus”), with respect to future deliveries of specific Airbus A320neo and A321neo aircraft that we have on order (collectively, the “PDP Aircraft”). In connection with entering into this facility, FAH and Frontier established an unaffiliated Cayman Islands exempted company, Vertical Horizons, to act as borrower thereunder, and Frontier transferred certain of its rights and obligations under the purchase agreements (the “Assigned Purchase Agreements”), between it and Airbus relating to the PDP Aircraft to Vertical Horizons, including the obligation to make pre-delivery payments.

In August 2015, Vertical Horizons, as borrower, and Citibank, N.A., as facility agent and lender, entered into an amended and restated loan agreement (the “PDP Financing Facility”) which increased the commitment under the PDP Financing Facility to $125 million and increased the number of PDP Aircraft with respect to which PDP Payments could be financed thereunder. On January 14, 2016, the PDP Financing Facility was further amended to increase the commitment thereunder to $150 million. On December 16, 2016, the PDP Financing Facility was further amended and restated to increase the number of PDP Aircraft with respect to which PDP Payments could be financed thereunder. On December 29, 2017, the PDP Financing Facility was further amended and restated to increase the number of PDP Aircraft with respect to which PDP Payments could be financed thereunder. In May 2018 and January 2019, our PDP Financing Facility was amended to increase the commitment thereunder to $175 million and to provide for up to $25 million in unsecured revolving borrowings. On March 19, 2020, the PDP Financing Facility was further amended and restated to updated the PDP Aircrafts with respect to which PDP Payments could be financed thereunder and on June 18, 2020, the PDP Financing Facility was further amended to extend the availability of the facility through December 31, 2022. In December 2020, the PDP Financing Facility was further amended and restated to extend the availability of the facility through December 31, 2023, reduce Citibank, N.A.’s commitment, as initial lender, from $175 million to $150 million, remove the ability to draw further unsecured borrowings and to provide collateral for the borrowings outstanding as of that date. In addition, such amendments added flexibility for the borrower to potentially obtain additional commitments from other lenders for an aggregate amount of up to $200 million.

Vertical Horizons’ obligations under the PDP Financing Facility are secured primarily by a first priority lien on the Assigned Purchase Agreements including the proceeds and payments thereunder, and a charge over the shares of Vertical Horizons. Vertical Horizons’ obligations with respect to the PDP Financing Facility are guaranteed by FAH and by Frontier. The PDP Financing Facility contains affirmative and negative covenants and events of default that are typical in the industry for similar financings. The PDP Financing Facility consists of separate loans for each PDP Aircraft. The separate loans mature upon the earlier of (i) delivery of that aircraft to us by Airbus, (ii) the date one month following the last day of the scheduled delivery month of such aircraft and (iii) if there is a delay in delivery of aircraft, depending on the cause of the delivery delay, up to six months following the last day of the scheduled delivery month of such aircraft. The PDP Financing Facility will be repaid periodically according to the preceding sentence with the last scheduled delivery of aircraft contemplated in the PDP Financing Facility to be in the fourth quarter of 2023. The PDP Financing Facility is collateralized predominantly by our purchase agreement for 22 A320neo aircraft and 24 A321neo aircraft through 2023. As of December 31, 2020, there was $141 million outstanding and secured under our PDP Financing Facility.

Funds available under the PDP Financing Facility are subject to certain administrative and commitment fees, and funds drawn under the facility bear interest at the London Interbank Offered Rate (“LIBOR”) plus a margin.
Pre-Purchased Miles Facility

We originally entered into an agreement with Barclays in 2003 to provide for joint marketing, grant certain benefits to co-branded credit card holders (“Cardholders”), and allow Barclays to market using our customer database. Cardholders earn mileage credits under the Frontier Miles program and we sell mileage credits at agreed-upon rates to Barclays and earn fees from Barclays for the acquisition, retention and use of the co-branded credit card by consumers. In addition, Barclays will pre-purchase miles if we meet certain conditions precedent. During September 2020, we amended our agreements with Barclays to modify the products and services provided under the agreements, re-establish the pre-purchased miles facility and extend the term of the agreement to March 31, 2029. The dollar amount of the pre-purchased miles facility (“Facility Amount”), is subject to adjustment for the then-current year on each January 15, beginning on January 15, 2015 through and including January 15, 2028 based on the aggregate amount of fees payable by Barclays to us on a calendar year basis, up to an aggregate maximum Facility Amount of $200 million. Until we repay our CARES Act loans, however, we can only access up to $15 million of the Facility Amount. We pay interest on the outstanding Facility Amount on a monthly basis based on a one-month LIBOR plus a margin.

Barclays has agreed that for each month that specified conditions are met it will pre-purchase additional miles on a monthly basis in an amount equal to the difference between the Facility Amount and the amount of unused mileage credits then outstanding and held by Barclays. Among the conditions to this monthly purchase of mileage credits is a requirement that we maintain a balance of unrestricted cash, as defined in the agreement, or maintain a minimum amount of earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, amortization and rent (excluding any non-cash, non-operating expense) measured on a rolling four month basis. We may repurchase any or all of the pre-purchased miles at any time, from time to time, without penalty. Prior to March 31, 2028 (“Repurchase Commencement Date”), the Facility Amount may be reduced in each month in which such specified conditions are not met, which Facility Amount may be subsequently increased after three consecutive months of compliance with such conditions. Commencing on the Repurchase Commencement Date, the Facility Amount will be reduced by one-twelfth of the Facility Amount as measured on the Repurchase Commencement Date each month until such time as no pre-purchased mileage credits remain outstanding under the facility. The pre-purchased miles facility expires on March 31, 2029, when the term of the agreement ends.

Floating Rate Building Note

In June 2017, we entered into a $15 million note payable agreement with Bank of America. During December 2018, we executed an agreement with National Bank of Arizona to refinance this note, increasing the principal amount to $18 million. The note is secured by a lien on the land and building where our headquarters are located. As of December 31, 2020, all $18 million in aggregate principal amount was outstanding with an interest rate based on one-month LIBOR plus a margin. Under the terms of the agreement, we will repay outstanding principal balance in quarterly payments beginning in January 2022 until the maturity date in December 2023. On the maturity date, one final balloon payment will be made to cover all unpaid principal, accrued unpaid interest and other amounts due. The interest rate of one-month LIBOR plus a margin will be paid monthly.

Payroll Support Program

On April 30, 2020 (the “PSP Closing Date”), Frontier entered into a PSP Agreement with the Treasury pursuant to the CARES Act. In connection with its entry into the PSP Agreement, on the PSP Closing Date, FGHI also entered into a Warrant Agreement with the Treasury, and Frontier issued a PSP Promissory Note, with the Company and FAH, as guarantors.
PSP Agreement

Pursuant to the PSP Agreement, the Treasury provided to Frontier financial assistance, which was paid in installments (each, an “Installment”) on the PSP Closing Date, May 29, 2020, June 29, 2020, July 30, 2020 and September 30, 2020 and totaled an aggregate of approximately $211 million.

PSP Promissory Note

As compensation to the United States Government for the provision of financial assistance under the PSP Agreement, the Company issued the PSP Promissory Note to the Treasury, which provides for the Company’s obligation to pay to the Treasury the principal sum of $33 million, and the guarantee of the Company’s obligations by the Company and FAH.

The PSP Promissory Note bears interest on the outstanding principal amount at a rate equal to 1.00% per annum until the fifth anniversary of the PSP Closing Date and 2.00% plus an interest rate based on the secured overnight financing rate per annum or other benchmark replacement rate consistent with customary market conventions (but not to be less than 0.00%) thereafter until the tenth anniversary of the PSP Closing Date (the “Maturity Date”), and interest accrued thereon will be payable in arrears on the last business day of March and September of each year, beginning on September 30, 2020. The aggregate principal amount outstanding under the PSP Promissory Note, together with all accrued and unpaid interest thereon and all other amounts payable under the PSP Promissory Note, will be due and payable on the Maturity Date.

The Company may, at any time and from time to time, voluntarily prepay amounts outstanding under the PSP Promissory Note, in whole or in part, without penalty or premium. Within 30 days of the occurrence of certain change of control triggering events, the Company is required to prepay the aggregate outstanding principal amount of the PSP Promissory Note at such time, together with any accrued interest or other amounts owing under the PSP Promissory Note at such time.

The PSP Promissory Note is the Company’s senior unsecured obligation and each guarantee of the PSP Promissory Note is the senior unsecured obligation of each of Frontier and FAH, respectively. The PSP Promissory Note contains events of default, including cross-default with respect to acceleration or failure to pay at maturity other material indebtedness. Upon the occurrence of an event of default and subject to certain grace periods, the outstanding obligations under the PSP Promissory Note may, and in certain circumstances will automatically, be accelerated and become due and payable immediately.

PSP Warrant Agreement and PSP Warrants

As compensation to the United States Government for the provision of financial assistance under the PSP Agreement, and pursuant to the PSP Warrant Agreement, FGHI issued PSP Warrants to the Treasury to purchase shares of the common stock. The exercise price of the shares is $241.72 per share, subject to certain anti-dilution provisions provided for in the PSP Warrant.

Pursuant to the PSP Warrant Agreement, on each of May 19, 2020, May 29, 2020, June 29, 2020, July 30, 2020 and September 30, 2020, the Company issued to the Treasury a PSP Warrant to purchase up to an aggregate of 303 shares, 5,085 shares, 5,085 shares, 2,543 shares and 736 shares, respectively, based on the terms described herein. The number of shares issuable upon the exercise of each PSP Warrant is subject to certain anti-dilution provisions, including, among others, for below market issuances and payment of dividends.

The PSP Warrants do not have any voting rights and are freely transferable, with registration rights. Each PSP Warrant expires on the fifth anniversary of the date of issuance of such PSP Warrant. While the Company’s common stock is not listed on a national securities exchange, exercise of the PSP Warrants will be settled in cash. Following this offering and the listing of the Company’s common stock on the Nasdaq Global Select Market, the PSP Warrants will be exercisable either through net share settlement or net cash settlement, at the Company’s option.
The PSP Warrants are being issued solely as compensation to the United States Government related to entry into the PSP2 Agreement. No separate proceeds (apart from the financial assistance Installments described above) are being received upon issuance of the PSP Warrants or will be received upon exercise thereof.

Payroll Support Program Extension

On January 15, 2021 (the “PSP2 Closing Date”), Frontier entered into a PSP2 Agreement with the Treasury, with respect to the PSP2 established under Subtitle A of Title IV of Division N of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021 (the “PSP Extension Law”). In connection with its entry into the PSP2 Agreement, on the PSP2 Closing Date, the Company also entered into a Warrant Agreement (the “PSP2 Warrant Agreement”) with the Treasury, and Frontier issued a PSP2 Promissory Note, with the Company and FAH, as guarantors.

PSP2 Agreement

Pursuant to the PSP2 Agreement, the Treasury is to provide to Frontier financial assistance to be paid in Installments expected to total at least $140 million in the aggregate. We received the first installment, in the amount of approximately $70 million, from the Treasury on January 15, 2021.

PSP2 Promissory Note

As compensation to the United States Government for the provision of financial assistance under the PSP2 Agreement, Frontier issued a PSP2 Promissory Note to the Treasury. The PSP2 Promissory Note is in substantially the same form as the PSP Promissory Note entered into in connection with the PSP established under the CARES Act. There is currently no principal amount of the PSP2 Promissory Note. The principal amount of the PSP2 Promissory Note will increase by an amount equal to 30% of the amount of each additional Installment disbursed under the PSP2 Agreement, provided that the first $100 million of the total financial assistance provided to Frontier under the PSP2 Agreement will not increase the principal amount of the PSP2 Promissory Note. Interest accrued on the PSP2 Promissory Note will be payable in arrears on the last business day of March and September of each year, beginning on March 31, 2021. Assuming the total Installments to be paid pursuant to the PSP2 Agreement aggregate approximately $140 million, the PSP2 Promissory Note will have a total principal amount of approximately $12 million.

PSP2 Warrant Agreement and PSP2 Warrants

As compensation to the United States Government for the provision of financial assistance under the PSP2 Agreement, and pursuant to the PSP2 Warrant Agreement, the Company has agreed to issue the PSP2 Warrants to the Treasury to purchase shares. The PSP2 Warrant Agreement and PSP2 Warrants are in substantially the same forms as the PSP Warrant Agreement and PSP Warrants entered into in connection with the PSP, except that the exercise price (the “PSP2 Exercise Price”) for the shares will be equal to the value of the common stock on December 31, 2020, as determined by a third-party valuation. Pursuant to the PSP2 Warrant Agreement, on the date of each increase of the principal amount of the PSP2 Promissory Note, the Company will issue to the Treasury a PSP2 Warrant for a number of shares of Common Stock equal to 10% of such increase of the principal amount of the PSP2 Promissory Note, divided by the PSP2 Exercise Price. The number of shares issuable upon the exercise of each PSP Warrant is subject to certain anti-dilution provisions, including, among others, for below market issuances and payment of dividends, provided for in the PSP2 Warrants.

PSP and PSP2 Ongoing Requirements

In connection with PSP and PSP2, Frontier is required to comply with the relevant provisions of the CARES Act, as extended by the PSP Extension Law, including the requirement that funds provided pursuant to the PSP2 Agreement be used exclusively for the continuation of payment of certain employee wages, salaries and benefits, the requirement against involuntary furloughs and reductions in employee pay rates and benefits through March 31, 2021, the requirement to recall any employees involuntarily terminated or furloughed after September 30, 2020, the provisions that prohibit the repurchase of the Common Stock once it is listed on the Nasdaq Global Select Market, and the payment of Common Stock dividends through March 31, 2022, as well as those that restrict the payment of certain executive compensation until October 1, 2022. The PSP Agreement and PSP2 Agreement also impose substantial reporting obligations on Frontier.

Treasury Loan Agreement

On September 28, 2020 (the “Treasury Loan Closing Date”), Frontier, the Company and FAH entered into the Treasury Loan Agreement, dated as of the Treasury Loan Closing Date, among Frontier, as borrower, the Company and FAH, as guarantors, the Treasury, as lender, and the Bank of New York Mellon, as administrative agent and collateral agent. The Treasury Loan Agreement provides for a secured term loan facility (the “Facility”) which permits Frontier to borrow up to $574 million as further described below.

On the Treasury Loan Closing Date, Frontier borrowed $150 million and may, at its option, borrow additional amounts in up to two subsequent borrowings until May 28, 2021, subject to satisfaction of certain conditions precedent in the Treasury Loan Agreement including maintenance of a collateral coverage ratio of 2.0 to 1.0. Borrowings under the Facility will bear interest at a variable rate per annum equal to adjusted LIBOR plus 2.5%, subject to an Adjusted LIBOR Rate floor of 0%. Accrued interest on the loans shall be payable in arrears on the first business day following the 14th day of each March, June, September and December (beginning with September 15, 2021), and on the Treasury Loan Maturity Date (as defined below). The applicable interest rate for the $150 million loan drawn on the Treasury Loan Closing Date under the Facility will be 2.74% per annum for the period from the Treasury Loan Closing Date through September 15, 2021 at which time the interest rate will reset in accordance with the foregoing formula.

All advances under the Facility will be in the form of term loans, all of which will mature and be due and payable in a single installment on September 28, 2025 (the “Treasury Loan Maturity Date”). Voluntary prepayments of loans under the Facility may be made, in whole or in part, by Frontier, without premium or penalty, at any time and from time to time. Amounts prepaid may not be reborrowed. Mandatory prepayments of loans under the Facility are required, without premium or penalty, to the extent necessary to comply with Frontier’s covenants regarding the expiry of certain agreements constituting the Treasury Loan Collateral (as defined below), the debt service coverage ratio, certain dispositions of the Treasury Loan Collateral, certain debt issuances secured by liens on the Treasury Loan Collateral and certain indemnity, termination, liquidated damages or insurance payments related to the Treasury Loan Collateral. In addition, if a “change of control” (as defined in the Treasury Loan Agreement) occurs with respect to the Company or Frontier, Frontier will be required to repay the loans outstanding under the Facility.

On the Treasury Loan Closing Date, the obligations of Frontier under the Treasury Loan Agreement are secured by a first priority security interest on substantially all of Frontier’s Loyalty Program Assets (as defined in the Pledge and Security Agreement (as defined below)) (including rights to receive cash flows thereunder), documents, deposit accounts, securities accounts, books and records and intellectual property related to Frontier’s frequent flyer program, Frontier Miles (the “Loyalty Program”) and all proceeds, accessions, rents or profits related to the foregoing (collectively, the “Treasury Loan Collateral”).

The Treasury Loan Agreement requires Frontier, under certain circumstances, including within ten (10) business days prior to the last business day of March and September of each year, beginning March 2021, to appraise the value of the Treasury Loan Collateral and recalculate the collateral coverage ratio. If the calculated collateral coverage ratio is less than 1.6 to 1.0, Frontier will be required either to provide additional Treasury Loan Collateral (which may include cash collateral) to secure its obligations under the Treasury Loan Agreement or prepay the term loans under the Facility, in such amounts that the recalculated collateral coverage ratio, after giving effect to any such additional Treasury Loan Collateral or repayment, is at least 1.6 to 1.0. Based on the...
The appraisal submitted by Frontier in connection with the execution of the Loan Agreement, the appraised value of the Treasury Loan Collateral is presently significantly in excess of the 2.0 to 1.0 collateral coverage ratio necessary to access the amount under the Facility, including any contemplated increase.

The Treasury Loan Agreement also requires Frontier to calculate the debt service coverage ratio on a quarterly basis. If the calculated debt service coverage ratio is less than 1.75 to 1.00, then the Company and its subsidiaries will be required to place an amount equal to at least 50% of certain revenues received from the Loyalty Program (the "Loyalty Program Revenues") into a blocked account to be held for the benefit of the lenders (which amounts on deposit may be used to prepay the outstanding term loans at the option of Frontier) until the debt service coverage ratio is recalculated to be greater than or equal to 1.75 to 1.00. If the calculated debt service coverage ratio is less than or equal to 1.50 to 1.00, all amounts previously deposited into the blocked account will be used to prepay outstanding term loans and an amount equal to at least 75% of all future Loyalty Program Revenues will be transferred into the blocked account and used to prepay outstanding term loans until the debt service coverage ratio is recalculated to be greater than or equal to 1.25 to 1.00.

The Treasury Loan Agreement also includes affirmative, negative and financial covenants and requires the Company to comply with the relevant provisions of the CARES Act including, but not limited to, the provisions that prohibit the payment of common stock dividends and the repurchase of the Company’s common stock (except under certain circumstances when the Company can repurchase up to $25 million of common stock annually), the continuation of certain scheduled air transportation service and those that restrict the payment of certain executive compensation, in each case, through the date that is 12 months after the date on which all amounts of loan outstanding under the Facility have been repaid in full. Under certain circumstances the Company can repurchase up to $25 million of common stock annually.

Treasury Warrant Agreement and Warrants

In connection with its entry into the Loan Agreement, the Company also entered into the Treasury Warrant Agreement, with the Treasury.

Pursuant to the Treasury Warrant Agreement, the Company issued to the Treasury a warrants to purchase up to 62,055 shares on the Treasury Loan Closing Date, with an exercise price of $241.72 per share. On the date of each borrowing under the Loan Agreement, the Company will issue to the Treasury additional warrants to purchase shares of the Company’s common stock equal to 10% of such borrowing, divided by the exercise price.

The exercise price and the number of shares to be issued are subject to adjustment as a result of certain anti-dilution provisions provided for in the Treasury Warrants.

The Treasury Warrants do not have any voting rights and are freely transferable, with registration rights. Each Treasury Warrant expires on the fifth anniversary of the date of issuance of such Treasury Warrant. While the Company’s common stock is not listed on a national securities exchange, exercise of the warrants will be settled in cash. Following this offering and the listing of the Company’s common stock on the Nasdaq Global Select Market, the Treasury Warrants will be exercisable either through net share settlement or net cash settlement, at the Company’s option.

The Treasury Warrants were issued as additional compensation to the United States Government related solely to entry into the Treasury Loan Agreement. No separate proceeds will be received upon issuance of a Treasury Warrant or will be received upon exercise thereof.

Our issuance of Preferred Stock could adversely affect the voting power of holders of common stock and the likelihood that such holders will receive dividend payments and payments upon liquidation. In addition, the issuance of Preferred Stock could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change of control of our company or other corporate action. Upon the closing of this offering, there will be no shares of Preferred Stock outstanding, and we have no present plan to issue any such shares of Preferred Stock.

Registration Rights

Immediately prior to the consummation of this offering, we intend to grant the registration rights described below to Indigo Fund, an affiliate of Indigo Partners, which holds 5.2 million shares of our common stock, pursuant to the terms of a Registration Rights Agreement to be entered into by us at such time. This agreement will be entered into pursuant to the terms of the Subscription Agreement, dated December 3, 2013, pursuant to which Indigo, an affiliate of Indigo Partners, funded the equity component of the acquisition from Republic Airways Holdings, Inc.
The following description of the terms of Registration Rights Agreement is intended as a summary only and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the Registration Rights Agreement filed as an exhibit to the registration statement of which this prospectus is a part.

Demand and Short-Form Registration Rights

At any time following the consummation of this offering, Indigo Fund may request that we initiate up to eight registrations of its shares (and the shares of any other parties that may become a party to the Registration Rights Agreement) on Form S-1 or any similar or successor long-form registration and, if available, an unlimited number of registrations of its shares (and the shares of any other parties that may become a party to the Registration Rights Agreement) on Form S-3 or any successor or similar short-form registration.

Piggyback Registration Rights

At any time that we propose to register any of our securities under the Securities Act, including in connection with this offering, Indigo Fund and any other parties that may become a party to the Registration Rights Agreement will be entitled to certain “piggyback” registration rights allowing such parties to include their shares in such registration, subject to certain marketing and other limitations. As a result, whenever we propose to file a registration statement under the Securities Act (other than with respect to our initial public offering, pursuant to a demand or short-form registration, or pursuant to a registration on Form S-4 or S-8 or any successor or similar forms), the holders of these shares are entitled to notice of the registration and have the right, subject to limitations that the underwriters may impose on the number of shares included in the registration, to include their shares in the registration.

Expenses of Registration, Restriction and Indemnification

We will pay all registration expenses, including the legal fees of one counsel for all holders under the Registration Rights Agreement. The demand, short-form and piggyback registration rights are subject to customary restrictions such as limitations on the number of shares to be included in the underwritten offering imposed by the managing underwriter. The Registration Rights Agreement also contains customary indemnification and contribution provisions.

Anti-Takeover Provisions of Our Certificate of Incorporation and Bylaws

Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering provides that our board of directors will be divided into three classes, with staggered three-year terms. Only one class of directors will be elected at each annual meeting of our stockholders, with the other classes continuing for the remainder of their respective three-year terms. Because our stockholders do not have cumulative voting rights, holders of common stock representing a majority of the voting rights of our common stock will be able to elect all of our directors up for election at any given stockholders’ meeting. Accordingly, until such time as Indigo and its affiliates beneficially own shares of our common stock representing less than a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, Indigo will elect our entire board of directors. Our amended and restated bylaws to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering includes advance notice procedures and other content requirements applicable to stockholders other than Indigo for proposals to be brought before a meeting of stockholders, including proposed nominations of persons for election to the board of directors.

Until such time as Indigo and its affiliates beneficially own shares of our common stock representing less than a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering require a majority stockholder vote for the removal of a director with or without cause, and for the amendment, repeal or modification of certain provisions of our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws including, among other things, relating to the classification of our board of directors. From and after such time as Indigo and its affiliates hold less than a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, a majority stockholder vote is required for removal of a director only for cause (and a director may only be removed for cause), and a 66⅔% stockholder vote is required for the amendment, repeal or modification of certain provisions of our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws.

Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering also provide that, until such time as Indigo and its affiliates beneficially own shares of our common stock representing less than a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, Indigo will have the ability to take stockholder action by written consent without calling a stockholder meeting and to approve amendments to our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws and to take other actions without the vote of any other stockholder. From and after such time as Indigo and its affiliates beneficially own shares of our common stock representing less than a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, all stockholder action must be effected at a duly called meeting of stockholders and not by a consent in writing, and further provide that, from and after such time as Indigo and its affiliates beneficially own shares of our common stock representing less than a majority of the voting rights of our common stock, only our corporate secretary, upon the direction of our board of directors, or the Chairman of the Board, may call a special meeting of stockholders.

The combination of the classification of our board of directors (from and after such time as Indigo and its affiliates hold less than a majority of the voting rights of our common stock), lack of cumulative voting rights, prohibitions on stockholder actions by written consent and stockholder ability to call a special meeting by a stockholder other than Indigo, and super majority voting requirements make it more difficult for stockholders other than Indigo (for so long as it holds sufficient voting rights) to replace our board of directors as well as for another party to obtain control of us by replacing our board of directors. Because our board of directors has the power to retain and discharge our officers, these provisions could also make it more difficult for stockholders other than Indigo (for so long as it holds sufficient voting rights) or another party to effect a change in management. Because our board of directors has the power to retain and discharge our officers, these provisions could also make it more difficult for stockholders other than Indigo (for so long as it holds sufficient voting rights) or another party to effect a change in management. In addition, the authorization of undesignated preferred stock makes it possible for our board of directors to issue preferred stock with voting or other rights or preferences that could impede the success of any attempt to change our control.

These provisions may have the effect of deterring hostile takeovers or delaying changes in our control or management. These provisions are intended to enhance the likelihood of continued stability in the composition of our board of directors and its policies and to discourage certain types of transactions that may involve an actual or threatened acquisition of us. These provisions are designed to reduce our vulnerability to an unsolicited acquisition proposal. The provisions also are intended to discourage certain tactics that may be used in proxy fights. However, such provisions could have the effect of discouraging others from making tender offers for our shares and, as a consequence, they also may inhibit fluctuations in the market price of our shares that could result from actual or rumored takeover attempts. Such provisions may also have the effect of preventing changes in our management.

Section 203 of the Delaware General Corporation Law

Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering provides that we will not be subject to the provisions of Section 203 of the Delaware General Corporation Law unless and until such time when Indigo Partners and its affiliates cease to beneficially own at least 15% of the then outstanding shares of our voting common stock. Following such date, we will be subject to Section 203 of the Delaware General Corporation Law, which prohibits a Delaware corporation from engaging in any business combination with any interested stockholder for a period of three years after the date that such stockholder became an interested stockholder, with the following exceptions:

- before such date, the board of directors of the corporation approved either the business combination or the transaction that resulted in the stockholder becoming an interested stockholder;
• upon completion of the transaction that resulted in the stockholder becoming an interested stockholder, the interested stockholder owned at least 85% of the voting stock of the corporation outstanding at the time the transaction began, excluding for purposes of determining the voting stock outstanding (but not the outstanding voting stock owned by the interested stockholder) those shares owned (i) by persons who are directors and also officers and (ii) employee stock plans in which employee participants do not have the right to determine confidentially whether shares held subject to the plan will be tendered in a tender or exchange offer; or

• on or after such date, the business combination is approved by the board of directors and authorized at an annual or special meeting of the stockholders, and not by written consent, by the affirmative vote of at least 66\(\frac{2}{3}\)% of the outstanding voting stock that is not owned by the interested stockholder.

In general, Section 203 defines business combination to include the following:
• any merger or consolidation involving the corporation and the interested stockholder;
• any sale, transfer, pledge or other disposition of 10% or more of the assets of the corporation involving the interested stockholder;
• subject to certain exceptions, any transaction that results in the issuance or transfer by the corporation of any stock of the corporation to the interested stockholder;
• any transaction involving the corporation that has the effect of increasing the proportionate share of the stock or any class or series of the corporation beneficially owned by the interested stockholder; or
• the receipt by the interested stockholder of the benefit of any loss, advances, guarantees, pledges or other financial benefits by or through the corporation.

In general, Section 203 defines an “interested stockholder” as an entity or person who, together with the person’s affiliates and associates, beneficially owns, or within three years prior to the time of determination of interested stockholder status did own, 15% or more of the outstanding voting stock of the corporation.

Corporate Opportunity

Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation, to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering, will provide that, to the fullest extent permitted by law, the doctrine of “corporate opportunity” will not apply to Indigo, any of our non-employee directors who are employees, affiliates or consultants of Indigo or its affiliates (other than us or our subsidiaries) or any of their respective affiliates in a manner that would prohibit them from investing in competing businesses or doing business with our customers. See “Risk Factors—Risks Related to Owning Our Common Stock—Our certificate of incorporation will contain a provision renouncing our interest and expectancy in certain corporate opportunities.”

Limited Ownership and Voting by Foreign Owners

To comply with restrictions imposed by federal law on foreign ownership and control of U.S. airlines, our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering restrict ownership, voting, and control of shares of our capital stock by non-U.S. citizens. The restrictions imposed by federal law and DOT policy require that we be owned and controlled by U.S. citizens, that no more than 25.0% of our voting stock be owned or controlled, directly or indirectly, by persons or entities who are not U.S. citizens, as defined in 49 U.S.C. § 40102(a)(15), that no more than 49.0% of our outstanding stock be owned or controlled, directly or indirectly, (beneficially or of record) by persons or entities who are not U.S. citizens and are from countries that have entered into “open skies” air transport agreements with the U.S., that our president and at least two-thirds of the members of our board of directors and other managing officers be U.S. citizens, and that we be under the actual control of U.S. citizen. Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and bylaws to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering provide that the failure of non-U.S. citizens to register their shares on a separate stock record, which we refer to as the “foreign stock record,” would result in a loss of their voting rights in the event and to the extent that the aggregate foreign ownership of the outstanding common stock exceeds the foreign ownership restrictions imposed by federal law. Our amended and restated bylaws further provide that no shares of our common stock will be registered on the foreign stock record if the amount so registered would exceed the foreign ownership restrictions imposed by federal law. If it is determined that the amount registered in the foreign stock record exceeds the foreign ownership restrictions imposed by federal law, shares will be removed from the foreign stock record, resulting in loss of voting rights, in reverse chronological order based on the date of registration therein, until the number of shares registered therein does not exceed the foreign ownership restrictions imposed by federal law. We are currently in compliance with these ownership restrictions.

Forum Selection

Our certificate of incorporation and bylaws currently provide, and our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws, which will become effective immediately prior to the completion of this offering, will provide, that: (i) unless we consent in writing to the selection of an alternative forum, the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware (or, if such court does not have subject matter jurisdiction thereof, the federal district court of the State of Delaware) will, to the fullest extent permitted by law, be the sole and exclusive forum for: (A) any derivative action or proceeding brought on behalf of the company, (B) any action asserting a claim for or based on a breach of a fiduciary duty owed by any of our current or former director, officer, other employee, agent or stockholder to the company or our stockholders, including without limitation a claim alleging the aiding and abetting of such a breach of fiduciary duty, (C) any action asserting a claim against the company or any of our current or former director, officer, employee, agent or stockholder arising pursuant to any provision of the Delaware General Corporation Law or our certificate of incorporation or bylaws or as to which the Delaware General Corporation Law confers jurisdiction on the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware, or (D) any action asserting a claim related to or involving the company that is governed by the internal affairs doctrine; (ii) unless we consent in writing to the selection of an alternative forum, the federal district courts of the United States will, to the fullest extent permitted by law, be the sole and exclusive forum for the resolution of any complaint asserting a cause or causes of action arising under the Securities Act, and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, including all causes of action asserted against any defendant to such complaint; (iii) any person or entity purchasing or otherwise acquiring or holding any interest in shares of capital stock of the company will be deemed to have notice of and consented to these provisions; and (iv) failure to enforce the foregoing provisions would cause us irreparable harm, and we will be entitled to equitable relief, including injunctive relief and specific performance, to enforce the foregoing provisions. This exclusive forum provision will not apply to suits brought to enforce any liability or duty created by the Exchange Act or any other claim for which the federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction. Nothing in our current certificate of incorporation or bylaws or our amended and restated certificate of incorporation or amended and restated bylaws precludes stockholders that assert claims under the Exchange Act, from bringing such claims in federal court to the extent that the Exchange Act confers exclusive federal jurisdiction over such claims, subject to applicable law.

Although our current certificate of incorporation and bylaws contain, and our amended and restated certificate of incorporation and amended and restated bylaws will contain, the choice of forum provision described above, it is possible that a court could find that such a provision is inapplicable for a particular claim or action or that such provision is unenforceable. For example, Section 22 of the Securities Act creates concurrent jurisdiction for federal and state courts over all suits brought to enforce any duty or liability created by the Securities Act or the rules and regulations thereunder. Accordingly, there is uncertainty as to whether a court would enforce such a forum selection provision as written in connection with claims arising under the Securities Act.

SHARES ELIGIBLE FOR FUTURE SALE

Prior to this offering, there has been no public market for our common stock. Future sales of our common stock in the public market, or the availability of such shares for sale in the public market, could adversely affect market prices prevailing from time to time. As described below, only a limited number of shares will be available for sale shortly after this offering due to contractual and legal restrictions on resale. Nevertheless, sales of our common stock in the public market after such restrictions lapse, or the perception that those sales may occur, could adversely affect the prevailing market price at such time and our ability to raise equity capital in the future.

Based on the number of shares outstanding as of December 31, 2020 and giving effect to the completion of this offering, million shares of common stock will be outstanding, assuming no exercise of the underwriters’ option to purchase additional shares and no exercise of outstanding options. Of these shares, the shares sold in this offering, which includes both the shares sold by us and any shares sold by the selling stockholder, plus any shares sold upon exercise of the underwriters’ option to purchase additional shares of our common stock from the selling stockholder, will be freely tradable in the public market without restriction or further registration under the Securities Act, unless the shares are held by any of our “affiliates” as such term is defined in Rule 144 of the Securities Act.

After this offering, million shares of common stock will be restricted as a result of securities laws or lock-up agreements as described below. Following the expiration of the various lock-up periods, all shares will be eligible for resale in compliance with Rule 144 or Rule 701, if then available, to the extent such shares have been released from any repurchase option that we may hold. “Restricted securities” as defined under Rule 144 were issued and sold by us in reliance on exemptions from the registration requirements of the Securities Act. These shares may be sold in the public market only if registered pursuant to an exemption from registration, such as Rule 144 or Rule 701 under the Securities Act.

The share amounts set forth in this section are subject to change and will depend primarily on the price per share at which our common stock is sold in this offering and the total size of the offering. Please see “Use of Proceeds” elsewhere in this prospectus.

In general, under Rule 144, as currently in effect, once we have been subject to the public company reporting requirements of the Exchange Act for at least 90 days, a person (or persons whose shares are required to be aggregated) who is not deemed to have been one of our “affiliates” for purposes of Rule 144 at any time during the three months preceding a sale, and who has beneficially owned restricted securities within the meaning of Rule 144 for at least six months, including the holding period of any prior owner other than one of our “affiliates,” is entitled to sell those shares in the public market (subject to the lock-up agreements referred to below, if applicable) without complying with the manner of sale, volume limitations or notice provisions of Rule 144, but subject to compliance with the public information requirements of Rule 144. If such a person has beneficially owned the shares proposed to be sold for at least one year, including the holding period of any prior owner other than “affiliates,” then such person is entitled to sell such shares in the public market without complying with any of the requirements of Rule 144 (subject to the lock-up agreements referred to below, if applicable). In general, under Rule 144, as currently in effect, once we have been subject to the public company reporting requirements of the Exchange Act for at least 90 days, our “affiliates,” as defined in Rule 144, who have beneficially owned the shares proposed to be sold for at least six months are entitled to sell in the public market, upon expiration of any applicable lock-up agreements and within any three-month period, a number of those shares of our common stock that does not exceed the greater of:

- 1% of the number of common stock then outstanding, which will equal approximately shares of common stock immediately after this offering (calculated on the basis of the number of shares of our common stock outstanding as of December 31, 2020, the assumptions described above and assuming no exercise of the underwriter’s option to purchase additional shares and no exercise of outstanding options); or
• the average weekly trading volume of our common stock on the Nasdaq Stock Market during the four calendar weeks preceding the filing of a notice on Form 144 with respect to such sale.

Such sales under Rule 144 by our “affiliates” or persons selling shares on behalf of our “affiliates” are also subject to certain manner of sale provisions, notice requirements and to the availability of current public information about us. Notwithstanding the availability of Rule 144, the holders of substantially all of our restricted securities have entered into lock-up agreements as referenced below and their restricted securities will become eligible for sale (subject to the above limitations under Rule 144) upon the expiration of the restrictions set forth in those agreements.

Rule 701

In general, under Rule 701 as currently in effect, any of our employees, directors, officers, consultants or advisors who acquired common stock from us in connection with a written compensatory stock or option plan or other written agreement in compliance with Rule 701 under the Securities Act before the effective date of the registration statement of which this prospectus is a part (to the extent such common stock is not subject to a lock-up agreement) is entitled to rely on Rule 701 to resell such shares in reliance on Rule 144. Accordingly, subject to any applicable lock-up agreements, under Rule 701 persons who are not our “affiliates,” as defined in Rule 144, may resell those shares without complying with the minimum holding period or public information requirements of Rule 144, and persons who are our “affiliates” may resell those shares without compliance with Rule 144’s minimum holding period requirements (subject to the terms of the lock-up agreement referred to below, if applicable).

Lock-Up Agreements

In connection with this offering, we, the selling stockholder, our officers, directors and holders of substantially all of our outstanding shares of capital stock and other securities have agreed with the underwriters, subject to specified exceptions, not to offer, sell, contract to sell, pledge or otherwise dispose of, directly or indirectly, any of our common stock or securities convertible into or exchangeable or exercisable for shares of our common stock, enter into a transaction which would have the same effect, or enter into any swap, hedge or other arrangement that transfers, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of our common stock, whether any such aforementioned transaction is to be settled by delivery of our common stock or other securities, in cash or otherwise, or publicly disclose the intention to make any such offer, sale, pledge or disposition, or to enter into any such transaction, swap, hedge or other arrangement, without, in each case, the prior written consent of and for a period of days after the date of this prospectus. See “Underwriting.”

and may, in their sole discretion and at any time or from time to time before the termination of the -day period, without public notice, release all or any portion of the securities subject to lock-up agreements. There are no existing agreements between the underwriters and any of our stockholders who will execute a lock-up agreement which provide consent to the sale of shares prior to the expiration of the lock-up period.

Registration Rights

On the date beginning 180 days after the date of this prospectus, an affiliate of Indigo, which holds 5.2 million shares of our common stock, or its transferees, will be entitled to certain rights with respect to the registration of those shares under the Securities Act. For a description of these registration rights, please see “Description of Capital Stock—Registration Rights.” After these shares are registered, they will be freely tradable without restriction under the Securities Act.
Registration Statements

As soon as practicable after the completion of this offering, we intend to file a Form S-8 registration statement under the Securities Act to register shares of our common stock subject to options outstanding or reserved for issuance under our 2014 Stock Incentive Plan and the Frontier Group Holdings, Inc. 2021 Equity Incentive Award Plan. This registration statement will become effective immediately upon filing, and shares covered by this registration statement will thereupon be eligible for sale in the public markets, subject to vesting restrictions, the lock-up agreements described above and Rule 144 limitations applicable to affiliates. For a more complete discussion of our stock plans, please see “Executive Compensation—Equity Compensation Plans.”
MATERIAL U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES TO NON-U.S. HOLDERS

The following discussion is a summary of the material U.S. federal income tax consequences to Non-U.S. Holders (as defined below) of the purchase, ownership and disposition of our common stock issued pursuant to this offering, but does not purport to be a complete analysis of all potential tax effects. The effects of other U.S. federal tax laws, such as estate and gift tax laws, and any applicable state, local or non-U.S. tax laws are not discussed. This discussion is based on the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, (the “Code”), Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder, judicial decisions, and published rulings and administrative pronouncements of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (“IRS”), in each case in effect as of the date hereof. These authorities may change or be subject to differing interpretations. Any such change or differing interpretation may be applied retroactively in a manner that could adversely affect a Non-U.S. Holder. We have not sought and will not seek any rulings from the IRS regarding the matters discussed below. There can be no assurance the IRS or a court will not take a contrary position to that discussed below regarding the tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and disposition of our common stock.

This discussion is limited to Non-U.S. Holders that hold our common stock as a “capital asset” within the meaning of Section 1221 of the Code (generally, property held for investment). This discussion does not address all U.S. federal income tax consequences relevant to a Non-U.S. Holder’s particular circumstances, including the impact of Medicare contribution tax on net investment income or the alternative minimum tax. In addition, it does not address consequences relevant to Non-U.S. Holders subject to special rules, including, without limitation:

- U.S. expatriates and former citizens or long-term residents of the United States;
- persons holding our common stock as part of a hedge, straddle or other risk reduction strategy or as part of a conversion transaction or other integrated investment;
- banks, insurance companies, and other financial institutions;
- brokers, dealers or traders in securities;
- “controlled foreign corporations,” “passive foreign investment companies,” and corporations that accumulate earnings to avoid U.S. federal income tax;
- partnerships or other entities or arrangements treated as partnerships for U.S. federal income tax purposes (and investors therein);
- tax-exempt organizations or governmental organizations;
- persons deemed to sell our common stock under the constructive sale provisions of the Code;
- tax-qualified retirement plans; and
- “qualified foreign pension funds” as defined in Section 897(1)(2) of the Code and entities all of the interests of which are held by qualified foreign pension funds.

If an entity treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes holds our common stock, the tax treatment of a partner in the partnership will depend on the status of the partner, the activities of the partnership and certain determinations made at the partner level. Accordingly, partnerships holding our common stock and the partners in such partnerships should consult their tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences to them.

THIS DISCUSSION IS NOT TAX ADVICE. INVESTORS SHOULD CONSULT THEIR TAX ADVISORS WITH RESPECT TO THE APPLICATION OF THE U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX LAWS TO THEIR PARTICULAR SITUATIONS AS WELL AS ANY TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE PURCHASE, OWNERSHIP AND DISPOSITION OF OUR COMMON STOCK ARISING UNDER THE U.S. FEDERAL ESTATE OR GIFT TAX LAWS OR UNDER THE LAWS OF ANY STATE, LOCAL OR NON-U.S. TAXING JURISDICTION OR UNDER ANY APPLICABLE INCOME TAX TREATY.
Table of Contents

Definition of A Non-U.S. Holder

For purposes of this discussion, a “Non-U.S. Holder” is any beneficial owner of our common stock that is neither a “U.S. person” nor an entity treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes. A U.S. person is any person that, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, is or is treated as any of the following:

• an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States;
• a corporation created or organized under the laws of the United States, any state thereof or the District of Columbia;
• an estate, the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income tax regardless of its source; or
• a trust that (1) is subject to the primary supervision of a U.S. court and all substantial decisions of which are subject to the control of one or more “United States persons” (within the meaning of Section 7701(a)(30) of the Code), or (2) has a valid election in effect to be treated as a United States person for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Distributions

As described in the section entitled “Dividend Policy,” our ability to pay dividends are subject to certain contractual limitations. If we do make distributions of cash or property on our common stock, such distributions will constitute dividends for U.S. federal income tax purposes to the extent paid from our current or accumulated earnings and profits, as determined under U.S. federal income tax principles. Amounts not treated as dividends for U.S. federal income tax purposes will constitute a return of capital and first be applied against and reduce a Non-U.S. Holder’s adjusted tax basis in its common stock, but not below zero. Any excess will be treated as capital gain and will be treated as described below under “— Sale or Other Taxable Disposition.”

Subject to the discussion below regarding effectively connected income, dividends paid to a Non-U.S. Holder will be subject to U.S. federal withholding tax at a rate of 30% of the gross amount of the dividends (or such lower rate specified by an applicable income tax treaty, provided the Non-U.S. Holder furnishes a valid IRS Form W-8BEN or W-8BEN-E (or other applicable documentation) certifying qualification for the lower treaty rate). A Non-U.S. Holder that does not timely furnish the required documentation, but that qualifies for a reduced treaty rate, may obtain a refund of any excess amounts withheld by timely filing an appropriate claim for refund with the IRS. Non-U.S. Holders should consult their tax advisors regarding their entitlement to benefits under any applicable tax treaties.

If dividends paid to a Non-U.S. Holder are effectively connected with the Non-U.S. Holder’s conduct of a trade or business within the United States (and, if required by an applicable income tax treaty, the Non-U.S. Holder maintains a permanent establishment in the United States to which such dividends are attributable), the Non-U.S. Holder will be exempt from the U.S. federal withholding tax described above. To claim the exemption, the Non-U.S. Holder must furnish to the applicable withholding agent a valid IRS Form W-8ECI, certifying that the dividends are effectively connected with the Non-U.S. Holder’s conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

Any such effectively connected dividends will be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net income basis at the regular rates applicable to U.S. persons. A Non-U.S. Holder that is a corporation also may be subject to a branch profits tax at a rate of 30% (or such lower rate specified by an applicable income tax treaty) on such effectively connected dividends, as adjusted for certain items. Non-U.S. Holders should consult their tax advisors regarding any applicable tax treaties that may provide for different rules.
Sale or Other Taxable Disposition

Subject to the discussions below regarding backup withholding and FATCA, a Non-U.S. Holder will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax on any gain realized upon the sale or other taxable disposition of our common stock unless:

- the gain is effectively connected with the Non-U.S. Holder’s conduct of a trade or business within the United States (and, if required by an applicable income tax treaty, the Non-U.S. Holder maintains a permanent establishment in the United States to which such gain is attributable);
- the Non-U.S. Holder is a non-resident alien individual present in the United States for 183 days or more during the taxable year of the disposition and certain other requirements are met; or
- our common stock constitutes a U.S. real property interest (“USRPI”) by reason of our status as a U.S. real property holding corporation (“USRPHC”) for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Gain described in the first bullet point above generally will be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net income basis at the regular rates applicable to U.S. persons. A Non-U.S. Holder that is a corporation also may be subject to a branch profits tax at a rate of 30% (or such lower rate specified by an applicable income tax treaty) on such effectively connected gain, as adjusted for certain items.

Gain described in the second bullet point above will be subject to U.S. federal income tax at a rate of 30% (or such lower rate specified by an applicable income tax treaty), which may be offset by certain U.S. source capital losses of the Non-U.S. Holder (even though the individual is not considered a resident of the United States), provided the Non-U.S. Holder has timely filed U.S. federal income tax returns with respect to such losses.

With respect to the third bullet point above, we believe we currently are not, and do not anticipate becoming, a USRPHC. Because the determination of whether we are a USRPHC depends, however, on the fair market value of our USRPIs relative to the fair market value of our non-U.S. real property interests and our other business assets, there can be no assurance we currently are not a USRPHC or will not become one in the future. Even if we are or were to become a USRPHC, gain arising from the sale or other taxable disposition by a Non-U.S. Holder will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax if our common stock is “regularly traded,” as defined by applicable Treasury Regulations, on an established securities market, and such Non-U.S. Holder owned, actually and constructively, 5% or less of our common stock throughout the shorter of the five-year period ending on the date of the sale or other taxable disposition or the Non-U.S. Holder’s holding period.

Non-U.S. Holders should consult their tax advisors regarding any applicable tax treaties that may provide for different rules.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding

Payments of dividends on our common stock will not be subject to backup withholding, provided the Non-U.S. Holder certifies its non-U.S. status, such as by furnishing a valid IRS Form W-8BEN, W-8BEN-E or W-8ECI, or otherwise establishes an exemption. However, information returns are required to be filed with the IRS in connection with any distributions on our common stock paid to the Non-U.S. Holder, regardless of whether such distributions constitute dividends or whether any tax was actually withheld. In addition, proceeds of the sale or other taxable disposition of our common stock within the United States or conducted through certain U.S.-related brokers generally will not be subject to backup withholding or information reporting, if the applicable withholding agent receives the certification described above or the Non-U.S. Holder otherwise establishes an exemption. Proceeds of a disposition of our common stock conducted through a non-U.S. office of a non-U.S. broker that does not have certain enumerated relationships with the United States generally will not be subject to backup withholding or information reporting.
Copies of information returns that are filed with the IRS may also be made available under the provisions of an applicable treaty or agreement to the tax authorities of the country in which the Non-U.S. Holder resides or is established.

Backup withholding is not an additional tax. Any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules may be allowed as a refund or a credit against a Non-U.S. Holder’s U.S. federal income tax liability, provided the required information is timely furnished to the IRS.

Additional Withholding Tax on Payments Made to Foreign Accounts

Withholding taxes may be imposed under Sections 1471 to 1474 of the Code (such Sections commonly referred to as the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act (“FATCA”) on certain types of payments made to non-U.S. financial institutions and certain other non-U.S. entities. Specifically, a 30% withholding tax may be imposed on dividends on, or (subject to the proposed Treasury Regulations discussed below) gross proceeds from the sale or other disposition of, our common stock paid to a “foreign financial institution” or a “non-financial foreign entity” (each as defined in the Code), unless (1) the foreign financial institution undertakes certain diligence and reporting obligations, (2) the non-financial foreign entity either certifies it does not have any “substantial United States owners” (as defined in the Code) or furnishes identifying information regarding each substantial United States owner, or (3) the foreign financial institution or non-financial foreign entity otherwise qualifies for an exemption from these rules. If the payee is a foreign financial institution and is subject to the diligence and reporting requirements in (1) above, it must enter into an agreement with the U.S. Department of the Treasury requiring, among other things, that it undertake to identify accounts held by certain “specified United States persons” or “United States owned foreign entities” (each as defined in the Code), annually report certain information about such accounts, and withhold 30% on certain payments to non-compliant foreign financial institutions and certain other account holders. Foreign financial institutions located in jurisdictions that have an intergovernmental agreement with the United States governing FATCA may be subject to different rules.

Under the applicable Treasury Regulations and administrative guidance, withholding under FATCA generally applies to payments of dividends on our common stock. While, beginning on January 1, 2019, withholding under FATCA would have applied also to payments of gross proceeds from the sale or other disposition of our common stock, proposed Treasury Regulations eliminate FATCA withholding on payments of gross proceeds entirely. Taxpayers generally may rely on these proposed Treasury Regulations until final Treasury Regulations are issued.

Prospective investors should consult their tax advisors regarding the potential application of withholding under FATCA to their investment in our common stock.

The underwriting agreement provides that the obligations of the underwriters to purchase the shares included in this offering are subject to approval of legal matters by counsel and to other conditions. The underwriters are obligated to purchase all the shares (other than those covered by the option to purchase additional shares described below) if they purchase any of the shares. and are acting as representatives of the underwriters.

Shares sold by the underwriters to the public will initially be offered at the initial public offering price set forth on the cover of this prospectus. Any shares sold by the underwriters to securities dealers may be sold at a discount from the initial public offering price not to exceed $ per share. If all the shares are not sold at the initial offering price, the underwriters may change the offering price and the other selling terms. The offering of the shares by the underwriters is subject to receipt and acceptance and subject to the underwriters’ right to reject any order in whole or in part. The representatives have advised us that the underwriters do not intend sales to discretionary accounts to exceed 5% of the total number of shares of common stock offered by them.

The selling stockholder has granted to the underwriters an option, exercisable for 30 days from the date of this prospectus, to purchase up to additional shares of common stock at the public offering price less the underwriting discounts and commissions set forth on the cover of this prospectus. To the extent the option is exercised, each underwriter must purchase a number of additional shares approximately proportionate to that underwriter’s initial purchase commitment. The selling stockholder will be obligated, pursuant to the option, to sell these additional shares of common stock to the underwriters to the extent the option is exercised. Any shares issued or sold under the option will be issued and sold on the same terms and conditions as the other shares that are the subject of this offering.

The following table shows the underwriting discounts that we and the selling stockholder are to pay to the underwriters in connection with this offering. These amounts are shown assuming both no exercise and full exercise of the underwriters’ option to purchase additional shares.

We estimate that our portion of the total expenses of this offering, excluding underwriting discounts and commissions, will be approximately $ . We have agreed to reimburse the underwriters for expenses of. up to $40,000 related to the clearance of this offering with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, Inc. and compliance with state securities or “blue sky” laws.

In connection with this offering, we have agreed with the underwriters not to offer, sell, contract to sell, pledge or otherwise dispose of, directly or indirectly, any of our common stock or securities convertible into or exchangeable or exercisable for shares of our common stock, enter into a transaction which would have the same effect, or enter into any swap, hedge or other arrangement that transfers, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of our common stock, whether any such aforementioned transaction is to be settled by delivery of our common stock or other securities, in cash or otherwise, or publicly disclose the intention to make any such offer, sale, pledge or disposition, without, in each case, the prior written consent of and for a period of 180 days after the date of this prospectus, other than any shares of our common stock issued upon the exercise of options granted under our existing equity incentive plans and any shares of our common stock issued upon the conversion of or exercise of any securities outstanding as of the date of this prospectus.

The foregoing restrictions are subject to specified exceptions, including, without limitation, the following:

- open market transactions related to shares acquired after the completion of this offering, provided that no filing under Section 16(a) of the Exchange Act, or other public announcement, shall be required or shall be made voluntarily in connection with any such transaction;
- the exercise of stock options or other similar awards granted pursuant to our equity incentive plans described in this prospectus solely for cash, provided that the shares received upon exercise shall continue to be subject to the restrictions on transfer set forth in the lock-up agreement, any public report or filing required to be made under Section 16(a) of the Exchange Act shall clearly indicate in the footnotes thereto that the filing relates to the exercise of a stock option or similar award, that no shares were sold by the reporting person and that the shares received upon exercise of the stock option are subject to a lock-up agreement with the underwriters, and that no other public announcement shall be required or shall be made voluntarily in connection with any such transaction;
- the withholding of shares of our common stock by us or sale of such shares to us in connection with a vesting event of stock options or other similar awards granted pursuant to our equity incentive plans described in this prospectus to cover tax withholding obligations or the payment of taxes in connection with the vesting event, provided that any public report or filing required to be made under Section 16(a) of the Exchange Act shall clearly indicate in the footnotes thereto that the purpose of such transfer is to cover such tax withholding obligations or the payment of taxes due in connection with the vesting event and that no other shares were sold, and that no other public announcement shall be required or shall be made voluntarily in connection with any such transfer;
- transfers to us upon the exercise of stock options or other similar awards granted pursuant to our equity incentive plans described in this prospectus on a “cashless” or “net exercise” basis, provided that the shares received upon exercise shall continue to be subject to the restrictions on transfer set forth in the lock-up agreement and that any public report or filing required to be made under Section 16(a) of the Exchange Act shall clearly indicate in the footnotes thereto that the filing relates to the exercise of a stock option or similar award, that no shares were sold by the reporting person and that the shares received upon exercise of the stock option are subject to a lock-up agreement with the underwriters, and that no other public announcement shall be required or shall be made voluntarily in connection with any such transaction; and

- transfers by operation of law or court order pursuant to a domestic relations order or a negotiated divorce settlement, provided that the recipient agrees to be bound in writing by the restrictions set forth in the lock-up agreement, that any public report or filing required to be made under Section 16(a) of the Exchange Act shall clearly indicate in the footnotes thereto that such transfer is pursuant to such court order or settlement and that the shares are subject to a lock-up agreement with the underwriters, and that no other public announcement shall be required or shall be made voluntarily in connection with any such transaction.

Prior to this offering, there has been no public market for our shares. Consequently, the initial public offering price for the shares will be determined by negotiations between us, the selling stockholder and the representatives. Among the primary factors that we expect to consider in determining the initial public offering price are:

- the information set forth in this prospectus and otherwise available to the representatives;
- our revenues, results of operations and certain other financial and operating information in recent periods;
- our future prospects and estimates of our business potential including the economic conditions in and future prospects for the industry in which we compete;
- the present stage of our development;
- the market capitalizations and stages of development of other companies that we and the representatives of the underwriters believe to be comparable to our business;
- our management;
- currently prevailing general conditions in the equity securities markets; and
- other factors deemed relevant by the underwriters and us.

Neither we nor the underwriters can assure you, however, that the price at which the shares will trade in the public market after this offering will not be lower than the initial public offering price or that an active trading market in our shares will develop and continue after this offering.

We have applied to have our shares listed on the Nasdaq Global Select Market under the symbol “FRNT.”

We and the selling stockholder have agreed to indemnify the underwriters against certain liabilities, including liabilities under the Securities Act, or to contribute to payments the underwriters may be required to make because of any of those liabilities.

In order to facilitate the offering of the shares, the underwriters may engage in transactions that stabilize, maintain or otherwise affect the price of the shares. Specifically, the underwriters may sell more shares than they are obligated to purchase under the underwriting agreement, creating a short position. A short sale is covered if the short position is no greater than the number of shares available for purchase by the underwriters under the option to purchase additional shares. The underwriters can close out a covered short sale by exercising the option to purchase additional shares or purchasing shares in the open market. In determining the source of shares to close out a covered short sale, the underwriters will consider, among other things, the open market price of shares compared to the price available under the option to purchase additional shares. The underwriters may also sell shares in excess of the option to purchase additional shares, creating a naked short position. The underwriters must close out any naked short position by purchasing shares in the open market. A naked short position is more likely to be created if the underwriters are concerned that there may be downward pressure on the price of the common stock in the open market after pricing that could adversely affect investors who purchase in this offering. As an additional means of facilitating this offering, the underwriters may bid for, and purchase, shares of common stock in the open market to stabilize the price of the common stock. These activities may raise or maintain the market price of the shares above independent market levels or prevent or retard a decline in the market price of the shares. The underwriters are not required to engage in these activities and may end any of these activities at any time.

A prospectus in electronic format may be made available on websites maintained by one or more underwriters participating in this offering. The representatives may agree to allocate a number of shares to underwriters for sale to their online brokerage account holders. Internet distributions will be allocated by the representatives to underwriters that may make Internet distributions on the same basis as other allocations.

The underwriters may, from time to time, engage in transactions with and perform services for us in the ordinary course of their business for which they may receive customary fees and reimbursement of expenses.

In addition, in the ordinary course of their business activities, the underwriters and their affiliates may make or hold a broad array of investments and actively trade debt and equity securities (or related derivative securities) and financial instruments (including bank loans) for their own account and for the accounts of their customers. Report of Independent Registered Public Accounting Firm

To the Stockholders and the Board of Directors of Frontier Group Holdings, Inc.

Opinion on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of Frontier Group Holdings, Inc. (the Company) as of December 31, 2020 and 2019, and the related consolidated statements of operations, comprehensive income (loss), cash flows and stockholders’ equity for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2020 and the related notes (collectively referred to as the “consolidated financial statements”). In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company at December 31, 2020 and 2019, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2020, in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

Basis for Opinion

These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company’s management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Company’s financial statements based on our audits. We are a public accounting firm registered with the PCAOB and are required to be independent with respect to the Company in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB and in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement, whether due to error or fraud. Our audits included performing procedures to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to error or fraud, and performing procedures that respond to those risks. Such procedures included examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Critical Audit Matters

The critical audit matter communicated below is a matter arising from the current period audit of the financial statements that were communicated or required to be communicated to the audit committee and that: (1) relate to accounts or disclosures that are material to the financial statements and (2) involved our especially challenging, subjective or complex judgments. The communication of the critical audit matter does not alter in any way our opinion on the consolidated financial statements, taken as a whole, and we are not, by communicating the critical audit matters below, providing separate opinions on the critical audit matter or on the accounts or disclosures to which they relate.

Leased Aircraft Return Costs

As described in Notes 1 and 6 to the consolidated financial statements, the Company’s aircraft lease agreements often require the Company to return aircraft airframes and engines to the lessor in a certain condition or pay an amount to the lessor based on the leased airframe or engine’s actual condition. Lease return costs are recognized beginning when it is probable that such costs will be incurred and they can be estimated. When costs become both probable and estimable, they are accrued as a component of supplemental rent, through the remaining lease term. When determining the need to accrue lease return costs, there are various factors for which management considers such as the contractual terms of the lease agreement, current condition of the aircraft, the age of the aircraft at lease expiration, projected number of hours run on the engine at the time of return, the number of projected cycles run on the airframe at the scheduled time of return and the ability to utilized previously paid maintenance reserves to offset projected costs. As of December 31, 2020, the Company has accrued liabilities of $32 million for leased aircraft return costs.

Auditing management’s estimate of leased aircraft return costs required significant judgment given the complexity involved in determining the timing and cost of future maintenance events, including the estimated utilization of leased airframes and engines.

To test the estimate of lease return costs, our audit procedures included, among others, testing the assumptions used and the accuracy and completeness of the underlying data used in the calculations. For example, to test the assumptions related to the timing of future maintenance events, we compared projected event timing to the time interval between recently completed maintenance events and against underlying regulatory requirements. We also confirmed current and projected utilization metrics and projected timing of events with maintenance personnel. We also tested the historical accuracy of management’s forecasts of maintenance events by comparing when recent maintenance events occurred to management’s initial projections. To test the assumptions related to cost, we compared the projected cost of future maintenance events to historical experience or the costs required by the contractual agreements based on projected return condition of the airframe or engine at lease return.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Presentation

The consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the accounting principles generally accepted in the United States ("GAAP") and include the accounts of Frontier Group Holdings, Inc. ("FGHI" or the "Company") and its wholly-owned direct and indirect subsidiaries, including Frontier Airlines Holdings, Inc. ("FAH") and Frontier Airlines, Inc. ("Frontier"). All wholly-owned subsidiaries are consolidated, with all intercompany transactions and balances being eliminated. Prior to December 3, 2013, FAH was a wholly-owned subsidiary of Republic Airways Holdings, Inc. ("Republic"). On December 3, 2013, FGHI, formerly known as Falcon Acquisition Group, Inc., purchased from Republic all of FAH’s common stock for $52 million in cash and assumed all of its obligations. As a result of the acquisition, all of FAH’s assets and liabilities were remeasured to fair value as of the acquisition date.

The Company is headquartered in Denver, Colorado. Frontier is an ultra low-cost, low-fare airline that offers flights throughout the United States and to select international destinations in the Americas, serving approximately 110 airports.

The Company is managed as a single business unit that primarily provides air transportation for passengers. Management has concluded there is only one reportable segment.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities in the financial statements and accompanying notes. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Impact of the COVID-19 Pandemic

In December 2019, a novel strain of coronavirus ("COVID-19") was reported in Wuhan, China and, on March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization classified the virus as a pandemic. The rapid spread of this pandemic, or fear of such an event, along with government mandated restrictions on travel, required stay-in-place orders, and other social distancing measures resulted in a drastic decline in near-term air travel demand beginning in the United States in March of 2020, causing reductions in revenues and income levels as compared to prior periods performance. The decline in demand for air travel has and will continue to have a material adverse effect on the Company’s business and results of operations in 2020 and during 2021.

While the Company experienced a modest uptick in demand during the latter half of the second quarter and into the third and fourth quarters of 2020, demand was negatively impacted by a resurgence of COVID-19 cases in certain domestic markets. The length and severity of the decline in demand due to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic is uncertain and, as such, we expect the adverse impact to persist during 2021.

The exact timing and the rate of the recovery is uncertain given the impact of the pandemic on the overall U.S. and global economy. Additionally, the Company is unable to predict the future spread of COVID-19 and resulting measures that may be introduced by governments or other parties and what impact they may have on the demand for air travel.

In response to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, beginning in March and continuing through December 31, 2020, the Company has taken measures to address the significant cash outflows experienced to date and continues to evaluate options, should the lack of demand for air travel continue beyond the near term.
During the period ended December 31, 2020, the Company reduced its flight schedule to match demand levels and implemented various other initiatives to reduce costs and manage liquidity including, but not limited to:

- Reducing planned headcount increases;
- Reducing employee related costs including:
  - Salary reductions and/or deferrals for the Company’s officers and board members;
  - Suspension of merit salary increases for 2020; and
  - Providing voluntary paid and unpaid leave of absence programs for employees not covered under labor arrangements, as well as certain employees covered under such arrangements, including pilots and flight attendants, that range from one month to six months;
- Deferring aircraft deliveries;
- Reducing discretionary expenses;
- Reaching agreements with major vendors, which are primarily related to many of the Company’s aircraft and engine leases as well as airports, for deferral of payments and deliveries until later in 2020 and into 2021;
- Delaying non-essential maintenance projects and reducing or suspending other discretionary spending;
- Reducing non-essential capital projects;
- Securing current funding and future liquidity from the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (“CARES Act”) as described below and other financing sources; and
- Amending certain debt covenant metrics to better align the covenants with current and expected demand

The Company continues to monitor covenant compliance with various parties, including, but not limited to, its lenders and credit card processors, as any noncompliance could have a material impact on the Company’s financial position, cash flows and results of operations. During the fourth quarter of 2020, the Company amended its pre-delivery credit facility to provide for a deferral of the fixed charge coverage ratio requirement (the “FCCR Test”) until the first quarter of 2022. If the FCCR test is not maintained, the Company is required to test the loan to collateral ratio for the underlying aircraft in the credit facility that are subject to financing (the “LTV Test”) and make any pre-payments or post additional collateral required in order to reduce the loan to value on each aircraft in the credit facility that are subject to financing below a ratio threshold. The LTV Test is largely dependent on the appraised fair value of the underlying aircraft subject to financing. If the LTV Test was required to be performed, the Company does not expect that there would be any material required pre-payment of the pre-delivery credit facility or posting of additional collateral. As of December 31, 2020 and through the date of this report, the Company is in compliance with all of its covenants, except the Company has obtained a waiver of relief for the covenant provisions through the first quarter of 2021 related to one of its credit card processors that represents less than 10% of total revenues, which may require future waivers or an amendment to existing covenants to reflect the downturn due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The Company expects to obtain an amendment or waiver, refinance the indebtedness subject to covenants or take other mitigating actions prior to any potential breaches that are not expected to have a material impact to the Company’s liquidity and financial position.

As a result of the measures to reduce costs and manage liquidity as outlined above, the Company believes its financial position and available liquidity as of the date of the financial statements will allow it to continue to navigate through any short term demand declines and that it is well positioned to recover once the demand for air travel returns.
travel increases. Additionally, given the funds received and access to future liquidity secured from the CARES Act, as well as other financing sources, the Company believes it has opportunities and options to raise additional liquidity at reasonable terms necessary to maintain adequate liquidity over the period management believes the COVID-19 pandemic will impact the business. The Company continues to monitor the impacts of the pandemic on its operations and financial condition and believes it is probable that the plans intended to mitigate these conditions and events, when fully implemented, will alleviate liquidity risks presented by the current climate.

Revenue Recognition

As a result of the reduction in demand resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic, which will persist into 2021, beginning in March 2020, the Company extended the expiration dates of mileage credits issued under its frequent flyer program, waived cancellation and change fees for customers for most of 2020 after the start of the pandemic and extended the expiration of credits for future travel to 12 months in the fourth quarter of 2020. Refunds were provided for flights cancelled or significantly delayed by the Company. On a limited basis, during the second quarter of 2020 the Company offered the ability for customers to convert a credit for future travel into mileage credits, which increased the Company’s frequent flyer liability. Refer to Note 2 for additional information regarding the Company’s revenue recognition.

Derivatives

During the first quarter ended 2020, the Company determined that it was no longer probable that a portion of estimated future fuel consumption for its fuel hedges would occur as the Company reduced scheduled flights as a result of the decline in customer demand from the COVID-19 pandemic. As a result, derivative instruments previously designated as cash flow hedges were required to be dedesignated. For the remainder of 2020, the Company did not have any further dedesignation as actual and updated estimated consumption was consistent with prior expectations. Refer to Note 7 for additional information regarding the Company’s hedge accounting and derivative instruments.

Lessor Concessions

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, beginning in March 2020, the Company was granted payment deferrals on leases included in the Company’s right-of-use assets for certain aircraft and engines from lessors along with airport facilities and other vendors that are not included in the Company’s right-of-use assets, which generally span two to seven months. On March 10, 2020, the FASB released Topic 842 and 840: Accounting for Lease Concessions Related to the Effects of the COVID-19 Pandemic (“FASB Q&A”) and the Company elected to account for lease concessions as though enforceable rights and obligations for those concessions existed at lease inception and to account for the concessions as if no changes to the lease contract were made as all deferrals resulted in substantially the same total payments as required by the original contract. The Company has elected to account for deferred payments as variable lease payments where the deferral payments are not recognized in the Company’s consolidated statements of operations until the payment is made. As these deferred payments are made, the Company will recognize the deferred payments in aircraft rent or station operations, as applicable, in the consolidated statements of operations. As such, the deferrals related to leases had a favorable impact of $33 million to the Company’s cash flows and results of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020.

Valuation of Long Lived and Intangible Assets

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic and based on the Company’s short term reduction in cash flow projections as a result of the related decline in demand, the Company performed a quantitative assessment over its indefinite-lived intangible assets, long-lived assets, and definite-lived intangibles as of March 31, 2020, noting
Employee Voluntary Leave Programs

During September 2020, and in anticipation of the lapse of the provisions set forth in the Payroll Support Program under the CARES Act as described below, the Company reached agreement with the labor unions for its pilots and flight attendants to provide for voluntary paid leave of absence programs. Under the arrangements, the participating pilots and flight attendants were granted paid leave of absence periods of either one, three or six month time frames. In exchange for accepting voluntary leave of absence, the pilots and flight attendants will receive minimum monthly pay and continue to accrue certain benefits with no requirement to work. The Company can require pilots and flight attendants to return to service and forego any remaining leave of absence if demand increases. These temporary programs helped to defray the Company’s employee costs during the downturn caused by the pandemic, but also allow the Company to scale operations back up quickly as demand returns. As employees covered under such paid voluntary programs are still considered active employees, the costs of such programs are recognized as period expenses.

Income Tax Valuation Allowance

As of December 31, 2020, the Company’s net deferred tax liability balance was $9 million, which includes $9 million of deferred tax assets related to state net operating losses. As a result of the operating losses generated during 2020 due to the pandemic, the Company evaluated whether it was more likely than not that sufficient taxable income will be generated to realize its deferred tax assets. Refer to Note 17 for additional information regarding the impact of the CARES Act on the Company’s income taxes.

CARES Act

The CARES Act became law on March 27, 2020 and includes various provisions to protect the U.S. airline industry, its employees, and many other stakeholders. The CARES Act is a relief package intended to assist many aspects of the American economy, including providing the airline industry with up to $25 billion for a Payroll Support Program to be used for employee wages, salaries, and benefits and up to $25 billion in loans. On April 30, 2020, the Company reached an agreement with the U.S. government under which the Company received $205 million of installment funding comprised of a $174 million grant (“PSP Grant”) for payroll support for the period from April 2020 through September 30, 2020, and a $31 million unsecured 10-year, low interest loan (“PSP Promissory Note”). In addition, on September 30, 2020, the U.S. Treasury provided the Company with an additional disbursement under the Payroll Support Program of $6 million, comprised of an additional $4 million toward the PSP Grant, and $2 million toward the PSP Promissory Note.

The payroll support funding contains certain conditions, that if not met, may require payroll assistance funds to be paid back to the U.S. government. The primary conditions include but are not limited to:

• No involuntary furloughs or pay and benefit reductions through September 30, 2020;
• No repurchases of equity securities listed on a national securities exchange or payment of dividends is permitted through September 30, 2021;
• Maintain a certain level of scheduled air transportation as deemed necessary by the Department of Transportation to ensure that all routes the Company had scheduled air travel to before the downturn due to the COVID-19 pandemic are still served between May and September 2020; and

• Put in place certain limits on the compensation and termination benefits of all non-union employees who made in excess of $425,000 in 2019, until March 24, 2022

As of December 31, 2020, the Company received the full $178 million under the PSP Grant, which was recognized net of $1 million in deferred financing costs over the periods it was intended to support payroll, within CARES Act credits in the Company’s consolidated statements of operations.

As of December 31, 2020, the Company received the full $33 million under the PSP Promissory Note, which is presented net of unamortized discounts related to warrants and deferred financing costs totaling $1 million within long-term debt, net on the Company’s consolidated balance sheet. The PSP Promissory Note includes annual interest rates of 1.00% for the first five years and the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (“SOFR”) plus 2.00% in the final five years. The loan can be prepaid at par any time without incurring a penalty. In conjunction with the PSP Promissory Note, the Company agreed to issue to the U.S. Department of the Treasury warrants to acquire up to 13,752 shares of common stock of FGHI at an exercise price of $241.72. During the year ended December 31, 2020 the Company recorded $2 million in mark to market adjustments on warrants issued related to the PSP Promissory Note within interest expense in the consolidated statements of operations.

On January 15, 2021, the Company entered into an agreement with the U.S. Treasury for a minimum of $140 million of installment funding under a second Payroll Support Program (the “PSP2 Agreement”), comprised of a $128 million grant (“PSP2 Grant”) for the continuation of payroll support through March 31, 2021, and a $12 million unsecured 10-year low interest loan (“PSP2 Promissory Note”).

The primary changes to the conditions as set forth under the original Payroll Support Program are as follows:

• Extension of no involuntary furloughs or pay and benefit reductions through March 31, 2021;

• Extension of no repurchases of equity securities listed on a national securities exchange or dividends through March 31, 2022;

• Extension of maintaining a certain level of scheduled air transportation as deemed necessary by the Department of Transportation to ensure that all routes the Company had scheduled air travel to before the downturn due to the COVID-19 pandemic are still served between January and March 2021; and

• Extension of certain limits on the compensation and termination benefits of all non-union employees who made in excess of $425,000 in 2019, until October 1, 2022

On January 15, 2021, the Company received the first installment of $70 million under the PSP2 Grant and expects to receive the remaining funding by the end of the first quarter of 2021. In conjunction with the PSP2 Promissory Note, the Company, based on the $140 million of funding, expects to issue to the U.S. Department of the Treasury warrants to acquire up to 2,711 shares of common stock of FGHI at an exercise price of $442.69.

As a result of the Consolidated Appropriations Act enacted in December 2020 that ultimately resulted in the PSP2 Agreement, the Company altered its voluntary leave of absence programs with pilots and flight attendants, which are offered in increments of one or three-month time frames through March 31, 2021. While the Company offers these programs to help defray costs as a result of the downturn caused by the pandemic, the Company increased the minimum pay provided while maintaining no requirement to work.

On September 28, 2020, the Company entered into a loan agreement with the U.S. Department of the Treasury for a term loan facility of up to $574 million pursuant to the loan program established under the CARES Act (“Treasury Loan”). As of December 31, 2020, the Company borrowed $150 million under the Treasury Loan, which is presented net of unamortized discounts related to warrants and deferred financing costs totaling $8 million, within long-term debt, net on the Company’s consolidated balance sheet. The Treasury Loan has a five-year term and includes an annual interest rate based on adjusted LIBOR plus 2.5%. Funding can be drawn on the loan through May 28, 2021, and it can be prepaid at par at any time without incurring a penalty. The Treasury Loan is collateralized by the Company’s co-branded credit card arrangement. As part of any funding under the loan program, the Company is required to comply with the relevant provisions of the CARES Act, which will apply until one year after the loan is repaid in full. In conjunction with the Treasury Loan, the Company agreed to issue to the U.S. government warrants to acquire the common stock of FGHI, which have a five-year term and are settled in cash, or shares if the Company becomes publicly traded at the Company’s option, upon notice from the Treasury. As of December 31, 2020, the Company issued 62,055 warrants in conjunction with the first draw on the loan. During the year ended December 31, 2020 the Company recorded $7 million in mark to market adjustments on warrants issued related to the Treasury Loan within interest expense in the consolidated statements of operations.

As outlined above, as part of the PSP Promissory Note, the PSP2 Promissory Note and the Treasury Loan, and pursuant to the stipulations set forth within the CARES Act, the Company agreed to issue to the U.S. Department of the Treasury warrants to acquire shares of common stock of FGHI, which have a five-year term and are settled in cash, or shares if the Company becomes publicly traded at the Company’s option, upon notice from the Treasury. The warrants do not have any voting rights and are freely transferable, with registration rights. The warrants issued in conjunction with the CARES Act financing have been classified as liability based awards within other current liabilities within the consolidated balance sheet. Given the liability based classification, at the end of each period the warrant liability is adjusted to its fair market value, calculated utilizing the Black Scholes option pricing model, with the corresponding fair market value classified as interest expense within the Company’s consolidated statements of operations. The initial fair value of these warrants upon issuance are treated as a loan discount, which reduces the carrying value of the loan, and is amortized utilizing the effective interest method as interest expense in the Company’s consolidated statements of operations over the term of the loan.

As of December 31, 2020 and through the date of this report, the Company is in compliance with the conditions set forth by the U.S. government. The CARES Act also permits a net operating losses (“NOL”) generated in 2020 to be carried back to each of the five preceding taxable years to generate a refund of previously paid income taxes. As a result, the Company’s taxable loss for 2020 was fully absorbed in the 2015 and 2016 tax years (pre-Tax Cuts and Jobs Act) in which a federal 35% tax rate applies, resulting in a permanent benefit of the 14% rate differential. For the year ended December 31, 2020 the Company had a NOL of $449 million, which will be carried back under the CARES Act and the related tax benefit has been included within income tax expense in the Company’s consolidated statements of operations. The impact to the effective tax rate as a result of the CARES Act carryback allowance for the year ended December 31, 2020 was 17%, which was favorably impacted by the current year tax deduction for the payments made to FAPAInvest, LLC, as described further in Note 11.

The CARES Act also provides for deferred payment of the employer portion of social security taxes through the end of 2020, with 50% of the deferred amount due December 31, 2021 and the remaining 50% due December 31, 2022. Additionally, the CARES Act provides a tax holiday through December 31, 2020 for excise taxes related to airline fares and jet fuel purchases.
The CARES Act provides an employee retention credit ("CARES Employee Retention Credit") which is a refundable tax credit against certain employment taxes of up to $5,000 per employee for eligible employers. The credit is equal to 50% of qualified wages paid to employees during a quarter, capped at $10,000 of qualified wages through year end. The Company qualified for the credit beginning on April 1, 2020 and received credits for qualified wages through December 31, 2020. During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company recognized $16 million, related to the CARES Employee Retention Credit within CARES Act credits in the Company’s consolidated statements of operations and other current assets in the Company’s consolidated balance sheet.

As a result of the extension of the CARES Act benefits in December 2020, the CARES Employee Retention Credit program was extended and enhanced. The updated program, effective as of January 1, 2021, was extended through June 30, 2021 and increased the credit to be equal to 70% of qualified wages paid to employees during a quarter and increased the cap from $10,000 of qualified wages for the entire period to $10,000 per quarter.

Leases

Effective January 1, 2019 the Company adopted ASU 2016-02, Leases ("ASU 2016-02") using the modified retrospective transition method, with the cumulative-effect adjustment to the opening balance of retained earnings as of the effective date. Under the modified retrospective approach, financial results reported in periods prior to 2019 are unchanged. The Company also elected the package of practical expedients included in the new standard, which among other things, does not require a reassessment of lease classifications.

The adoption of ASU 2016-02 had a significant impact on the Company’s consolidated balance sheet due to the recognition of $2 billion of lease liabilities with corresponding right-of-use assets for operating leases (see Note 10).

Additionally, the Company recognized a $149 million cumulative effect adjustment, net of tax, to retained earnings. The adjustment to retained earnings was driven by the recognition of unamortized deferred sale-leaseback gains, net of tax. Prior to the adoption of ASU 2016-02, gains on sale-leaseback transactions were generally deferred and recognized in the income statement over the lease term. Under ASU 2016-02, gains on sale-leaseback transactions are recognized immediately.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all highly liquid investments with original maturities of three months or less at the date of acquisition to be cash and cash equivalents. Additionally, any items with maturities greater than three months that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash are considered cash and cash equivalents. Investments included in this category primarily consist of money market funds and time deposits.

Restricted Cash

Restricted cash may include certificates of deposit that secure letters of credit issued for particular airport authorities as required in certain lease agreements. The Company also holds a certificate of deposit to secure workers’ compensation claim reserves. Restricted cash may also include funds held as collateral for future travel paid with a credit card. These funds may be held by credit card processors directly under contracts that require a holdback of funds equal to a certain percentage of the related air traffic liability. If the Company fails to maintain certain liquidity and other financial covenants, the credit card processors’ rights to holdback would apply, which would result in a decrease of unrestricted cash. Restricted cash is carried at cost, which management believes approximates fair value.

Accounts Receivable, net

Receivables primarily consist of amounts due as part of credit card receivables, incentives due from vendors, amounts due from select airport locations under revenue share agreements, amounts due from aircraft lessors for maintenance performed and settlements due from derivative counterparties. The Company records an allowance for credit losses for amounts not expected to be collected. The Company estimates the allowance based on aging trends. The allowance for doubtful accounts was $1 million and $3 million as of December 31, 2019 and 2020, respectively.

Supplies, net

Supplies consist of expendable aircraft spare parts, aircraft fuel and other supplies and are stated at the lower of cost or net realizable value. Supplies are accounted for on a first-in, first-out basis and are charged to expense as they are used. An allowance for obsolescence on expendable aircraft spare parts is provided over the remaining lease term or the estimated useful life of the related aircraft fleet to reduce the carrying cost of spare parts currently identified as excess to the lower of amortized cost or net realizable value. The allowance for obsolescence was $6 million, and $8 million as of December 31, 2019 and 2020, respectively.

Property and Equipment, net

Property and equipment are stated at cost and depreciated on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful lives to their estimated residual values. The Company capitalizes additions, modifications enhancing the operating performance of its assets, and the interest related to payments used to acquire new aircraft and the construction of its facilities. The Company capitalizes interest attributable to pre-delivery payments ("PDPs") as an additional cost of the related asset beginning when activities necessary to get the asset ready for its intended use commence.

Estimated useful lives and residual values for the Company’s property and equipment are as follows:

application development stage and are deemed feasible. Capitalized costs include external direct costs of materials and services utilized in developing or obtaining internal-use software, and labor cost for employees who are directly associated with, and devote time to, internal-use software projects. Capitalized computer software, net is included within ground and other equipment, which is a component of property and equipment, net in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets and totaled $8 million as of December 31, 2019 and 2020.

Asset Impairment

The Company applies a fair value-based impairment test to the carrying amount of indefinite-lived intangible assets annually, or more frequently if certain events or circumstances indicate impairment. The Company assesses the value of indefinite-lived assets under a qualitative and quantitative approach, as required. Under a qualitative approach, the Company considers various market factors, including applicable key assumptions listed below. These factors are analyzed to determine if events and circumstances indicate that it is more likely than not that an indefinite-lived intangible asset’s fair value is less than its carrying value. The quantitative approach is used to assess the asset’s fair value and the amount of the impairment. If the asset’s carrying amount exceeds its fair value calculated using the quantitative approach, an impairment charge is recorded for the difference in fair value and carrying amount. Indefinite-lived intangible assets are comprised of certain landing slot rights and the trademark of the Company.

Factors that could result in future impairment of landing slot rights, holding other assumptions constant, include, but are not limited to:

(i) significant reduction in demand for air travel, (ii) competitive activity in the slotted airport, (iii) anticipated changes to the regulatory environment such as diminished slot access and (iv) increased competition at a nearby airport. As part of this evaluation, the Company assesses whether changes in (i) macroeconomic conditions, (ii) industry and market conditions, (iii) cost factors, (iv) overall financial performance and (v) certain events specific to the Company, have occurred which would impact the use and/or fair value of these assets.

The Company records impairment charges on long-lived assets used in operations and finite-lived intangible assets when events and circumstances indicate that the assets may be impaired and the undiscounted cash flows estimated to be generated by those assets are less than the carrying amount of those assets, and the net book value of the assets exceeds their estimated fair value. In making these determinations, the Company uses certain assumptions, including, but not limited to: (i) estimated fair value of the assets; and (ii) estimated undiscounted future cash flows expected to be generated by these assets, which are based on additional assumptions such as asset utilization including macroeconomic factors impacting future demand, length of service the asset will be used in the Company’s operations and estimated salvage values.

Aircraft Maintenance

The Company accounts for heavy maintenance and major overhauls under the deferral method, whereby the cost of heavy maintenance and major overhauls is deferred and recorded as flight equipment and depreciated over the lesser of the remaining lease term or the period until the next scheduled heavy maintenance event. The Company has separate maintenance cost-per-hour contracts for the management and repair of certain rotatable parts to support airframe and engine maintenance and repair, as well as heavy maintenance and major overhauls. These agreements require monthly payments based upon utilization, such as flight hours, cycles and age of the aircraft. For the contracts in which risk has been determined to transfer to the service provider, expense is recognized based on the contractual terms of the cost-per-hour arrangement. For those contracts in which risk has not been determined to transfer to the service provider, the Company initially records monthly payments as a deposit and then accounts for the underlying maintenance event when it occurs, in accordance with the Company’s maintenance accounting policy.
Certain of the Company’s aircraft and spare engine lease agreements require the Company to pay maintenance reserves to aircraft lessors to be held as collateral in advance of the Company’s required performance of major maintenance activities. At lease inception and at each balance sheet date, the Company assesses whether the maintenance reserve payments required by its leases are substantively and contractually related to the maintenance of the leased asset. Maintenance reserve payments that are determined to be related to the maintenance of the leased asset are accounted for as maintenance deposits, to the extent they are expected to be recoverable, and are reflected as aircraft maintenance deposits in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets. When it is not probable that the Company will recover amounts currently on deposit with a lessor, such amounts are expensed as supplemental rent. Additionally, fixed maintenance reserve payments that are not probable of being recovered are considered lease payments and are included in the right-of-use asset and lease liability. Maintenance reserve payments that are based on a utilization measure and are not probable of being recovered are considered variable lease payments and are not included in the right-of-use asset and lease liability.

The Company makes certain assumptions at the inception of the lease and at each balance sheet date to determine the recoverability of maintenance deposits. These assumptions are based on various factors, such as the estimated time between the maintenance events, the cost of such maintenance events, the date the aircraft is due to be returned to the lessor and the number of flight hours and cycles the aircraft is estimated to be utilized before it is returned to the lessor. Changes in estimates are accounted for on a cumulative catch-up basis. On a regular basis, the Company assesses the credit worthiness of the Company’s lessors to ensure deposits are collectible. The Company continues to evaluate the creditworthiness of its lessors as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic downturns and specifically whether any credit losses existed for aircraft maintenance deposits and determined no allowance was necessary as of December 31, 2020.

Certain of the Company’s lease agreements provide that maintenance reserves held by the lessor at the expiration of the lease are nonrefundable to the Company and will be retained by the lessor. Consequently, any usage-based maintenance reserve payments after the last major maintenance event are not substantively related to the maintenance of the leased asset and, therefore, are accounted for as supplemental rent.

Leased Aircraft Return Costs

The Company’s aircraft lease agreements often contain provisions that require the Company to return aircraft airframes and engines to the lessor in a specified condition or pay an amount to the lessor based on the airframe and engine’s actual return condition. Lease return costs include all costs that would be incurred at the return of the aircraft, including costs incurred to repair the airframe and engines to the condition required by the lease.

Lease return costs could include, but are not limited to, redelivery cost, redelivery crew cost, fuel, final inspections, reconfiguration of the cabin, repairs to the airframe, painting, overhaul of engines, replacement of components and checks. These return provisions are evaluated at inception of the lease and throughout the lease terms and are accounted for as either fixed or variable lease payments (depending on the nature of the lease return condition) when it is probable that such amounts will be incurred. When determining probability and estimated cost, there are various other factors which need to be considered such as current condition of the aircraft, the age of the aircraft at lease expiration, number of hours run on the engines, number of cycles run on the airframe, projected number of hours run on the engine at the time of return, the projected number of cycles run on the airframe at the time of return, the extent of repairs needed, if any, upon return, return locations, current configuration of the aircraft, current paint of the aircraft, estimated escalation of cost of repairs and materials at the time of return, current flight hour agreement rates and future flight hour agreement rates. In addition, typically near the lease return date, the lessors may allow maintenance reserves to be applied as return condition consideration or pass on certain return provisions if they do not align with their current plans to remarket the aircraft. As a result of the different factors listed above, management assesses the need to accrue lease return costs throughout the lease as facts and circumstances warrant an assessment. When costs become both probable and estimable, lease return costs are accrued as a component of aircraft rent through the remaining lease term.

Derivative Instruments

Fuel Hedging Activities

Variability in jet fuel prices impacts the Company’s results of operations. In order to reduce the risk of exposure to fuel price increases, the Company may enter into derivative contracts such as swaps, call options and collars. Derivative instruments are stated at fair value, net of any collateral postings.

The Company formally designates and accounts for the derivative instruments that meet established accounting criteria under ASC 815, Derivatives and Hedging, as cash flow hedges. For derivative instruments that are designated and qualify as cash flow hedges, the gain or loss on the derivative instruments is recorded in accumulated other comprehensive income/loss (“AOCI/L”), a component of stockholders’ equity in the consolidated balance sheets. In general, the Company recognizes the associated gains or losses deferred in AOCI/L as a component of aircraft fuel expense in the period that the jet fuel is consumed. For derivative instruments that are not designated as cash flow hedges, the gain or loss on the instrument is recognized in current period earnings. The Company presents its fuel derivative instruments net within the consolidated balance sheets. Refer to Note 7 for additional information regarding the Company’s hedge accounting and derivative instruments.

Aircraft Purchase Hedging Activities

The Company is party to certain interest rate swaption agreements that are accounted for as cash flow hedges, as defined under ASC 815, Derivatives and Hedging. Our aircraft purchase commitments expose the Company to interest rate risk as the rental payments are adjusted and become fixed based on the seven or nine year swap rate at the time of delivery. The primary objective for these interest rate derivatives is to hedge the portion of the estimated future monthly rental payments related to London Interbank Offered Rate (“LIBOR”). These swaption agreements provide for a single payment at maturity based upon the change in the applicable swap rate between the execution date and the termination date. For derivative instruments that are designated and qualify as cash flow hedges, the gain or loss on the derivative instruments is recorded in AOCI/L, a component of stockholders’ equity in the consolidated balance sheets. In general, the Company recognizes the associated gains or losses deferred in AOCI/L as a component of aircraft rent expense over the life of the lease on a straight-line basis. The Company presents its interest rate swaption derivative instruments net within the consolidated balance sheets. Refer to Note 7 for additional information regarding the Company’s hedge accounting and derivative instruments.

Aircraft Fuel

Aircraft fuel expense includes jet fuel and associated into-plane costs, federal and state taxes and gains and losses associated with fuel hedge contracts.

Advertising

Advertising and the related production costs, which are included as a component of sales and marketing expenses, are expensed as incurred. Advertising expenses for the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020 were $6 million, $10 million and $4 million, respectively.
Income Taxes

The Company accounts for income taxes using the asset and liability method. Deferred income taxes are recognized for the tax consequences of temporary differences between the tax and financial statement reporting bases of assets and liabilities. The Company periodically assesses whether it is more likely than not that sufficient taxable income will be generated to realize deferred income tax assets, and a valuation allowance is established if it is not likely that deferred income tax assets will be realized. All available positive and negative evidence is evaluated and certain assumptions are applied to make this determination. Projected future taxable income, scheduled reversals of deferred tax liabilities, the general business environment, historic financial results and tax planning strategies are considered. Significant factors that are considered include 1) the Company’s recent history of profitability, 2) growth in the U.S. and global economies, 3) forecast of airline revenue trends, and 4) future impact of taxable temporary differences. Management determined that no valuation allowances were required as of December 31, 2019 and 2020.

Stock-Based Compensation

The Company recognizes cost of employee services received in exchange for awards of equity instruments based on the fair value of each instrument at the date of grant. Compensation expense is recognized over the period during which an employee is required to provide service in exchange for an award, with forfeitures accounted for as they occur. The fair value of stock option awards is estimated on the date of grant using the Black-Scholes valuation model. Restricted stock awards and units are valued at the fair value of the shares on the date of grant. The exercise price of all stock awards is determined by the Company’s board of directors based, in part, on the most recent third-party valuation report obtained by the Company’s board of directors as of the grant date. There are significant judgments and estimates inherent in these valuations which include assumptions regarding the Company’s future operating performance, the time to complete potential liquidity events and the determinations of the appropriate valuation methods to be applied. Refer to Note 11 for additional disclosures regarding details of the Company’s stock-based compensation plans.

Gains on Sale-Leaseback Transactions

The Company enters into sale-leaseback transactions for its aircraft and aircraft engine assets, whereby the Company sells one or more aircraft or aircraft engine asset to a third-party and simultaneously enters into an operating lease for a right to use such assets for a fixed period of time. Gains on sale-leaseback transactions are recognized in the period in which title to the asset transfers to the buyer-lessee and the lease commences, as a component of other operating expenses within the consolidated statements of operations. Gains on sale-leaseback transactions are calculated as the excess of the sale price of the asset over its carrying value. The carrying value of the assets sold will generally include the price paid for the asset, net of the amount of cash or the fair value of non-cash credits and incentives received from equipment and component manufacturers, the costs associated with delivery of the asset including any taxes or tariffs, financing costs capitalized in connection with the construction of the asset, capitalized maintenance and other improvements, and accumulated depreciation. Gains on sale-leaseback transactions may also be adjusted if it is determined that the terms of the sale transaction or the lease agreement are at a price other than fair value.

Concentrations of Risk

The Company’s business has been, and may continue to be, adversely affected by increases in the price of aircraft fuel, the volatility of the price of aircraft fuel, or both. Aircraft fuel represented approximately 29% of total operating expenses for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2019, and 21% for the year ended December 31, 2020. Gulf Coast Jet indexed fuel is the Company’s basis for the majority of aircraft fuel usage.
purchases. Any disruption to the oil production or refinery capacity in the Gulf Coast, as a result of weather or any other disaster, or disruptions in supply of jet fuel, dramatic escalations in the cost of jet fuel and/or the failure of fuel providers to perform under fuel arrangements for other reasons could have a material adverse effect on the Company’s financial condition and results of operations.

The air transportation business is volatile and highly affected by economic cycles and trends. Global pandemics and related health scares, consumer confidence and discretionary spending, fear of terrorism or war, weakening economic conditions, fare initiatives, fluctuations in fuel prices, labor actions, changes in governmental regulations on taxes and fees, weather, and other factors can result in significant fluctuations in revenue and results of operations.

As of December 31, 2020, the Company had seven union-represented employee groups that together represented approximately 88% of all employees. Additional disclosure relating to the Company’s union-represented employee groups is included in Note 14.

As of December 31, 2020, the Company had substantially all capitalized maintenance deposits with two lessors, and all pre-delivery deposits for flight equipment with one vendor.

Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncements

In June 2018, the FASB issued ASU 2018-07, Compensation—Stock Compensation (Topic 718): Improvements to Nonemployee Share-Based Payment Accounting (“ASU 2018-07”). ASU 2018-07 expands the scope of Topic 718 to include share-based payment transactions for acquiring goods and services from nonemployees. ASU 2018-07 also clarifies that Topic 718 does not apply to share-based payments used to effectively provide (1) financing to the issuer or (2) awards granted in conjunction with selling goods or services to customers as part of a contract accounted for under Revenue from Contracts with Customers (Topic 606). ASU 2018-07 is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2018, including interim periods within those fiscal years. The Company adopted the new standard as of January 1, 2019. The adoption of ASU 2018-07 did not have a material impact on the Company's consolidated financial statements during the year ended December 31, 2019 and 2020.

In February 2016, the FASB issued ASU 2016-02, Leases (“ASU 2016-02”). This ASU and subsequently issued amendments requiring most leases with durations greater than 12 months to be recognized on the balance sheet. The standard is effective for interim and annual reporting periods beginning after December 15, 2018. The Company adopted the new standard as of January 1, 2019. See Note 10 for more information.

In June 2016, the FASB issued ASU 2016-13, Measurement of Credit Losses on Financial Instruments, (“ASU 2016-13”). ASU 2016-13 replaces the incurred loss impairment methodology with an “expected loss” model which requires consideration of a broader range of reasonable and supportable information to inform credit loss estimates. The new guidance is effective for annual periods beginning after December 15, 2019 and interim reporting periods within those reporting periods. The Company adopted the new standard as of January 1, 2020, which did not have a material impact on the Company’s results of operations or financial position as of the adoption date.

2. Revenue Recognition

Passenger Revenues

Fare revenues. Tickets sold in advance of the flight date are initially recorded as air traffic liability. Passenger revenue is recognized at the time of departure when transportation is provided. If a nonrefundable ticket expires, it is recognized as revenue at the date of scheduled travel.
As of December 31, 2019, the Company’s air traffic liability balance was $249 million. During the year ended December 31, 2020, substantially all of the air traffic liability as of December 31, 2019 has been recognized as passenger revenue. As of December 31, 2020, the Company’s current air traffic liability is $135 million, of which $36 million is related to customer rights to book future travel, which generally expire 12 months after issuance if not redeemed by the passenger. The amounts expected not to be redeemed are recognized over the historical pattern of rights exercised by customers.

During the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, the Company recognized $20 million and $26 million, $126 million of revenue, respectively, included within passenger revenue within the consolidated statements of operations, primarily related to expected and actual expiration of customer rights to book future travel. Estimated and actual expiration of customer rights to book future travel during the year ended December 31, 2020 was mainly due to the large amount of modifications of travel initiated by customers during late March through June 30, 2020 as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Non-fare passenger revenues. Certain ancillary items such as bags, service fees and seat selection deemed part of providing passenger transportation are recognized in passenger revenues.

Changes and cancellations. Customers may elect to change their itinerary prior to the date of departure. Service charges assessed for changes and cancellations are recognized at time of departure of newly scheduled travel.

Passenger Taxes and Fees. The Company is required to collect certain taxes and fees from customers on behalf of government agencies and airports and remit these back to the applicable governmental entity or airport on a periodic basis. These taxes and fees include U.S. federal transportation taxes, federal security charges, airport passenger facility charges, and foreign arrival and departure taxes. These items are collected from customers at the time they purchase their tickets but are not included in passenger revenues at that time. The Company records a liability upon collection from the customer and reduces the liability when payments are remitted to the applicable governmental agency or airport.

Other Revenues

Other revenue primarily consists of services not directly related to providing transportation, such as the advertising, marketing and brand elements of the Frontier Miles (formerly EarlyReturns) affinity credit card program and commissions revenue from the third-party sale of items such as rental cars and hotels.

Frequent Flyer Program

The Company’s Frontier Miles frequent flyer program provides frequent flyer travel awards to program members based on accumulated mileage credits. Mileage credits are generally accumulated as a result of travel, purchases using the co-branded credit card and purchases from other participating partners.

The Company defers revenue for mileage credits earned by passengers under its Frontier Miles program based on the equivalent ticket value (“ETV”) a passenger receives by redeeming mileage credits for a ticket rather than paying cash.

Mileage credits are also sold to participating companies, including credit card and other third parties. Sales to credit card companies include multiple promised goods and services, which the Company evaluates to determine whether they represent performance obligations. The Company determined these arrangements have three separate performance obligations: (i) mileage credits to be awarded, (ii) licensing of brand and access to member lists and (iii) advertising and marketing efforts. Total arrangement consideration is allocated to each performance obligation on the basis of the deliverables relative standalone selling price. For mileage credits, the Company considers a number of entity-specific factors when developing the best estimate of the standalone selling price, including the number of mileage credits needed to redeem an award, average fare of comparable segments, breakage, and restrictions. For licensing of brand and access to member lists, the Company considers both market-specific factors and entity-specific factors, including general profit margins realized in the marketplace/industry, brand power, market royalty rates and size of customer base. For the advertising and marketing performance obligation, the Company considers market-specific factors and entity-specific factors, including the Company’s internal costs of providing services, volume of marketing efforts and overall advertising plan.

Consideration allocated based on the relative standalone selling price to both the brand licensing and access to member lists and advertising and marketing elements is recognized as other revenue in the Company’s consolidated statements of operations over time as mileage credits are delivered. The consideration allocated to the transportation portion of these mileage credit sales is deferred and recognized as a component of passenger revenue in the Company’s consolidated statements of operations at the time of travel for mileage credits redeemed. Mileage credits the Company estimates are not likely to be redeemed are subject to breakage and are recognized as a portion of passenger revenue in proportion to the pattern of rights exercised by customers. Management uses statistical models to estimate breakage based on historical redemption patterns. A change in assumptions as to the period over which mileage credits are expected to be redeemed, the actual redemption activity for mileage credits or the estimated fair value of mileage credits expected to be redeemed could have an impact on revenues in the year in which the change occurs and in future years. Redemptions are allocated between sold and flown mileage credits based on historical patterns.

During September 2020, the Company amended its credit card affinity agreement with its credit card partner Barclays Delaware (“Barclays”). The amended and restated agreement, similar to the previous arrangement, provides for joint marketing, grants certain benefits to co-branded credit card holders, and allows Barclays to market using the Company’s customer database. Cardholders earn mileage credits under the Frontier Miles program and the Company sells mileage credits at agreed-upon rates to Barclays and earns fees from Barclays for the acquisition, retention and use of the co-branded credit card by consumers. The amended and restated agreement extends the term from 2023 to 2029 and provided for an up-front non-refundable payment of $25 million to the Company, of which the unamortized portion is recorded within other current liabilities, other long-term liabilities, and long-term frequent flyer liability within the consolidated balance sheets. The non-refundable payment will be recognized as revenue over the contact period as the Company performs its performance obligations under the amended agreement.
Operating revenues are comprised of passenger revenues, which includes fare and non-fare passenger revenues, and other revenues. Disaggregated operating revenues are as follows (in millions):

During the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, no revenue from any one foreign country represented greater than 5% of the Company’s total passenger revenue. The Company attributes operating revenues by geographic region based upon the origin and destination of each passenger flight segment. The Company’s tangible assets consist primarily of flight equipment, which are mobile across geographic markets. Accordingly, assets are not allocated to specific geographic regions.

During the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2020 the Company deferred $14 million and $9 million of costs for heavy maintenance, respectively.

The Company’s deferred heavy maintenance balance, net was $14 million, and $13 million, as of December 31, 2019 and 2020, respectively, and is included as a part of flight equipment.

During December 2018, the Company entered into a sale-leaseback transaction for its six owned aircraft, which were held for use through the date of the sale. The sold aircraft had a net book value of $115 million as of the date of the sale. The Company received $90 million of proceeds from the sale that were used, in part, to extinguish the fixed and floating rate equipment notes related to these aircraft and entered into non-cancelable operating leases for these aircraft which expire in December 2021. The Company recognized a $25 million loss on the sale of these aircraft during the fourth quarter of 2018 for the excess of the net book value of the aircraft as of the date of sale over the sale price, which is included in other operating expenses within the consolidated statements of operations.

(1) During September of 2020, the Company extended the term of the underlying agreement for its affinity credit card program (refer to Note 9). As a result, the Company extended the amortization period for its respective intangible asset from 10 years to 16 years on a prospective basis.

Expected future amortization expense of finite-lived intangibles is less than $1 million per year from 2021 through 2029.
6. Aircraft Rent and Maintenance Deposits

The Company leases aircraft and spare engines, which expire in various years through 2032. Aircraft rent expense was $277 million, $368 million and $396 million during year ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively. Aircraft rent expense includes supplemental rent, which is made up of maintenance reserves paid or to be paid that are not probable of being reimbursed or are probable lease return condition obligations. Supplemental rent expense for maintenance-related reserves that were deemed non-recoverable during the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020 totaled $5 million, $6 million, $2 million, respectively, and were net of $11 million, $(3) million, and less than $1 million related to changes in estimates in maintenance-related reserves which occurred during the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively. The portion of supplemental rent expense related to probable lease return condition obligations was $15 million, $5 million and $25 million for December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively.

As discussed in Note 1, certain of the Company’s aircraft and spare engine lease agreements require the Company to pay maintenance reserves to aircraft lessors to be held as collateral in advance of the Company’s required performance of major maintenance activities. Further, certain maintenance reserve payments will not be required if the Company meets minimum financial thresholds specified in the lease agreements. The lease agreements generally provide that maintenance reserves are reimbursable to the Company upon completion of the maintenance event in an amount equal to either (1) the amount of the maintenance reserves held by the lessor associated with the specific maintenance event or (2) the qualifying costs related to the specific maintenance event. Moreover, certain maintenance reserves are reimbursable to the Company if the Company meets minimum financial thresholds specified in the lease agreements or upon termination of the lease. As of December 31, 2019 and 2020, the Company had aircraft maintenance deposits that are expected to be recoverable of $90 million, and $82 million, respectively, in its consolidated balance sheets of which $19 million and less than $1 million, respectively, are included in accounts receivable, net as the eligible maintenance has been performed. The remaining $71 million and $82 million are included within aircraft maintenance deposits in the consolidated balance sheets as of December 31, 2019 and 2020, respectively.

A majority of these maintenance reserve payments are calculated based on a utilization measure, such as flight hours or cycles. Maintenance reserves collateralize the lessor for maintenance time run off the aircraft until the completion of the maintenance of the aircraft. Certain maintenance reserve payments are fixed contractual amounts, and all maintenance reserve payments are subject to annual escalation.

As of December 31, 2020, fixed maintenance reserve payments for aircraft and spare engines, including estimated amounts for contractual price escalations, were expected to be approximately $3 million per year from 2021 through 2025, and $12 million thereafter before consideration of reimbursements.

7. Financial Derivative Instruments and Risk Management

The Company is exposed to variability in jet fuel prices. Aircraft fuel generally represents the Company’s largest operating expense. Increases in jet fuel prices may adversely impact its financial performance, operating cash flow and financial position. As part of its risk management program, the Company enters into derivative contracts in order to limit exposure to the fluctuations in jet fuel prices. The types of instruments the Company utilized in its 2020 hedging program were call options and collar structures, which include both a purchased call option and sold put option. Although the use of collar structures can reduce the overall cost of hedging, these instruments carry more risk than purchased call options alone in that these instruments may result in a net liability for the Company upon settlement.

Additionally, the Company is exposed to interest rate risk through aircraft lease contracts for the time period between agreement of terms and commencement of the lease, where portions of the rental payments are adjusted.
FRONTIER GROUP HOLDINGS, INC.

and become fixed based on the seven or nine year swap rate. As part of its risk management program, the Company enters into contracts in order to limit the exposure to fluctuations in interest rates. During the year ended December 31, 2019 and 2020, the Company paid upfront premiums of $10 million and $4 million, respectively, for the option to enter into and exercise cash settled swaps with a forward starting effective date.

The Company formally designates and accounts for derivative instruments that meet established accounting criteria under ASC 815, Derivatives and Hedging, as cash flow hedges. For derivative instruments that are designated and qualify as cash flow hedges, the gain or loss on the derivative instruments is recorded in AOCI/L, a component of stockholders’ equity in the consolidated balance sheets. The Company recognizes the associated gains or losses deferred in AOCI/L as well as the amounts that are paid or received in connection with the purchase or sale of fuel-related financial derivative instruments (i.e., premium costs of option contracts) as a component of aircraft fuel expense in the period that the jet fuel subject to hedging is consumed for its fuel derivative instruments. For interest rate derivatives, the Company recognizes the associated gains or losses deferred in AOCI/L as well as amounts that are paid or received in connection with the purchase or sale of interest rate derivative instruments (i.e., premium costs of swaption contracts) as a component of aircraft rent expense over the period of the related aircraft lease. The Company does not enter into derivative instruments for speculative purposes.

In March 2020 the Company determined that it was no longer probable that estimated future fuel consumption for gallons subjected to fuel hedges would occur primarily related to second quarter settled trades as the Company reduced scheduled flights as a result of the decline in customer demand from the COVID-19 pandemic, and, therefore, the Company was required to de-designate certain fuel hedges associated with estimated future consumption declines. Fuel hedges with identified estimated future fuel consumption that were probable to still occur remained within AOCI/L. As a result of the de-designation in March 2020 the Company recognized a $56 million loss within aircraft fuel in the consolidated statements of operations.

As of December 31, 2020, the Company had no fuel cash flow hedges for future fuel consumption. As of December 31, 2020, the Company has hedged the interest rate exposure on $440 million of total aircraft rent payments for 11 aircraft to be delivered by the end of the next year.

The Company is exposed to credit losses in the event of nonperformance by counterparties to its derivative instruments but does not expect any of its counterparties will fail to meet their obligations. The amount of such credit exposure is generally the fair value of the Company’s outstanding contracts in a receivable position. To manage credit risks, the Company selects counterparties based on credit assessments, limits its overall exposure to any single counterparty and monitors the market position with each counterparty. Based on the fair value of the Company’s fuel derivative instruments, its counterparties may require it to post collateral when the price of the underlying commodity decreases, and the Company may require its counterparties to provide collateral when the price of the underlying commodity increases. The amount of collateral posted, if any, is periodically adjusted based on the fair value of the hedge contracts. The Company’s policy is to offset the liabilities represented by these contracts with any cash collateral paid to the counterparties.
The following table presents the assets and liabilities associated with its fuel and interest rate derivative instruments, which are presented on a gross basis and include upfront premiums paid, recorded as a component of other current assets and other current liabilities in its consolidated balance sheets as of December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2020 (in millions):

(1) The Company entered into the PDP Facility with Citibank, N.A. in December 2014 (“PDP Financing Facility”) with amendments in 2016 and 2017 to expand the facility for committed deliveries through 2020 with a total committed facility size of $150 million. The PDP Financing Facility is collateralized by the Company’s purchase agreement for Airbus A320neo and A321neo aircraft through 2023 (see Note 14). On May 31, 2018, the PDP Financing Facility was further amended to increase the commitment thereunder to $175 million, including a $10 million accordion facility, through 2020. On January 29, 2019, the PDP Financing Facility was further amended to include a $25 million unsecured line of credit borrowing which can be accessed when total secured commitments fall below $175 million and extended to add certain of the Company’s committed deliveries through 2021. The combination of secured and unsecured borrowings should not exceed $175 million. On December 22, 2020, the PDP Financing Facility was further amended and restated to reduce the commitment of Citibank, N.A., as initial lender, to $150 million, remove the ability to draw further unsecured borrowings and to provide collateral for the borrowings not secured by aircraft outstanding as of that date. In addition, such amendments provide the Company flexibility to potentially obtain commitments from other lenders in an amount not to exceed $200 million. No commitments have been secured from other lenders as of December 31, 2020.
Interest is paid every 90 days based on a three-month LIBOR, plus a margin for each individual tranche. The PDP Financing Facility consists of separate loans for each PDP Aircraft. Each separate loan matures upon the earlier of (i) delivery of that aircraft to the Company by Airbus, (ii) the date one month following the last day of the scheduled delivery month of such aircraft and (iii) if there is a delay in delivery of aircraft, depending on the cause of the delivery delay, up to six months following the last day of the scheduled delivery month of such aircraft. The PDP Financing Facility will be repaid periodically according to the preceding sentence with the last scheduled delivery of aircraft contemplated in the PDP Financing Facility expected to be in the fourth quarter of 2023.

(2) Represents a note with National Bank of Arizona related to the Company’s headquarters building. Under the terms of the agreement, the Company will repay outstanding principal balance in quarterly payments beginning in January 2022 until the maturity date in December 2023. On the maturity date, one final balloon payment will be made to cover all unpaid principal, accrued unpaid interest and other amounts due. The interest rate of one-month LIBOR plus a margin will be paid monthly.

(3) On September 28, 2020, the Company entered into the Treasury Loan with the U.S. Department of the Treasury for a term loan facility of up to $574 million. The Treasury Loan has a five-year term and includes an annual interest rate based on adjusted LIBOR plus 2.5%. Funding can be drawn on the loan through May 28, 2021 and includes a maximum of 3 total draws on the facility, and it can be prepaid at par at any time without incurring a penalty. The Treasury Loan is collateralized by the Company’s co-branded credit card arrangement. As part of any funding under the loan program, the Company is required to comply with the relevant provisions of the CARES Act, which will apply until one year after the loan is repaid in full. In conjunction with the Treasury Loan, the Company agreed to issue to the U.S. government warrants to acquire the common stock of FGHI, which have a five-year term and are settled in cash upon 60 days’ notice from the U.S. Department of the Treasury. Such warrants are included in other current liabilities within the Company’s consolidated balance sheet. As of December 31, 2020, the Company borrowed $150 million under the Treasury Loan, and issued 62,055 warrants to the U.S. government in conjunction with this draw. The initial fair value of warrants upon issuance was $9 million and was accounted for as a loan discount, which reduced the carrying value of the Treasury Loan. This discount is amortized, utilizing the effective interest method, as interest expense in the Company’s consolidated statements of operations over the term of the loan.

(4) The Company entered into an agreement with Barclays in 2003 to provide for joint marketing, grant certain benefits to co-branded credit card holders (“Cardholders”), and allow Barclays to market using the Company’s customer database. Cardholders earn mileage credits under the Frontier Miles program and the Company sells mileage credits at agreed-upon rates to Barclays and earns fees from Barclays for the acquisition, retention and use of the co-branded credit card by consumers. In addition, Barclays will pre-purchase miles if the Company meets certain conditions precedent. During March 2018, the Company amended its agreement with Barclays to further modify the products and services provided under the agreement, increase the pre-purchased miles facility and extend the agreement to 2023. On September 15, 2020 the Company entered into a new agreement with Barclays to amend and extend the current agreement to 2029. The pre-purchased miles facility amount is to be reset on January 15 of each calendar year through and including January 15, 2028 based on the aggregate amount of fees payable by Barclays to the Company on a calendar year basis, up to an aggregate maximum facility amount of $200 million. As part of the new agreement with Barclays and due to restrictions as part of the Treasury Loan, the Company paid down the Barclays facility to a $15 million balance in September 2020 and the facility amount cannot be extended above $15 million until full extinguishment of the Treasury Loan. The Company pays interest on a monthly basis, which is based on a one-month LIBOR plus a margin. Beginning March 31, 2028, the facility will be repaid in 12 equal monthly installments.

(5) On April 30, 2020, the Company executed the PSP Promissory Note with the U.S. government and as part of this the Company received a $33 million unsecured 10-year, low interest loan. The PSP Promissory Note includes annual interest rates of 1.00% for the first five years and the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (“SOFR”) plus 2.00% in the final five years. The loan can be prepaid at par any time without incurring a penalty. In conjunction with the PSP Promissory Note, the Company agreed to issue to the U.S. Department of the Treasury warrants to acquire up to 13,752 shares of common stock of FGHI, which have a five-year term and are settled in cash, or shares if the Company becomes publicly traded at the Company’s option, upon notice from the Treasury. Such warrants are included in other current liabilities within the Company’s consolidated balance sheet. The initial value of warrants upon issuance was $1 million and was accounted for as a loan discount, which reduces the carrying value of the loan. This discount is amortized, utilizing the effective interest method, as interest expense in the Company’s consolidated statements of operations over the term of the loan.

10. Operating Leases

On January 1, 2019, the Company adopted ASU No. 2016-02, Leases, which generally requires leases with durations greater than twelve months to be recognized in the consolidated balance sheets. The standard was adopted using the modified retrospective approach with an effective date as of the beginning of the Company’s fiscal year, January 1, 2019. Prior year financial statements were not recast under the new standard and, therefore, those amounts are not presented below. The Company elected the package of transition provisions available for expired or existing contracts, which allows a carryforward of historical assessments of (1) whether contracts are or contain leases, (2) lease classification and (3) initial direct costs.

The Company leases property and equipment under operating leases. For leases with initial terms greater than 12 months, the related asset and obligation is recorded at the present value of lease payments over the term. Some leases include rental escalation clauses, renewal options, termination options, and/or other items that cause variability that are factored into the determination of lease payments when appropriate. The Company does not separate lease and non-lease components of contracts, except for certain flight training equipment, for which consideration is allocated between lease and non-lease components.

When available, the rate implicit in the lease is used to discount lease payments to present value; however, most leases do not provide a readily determinable implicit rate. Therefore, the Company estimates its incremental borrowing rate (“IBR”) to discount the lease payments based on information available at lease commencement. The IBR utilized by the Company is first determined using an unsecured recourse borrowing rate over a tenor that matches the period of lease payments for each individual lease and then is adjusted to arrive at a rate that is representative of a collateralized rate (secured rate). Given the Company does not have an established unsecured public credit rating, the Company utilizes current period and projected financial information to simulate an unsecured credit rating. The Company then determines its secured rate (IBR) using a combination of several valuation methods that take into account the lower amount of risk of collateralized borrowings along with observable implied credit ratings from its current outstanding secured debt obligations.

Aircraft

As of December 31, 2020, the Company leased 104 aircraft, all of which are under operating leases with remaining terms ranging from six months to twelve years. In addition, as of December 31, 2020, the Company leased 16 spare engines, which are all under operating leases. As of December 31, 2020, the lease rates for two of the engines depend on usage-based metrics which are variable and as such, these leases are not recorded in the consolidated balance sheets as a right-of-use asset and lease liability. As of December 31, 2020, the remaining terms for engines included within right-of-use asset and lease liability range from eight months to twelve years.

In March 2020, the Company entered into two amendments with one lessor that were treated as one combined contract. One amendment extended the remaining lease terms on two aircraft from three to five years. The other included the return of $17 million in previously unrecoverable maintenance reserves for two aircraft. This amount has been included within the Company’s right-of-use assets as a lessor incentive as of December 31, 2020, as it was negotiated as a combined contract.

Airport Facilities

The Company’s facility leases are primarily for space at approximately 110 airports that are served and are primarily located in the United States. These leases are classified as operating leases and reflect the use of airport terminals, ticket counters, office space, cargo warehouses and maintenance facilities. Generally, this space is leased from government agencies that control the use of the airport. The majority of these leases are short-term in nature and renew on an evergreen basis. For these leases, the contractual term is used as the lease term. As of December 31, 2020, the remaining lease terms vary from one month to nine years. At the majority of the U.S. airports, the lease rates depend on airport operating costs or use of the facilities and are reset at least annually. Because of the variable nature of the rates, these leases are not recorded in the consolidated balance sheets as a right-of-use asset and lease liability.

Other Ground Property and Equipment

The Company leases certain other assets such as flight training equipment, building space, and various other equipment. Certain of the Company’s leases for other assets are deemed to contain fixed rental payments and, as such, are classified as operating leases and are recorded in the consolidated balance sheets as a right-of-use asset and liability. The remaining lease terms range from one month to eight years as of December 31, 2020.

As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Company negotiated deferrals with various vendors including aircraft, engine and station lessors, which generally allowed deferrals of payments for certain months since March 2020. The Company has elected to account for the deferred rent payments as variable lease payments which are recorded as a lease expense when due. The tables above reflect this election and the deferral of cash amounts due. Refer to Note 1 for further information on the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic.

During the year ended December 31, 2020, the Company entered into new aircraft and spare engine operating lease agreements totaling $274 million, which are included in operating lease right-of-use assets within the consolidated balance sheet.

As of December 31, 2020, leases for eight of the Company’s aircraft could generally be renewed at rates based on fair market value at the end of the lease term for four years. Additionally, as of December 31, 2020, the Company had one committed agreement to lease with third parties for any A320neo aircraft scheduled for delivery in 2021, which was excluded from the undiscounted minimum lease rentals above.

During 2018, 2019 and 2020, the Company executed sale-leaseback transactions with third-party lessors for 43 new Airbus A320 family aircraft, with 16 delivered in 2018, 18 delivered in 2019 and 9 delivered in 2020. Additionally, the Company executed sale-leaseback agreements in December 2018 for six previously owned aircraft, which were held for use through the date of the sale. The Company also completed sale-leaseback transactions on two engines in both 2018 and 2019 and one engine in 2020. All of the leases from the sale-leaseback transactions are accounted for as operating leases. Under the terms of the lease agreements, the Company will continue to operate and maintain the assets. Payments under the lease agreements are fixed for the term of the lease.

Under the terms of the lease agreements, the Company will continue to operate and maintain the assets. Payments under the lease agreements are fixed for the term of the lease. The January 1, 2019 cumulative effect adjustment to retained earnings of $149 million, net of tax, was driven by the unamortized deferred aircraft sale-leaseback gains as of the adoption of ASU 2016-02. Prior to the adoption of ASU 2016-02, gains on sale-leaseback transactions were generally deferred and recognized in the income statement over the lease term. Under ASU 2016-02, gains on sale-leaseback transactions are recognized immediately.

Liability-Classified Awards

On December 3, 2013, to give effect to the reorganization of the Company’s corporate structure in connection with the acquisition by FGHI (see Note 1), an agreement was reached to amend and restate a phantom equity agreement that was in place with Frontier prior to the acquisition. Under the terms of this agreement, when an amendment to the underlying collective bargaining agreement was approved, the Company’s pilots employed by Frontier in June 2011, whom the Company refers to as the Participating Pilots, through their agent, FAPAInvest, LLC, received phantom equity units which were the economic equivalent of 231,000 shares of the Company’s common stock, representing 4% of the Company’s common stock as of June 30, 2014. Each unit represented the right to receive common stock or cash in connection with certain events, including a qualifying initial public offering, such stock to be distributed or cash paid to the Participating Pilots in 2020 and 2022 based on a predetermined formula. The phantom equity units were required to be paid in cash absent a qualifying initial public offering. As a result, phantom equity units were liability-classified awards, which were subject to vesting and were remeasured at the end of each reporting period. Phantom equity award expense reflects the vesting of the liability-classified award, any dividend declared in the period, and changes to the Company’s common stock valuation. The phantom equity units were fully vested at December 31, 2016.

As of December 31, 2019, the final associated liability agreed to by FAPAInvest, LLC and the Company was $137 million, with $111 million included in other current liabilities and $26 million to be paid in 2022 included within other long-term liabilities. In accordance with the amended and restated phantom equity agreement, the obligation became fixed as of December 31, 2019 and is no longer subject to valuation adjustments. In March 2020, the Company paid $111 million included in other current liabilities as of December 31, 2019, to the Participating Pilots. As of December 31, 2020, the remaining FAPAInvest LLC Liability of $26 million is included within other long-term liabilities.

Stock Options and Restricted Awards

In April 2014, FGHI also approved the 2014 Equity Incentive Plan (the “Plan”). Under the terms of the Plan, one million shares of FGHI common stock are reserved for issuance. The Plan provides for restricted stock awards, restricted stock units, nonqualified stock options, and other stock-based awards to be granted to members of the Board of Directors and certain employees and consultants. All options issued under the Plan expire ten years from the date of grant. FGHI’s policy is to grant options with an exercise price equal to the fair value of the underlying common stock on the date of grant. As of December 31, 2019 and 2020, 681,221 and 641,090 shares of the Company’s common stock, respectively, remained available for future issuance under the Plan.

Stock Options

Stock option awards are granted with an exercise price equal to the fair market value of FGHI’s common stock on the date of grant, and generally vest evenly over four years of continuous service. The fair value of each...

Expected volatilities are based on the historical volatility of a group of peer entities within the same industry. The expected term of options is based upon the simplified method, which represents the average of the vesting term and the contractual term. The risk-free interest rate is based on U.S. Treasury yields for securities with terms approximating the expected term of the option. The fair value of the FGHI’s common stock was estimated using market multiples and a discounted cash flow analysis, based on management’s estimates of revenue, driven by assumed market growth rates, and estimated costs as well as appropriate discount rates. These estimates were consistent with the plans and estimates management used to manage the Company’s business.

The weighted average exercise price of options granted during 2018 and 2019 was $434.37 and $409.93, respectively. There were no options granted during the year ended December 31, 2020. There were no options exercised during the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020. The total fair value of options vested was $2 million for each of the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020. The weighted average remaining contractual term of options outstanding and exercisable as of December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020 was 5.7 years, 4.8 years and 4.0 years, respectively.

The Company repurchased 2,336, 7,934 and 6,275 vested stock options during the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, pursuant to exercises of a call right in a stockholders’ agreement with certain members of management that enables the Company to repurchase stock options upon a termination of employment.

As of December 31, 2020, there was $2 million of unrecognized compensation cost related to unvested stock options. This amount is expected to be recognized over a weighted average period of 2.1 years.
Restricted Awards

Restricted stock awards and restricted stock units in FGHI (collectively, “Restricted Awards”) are valued at the fair value of FGHI’s common stock on the date of grant. Restricted stock awards generally vest on the one-year anniversary from the date of issuance based upon time-based service conditions. Each restricted stock unit represents the right to receive one share of common stock upon vesting of such restricted stock unit. Vesting of restricted stock units is based on time-based service conditions, generally over three to four years of continuous service. In order to vest, the participant must still be employed by the Company, with certain contractual exclusions, at each vesting event. Generally, within 30 days after vesting, the shares underlying the award will be issuable to the participant. If a successor corporation in a change of control event fails to assume or substitute for the Restricted Awards, such awards will automatically vest in full as of immediately prior to the consummation of such a change in control. In the event of death or permanent disability of a participant, Restricted Awards will automatically vest in full. Compensation expense, net of forfeitures as incurred on a specific identification basis, is recognized on a straight-line basis over the requisite service period.

Aggregate grant date fair value of restricted stock outstanding was $2 million as of December 31, 2018, $4 million as of December 31, 2019 and $21 million as of December 31, 2020.

As of December 31, 2020, there was $16 million of unrecognized compensation cost related to unvested restricted awards. This amount is expected to be recognized over a weighted average period of 2.3 years.

12. Employee Retirement Plans

The Company recorded $14 million, $32 million and $37 million in expense related to matching contributions to employee retirement plans for the year ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively. This is recorded as a component of salaries, wages and benefits in the accompanying consolidated statements of operations.
Frontier 401(k) Plan

The Company sponsors The Frontier Airlines, Inc. 401(k) Retirement Plan (the “Frontier 401(k) Plan”) under Section 401(k) of the Internal Revenue Code. Under this plan, the Company matches 50% of each participant’s contribution up to 2% of each eligible maintenance employees’ compensation and up to 6% of all other employees, including flight attendants, whose contributions previously followed this structure, however, effective April 2019, flight attendants are matched at 100% up to 6% of each eligible employees’ compensation. This plan excludes pilots, who are covered under a separate plan discussed below. Contributions for employees begin after one year of employment and vest 25% per year over four years. Participants are entitled to receive distributions of all vested amounts beginning at age 59 1/2. Assets were transferred into The Frontier Airlines, Inc. 401(k) Retirement Plan from the Republic 401(k) plan shortly after the purchase of the Company in 2013. The plan is subject to the annual IRS elective deferral limit of $19,000 for 2019 and $19,500 for 2020.

FAPA Plan

The Company also established the Frontier Airlines, Inc. Pilots Retirement Plan (the “FAPA Plan”), a defined contribution retirement plan for pilots covered under the collective bargaining agreement with the Frontier Airlines Pilots Association (“FAPA”). Effective September 1, 2016, pilots are no longer represented by FAPA and are represented by the Air Line Pilots Association (“ALPA”), however the FAPA Plan remained in effect under the collective bargaining agreement with ALPA. Under this plan, the Company immediately matched 50% of each participant’s contribution up to 10% of each eligible and active participant’s compensation. Contributions vested 25% per year over four years. Additionally, the Company made nonelective contributions based on the longevity of service, ranging from 0% of eligible compensation for less than three years of service, and up to 6% of eligible compensation for seven years or more of service. Nonelective contributions vest immediately.

Under the new collective bargaining agreement with the pilots effective as of January 2019 for a five year period, the Company match no longer occurs, and instead, the Company makes nonelective contributions on behalf of each eligible Pilot equal to a percentage of the Pilot’s compensation, ranging from 12% to 15% over the term of the collective bargaining agreement (see Note 14). The nonelective contributions are subject to vesting based on years of service. Participants are entitled to receive distributions of all vested amounts beginning at age 59 1/2. The plan is subject to the annual IRS elective deferral limit of $19,000 for 2019 and $19,500 for 2020.

During December 2017, the Company entered into an amendment to the previously existing master purchase agreement with Airbus. Pursuant to the amendment, the Company had a commitment to purchase an incremental 100 A320neo and 34 A321neo aircraft (“incremental aircraft”) which were scheduled to be delivered through 2026. During July 2019, the Company entered into an amendment to the previously existing master purchase agreement that included the conversion of 15 A320neo aircraft to A321neo aircraft and in December 2020, the Company entered into an amendment to convert an additional 18 A320neo aircraft to A321neo aircraft, which both also updated the timing of original scheduled delivery dates as reflected in the table above. Additionally, we entered into subsequent amendments that allow us to convert 18 A320neo aircraft to A321XLR aircraft and therefore, the conversion is not reflected in the table above. The amended agreements provide for varying purchase incentives, which have been allocated proportionally and are accounted for as an offsetting reduction to the cost of the backlog aircraft and incremental aircraft. As a result, cash paid for backlog aircraft will be more than the associated capitalized cost of the aircraft and results in the recognition of a deferred purchase incentive within other assets in the consolidated balance sheet, which will ultimately be offset by the lower cash payments in connection with the purchase of the incremental aircraft.

On April 13, 2020, the Company entered into an agreement with Pratt & Whitney for a purchase commitment to supply all engines and the related maintenance services for the Company’s incremental order book. These deliveries will begin in 2022 and are expected to occur through 2027. In addition, Pratt & Whitney will supply a certain number of spare engines from 2022 through 2029. The list price of engines under the contract is expected to represent over $4 billion of total future purchase commitments. These commitments are reflected within the table above and in the future commitments below.

As of December 31, 2020, purchase commitments for these aircraft and engines, including estimated amounts for contractual price escalations and PDPs, were approximately $663 million in 2021, $754 million in 2022, $1,093 million in 2023, $1,142 million in 2024, $1,419 million in 2025 and $3,898 million thereafter.

Litigation and Other Contingencies

The Company is subject to commercial litigation claims and to administrative and regulatory proceedings and reviews that may be asserted or maintained from time to time. The Company regularly evaluates the status of such matters to assess whether a loss is probable and reasonably estimable in determining whether an accrual is appropriate. Furthermore, in determining whether disclosure is appropriate, the Company evaluates each matter.
to assess if there is at least a reasonable possibility that a loss or additional losses may have been incurred and whether an estimate of possible loss or range of loss can be made. The Company believes the ultimate outcome of such lawsuits, proceedings, and reviews will not, individually or in the aggregate, have a material adverse effect on its consolidated financial position, liquidity, or results of operations and that our current accruals cover matters where loss is deemed probable and can be reasonably estimated.

Employees

The Company has seven union-represented employee groups that together represent approximately 88% of all employees at December 31, 2020. The table below sets forth the Company’s employee groups and status of the collective bargaining agreements as of December 31, 2020:

(1) In December 2018, the Company and the pilots, represented by ALPA, reached a tentative agreement, which was subsequently approved by the pilots and became effective in January 2019. The agreement has a term of five years and includes a significant increase in the annual compensation for the pilots as well as a one-time ratification incentive payment to the Company’s pilots of $75 million plus applicable payroll taxes. The one-time ratification incentive, related payroll taxes and certain other compensation and benefits-related accruals earned through December 31, 2018 were recognized as an expense in the fourth quarter of 2018 as the obligation committed to as part of the tentative agreement was probable as of December 31, 2018.

(2) In March 2019, the Company and the flight attendants, represented by AFA-CWA, reached a tentative agreement. The one-time contract ratification incentive of $15 million, related payroll taxes and certain other compensation and benefits-related accruals earned through March 31, 2019 were recognized as an expense in the first quarter of 2019 as the obligation committed to as part of the tentative agreement was probable as of March 31, 2019. The tentative agreement reached in March 2019 was subsequently approved by the flight attendants and became effective in May 2019.

During 2019, the Company entered into an agreement with the flight attendants which outlined terms of an early out program offered to flight attendants meeting certain employment status and seniority requirements, payable to participating flight attendants throughout the fourth quarter of 2019, 2020 and 2021. The $5 million to be paid under the program, including related payroll taxes, is reflected within salaries, wages and benefits in the consolidated statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 2019. During the year ended December 31, 2020, $2 million was paid to participating flight attendants, and the remaining $3 million to be paid under the program is accrued for within other current liabilities in the consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2020.

The Company is self-insured for health care claims, subject to a stop-loss policy, for eligible participating employees and qualified dependent medical and dental claims, subject to deductibles and limitations. The Company’s liabilities for claims incurred but not reported are determined based on an estimate of the ultimate aggregate liability for claims incurred. The estimate is calculated from actual claim rates and adjusted periodically as necessary. The Company has accrued $4 million for health care claims estimated to be incurred.

but not yet paid as of December 31, 2019 and 2020, which is included as a component of other current liabilities in the consolidated balance sheets.

General Indemnifications

The Company has various leases with respect to real property as well as various agreements among airlines relating to fuel consortia or fuel farms at airports. Under some of these contracts, the Company is party to joint and several liability regarding environmental damages. Under others, where the Company is a member of an LLC or other entity that contracts directly with the airport operator, liabilities are borne through the fuel consortia structure.

The Company’s aircraft, services, equipment lease and sale and financing agreements typically contain provisions requiring us, as the lessee, obligor or recipient of services, to indemnify the other parties to those agreements, including certain of those parties’ related persons, against virtually any liabilities that might arise from the use or operation of the aircraft or such other equipment. The Company believes that its insurance would cover most of its exposure to liabilities and related indemnities associated with the commercial real estate leases and aircraft, services, equipment lease and sale and financing agreements described above.

Certain of the Company’s aircraft and other financing transactions include provisions that require payments to preserve an expected economic return to the lenders if that economic return is diminished due to certain changes in law or regulations. In certain of these financing transactions and other agreements, the Company also bears the risk of certain changes in tax laws that would subject payments to non-U.S. entities to withholding taxes.

Certain of these indemnities survive the length of the related financing or lease. The Company cannot reasonably estimate the potential future payments under the indemnities and related provisions described above because it cannot predict (1) when and under what circumstances these provisions may be triggered, and (2) the amount that would be payable if the provisions were triggered because the amounts would be based on facts and circumstances existing at such time.

15. Stockholders’ Equity

The Company had 5,243,233 and 5,248,371 shares of common stock outstanding as of December 31, 2019 and 2020, respectively. All of the Company’s issued and outstanding shares of common stock are duly authorized, validly issued, fully paid and nonassessable. Each holder of the Company’s common stock is entitled to one vote for each share on all matters submitted to a vote of the stockholders, including the election of directors. Holders of the Company’s common stock have no preemptive, conversion, subscription or other rights, and no redemption or sinking fund provisions applicable to the Company’s common stock exist.

During the year ended December 31, 2018 the Company declared a dividend of $38.47 per share (representing an aggregate obligation of $221 million), of which $209 million along with $2 million of additional distributions related to prior years’ dividends was distributed to common stockholders and those with other participating rights (including those with vested share-based awards and phantom equity units awarded to the Participating Pilots). During the year ended December 31, 2019 the Company declared a dividend of $28.85 per share (representing an aggregate obligation of $166 million), which included approximately $7 million of dividend equivalent rights relating to the phantom equity units. As of December 31, 2019, $159 million of the aggregate obligation was distributed to common stockholders and those with other participating rights (including those with vested share-based awards and phantom equity units awarded to the Participating Pilots). During the year ended December 31, 2020, no dividends were declared and the Company paid less than $1 million in distributions to those with other participating rights related to vested share-based awards.
As of December 31, 2019, $27 million was payable to those with dividend equivalent rights relating to the phantom equity units (see Notes 8, 11 and 13) along with those with other participating rights, which was included within the Company’s Consolidated Balance Sheets. As of December 31, 2020, less than $1 million was payable to those with participating rights.

16. Net Income (Loss) per Share

Basic and diluted earnings (loss) per share are computed pursuant to the two-class method. Under the two-class method, the Company attributes net income to common stock and other participating rights (including those with vested share-based awards and phantom equity units awarded to the Participating Pilots). Basic net income per share is calculated by taking net income, less earnings allocated to participating rights, divided by the basic weighted average common stock outstanding. Diluted net income per share is calculated using the more dilutive of the treasury-stock method and the two-class method. The following table sets forth the computation of net income per share on a basic and diluted basis pursuant to the two-class method for the periods indicated (in millions, except for share and per share data):

Approximately 4,050 shares, 6,150 shares were excluded from the computation of diluted shares for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2019, respectively, as their impact would have been anti-dilutive. Due to the net loss for the year ended December 31, 2020, diluted weighted-average shares outstanding are equal to basic weighted-average shares outstanding because the effect of all equity awards is anti-dilutive.

On March 27, 2020, the CARES Act was enacted in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. The CARES Act permits a net operating loss (NOL) generated in 2020 to be carried back to each of the five preceding taxable years to generate a refund of previously paid income taxes. As a result, the Company’s taxable losses for 2020 were fully absorbed in the 2015 and 2016 tax years (pre-Tax Cuts and Jobs Act) in which a federal 35% tax rate applies, resulting in a permanent benefit of the 14% rate differential (See Note 1). Additionally, the current year tax rate will also include the favorable impact of the current year tax deduction for the payments made to FAPAInvest, LLC, as described further in Note 11.

The Company made cash payments of $62 million, $56 million and $8 million for the years ended December 31, 2018, 2019 and 2020, respectively, for income taxes, net of refunds.
Deferred income taxes reflect the net tax effect of temporary differences between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities for financial statement and income tax purposes. The following table shows the components of the Company’s deferred tax assets and liabilities (in millions):

As of December 31, 2020, the Company’s net deferred tax liability balance was $9 million, which includes $9 million of deferred tax assets related to state net operating losses. Although the Company is not currently in a three year cumulative loss position, it may be in a three year cumulative loss position during the 2021 tax year. However, the Company has a recent history of significant earnings prior to the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic and expects to return to profitability as the effects of the pandemic subside. Under current law, federal net operating loss carryforwards do not expire and most state net operating losses can also be carried forward indefinitely or at a minimum expire after five years. Therefore, no valuation allowance was recorded against deferred tax assets as the Company expects they will be fully utilized within the expiration periods.

The following table shows the components of the Company’s unrecognized tax benefits related to uncertain tax positions (in millions):

It is reasonably possible that the amount of unrecognized tax benefit could change significantly within the next 12 months pending the outcome of any cases currently in litigation with the U.S. Tax Court, which could reduce income tax expense by $8 million. A lapse in the statute of limitations could also reduce income tax.
expense by $6 million within the next 12 months. The total amount of unrecognized benefit, if recognized, would reduce income tax expense by $10 million. The Company accrues interest related to unrecognized tax benefits in its provision for income taxes, and any associated penalties in other operating expenses. The amounts recorded in our financial statements related to interest and penalties is less than $1 million for 2020.

The Company files its tax returns as prescribed by the tax laws of the jurisdictions in which it operates yearly. The 2014 tax year audit by the Internal Revenue Service (“IRS”) closed in 2017 with no material changes. Although the statute of limitations has expired for the 2015 and 2016 tax years, the Company’s federal income tax returns for tax years 2015 and forward will remain open to examination by the IRS due to the carryback of the 2020 net operating loss. Additionally, various tax years remain open to examination by state and local taxing jurisdictions.

18. Fair Value Measurements

Under ASC 820, Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures, disclosures relating to how fair value is determined for assets and liabilities are required, and a hierarchy for which these assets and liabilities must be grouped is established, based on significant levels of inputs, as follows:

- Level 1—Quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.
- Level 2—Observable inputs other than Level 1 prices such as quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities; quoted prices in markets that are not active; or other inputs that are observable or can be corroborated by observable market data for substantially the full term of the assets or liabilities.
- Level 3—Unobservable inputs that are supported by little or no market activity and that are significant to the fair value of the assets or liabilities.

Fair value is defined as the exchange price that would be received for an asset or paid to transfer a liability (an exit price) in the principal or most advantageous market for the asset or liability in an orderly transaction between market participants on the measurement date. The Company utilizes several valuation techniques in order to assess the fair value of its financial assets and liabilities.

Cash, Cash Equivalents and Restricted Cash

Cash and cash equivalents as of December 31, 2019 and 2020 were comprised of liquid money market funds, time deposits and cash, and are categorized as Level 1 instruments. The Company maintains cash with various high-quality financial institutions. Within restricted cash, the Company also maintains certificates of deposit that secure certain letters of credit issued for workers’ compensation claim reserves and certain airport authorities. Cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash are carried at cost, which management believes approximates fair value.

Warrants

The estimated fair value of the warrants issued in conjunction with the loans from the CARES Act, described in Note 1, was determined to be Level 3. The primary inputs to the warrant valuation are driven by FGHI’s share price as well as assumptions about the expected share price volatility and estimated term the warrants will remain outstanding. These inputs are largely impacted by internal forecasts, discount rates and other internal assumptions, which were unobservable as of December 31, 2020.

Fuel Derivative Instruments

Option contracts and collar structures are valued under an income approach using option pricing models based on data either readily observable in public markets, derived from public markets or provided by counterparties who regularly trade in public markets; therefore, they are classified as Level 2 inputs. Volatilities used in the year end December 31, 2019 valuation ranged from 23% to 40% depending on the maturity dates, underlying commodities and strike prices of the option contracts.

Interest Rate Swaption Derivative Instruments

Interest rate swaption contracts are valued under an income approach based on data either readily observable in public markets, derived from public markets or provided by counterparties who regularly trade in public markets; therefore, they are classified as Level 2 inputs. Given the swaptions will be cash settled upon exercise and that the market value will be done using overnight indexed swap (OIS) discounting, OIS discounting is applied to the income approach valuation.

Pilot Phantom Equity

The estimated fair value of the phantom equity unit liability under the Pilot Phantom Equity Plan, described in Note 11, was determined to be Level 3 as certain inputs used to determine the fair value of FGHI was unobservable as of December 31, 2019. In accordance with the amended and restated phantom equity agreement, the obligation became fixed as of December 31, 2019 and is no longer subject to valuation adjustments.

Debt

The estimated fair value of the Company’s debt agreements has been determined to be Level 3, as certain inputs used to determine the fair value of these agreements are unobservable. The Company utilizes a discounted cash flow method to estimate the fair value of the Level 3 long-term debt.

The carrying amounts and estimated fair values of the Company’s debt are as follows (in millions):

In accordance with the amended and restated phantom equity agreement, the remaining phantom equity obligation became fixed as of December 31, 2019 and is no longer subject to valuation adjustments. The Company therefore removed the level 3 fair value of the phantom equity units during 2020. During the period ended December 31, 2020 the Company issued warrants in conjunction with the PSP Promissory Note and the Treasury Loan and, due to the unobservable nature of the inputs, was included as a Level 3 fair value measurement. The Company had no other transfers of assets or liabilities between any of the above levels during years ended December 31, 2019 or 2020.

19. Related Parties

Management Services

The Company pays a quarterly fee to Indigo Partners for management services plus expense reimbursements and the annual fees of each member of the Company’s board of directors that is affiliated with Indigo Partners. Indigo Partners manages an investment fund that is the controlling stockholder in FGHI. The Company paid Indigo Partners $2 million of management fees, expense reimbursements, and director compensation for each of the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2019 and $1 million for the year ended December 31, 2020.

Codeshare Arrangement

The Company entered into a codeshare agreement with Controladora Vuela Compañía de Aviación, S.A.B. de C.V. (an airline based in Mexico doing business as Volaris) during 2018 under which sales began in July 2018. Two of the Company’s directors are members of the board of directors of Volaris. Indigo Partners holds approximately 18% of the total outstanding Common Stock shares of Volaris.

In August 2018, the Company and Volaris began operating scheduled codeshare flights. The codeshare agreement provides for codeshare fees and revenue sharing for the codeshare flights. Each party bears its own costs and expenses of performance under the agreement, is required to indemnify the other party for certain claims and losses arising out of or related to the agreement and is responsible for complying with certain marketing and product display guidelines. The codeshare agreement also establishes a joint management committee, which includes representatives from both parties and generally oversees the management of the transactions and relationships contemplated by the agreement. The codeshare agreement will remain effective for a period of three years from its effective date, is subject to automatic renewal and may be terminated by either party at any time upon the satisfaction of certain conditions.

Item 14. Indemnification of Directors and Officers

Frontier Group Holdings, Inc., Inc. is a Delaware corporation. Section 145 of the Delaware General Corporation Law authorizes a court to award, or a corporation’s board of directors to grant, indemnity to directors and officers in terms sufficiently broad to permit such indemnification under certain circumstances for liabilities, including reimbursement for expenses incurred, arising under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. Our amended and restated certificate of incorporation to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering compels indemnification of our directors and officers and permits indemnification of our employees and other agents, in each case to the maximum extent permitted by the Delaware General Corporation Law, and our amended and restated bylaws to be in effect immediately prior to the consummation of this offering provide for indemnification of our directors, officers, employees and other agents to the maximum extent permitted by the Delaware General Corporation Law. In addition, we have entered into indemnification agreements with our directors, officers and some employees containing provisions which are in some respects broader than the specific indemnification provisions contained in the Delaware General Corporation Law. The indemnification agreements may require us, among other things, to indemnify our directors against certain liabilities that may arise by reason of their status or service as directors and to advance their expenses incurred as a result of any proceeding against them as to which they could be indemnified. Reference is also made to Section 8 of the underwriting agreement to be filed as Exhibit 1.1 hereto, which provides for indemnification by the underwriter of our officers and directors against certain liabilities.

Item 15. Recent Sales of Unregistered Securities

Since January 1, 2018, we have granted equity awards for an aggregate of 116,440 shares of our common stock to employees and directors under our 2014 Equity Incentive Plan, which includes 2,416 shares that were subsequently forfeited and 262 shares that were subsequently repurchased.

The sales of the above securities were deemed to be exempt from registration under the Securities Act in reliance upon Rule 701 promulgated under Section 3(b) of the Securities Act as transactions by an issuer not involving any public offering or pursuant to benefit plans and contracts relating to compensation as provided.
under Rule 701. The recipients of the securities in each of these transactions represented their intentions to acquire the securities for investment only and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution thereof, and appropriate legends were placed upon the stock certificates issued in these transactions. All recipients had adequate access, through their relationships with us, to information about us.

Between May 19, 2020 and January 15, 2021, we issued to the United States Department of Treasury (the “Treasury”) warrants to purchase an aggregate of 75,807 shares of common stock at an exercise price of $241.72 per share in connection with our Payroll Support Program Agreement and the loan we received from the Treasury. Additionally, by operation of the Payroll Support Program Extension Agreement entered into with the Treasury on January 15, 2021, we are expected to issue to the Treasury additional warrants to purchase an aggregate of 2,711 shares of common stock at an exercise price of $442.69 per share based on $140 million of funding pursuant to the so-called “PSP2” program.

The offers, sales, and issuances of the securities described above were deemed to be exempt from registration under Section 4(a)(2) of the Securities Act as a transaction by an issuer not involving a public offering. The recipients of securities in each of these transactions acquired the securities for investment only and not with a view to or for sale in connection with any distribution thereof and appropriate legends were affixed to the securities issued in these transactions.

There were no underwriters employed in connection with any of the transactions set forth in Item 15.

The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes that:

(1) for purposes of determining any liability under the Securities Act, the information omitted from the form of prospectus filed as part of this registration statement in reliance upon Rule 430A and contained in a form of prospectus filed by the registrant pursuant to Rule 424(b)(1) or (4) or 497(h) under the Securities Act shall be deemed to be part of this registration statement as of the time it was declared effective;

(2) for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act, each post-effective amendment that contains a form of prospectus shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof; and

4. The Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation of the Corporation, as amended, is hereby amended and restated in its entirety to read as follows:

ARTICLE I
NAME

The name of the corporation is Falcon Acquisition Group, Inc. (the “Corporation”).

ARTICLE II
REGISTERED OFFICE AND AGENT

The address of the Corporation’s registered office in the State of Delaware is 1209 Orange Street in the City of Wilmington, County of New Castle, 19801. The name of its registered agent at such address is The Corporation Trust Company.

ARTICLE III
PURPOSE AND DURATION

The purpose of the Corporation is to engage in any lawful activity for which corporations may be organized under the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware, as amended (the “DGCL”). The Corporation is to have a perpetual existence.

ARTICLE IV
CAPITAL STOCK

Section 1. Authorized Shares. The total number of shares of stock which the Corporation is authorized to issue is 15,000,000 shares, of which 12,000,000 shares shall be shares of Common Stock, par value $0.001 per share (the “Voting Common Stock”), 2,000,000 shares shall be shares of Non-Voting Common Stock, par value $0.001 per share (the “Non-Voting Common Stock”, and together with the Voting Common Stock, the “Common Stock”), and 1,000,000 shares shall be shares of Preferred Stock, par value $0.001 per share (the “Preferred Stock”).

Section 2. Preferred Stock. Shares of Preferred Stock may be issued from time to time in one or more series, each of such series to have such terms as stated in the resolution or resolutions providing for the establishment of such series adopted by the Board of Directors of the Corporation (the “Board of Directors”) as hereinafter provided. Authority is hereby expressly granted to the Board of Directors to issue, from time to time, shares of Preferred Stock in one or more series, and, in connection with the establishment of any such series by resolution or resolutions, to determine and fix such voting powers, full or limited, or no voting powers, and such other powers, designations, preferences and relative, participating, optional, and other special rights, and the qualifications, limitations, and restrictions thereof, if any, including, without limitation, dividend rights, conversion rights, redemption privileges and liquidation preferences, as shall be stated in such resolution or resolutions, all to the fullest extent permitted by the DGCL. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the resolution or resolutions providing for the establishment of any series of Preferred Stock may, to the extent permitted by law, provide that such series shall be superior to, rank equally with or be junior to the Preferred Stock of any other series. The powers, preferences and relative, participating, optional and other special rights of each series of Preferred Stock, and the qualifications, limitations or restrictions thereof, if any, may be different from those of any and all other series at any time outstanding. Except as otherwise expressly provided in the resolution or resolutions providing for the establishment of any series of Preferred Stock, no vote of the holders of shares of Preferred Stock or Common Stock shall be a prerequisite to the issuance of any shares of any series of the Preferred Stock authorized by and complying with the conditions of this Amended and Restated Certificate of Incorporation (the “Certificate of Incorporation”).

Section 3. Common Stock. The holders of shares of Common Stock shall have such rights as are set forth in the DGCL and, to the extent consistent therewith, such rights as are set forth below:

(a) Mandatory Conversion. Each share of Non-Voting Common Stock shall be mandatorily convertible, at the sole option of the Corporation at any time and from time to time, into one fully paid and non-assessable share of Voting Common Stock. The Corporation shall exercise such right by delivering written notice (the “Mandatory Conversion Notice”) of such conversion to each holder of Non-Voting Common Stock to be so converted stating (i) the Corporation’s intention to convert the shares of Non-Voting Common Stock held by such holder and (ii) the date or event upon which such conversion shall be effective (the “Mandatory Conversion Date”), which such Mandatory Conversion Date shall be no less than one calendar day after the date upon which the Corporation delivers the Mandatory Conversion Notice and no more than 180 days thereafter; provided that such conversion may be designated as the occurrence of a given event (for example, completion of a public offering or sale transaction) provided that such event does not occur less than one day or more than 180 calendar days after the related Mandatory Conversion Notice. Following the Corporation's delivery of the Mandatory Conversion Notice, each share of Non-Voting Common Stock held by such holder shall be converted automatically and without further action on the part of such holder into an equal number of shares of Voting Common Stock on the Mandatory Conversion Date. Immediately upon conversion of shares of Non-Voting Common Stock hereunder, the rights of the holders of shares of Non-Voting Common Stock as such shall cease, and such holders shall be treated for all purposes as having become the record holder or holders of such shares of Voting Common Stock. The issuance of certificates, if any, for shares of Voting Common Stock upon conversion of shares of Non-Voting Common Stock hereunder shall be made without charge to the holders of such shares for any stamp or other similar tax in respect of such issuance; provided, however, that if any such certificate is to be issued in a name other than that of the holder of the share or shares of Non-Voting Common Stock converted, then the individual, entity or other person requesting the issuance thereof shall pay to the Corporation the amount of any tax that may be payable in respect of any transfer involved in such issuance or shall establish to the satisfaction of the Corporation that such tax has been paid or is not payable. Except as otherwise provided hereinafore in this Section 3(a), the Non-Voting Common Stock shall not be convertible into any other securities of the Company or under any other circumstances.

(b) Voting. Except as otherwise provided by applicable law, the holders of Voting Common Stock shall be entitled to one vote per share on all matters to be voted on by the stockholders of the Corporation, and the holders of Non-Voting Common Stock shall have no right to vote on any matters to be voted on by the stockholders of the Corporation.

(c) Dividends. Except as may be provided in a resolution or resolutions of the Board of Directors providing for any series of Preferred Stock outstanding at any time, the holders of Voting Common Stock and the holders of Non-Voting Common Stock shall be entitled to share equally, on a per share basis, in such dividends and other distributions of cash, property or shares of stock of the Corporation as may be declared by the Board of Directors from time to time with respect to the Common Stock out of assets or funds of the Corporation legally available therefor; provided, however, that (i) if dividends are declared or paid in shares of Common Stock, the dividends payable to holders of Voting Common Stock shall be payable in Voting Common Stock and the dividends payable to the holders of Non-Voting Common Stock shall be payable in Non-Voting Common Stock and (ii) if the dividends consist of other voting securities of the Corporation, the Corporation shall make available to each holder of Non-Voting Common Stock dividends consisting of non-voting securities (except as otherwise required by law) of the Corporation which are otherwise identical to the voting securities.

(d) Liquidation, Dissolution, etc. Except as may be provided in a resolution or resolutions of the Board of Directors providing for any series of Preferred Stock outstanding at any time, in the event of a voluntary or involuntary liquidation, dissolution, distribution of assets or winding up of the Corporation, the holders of Voting Common Stock and the holders of Non-Voting Common Stock shall be entitled to share equally, on a per share basis, in all assets of the Corporation of whatever kind available for distribution to the holders of Common Stock.

(e) Subdivision or Combination. If the Corporation in any manner subdivides or combines the outstanding shares of one class of Common Stock, the outstanding shares of the other class of Common Stock will be subdivided or combined in the same manner.
(f) Equal Status. Except as expressly provided in this Article IV, shares of Voting Common Stock and Non-Voting Common Stock shall have the same rights and privileges and rank equally, share ratably and be identical in all respects as to all matters. In any merger, consolidation, reorganization or other business combination, the consideration received per share by the holders of the Voting Common Stock and the holders of the Non-Voting Common Stock in such merger, consolidation, reorganization or other business combination shall be identical; provided, however, that if such consideration consists, in whole or in part, of shares of capital stock of, or other equity interests in, the Corporation or any other corporation, partnership, limited liability company or other entity, then the powers, designations, preferences and relative, common, participating, optional or other special rights and qualifications, limitations and restrictions of such shares of capital stock or other equity interests may differ to the extent that the powers, designations, preferences and relative, common, participating, optional or other special rights and qualifications, limitations and restrictions of the Voting Common Stock and Non-Voting Common Stock differ as provided herein (including, without limitation, with respect to the voting rights and conversion provisions hereof); and provided further, that, if the holders of the Voting Common Stock or the holders of the Non-Voting Common Stock are granted the right to elect to receive one of two or more alternative forms of consideration, the foregoing provision shall be deemed satisfied if holders of the other class are granted identical election rights. Any consideration to be paid to or received by holders of Voting Common Stock or holders of Non-Voting Common Stock pursuant to any employment, consulting, severance, non-competition or other similar arrangement approved by the Board of Directors, or any duly authorized committee thereof, shall not be considered to be “consideration received per share” for purposes of the foregoing provision, regardless of whether such consideration is paid in connection with, or conditioned upon the completion of, such merger, consolidation, reorganization or other business combination.

(g) No Preemptive or Subscription Rights. No holder of shares of Common Stock shall be entitled to preemptive or subscription rights.

Section 4. Power to Sell and Purchase Shares. Subject to the requirements of applicable law, the Corporation shall have the power to issue and sell all or any part of any shares of any class of stock herein or hereafter authorized to such persons, and for such consideration, as the Board of Directors shall from time to time, in its discretion, determine, whether or not greater consideration could be received upon the issue or sale of the same number of shares of another class, and as otherwise permitted by law. Subject to the requirements of applicable law, the Corporation shall have the power to purchase any shares of any class of stock herein or hereafter authorized from such persons, and for such consideration, as the Board of Directors shall from time to time, in its discretion, determine, whether or not less consideration could be paid upon the purchase of the same number of shares of another class, and as otherwise permitted by law.
ARTICLE V

RESTRICTIONS ON OWNERSHIP

Section 1. Limitations of Ownership by Non-Citizens. At no time shall either (a) the percentage of voting interest of the Corporation or (b) the percentage of the Corporation’s capital stock (including Voting Common Stock and Non-Voting Common Stock), owned or controlled by persons who are not “citizens of the United States” (as such term is defined in Title 49, United States Code, Section 40102 and administrative interpretations thereof issued by the Department of Transportation or its successor, or as the same may be from time to time amended, supplemented or succeeded, “Applicable Laws”) (“Non-Citizens”) exceed the limitations provided under Applicable Laws (which, as of the date hereof and for informational purposes only, is 24.9% and 49.0%, respectively). The Bylaws of the Corporation shall contain provisions to implement this Article V, including, without limitation, provisions restricting or prohibiting transfer of shares of voting stock to Non-Citizens and provisions restricting or removing voting rights as to shares of voting stock owned or controlled by Non-Citizens. Any determination as to ownership, control or citizenship made by the Board of Directors shall be conclusive and binding as between the Corporation and any stockholder for purposes of this Article V.

Section 2. Legend. Each certificate or other representative document for capital stock of the Corporation with voting rights (including each such certificate or representative document for such capital stock issued upon any permitted transfer of capital stock) shall contain a legend in substantially the following form:

ARTICLE II.
STOCKHOLDERS

Section 1. ANNUAL MEETING. An annual meeting of the stockholders shall be held on such date as may be determined by resolution of the Board of Directors unless directors are elected by written consent in lieu of an annual meeting in accordance with Section 211 of the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware (“DGCL”). At each annual meeting, the stockholders shall elect directors to hold office for the term provided in Section 1 of Article III of these Bylaws.

Section 2. SPECIAL MEETING. A special meeting of the stockholders may be called by the President of the Corporation, the Board of Directors, or by such other officers or persons as the Board of Directors may designate.
Section 3. PLACE OF STOCKHOLDER MEETINGS. The Board of Directors may designate any place, either within or without the State of Delaware, as the place of meeting for any annual meeting or for any special meeting. If no such place is designated by the Board of Directors, the place of meeting will be the principal business office of the Corporation or the Board of Directors may, in its sole discretion, determine that the meeting shall not be held at any place, but will instead be held solely by means of remote communication as provided under Section 211 of the DGCL.

Section 4. NOTICE OF MEETINGS. Unless waived as herein provided, whenever stockholders are required or permitted to take any action at a meeting, written notice of the meeting shall be given stating the place, if any, date and hour of the meeting, the means of remote communications, if any, by which stockholders may be deemed to vote at the meeting or in the event of a merger, consolidation, share exchange, dissolution or sale, lease or exchange of all or substantially all of the Corporation’s property, business or assets not less than twenty (20) days before the date of the meeting. If mailed, notice is given when deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, directed to the stockholder at the stockholder’s address as it appears on the records of the Corporation. If electronically transmitted, then notice is deemed given when transmitted and directed to a facsimile number or electronic mail address at which the stockholder has consented to receive notice. An affidavit of the secretary or of the transfer agent or other agent of the Corporation that the notice has been given by a form of electronic transmission shall, in the absence of fraud, be prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein.

When a meeting is adjourned to reconvene at the same or another place, if any, or by means of remote communications, if any, in accordance with Section 5 of Article II of these Bylaws, notice need not be given of the adjourned meeting if the time and place thereof are announced at the meeting at which the adjournment is taken.

Section 5. QUORUM AND ADJOURNED MEETINGS. Unless otherwise provided by law or the Corporation’s Certificate of Incorporation, a majority of the shares entitled to vote, present in person or represented by proxy, shall constitute a quorum at a meeting of stockholders. If a majority of the shares entitled to vote at a meeting of stockholders is present in person or represented by proxy at such meeting, such stockholders may continue to transact business until adjournment, notwithstanding the withdrawal of such number of stockholders as may leave less than a quorum. If less than a majority of the shares entitled to vote at a meeting of stockholders is present in person or represented by proxy at such meeting, a majority of the shares so represented may adjourn the meeting from time to time, to reconvene at the same or another place, if any, or by means of remote communications, if any, by which stockholders and proxy holders may be deemed to be present in person and vote at such meeting, and notice need not be given of any such adjourned meeting if the time, date, place, if any, thereof, and the means of remote communications, if any, by which stockholders and proxy holders may be deemed to be present in person and vote at such adjourned meeting are announced at the meeting at which the adjournment is taken; provided, however, that if the adjournment is for more than thirty (30) days a notice of the adjourned meeting shall be given to each stockholder of record entitled to vote at the meeting. At the adjourned meeting the Corporation may transact any business that might have been transacted at the original meeting.
Section 6. FIXING OF RECORD DATE.

(a) For the purpose of determining stockholders entitled to notice of or to vote at any meeting of stockholders or any adjournment thereof, the Board of Directors may fix a record date, which record date shall not precede the date upon which the resolution fixing the record date is adopted by the Board of Directors, and which record date shall not be more than sixty (60) days nor less than ten (10) days before the date of such meeting. If no record date is fixed by the Board of Directors, the record date for determining stockholders entitled to notice of or to vote at a meeting of stockholders shall be at the close of business on the day next preceding the day on which notice is given, or, if notice is waived, at the close of business on the day next preceding the day on which the meeting is held. A determination of stockholders of record entitled to notice of or to vote at a meeting of stockholders shall apply to any adjournment of the meeting; provided, however, that the Board of Directors may fix a new record date for the adjourned meeting.

(b) For the purpose of determining stockholders entitled to consent to corporate action in writing without a meeting, the Board of Directors may fix a record date, which record date shall not precede the date upon which the resolution fixing the record date is established by the Board of Directors, and which date shall not be more than ten (10) days after the date on which the resolution fixing the record date is adopted by the Board of Directors. If no record date has been fixed by the Board of Directors, the record date for determining stockholders entitled to consent to corporate action in writing without a meeting, when no prior action by the Board of Directors is required by law, shall be the first date on which a signed written consent setting forth the action taken or proposed to be taken is delivered to the Corporation by delivery to its registered office in the State of Delaware, its principal office, or an officer or agent of the Corporation having custody of the book in which the proceedings of meetings of stockholders are recorded. Delivery to the Corporation’s registered office shall be by hand or by certified or registered mail, return receipt requested. If no record date has been fixed by the Board of Directors and prior action by the Board of Directors is required by law, the record date for determining stockholders’ consent to corporate action in writing without a meeting shall be the close of business on the day on which the Board of Directors adopts the resolution taking such prior action.

(c) For the purpose of determining the stockholders entitled to receive payment of any dividend or other distribution or allotment of any rights or the stockholders entitled to exercise any rights in respect to any change, conversion or exchange of stock, or for the purpose of any other lawful action, the Board of Directors may fix the record date, which record date shall not precede the date upon which the resolution fixing the record date is adopted, and which record date shall be not more than sixty (60) days prior to such action. If no record date is fixed, the record date for determining the stockholders for any such purpose shall be the close of business on the day on which the Board of Directors adopts the resolution relating thereto.

Section 7. VOTING LIST. The officer who has charge of the stock ledger of the Corporation shall prepare and make, at least ten (10) days before every meeting of stockholders, a complete list of stockholders entitled to vote at the meeting, arranged in alphabetical order, and showing the address of each stockholder and the number of shares registered in the name of each stockholder. Such list shall be open to the examination of any stockholder, for any purpose germane to the meeting, for a period of at least ten (10) days prior to the meeting, (i) by a reasonably accessible electronic network, provided that the information required to gain access to such list is provided with the notice of the meeting, or (ii) during ordinary business hours, at the principal place of business of the Corporation. In the event that the Corporation determines to make the list available on an electronic network, the Corporation may take reasonable steps to ensure that such information is available only to the stockholders of the Corporation. If the meeting is to be held at a place, then the list shall be produced and kept at the time and place of the meeting during the whole time thereof and may be inspected by any stockholder who is present. If the meeting is to be held solely by means of remote communication, then the list shall also be open to the examination of any stockholder during the whole time of the meeting on a reasonably accessible electronic network, and the information required to access such list shall be provided with the notice of the meeting. Except as otherwise provided by law, such list shall be the only evidence as to the identity of stockholders entitled to examine the list of stockholders required by this Section 7 or to vote in person or by proxy at any meeting of the stockholders. The Corporation shall not be required to include electronic mail addresses or other electronic contact information on such list.

Section 8. VOTING. Unless otherwise provided by the Certificate of Incorporation, each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote for each share of capital stock held by each stockholder. In all matters other than the election of directors, the affirmative vote of the majority of shares present in person or represented by proxy at the meeting and entitled to vote on the subject matter shall be the act of the stockholders. Directors shall be elected by plurality of the votes of the shares present in person or represented by a proxy at the meeting entitled to vote on the election of directors.

Section 9. PROXIES. Each stockholder entitled to vote at a meeting of stockholders or to express consent or dissent to corporate action in writing without a meeting may authorize another person or persons to act for him by proxy, but no such proxy shall be voted or acted upon after three (3) years from its date, unless the proxy provides for a longer period. A duly executed proxy shall be irrevocable if it states that it is irrevocable and if, and only as long as, it is coupled with an interest sufficient in law to support an irrevocable power. A proxy may remain irrevocable regardless of whether the interest with which it is coupled is an interest in the stock itself or an interest in the Corporation generally.

Section 10. RATIFICATION OF ACTS OF DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS. Except as otherwise provided by law or by the Certificate of Incorporation of the Corporation, any transaction or contract or act of the Corporation or of the directors or the officers of the Corporation may be ratified by the affirmative vote of the holders of the number of shares which would have been necessary to approve such transaction, contract or act at a meeting of stockholders, or by the written consent of stockholders in lieu of a meeting.

Section 11. INFORMAL ACTION OF STOCKHOLDERS. Any action required to be taken at any annual or special meeting of stockholders of the Corporation, or any action which may be taken at any annual or special meeting of such stockholders, may be taken without a meeting, without prior notice and without a vote, if a consent or consents in writing, setting forth the action so taken, shall be delivered to the Corporation by the holders of outstanding stock having not less than the minimum number of votes that would be necessary to authorize or take such action at a meeting at which all shares entitled to vote thereon were present and voted. Prompt notice of the taking of the corporate action without a meeting by less than unanimous consent shall be given to those stockholders who have not consented in writing.

Without limiting the manner by which consent may be given, stockholders of the Corporation may consent by delivery of an electronic transmission when such transmission is directed to a facsimile number or electronic mail address at which the Corporation has consented to receive such electronic transmissions, and copies of the electronic transmissions are filed with the minutes of proceedings of the stockholders. Such filing shall be in paper form if the minutes are maintained in paper form and shall be in electronic form if the minutes are maintained in electronic form. The date on which such electronic transmission is transmitted shall be deemed to be the date on which such consent was signed. Any copy, facsimile or other reliable reproduction of a consent in writing may be substituted or used in lieu of the original writing for any and all purposes for which the original writing could be used, provided that such copy, facsimile or other reproduction shall be a complete reproduction of the entire original writing.

Section 12. ORGANIZATION. Such person as the Board of Directors may designate or, in the absence of such a designation, the president of the Corporation or, in his or her absence, such person as may be chosen by the holders of a majority of the shares entitled to vote who are present, in person or by proxy, shall call to order any meeting of the stockholders and act as chairman of such meeting. In the absence of the secretary of the Corporation, the chairman of the meeting shall appoint a person to serve as secretary at the meeting.

ARTICLE III.
DIRECTORS

Section 1. NUMBER AND TENURE OF DIRECTORS. The number of directors of the Corporation shall be determined from time to time by the Board.
Each director shall hold office until such director's successor is elected and qualified or until such director's earlier resignation or removal. Any director may resign at any time upon written notice to the Corporation. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in these Bylaws, the number of Non-Citizens (as defined in Article XI below) who can hold office shall at no time exceed the limitations provided under Act (as defined in Article XI below) (which, as of the effective time of these Bylaws and for informational purposes only, is one-third \( \frac{1}{3} \) of the total number of members then holding office).

Section 2. ELECTION OF DIRECTORS. Except as otherwise provided in this Bylaws, directors shall be elected at the annual meeting of stockholders.
Directors need not be residents of the State of Delaware. Elections of directors need not be by written ballot.

Section 3. SPECIAL MEETINGS. Special meetings of the Board of Directors may be called by or at the request of the Chairman of the Board, the President or at least one-third of the number of directors constituting the whole board. The person or persons authorized to call special meetings of the Board of Directors may fix any time, date or place, either within or without the State of Delaware, for holding any special meeting of the Board of Directors called by them.
Section 4. NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETINGS OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS. Notice of any special meeting of the Board of Directors shall be given, orally or in writing, by the person or persons calling the meeting to all directors at least one (1) day previous thereto. If mailed, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States Mail so addressed, with first-class postage thereon prepaid. If sent by any other means (including facsimile, courier, electronic mail or express mail, etc.), such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when actually delivered to the home or business address, electronic address or facsimile number of the director.

Section 5. QUORUM. A majority of the total number of directors as provided in Section 1 of Article III of these Bylaws shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. If less than a majority of the directors are present at a meeting of the Board of Directors, a majority of the directors present may adjourn the meeting from time to time without further notice.

Section 6. VOTING. The vote of the majority of the directors present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the Board of Directors, unless the DGCL or the Certificate of Incorporation requires a vote of a greater number.

Section 7. VACANCIES. Vacancies in the Board of Directors may be filled by a majority vote of the Board of Directors at a meeting at which a quorum is present or by an election either at an annual meeting or at a special meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose. Any directors elected by the stockholders to fill a vacancy shall hold office for the balance of the term for which he or she was elected. A director appointed by the Board of Directors to fill a vacancy shall serve until the next meeting of stockholders at which directors are elected.

Section 8. REMOVAL OF DIRECTORS. A director, or the entire Board of Directors, may be removed, with or without cause, by the holders of a majority of the shares then entitled to vote at an election of directors; provided, however, that if cumulative voting obtains and less than the entire Board of Directors is to be removed, no director may be removed without cause if the votes cast against such director's removal would be sufficient to elect him if then cumulatively voted at an election of the entire Board of Directors.

Section 9. WRITTEN ACTION BY DIRECTORS. Unless otherwise restricted by the Certificate of Incorporation or these Bylaws, any action required or permitted to be taken at any meeting of the Board of Directors, or of any committee thereof, may be taken without a meeting if all members of the Board of Directors or committee, as the case may be, consent thereto in writing, and the writing or writings are filed with the minutes of proceedings of the Board of Directors or committee. Without limiting the manner by which consent may be given, members of the Board of Directors may consent by delivery of an electronic transmission when such transmission is directed to a facsimile number or electronic mail address at which the Corporation has consented to receive such electronic transmissions, and copies of the electronic transmissions are filed with the minutes of proceedings of the Board of Directors or committee. Such filing shall be in paper form if the minutes are maintained in paper form and shall be in electronic form if the minutes are maintained in electronic form.
Section 10. PARTICIPATION BY CONFERENCE TELEPHONE. Members of the Board of Directors, or any committee designated by such board, may participate in a meeting of the Board of Directors, or committee thereof, by means of conference telephone or similar communications equipment as long as all persons participating in the meeting can speak with and hear each other, and participation by a director pursuant to this Section 10 of Article III shall constitute presence in person at such meeting.

Section 11. COMPENSATION OF DIRECTORS. Unless otherwise restricted by the Certificate of Incorporation or these Bylaws, the Board of Directors shall have the authority to fix the compensation of directors. The directors may be paid their expenses, if any, of attendance at each meeting of the Board of Directors and may be paid a fixed sum for attendance at each meeting of the Board of Directors or a stated salary as director. No such payment shall preclude any director from serving the Corporation in any other capacity and receiving compensation therefore. Members of special or standing committees may be allowed like compensation for attending committee meetings.

ARTICLE IV.
WAIVER OF NOTICE

Section 1. WRITTEN WAIVER OF NOTICE. A written waiver of any required notice, signed by or electronically transmitted by the person entitled to notice, whether before or after the date stated therein, shall be deemed equivalent to notice. Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of, any regular or special meeting of stockholders, directors or members of a committee of directors need be specified in any written waiver of notice.

Section 2. ATTENDANCE AS WAIVER OF NOTICE. Attendance of a person at a meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of such meeting, except when the person attends a meeting for the express purpose of objecting at the beginning of the meeting, and objects, to the transaction of any business because the meeting is not lawfully called or convened.

ARTICLE V.
COMMITTEES

Section 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS. The Board of Directors may, by resolution passed by a majority of the whole Board, designate one or more committees, each committee to consist of one or more of the directors of the Corporation. The Board may designate one or more directors as alternate members of any committee, who may replace any absent or disqualified member at any meeting of the committee. At least two-thirds (2/3) of the members of each committee of the Board shall be comprised of individuals who meet the definition of “a citizen of the United States,” as defined by the Transportation Act 49 U.S.C § 40102 or as subsequently amended or interpreted by the Department of Transportation; provided, however, that if a committee of the Board has one (1) member, such member shall be a “a citizen of the United States,” as defined immediately above. In the absence or disqualification of a member at any meeting of a committee, the member or members thereof present at any meeting and not disqualified from voting, whether or not such member or members constitute a quorum, may unanimously appoint another member of the Board of Directors to act at the meeting in the place of any such absent or disqualified member. Any such committee, to the extent provided in the resolution of the Board of Directors, shall have and may exercise all the powers and authority of the Board of Directors in the management of the business and affairs of the Corporation, and may authorize the seal of the Corporation to be affixed to all papers which may require it, but no such committee shall have the power or authority in reference to the following matters: (i) approving or adopting, or recommending to the stockholders, any action or matter (other than the election or removal of directors) expressly required by law to be submitted to stockholders for approval or (ii) adopting, amending or repealing any bylaw of the corporation.

ARTICLE VI.
OFFICERS

Section 1. GENERAL PROVISIONS. The Board of Directors shall elect (a) a Chairman of the Board or President, or both, and (b) a Secretary of the Corporation. The Board of Directors may also have one or more Vice Chairmen of the Board, one or more Vice Presidents, a Treasurer, one or more Assistant Secretaries and Assistant Treasurers and such additional officers as the Board of Directors may deem necessary or appropriate from time to time. Any two or more offices may be held by the same person. The officers elected by the Board of Directors shall have such duties as are hereafter described and such additional duties as the Board of Directors may from time to time prescribe.

Section 2. ELECTION AND TERM OF OFFICE. The officers of the Corporation shall be elected annually by the Board of Directors at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors held after each annual meeting of the stockholders. If the election of officers is not held at such meeting, such election shall be held as soon thereafter as may be convenient. New offices of the Corporation may be created and filled and vacancies in offices may be filled at any time, at a meeting or by the written consent of the Board of Directors. Unless removed pursuant to Section 3 of Article VI of these Bylaws, each officer shall hold office until his successor has been duly elected and qualified, or until his earlier death or resignation. Election or appointment of an officer or agent shall not of itself create contract rights.

Section 3. REMOVAL OF OFFICERS. Any officer or agent elected or appointed by the Board of Directors may be removed by the Board of Directors whenever, in its judgment, the best interests of the Corporation would be served thereby, but such removal shall be without prejudice to the contract rights, if any, of the person(s) so removed.

Section 4. THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER. The Chairman of the Board (or in the absence of a Chairman of the Board, the President) shall be a Chief Executive Officer, unless the Board of Directors shall designate another individual as Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation. The Chief Executive Officer shall be the principal executive officer of the Corporation and shall in general supervise and control all of the business and affairs of the Corporation, unless otherwise provided by the Board of Directors. The Chief Executive Officer shall preside at all meetings of the stockholders and of the Board of Directors and shall see that orders and resolutions of the Board of Directors are carried into effect. The Chief Executive Officer may sign bonds, mortgages, certificates for shares and all other contracts and documents.
whether or not under the seal of the Corporation except in cases where the signing and execution thereof shall be expressly delegated by law, by the Board of Directors or by these Bylaws to some other officer or agent of the Corporation. The Chief Executive Officer shall have general powers of supervision and shall be the final arbiter of all differences between officers of the Corporation and his decision as to any matter affecting the Corporation shall be final and binding as between the officers of the Corporation subject only to the Board of Directors.

Section 5. THE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD. The Chairman of the Board, if one is chosen, shall be chosen from among the members of the board. If someone other than the Chairman of the Board has been designated as Chief Executive Officer, the Chairman of the Board shall perform such duties as may be assigned to the Chairman of the Board by the Chief Executive Officer or by the Board of Directors. In the absence of the Chief Executive Officer (if the Chairman of the Board is not the Chief Executive Officer) or in the event of his inability or refusal to act, if another individual has not been designated Chief Executive Officer, the Chairman of the Board shall perform the duties of the Chief Executive Officer, and when so acting, shall have all the powers of and be subject to all the restrictions upon the Chief Executive Officer.

Section 6. THE PRESIDENT. In the absence of the Chief Executive Officer and the Chairman of the Board or in the event of their inability or refusal to act, if another individual has not been designated Chief Executive Officer, the President, if one is chosen, shall perform the duties of the Chief Executive Officer, and when so acting, shall have all the powers of and be subject to all the restrictions upon the Chief Executive Officer. At all other times the President shall have the active management of the business of the Corporation under the general supervision of the Chief Executive Officer. The President shall have concurrent power with the Chief Executive Officer to sign bonds, mortgages, certificates for shares and other contracts and documents, whether or not under the seal of the Corporation except in cases where the signing and execution thereof shall be expressly delegated by law, by the Board of Directors, or by these Bylaws to some other officer or agent of the Corporation. In general, the President shall perform all duties incident to the office of president and such other duties as the Chief Executive Officer or the Board of Directors may from time to time prescribe.

Section 7. VICE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD. In the absence of the Chief Executive Officer or in the event of his inability or refusal to act, if the Chairman of the Board or another individual has not been designated Chief Executive Officer, the Vice Chairman, or if there be more than one, the Vice Chairmen, in the order determined by the Board of Directors, shall perform the duties of the Chief Executive Officer, and when so acting shall have all the powers of and be subject to all the restrictions upon the Chief Executive Officer. At all other times, the Vice Chairman or Vice Chairmen shall perform such duties and have such powers as the Chief Executive Officer or the Board of Directors may from time to time prescribe.

Section 8. THE VICE PRESIDENT. In the absence of the President or in the event of his inability or refusal to act, the Vice President (or in the event there be more than one Vice President, the Executive Vice President and then the other Vice President or Vice Presidents in the order designated, or in the absence of any designation, then in the order of their election) shall perform the duties of the President, and when so acting, shall have all the powers of and be subject to all the restrictions upon the President. The Vice Presidents shall perform such other duties and have such other powers as the Chief Executive Officer or the Board of Directors may from time to time prescribe.
Section 9.  THE SECRETARY. The Secretary shall attend all meetings of the Board of Directors and all meetings of the stockholders and record all the proceedings of the meetings of the Corporation and of the Board of Directors in a book to be kept for that purpose and shall perform like duties for the standing committees when required. The Secretary shall give, or cause to be given, notice of all meetings of the stockholders and special meetings of the Board of Directors, and shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by the Board of Directors or the Chief Executive Officer, under whose supervision he shall be. The Secretary shall have custody of the corporate seal of the Corporation and the Secretary, or an Assistant Secretary, shall have authority to affix the same to any instrument requiring it and when so affixed, it may be attested by his signature or by the signature of such Assistant Secretary. The Board of Directors may give general authority to any other officer to affix the seal of the Corporation and to attest the affixing by his signature.

Section 10.  THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY. The Assistant Secretary, or if there be more than one, the Assistant Secretaries in the order determined by the Board of Directors (or if there be no such determination, then in the order of their election), shall, in the absence of the Secretary or in the event of his inability or refusal to act, perform the duties and exercise the powers of the Secretary and shall perform such other duties and have such other powers as the Chief Executive Officer or the Board of Directors may from time to time prescribe.

Section 11.  THE TREASURER. The Treasurer shall have the custody of the corporate funds and securities and shall keep full and accurate accounts of receipts and disbursements in books belonging to the Corporation and shall deposit all moneys and other valuable effects in the name and to the credit of the Corporation in such depositories as may be designated by the Board of Directors. The Treasurer shall disburse the funds of the Corporation as may be ordered by the Board of Directors, taking proper vouchers for such disbursements, and shall render to the President and the Board of Directors, at its regular meetings, or when the Board of Directors so requires, an account of all his transactions as Treasurer and of the financial condition of the Corporation. If required by the Board of Directors, the Treasurer shall give the Corporation a bond (which shall be renewed every six (6) years) in such sum and with such surety or sureties as shall be satisfactory to the Board of Directors for the faithful performance of the duties of his office and for the restoration to the Corporation, in case of his death, resignation, retirement or removal from office, of all books, papers, vouchers, money and other property of whatever kind in his possession or under his control belonging to the Corporation.

Section 12.  THE ASSISTANT TREASURER. The Assistant Treasurer, or if there shall be more than one, the Assistant Treasurers in the order determined by the Board of Directors (or if there be no such determination, then in the order of their election), shall, in the absence of the Treasurer or in the event of his inability or refusal to act, perform the duties and exercise the powers of the Treasurer and shall perform such other duties and have such other powers as the Chief Executive Officer or the Board of Directors may from time to time prescribe.
Section 13. OTHER OFFICERS, ASSISTANT OFFICERS AND AGENTS. Officers, Assistant Officers and Agents, if any, other than those whose duties are provided for in these Bylaws, shall have such authority and perform such duties as may from time to time be prescribed by resolution of the board of directors.

Section 14. ABSENCE OF OFFICERS. In the absence of any officer of the Corporation, or for any other reason the Board of Directors may deem sufficient, the Board of Directors may delegate the powers or duties, or any of such powers or duties, of any officers or officer to any other officer or to any director.

Section 15. COMPENSATION. The Board of Directors shall have the authority to establish reasonable compensation of all officers for services to the Corporation.

Section 16. LIMITATIONS ON NON-CITIZENS AS OFFICERS. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in these Bylaws, (a) number of Non-Citizens who can serve as officers shall at no time exceed the limitations provided under the Act (as defined in Article XI below) (which, as of the effective time of these Bylaws and for informational purposes only, is one-third (1/3) of the total number of officers then holding office) and (b) the President shall not be a Non-Citizen for so long as proscribed by the Act (as defined in Article XI below).

ARTICLE VII.
INDEMNIFICATION

Section 1. RIGHT TO INDEMNIFICATION OF DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS. The Corporation shall indemnify and hold harmless, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law as it presently exists or may hereafter be amended, any person (a “Covered Person”) who was or is made or is threatened to be made a party or is otherwise involved in any action, suit or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative or investigative (a “proceeding”), by reason of the fact that such person, or a person for whom such person is the legal representative, is or was a director or officer of the Corporation or, while a director or officer of the Corporation, is or was serving at the request of the Corporation as a director, officer, employee or agent of another Corporation or of a partnership, joint venture, trust, enterprise or nonprofit entity, including service with respect to employee benefit plans, against all liability and loss suffered and expenses (including attorneys’ fees) reasonably incurred by such Covered Person in such proceeding. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, except as otherwise provided in Section 3 of Article VII of these Bylaws, the Corporation shall be required to indemnify a Covered Person in connection with a proceeding (or part thereof) commenced by such Covered Person only if the commencement of such proceeding (or part thereof) by the Covered Person was authorized in advance by the Board of Directors.
Section 2. PREPAYMENT OF EXPENSES OF DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS. The Corporation shall pay the expenses (including attorneys’ fees) incurred by a Covered Person in defending any proceeding in advance of its final disposition, provided, however, that, to the extent required by law, such payment of expenses in advance of the final disposition of the proceeding shall be made only upon receipt of an undertaking by the Covered Person to repay all amounts advanced if it should be ultimately determined that the Covered Person is not entitled to be indemnified under this Article VII or otherwise.

Section 3. CLAIMS BY DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS. If a claim for indemnification or advancement of expenses under this Article VII is not paid in full within thirty days after a written claim therefor by the Covered Person has been received by the Corporation, the Covered Person may file suit to recover the unpaid amount of such claim and, if successful in whole or in part, shall be entitled to be paid the expense of prosecuting such claim. In any such action the Corporation shall have the burden of proving that the Covered Person is not entitled to the requested indemnification or advancement of expenses under applicable law.

Section 4. INDEMNIFICATION OF EMPLOYEES AND AGENTS. The Corporation may indemnify and advance expenses to any person who was or is made or is threatened to be made or is otherwise involved in any proceeding by reason of the fact that such person, or a person for whom such person is the legal representative, is or was an employee or agent of the Corporation or, while an employee or agent of the Corporation, is or was serving at the request of the Corporation as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation or of a partnership, joint venture, trust, enterprise or nonprofit entity, including service with respect to employee benefit plans, against all liability and loss suffered and expenses (including attorney’s fees) reasonably incurred by such person in connection with such proceeding. The ultimate determination of entitlement to indemnification of persons who are non-director or officer employees or agents shall be made in such manner as is determined by the Board of Directors in its sole discretion. Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, the Corporation shall not be required to indemnify a person in connection with a proceeding initiated by such person if the proceeding was not authorized in advance by the Board of Directors.

Section 5. ADVANCEMENT OF EXPENSES OF EMPLOYEES AND AGENTS. The Corporation may pay the expenses (including attorney’s fees) incurred by an employee or agent in defending any proceeding in advance of its final disposition on such terms and conditions as may be determined by the Board of Directors.

Section 6. NON-EXCLUSIVITY OF RIGHTS. The rights conferred on any person by this Article VII shall not be exclusive of any other rights which such person may have or hereafter acquire under any statute, provision of the certificate of incorporation, these Bylaws, agreement, vote of stockholders or disinterested directors or otherwise.

Section 7. OTHER INDEMNIFICATION. The Corporation’s obligation, if any, to indemnify any person who was or is serving at its request as a director, officer or employee of another Corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, organization or other enterprise shall be reduced by any amount such person may collect as indemnification from such other Corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, organization or other enterprise.
Section 8. INSURANCE. The Board of Directors may, to the full extent permitted by applicable law as it presently exists, or may hereafter be amended from time to time, authorize an appropriate officer or officers to purchase and maintain at the Corporation’s expense insurance: (a) to indemnify the Corporation for any obligation which it incurs as a result of the indemnification of directors, officers and employees under the provisions of this Article VII; and (b) to indemnify or insure directors, officers and employees against liability in instances in which they may not otherwise be indemnified by the Corporation under the provisions of this Article VII.

Section 9. AMENDMENT OR REPEAL. Any repeal or modification of the foregoing provisions of this Article VII shall not adversely affect any right or protection hereunder of any person in respect of any act or omission occurring prior to the time of such repeal or modification. Section 1. CERTIFICATES OF SHARES. The shares of the Corporation shall be represented by certificates, provided that the Board of Directors of the Corporation may provide by resolution or resolutions that some or all of any or all classes or series of its stock shall be uncertificated shares. Any such resolution shall not apply to shares represented by a certificate until such certificate is surrendered to the Corporation. Notwithstanding the adoption of such a resolution by the Board of Directors, every holder of stock represented by certificates and upon request every holder of uncertificated shares shall be entitled to have a certificate signed by, or in the name of the Corporation by the Chairman or Vice Chairman of the Board of Directors, Chief Executive Officer, or the President or Vice President, and by the Treasurer or an Assistant Treasurer, or the Secretary or an Assistant Secretary of the Corporation representing the number of shares registered in certificate form. Any or all the signatures on the certificate may be a facsimile.

Section 2. SIGNATURES OF FORMER OFFICER, TRANSFER AGENT OR REGISTRAR. In case any officer, transfer agent, or registrar who has signed or whose facsimile signature has been placed upon a certificate shall have ceased to be such officer, transfer agent or registrar before such certificate is issued, it may be issued by the Corporation with the same effect as if such person or entity were such officer, transfer agent or registrar at the date of issue.

Section 3. TRANSFER OF SHARES. Transfers of shares of the Corporation shall be made only on the books of the Corporation by the holder of record thereof or by his legal representative, who shall furnish proper evidence of authority to transfer, or by his or her attorney thereunto authorized by power of attorney duly executed and filed with the Secretary of the Corporation, and on surrender for cancellation of certificate for such shares. Prior to due presentment of a certificate for shares for registration of transfer, the Corporation may treat a registered owner of such shares as the person exclusively entitled to vote, to receive notifications and otherwise have and exercise all of the right and powers of an owner of shares.
Section 4. LOST, DESTROYED OR STOLEN CERTIFICATES. Whenever a certificate representing shares of the Corporation has been lost, destroyed or stolen, the holder thereof may file in the office of the Corporation an affidavit setting forth, to the best of his knowledge and belief, the time, place, and circumstance of such loss, destruction or theft together with a statement of indemnity sufficient in the opinion of the Board of Directors to indemnify the Corporation against any claim that may be made against it on account of the alleged loss of any such certificate. Thereupon the Board may cause to be issued to such person or such person’s legal representative a new certificate or a duplicate of the certificate alleged to have been lost, destroyed or stolen. In the exercise of its discretion, the Board of Directors may waive the indemnification requirements provided herein.

ARTICLE IX.

Section 2. REQUIREMENTS FOR PAYMENT OF DIVIDENDS. Before payment of any dividend there may be set aside out of any funds of the Corporation available for dividends such sum or sums as the directors from time to time, in their absolute discretion, think proper as a reserve fund to meet contingencies, or for equalizing dividends, or for repairing or maintaining any property of the Corporation, or for such other purpose as the directors shall think conducive to the interests of the Corporation, and the directors may abolish any such reserve.

ARTICLE X.

Section 4. DEPOSITS. The funds of the Corporation may be deposited or invested in such bank account, in such investments or with such other depositaries as determined by the Board of Directors.
ARTICLE XI
LIMITATIONS OF OWNERSHIP BY NON-CITIZENS

Section 1. DEFINITIONS. For purposes of this Article XI, the following definitions shall apply:

(a) “Act” shall mean Subtitle VII of Title 49 of the United States Code, as amended, or as the same may be from time to time amended.

(b) “Beneficial Ownership,” “Beneficially Owned” or “Owned Beneficially” refers to beneficial ownership as defined in Rule 13d-3 (without regard to the 60-day provision in paragraph (d)(1)(i) thereof) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended.

(c) “Foreign Stock Record” shall have the meaning set forth in Section 3 of this Article XI.

(d) “Non-Citizen” shall mean any person or entity who is not a “citizen of the United States” (as defined in Section 40102 of the Act and administrative interpretations issued by the Department of Transportation, its predecessors and successors, from time to time), including any agent, trustee or representative of a Non-Citizen.

(e) “Own or Control” or “Owned or Controlled” shall mean (x) ownership of record, (y) beneficial ownership or (z) the power to direct, by agreement, agency or in any other manner, the voting of Stock. Any determination by the Board of Directors as to whether Stock is Owned or Controlled by a Non-Citizen shall be final.

(f) “Permitted Percentage” shall mean 24.9% of the voting power of the Stock.

(g) “Stock” shall mean the outstanding capital stock of the Corporation entitled to vote; provided, however, that for the purpose of determining the voting power of Stock that shall at any time constitute the Permitted Percentage, the voting power of Stock outstanding shall not be adjusted downward solely because shares of Stock may not be entitled to vote by reason of any provision of this Article XI.

Section 2. LIMITATIONS ON OWNERSHIP. It is the policy of the Corporation that, consistent with the requirements of the Act, Non-Citizens shall not Own and/or Control.
more than the Permitted Percentage and, if Non-Citizens nonetheless at any time Own and/or Control more than the Permitted Percentage, the voting rights of the Stock in excess of the Permitted Percentage shall be automatically suspended in accordance with Sections 3 and 4 of this Article XI.

Section 3. LIMITATIONS ON OWNERSHIP. The Corporation shall maintain a separate stock record (the “Foreign Stock Record”) in which shall be registered Stock known to the Corporation to be Owned and/or Controlled by Non-Citizens. It shall be the duty of each stockholder to register his, her or its Stock if such stockholder is a Non-Citizen. A Non-Citizen may, at its option, register any Stock to be purchased pursuant to an agreement entered into with the Corporation, as if Owned or Controlled by it, upon execution of a definitive agreement. Such Non-Citizen shall register his, her or its Stock by sending a written request to the Corporation, noting both the execution of a definitive agreement for the purchase of Stock and the anticipated closing date of such transaction. Within ten days of the closing, the Non-Citizen shall send to the Corporation a written notice confirming that the closing occurred. Failure to send such confirmatory notice shall result in the removal of such Stock from the Foreign Stock Record. For the sake of clarity, any Stock registered as a result of execution of a definitive agreement shall not have any voting or other ownership rights until the closing of that transaction. In the event that the sale pursuant to such definitive agreement is not consummated in accordance with such agreement (as may be amended), such Stock shall be removed from the Foreign Stock Record without further action by the Corporation. The Foreign Stock Record shall include (a) the name and nationality of each such Non-Citizen and (b) the date of registration of such shares in the Foreign Stock Record. In no event shall shares in excess of the Permitted Percentage be entered on the Foreign Stock Record. In the event that the Corporation shall determine that Stock registered on the Foreign Stock Record exceeds the Permitted Percentage, sufficient shares shall be removed from the Foreign Stock Record in reverse chronological order based upon the date of registration therein.

Section 4. SUSPENSION OF VOTING RIGHTS. If at any time the number of shares of Stock known to the Corporation to be Owned and/or Controlled by Non-Citizens exceeds the Permitted Percentage, the voting rights of Stock Owned and/or Controlled by Non-Citizens and not registered on the Foreign Stock Record at the time of any vote or action of the stockholders of the Corporation shall, without further action by the Corporation, be suspended. Such suspension of voting rights shall automatically terminate upon the earlier of the (a) transfer of such shares to a person or entity who is not a Non-Citizen, or (b) registration of such shares on the Foreign Stock Record, subject to the last two sentences of Section 3 of this Article XI.

Section 5. CERTIFICATION OF CITIZENSHIP.

(a) The Corporation may by notice in writing (which may be included in the form of proxy or ballot distributed to stockholders in connection with the annual meeting or any special meeting of the stockholders of the Corporation, or otherwise) require a person that is a holder of record of Stock or that the Corporation knows to have, or has reasonable cause to believe has, Beneficial Ownership of Stock to certify in such manner as the Corporation shall deem appropriate (including by way of execution of any form of proxy or ballot of such person) that, to the knowledge of such person:
(i) all Stock as to which such person has record ownership or Beneficial Ownership is Owned and Controlled only by citizens of the United States; or

(ii) the number and class or series of Stock owned of record or Beneficially Owned by such person that is Owned and/or Controlled by Non-Citizens is as set forth in such certificate.

(b) With respect to any Stock identified in response to clause (a)(i) above, the Corporation may require such person to provide such further information as the Corporation may reasonably require in order to implement the provisions of this Article XI.

(c) For purposes of applying the provisions of this Article XI with respect to any Stock, in the event of the failure of any person to provide the certificate or other information to which the Corporation is entitled pursuant to this Section 5 of Article XI, the Corporation shall presume that the Stock in question is Owned and/or Controlled by Non-Citizens.

ARTICLE XII.

Section 1. AMENDMENTS. These Bylaws may be altered, amended or repealed or new Bylaws may be adopted by the stockholders or by the Board of Directors, when such power is conferred upon the Board of Directors by the Certificate of Incorporation, at any regular meeting of the stockholders or of the Board of Directors or at any special meeting of the stockholders or of the Board of Directors if notice of such alteration, amendment, repeal or adoption of new Bylaws be contained in the notice of such special meeting. The Airline shall leave the ramp area used by it for any such purposes in a neat, clean, safe and orderly condition upon completion of such services.
B. The Airline shall have the right to perform its own ramp services or to have such services performed by a regular ramp contractor (i.e., a person authorized by the CEO to perform ramp services at the Airport for any and all aircraft operations). If all such regular ramp contractors are unsatisfactory to the Airline from the standpoint of service or price, the Airline may notify the CEO that it desires to use the services of a contractor not authorized and the CEO may approve such contractor to perform such services; provided however, that the contractor shall accept a permit from the CEO upon the same terms and conditions as regular ramp contractors (except that at the option of the CEO, there may be omitted from such permit any provision requiring or permitting the contractor to serve others than the Airline). The Airline shall have the right to perform or receive ramp services, including refueling, for or from any other air carrier certificated to serve Denver, except that the location of ramp services outside the receiving airline’s Preferential Use Facilities shall be determined by the CEO. No charges, fees or tolls of any nature shall be imposed by the City, directly or indirectly, against the Airline or such other air carrier for the right or privilege of providing or receiving such ramp services.

2.04 RATES, FEES AND CHARGES FOR THE USE OF THE AIRFIELD AREA FACILITIES

A. The rates, fees and charges for the use of the Airfield Area Facilities shall be as established from time to time by the City in accordance with this Agreement. For each landing of an aircraft by the Airline at the Airport, Airline shall be assessed a landing fee in an amount equal to the number of thousands of pounds of maximum allowable gross landing weight of that aircraft, multiplied by the landing fee rate. The landing weight data will be compiled by the Airport through the use of an independent Radar based landing fee activity database. Airlines will access a secure website where a summary and detailed monthly activity report and applicable landing fee charges will be available by the 5th day of the month. The Airport will send an invoice by the 7th day of the month. The rates, fees and charges for the use of the Airfield Area shall be payable no later than twenty (20) days after the close of each calendar month of the term hereof.

B. The maximum allowable gross landing weight shall be determined based on the current FAA Type Certificate Data Sheet applicable to the particular type, design, and model of aircraft.

PART III - LEASE AND USE OF DEMISED PREMISES AND PREFERENTIAL USE FACILITIES

3.01 DEMISED PREMISES

A. The City hereby leases to the Airline and the Airline hereby agrees to lease from the City space in the passenger terminal building and concourses at the Airport designated on Exhibit D (which drawings are incorporated herein and made a part hereof by reference) (collectively, the “Demised Premises”). The City and Airline acknowledge and agree that the dimensions of the Demised Premises as set forth in Exhibit D are defined as part of this Agreement. It is acknowledged and agreed that the Demised Premises under this Agreement constitute non-residential real property. Except to the extent required for the performance of the obligations of the Airline hereunder, nothing contained in this Agreement shall grant to the Airline any rights whatsoever in the air space above the Demised Premises except as approved by the City.
3.02 USE OF DEMISED PREMISES

A. The Airline shall have the use of the portion of the Demised Premises designated in Exhibit D as “Demised Premises” during the term of the letting thereof, for the following purposes, purposes reasonably related thereto and for such other purposes as may be authorized in writing from time to time by the CEO:

1. The handling of reservations, ticketing, billing and manifesting of passengers for air transportation;
2. The clearance, checking-in, handling of outbound and inbound baggage and baggage claim, and the rendering of similar services to passengers for air transportation, and for the furnishing of information, including but not limited to, flight arrival, flight departure and baggage claim information to passengers and to the general public;
3. Administrative offices, operations offices, employee lockers and restrooms, baggage, cargo and mail-handling and storage facilities and equipment; such uses and facilities to be located within Airline’s Demised Premises;
4. Radio, data processing and other communication equipment;
5. The assembling, handling and disbursing of baggage and lost and found articles;
6. The operation, by Airline or an independent contractor, of passenger clubs and lounges where the Airline may serve food and beverage with or without charge; such uses and facilities to be located within Airline’s Demised Premises; and
7. The installation, maintenance, and operation of facilities and equipment reasonably necessary or convenient to carry out any or all of the foregoing.

3.03 EFFICIENCY-IN-USE

A. The Airline agrees to make every reasonable effort to offer to any other incoming or incumbent airline the opportunity to share use of its Demised Premises. In determining whether the use by another incoming or incumbent airline is reasonable and possible, the Airline will have the right to consider the compatibility of the proposed operation of the incoming or incumbent airline with those of the Airline, the operations of those with whom the Airline has subleases or handling agreements, the Airline’s existing and immediate future flight schedules, the need for labor harmony, and the availability of other similar premises at the Airport. Should the Airline refuse another airline the opportunity to use the Airline’s Demised Premises, the City and County of Denver, acting by and through its CEO, may review the Airline’s Demised Premises usage, and should the CEO reasonably determine, considering all the factors noted herein and any other reasonable justification presented by Airline, including the Airline’s reasons for such refusal, that the Airline unreasonably refused usage by such other airline, the CEO may immediately require the Airline to permit the incoming or incumbent airline to use that part of the Airline’s Demised Premises and for those periods of time the City deems feasible, subject to the incoming or incumbent airline executing a mutually acceptable agreement with the Airline, and subject to the CEO’s review and approval of said agreement.
3.04 PAYMENT OF FIXED AND VARIABLE RATES, FEES AND CHARGES

A. Rentals for the Demised Premises and Preferential Use Facilities shall be paid in twelve (12) equal monthly installments, and shall be due and payable, in advance, without notice on or before the first day of the then current month.

B. In addition to the fixed rates, fees, and charges provided herein, Airline shall pay for other common use facilities, equipment, services and maintenance utilized by Airline. Said rates, fees and charges shall be paid monthly, in advance, and adjusted, if necessary, based on such actual costs. Any additional amount due from the Airline or refund owed to the Airline, as the case may be, based on such actual costs, shall be paid by the Airline or credited by the City, as the case may be, to rates, fees and charges. Such services may include, but are not limited to, industrial waste, sewer and water and trash.

3.05 USE OF PREFERENTIAL USE FACILITIES ON CONCOURSES

A. The City hereby grants to the Airline preferential use of certain concourse facilities as designated in Exhibit C and Exhibit D where so indicated. The right of preferential use includes the right of the Airline and its Affiliated Airlines to enplane and deplane passengers and to schedule and use such facilities as defined herein, subject to the conditions set forth herein and in the Airport Rules and Regulations regarding the operation and use of concourses as such reasonable and nondiscriminatory rules and regulations exist or may be promulgated in the future. The right of preferential use is expressly understood to be a non-exclusive right, and the City retains the right to allow other airlines the use of the Airline’s preferential use areas to the extent such other use does not infringe on the Airline’s preferential use as herein defined.

B. Furthermore, it is expressly agreed and understood that the foregoing right of preferential use is not a property right and shall not be assigned, subleased or otherwise alienated or hypothecated in any manner whatsoever by the Airline; except that, in the case of a merger of Airline with another airline or the acquisition of substantially all of Airline’s assets by another airline, Airline’s preferential use shall be transferable to the surviving airline.

C. The Airline’s preferential use and scheduling rights on its passenger holdroom(s), associated passenger loading bridges, gate(s) and Preferential Use Passenger Aircraft Ramp and Apron Areas (collectively, the “Preferential Use Gates”), are subject to the following requirements (“Preferential Use Gate Usage Requirements”):

D. For concourse-level Preferential Use Gates with passenger loading bridges designed for use by turbojet aircraft with more than 95 seats: four (4) departure equivalents (as set forth below) per day, per applicable gate, as averaged over any calendar quarter (i.e., the sum of all departure equivalents at all of Airline’s gates for a calendar quarter, divided by the number of Airline’s gates, divided by the number of total days in such calendar quarter). “Departure equivalents” shall mean and be counted as follows:

1. Aircraft with more than 300 seats count as three departures;
2. Aircraft with more than 200, but less than 301, seats count as two departures;
3. Aircraft with more than 150, but less than 201, seats count as one and one-quarter departures;
4. Aircraft with more than 95, but less than 151, seats count as one departure; and
5. Aircraft with 95 seats or less count as six-tenths of one departure.

E. In the event Airline performs Ground Handling (as defined in Airport Rules and Regulations) for other parties, such activities count as departures for purposes of this gate usage requirement.

F. If Airline fails to meet the minimum Preferential Use Gate Usage Requirements for a calendar quarter, without excuse, the CEO may notify Airline that it is in violation of this Agreement, and may return to the Airport’s unassigned gate inventory, the number of Airline’s concourse-level Preferential Use Gates failing to meet Airline’s Preferential Gate Use Requirements. Airline shall have 10 business days from receipt of such notice to specify which Preferential Use Gates are to be returned; provided, however, that the CEO may select different Preferential Use Gates as may be necessary to create contiguity with other unleased gates.

G. Upon Airline’s request, the CEO in its sole discretion may waive preferential status with corresponding rent reductions to airline-leased space. As long as the space remains in Airline’s leasehold, the Airline may provide the City with 90 days written notice and reclaim such space for Airline’s own use, to sublet to another party for their use, or to perform Ground Handling services for another party on that gate.

H. Airline agrees to abide by reasonable and nondiscriminatory rules and regulations regarding the operation and use of concourses as such rules and regulations exist or may be promulgated in the future in the Airport Rules and Regulations. The City will provide not less than 21 days’ notice to Airline when any rule or regulation affecting Airline is proposed for amendment, and will post amendments when final.

3.06 USE OF PUBLIC AREAS

A. Airline and its employees, agents, passengers and invitees, its suppliers of materials and furnishers of services shall have the non-exclusive right to use, in common with all others, all public areas of the Airport, together with all improvements, facilities and equipment located therein, including, without limitation, the following: passenger transit systems, passenger walkways, public lobbies, public waiting rooms, public stairways, elevators and escalators, public restrooms, public roads and parking lots. Nothing herein shall be deemed to convey to Airline any interest or property rights in such public areas, or to any improvements thereto.
PART IV - PROVISIONS RELATING TO AIRFIELD AREA FACILITIES, PREFERENTIAL USE FACILITIES, DEMISED PREMISES, AND JOINT USE FACILITIES

4.01 MAINTENANCE

A. The City shall provide services and maintenance in the Airfield Area Facilities, Preferential Use Facilities, Demised Premises and Joint Use Facilities as indicated in Exhibit E, attached hereto and made a part hereof, and shall bear the cost thereof in consideration of payment to be made by the Airline pursuant to the provisions hereof.

B. The Airline agrees that it will at all times under its control maintain its Preferential Use Facilities, Demised Premises and Joint Use Facilities in a neat, clean, safe and orderly condition, in compliance with the requirements of 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq., 49 U.S.C. § 41705, and 14 C.F.R. Part 382, and in keeping with the general decor of the area in which they are situated, and that it will perform those maintenance services shown on said Exhibit E to be performed by the Airline.

4.02 AIRLINE ALTERATIONS TO DEMISED PREMISES

A. The Airline may, with prior written approval of the CEO, at its own cost and expense, install in the Demised Premises any fixture or improvement or do or make alterations or do remodeling, germane to the use herein or hereafter granted. Any fixtures, improvements, equipment and other property installed, erected or placed by the Airline in, on or about such Demised Premises shall be deemed to be personal and shall be and remain the property of the Airline, except as otherwise provided herein and the Airline shall have the right at any time during the term hereof to remove any or all of its property, subject to the Airline’s obligation to repair damage, if any, resulting from such removal. All such fixtures, improvements, equipment and other property shall be removed from the said Demised Premises by the expiration or earlier termination of letting and the Demised Premises restored to the condition existing at the time of the letting, reasonable wear and tear excepted, unless the City, acting by and through its CEO, shall have advised the Airline in writing at the time of such installation or not less than sixty (60) days in advance of such expiration or not less than thirty (30) days in advance of such earlier termination, of its willingness to accept title to such fixtures, improvements, equipment and other property in lieu of restoration of the Demised Premises. It is understood and agreed that during such period and until such personal property is removed, the Airline shall pay to the City the full rental applicable to those Demised Premises, as determined by the CEO, which are directly associated with said personal property and which Demised Premises are not usable by others until said personal property is removed.

B. Said improvements, and all alterations thereof and additions thereto, shall in all respects be constructed in accordance with the ordinances and any applicable code or rule and regulation of the City and County of Denver, including the Airport Rules and Regulations governing tenant construction specifications and other non-technical requirements, in accordance with the attached Exhibit G, “Design Standards, Construction Procedures and Environmental Requirements,” which is incorporated herein by reference, in accordance with the requirements of 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq., 49 U.S.C. § 41705, and 14 C.F.R. Part 382, and pursuant to any required building permit to be obtained from the City and according to the customary terms and conditions thereof.
4.03 SUB-LETTING, ASSIGNMENT AND GROUND HANDLING ARRANGEMENTS

A. No interest or rights under this Agreement may be transferred except as provided under this Section 4.03.

B. Airline may sublet, assign or otherwise transfer the Demised Premises, in whole or in part to another airline, or use the Demised Premises for the handling by Airline’s personnel of air transportation operations of other airlines, subject, however, to each of the following conditions:

1. No sub-lease, assignment, ground handling agreement or other transfer shall relieve Airline from primary liability for any of its obligations hereunder, and Airline shall continue to remain primarily liable for the payment of rentals, fees and charges applicable to such premises and facilities hereunder;

2. Airline shall provide written notice to the City and a copy of the proposed sublease, assignment, ground handling agreement or other transfer not less than thirty (30) days prior to the effective date of such arrangement;

3. Any sublease, assignment, ground handling agreement or other transfer shall be subject to the prior written approval of the CEO; and

4. Unless a gate sharing agreement is in place as authorized by the CEO under Airport Rules and Regulations, any authorization by Airline for use of a Preferential Use Gate by another airline shall require such other airline to remit directly to the City a non-preferential use gate fee as established by the Airport Rules and Regulations. All such fees shall be credited in the calculation of rentals, rates, fees and charges.

4.04 RIGHT TO ENTER AND MAKE REPAIRS

A. The City and its authorized officers, employees, agents, contractors, subcontractors and other representatives shall have the right (at such times as may be reasonable under the circumstances and with as little interruption to the Airline’s operations as is reasonably practicable) to enter upon the Demised Premises for the following purposes:

1. To inspect the Demised Premises at reasonable intervals during regular business hours (or at any time in case of emergency) to determine whether the Airline has complied and is complying with the terms and conditions of this Agreement with respect to the Demised Premises.

2. To perform maintenance and make repairs and replacements in any case where the Airline is obligated to do so and has failed after reasonable notice to do so, in which event the Airline shall promptly upon demand reimburse the City for the actual cost thereof, plus a 15% administrative charge.
3. To perform maintenance and make repairs and replacements in any case where the City is obligated to do so, and in any other case where the City, in its reasonable judgment, determines that it is necessary or desirable to do so in order to preserve the structural safety of the Demised Premises or the building in which they are located or to correct any condition likely to cause injuries or damages to persons or property.

4. In the exercise of the City’s police power.

B. No such entry by or on behalf of the City upon such Demised Premises leased to Airline shall cause or constitute a termination of the letting thereof or be deemed to constitute an interference with the possession thereof by the Airline.

4.05 ABANDONMENT OF DEMISED PREMISES

A. If the Airline ceases to occupy and use a material portion of the Demised Premises for a continuous period of six (6) consecutive months or longer, the City, acting by and through the CEO, may consider such portion of the Demised Premises abandoned, and if needed for another use, upon not less than thirty (30) days’ written notice to the Airline, terminate the lease for such portion of the Demised Premises.

4.06 DESTRUCTION OF PREMISES

A. If by reason of any cause Airline’s Demised Premises, or any portion thereof, are damaged or destroyed by fire or other casualty, then:

1. The City, after consultation with Airline, shall forthwith repair, reconstruct and restore the damaged or destroyed portions of the Demised Premises to substantially the same condition, character, utility and value as existed prior to such damage or destruction, unless the City and Airline agree that no such reconstruction is necessary, or that reconstruction to some other condition, character, utility and value is appropriate or desired; and

2. If such Demised Premises are damaged to such an extent that the Demised Premises are untenable, the City, acting by and through the CEO, will make all reasonable efforts to provide substantially equivalent substitute premises and facilities, and such substitute premises and facilities will be made available to Airline consistent with those rentals, fees and charges for the use of the Airport established and modified from time to time by the City in accordance with this Agreement.

3. For portions of the Demised Premises that are untenable, Airline shall receive a pro rata abatement of rentals, fees and charges applicable thereof from the date of such occurrence to the date upon which such portions of the Demised Premises are repaired and restored.
4.07 COMMON USE SYSTEMS

A. Prior to implementation of multiple or common use systems, the City will consult with Airline. Thereafter, upon nine (9) months advance written notice by the City, the Airline agrees that it will make all necessary modifications and improvements to become compatible with the City’s multiple or common use system installations. After the City installs common use systems, all future improvements and any new equipment of the Airline shall be compatible with the City’s multiple or common use system installations. The Airline shall not install any proprietary terminal equipment without the prior written approval of the CEO.

4.08 REASSIGNMENT OF DEMISED PREMISES AND PREFERENTIAL USE FACILITIES

A. After consultation with all affected airlines, in order to maximize the highest and best use of the City’s airline facilities, the City may at its sole discretion, relocate and reassign the Airline’s use and lease of the Demised Premises and Preferential Use Facilities upon sixty (60) days advance written notice. The City will be responsible for reasonable costs related to any such relocations and/or reassignments.

PART V - BAGGAGE SYSTEM

5.01 BAGGAGE SYSTEM LICENSE AND RIGHT OF USE

A. The City hereby agrees to make available for Airline’s use the Baggage System Facilities as illustrated on the attached Exhibit B, and hereby grants to Airline a nonexclusive license to use those portions of the Baggage System Facilities reasonably required for the purpose of loading and unloading baggage, screening bags, and accessing the Baggage System for activities reasonably necessary or convenient in connection with the foregoing. Such license and right of use is conditioned upon and subject to Airline complying with all terms and conditions of this Agreement. The Airline is not granted any leasehold or other property interest by this Agreement except as otherwise set forth herein. The Airline shall have the right to perform its own baggage handling services or to have such services performed by another handling company, provided such person is a person authorized by the CEO and the Airline Baggage Subcommittee to perform baggage services at the Airport.

5.02 COMMON RIGHT OF USE AND ACCESS

A. The Airline’s right of use shall be in common with all other Signatory Airlines, Non-Contracting Users, or others authorized by the City to do so, and is conditioned upon the payment of Baggage System rates, fees, and charges and upon compliance with reasonable and nondiscriminatory terms and conditions upon which the Baggage System is made available for such use, and in accordance with Airport Rules and Regulations.

B. The Airline’s use of and access to the Baggage System shall be conducted so as not to interfere with the safe and efficient operation of the Baggage System by the Operator or the Transportation Security Administration.

C. Airline agrees not to prevent or interfere with the exercise of any right of use or obligation of the City, the Transportation Security Administration, other Signatory Airlines, Non-Contracting Users, or the Operator as provided for in this Agreement or the Operator Agreement.
D. The parties agree that certain baggage belt areas behind ticket counters in the Terminal Building which are part of the Airline’s Demised Premises, if applicable, shall be considered exclusively leased to the Airline for the purpose of passenger operations, but nonetheless those baggage belts are part of the Baggage System for the purpose of Baggage System Operation and Maintenance, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the City’s agreement with the operator.

5.03 CONDITIONS OF USE

A. Airline shall use the Baggage System in accordance with all reasonable and nondiscriminatory Airport Rules and Regulations and in accordance with any applicable reasonable standards of care, procedures, or rules established by the Airline Baggage Subcommittee. The City will provide not less than 30 days’ notice to Airline when any rule or regulation affecting Airline’s use of the Baggage System is proposed, and will post rules and regulations when final.

B. Airline’s use of the Baggage System is conditioned on timely payment of Baggage System fees, rates, and charges in accordance with this Agreement.

C. Airline shall use and shall cause its officers, employees, agents, and contractors to use a commercially reasonable degree of care when using the Baggage System and shall follow all reasonable safety and security rules and instructions set forth herein or established by the City, the Transportation Security Administration, the Operator or the Airline Baggage Subcommittee.

5.04 RESERVATION OF RIGHTS

A. It is expressly agreed and understood that the foregoing right of use for the Baggage System is not a property right and shall not be assigned, subleased or otherwise alienated or hypothecated in any manner whatsoever by the Airline; except that, in the case of a merger of Airline with another airline or the acquisition of substantially all of Airline’s assets by another airline, Airline’s right of use shall be transferable to the surviving airline.

B. The Airline acknowledges and agrees that the Baggage System shall be managed, operated, and maintained for the benefit of the air carriers by the Operator. The Airline’s use of and access to the Baggage System shall be conducted so as not to interfere with the safe and efficient operation of the Baggage System by the Operator.

C. The City may from time to time make alterations to, or reconstruct, or modify the Baggage System installations or design or any portion or portions of them, either temporarily or permanently, provided that reasonably equivalent Baggage System Facilities are made available to the Airline.

5.05 EFFICIENCY-IN-USE AND REASSIGNMENTS

A. The Airline agrees that its use of the Baggage System is in common with others and agrees to allow any other incoming or incumbent airline the opportunity to share use of its assigned portions of the Baggage System. The City retains the right to allow other airlines the use of the Baggage System.
B. After consultation with the Airline Baggage Subcommittee, in order to maximize the highest and best use of the City’s Baggage System Facilities, the CEO may at his or her sole discretion, relocate and reassign the Airline’s use of any Baggage System assigned areas upon 30 days’ advance written notice.

C. The City reserves the right to immediately reassign Baggage System assigned areas as may be necessary in case of emergency, by reason of accident and repairs, security issues, or other happenings beyond the control of the City.

D. The City will reasonably allocate the costs related to any such relocations and/or reassignments after consultation with the Airline Baggage Subcommittee.

E. Should the Airline refuse another airline the opportunity to use the Baggage System or any portions thereof, the CEO, the Airline Baggage Subcommittee, or both, may review the Airline’s usage, and should the CEO or the Airline Baggage Subcommittee reasonably determine the Airline unreasonably refused usage by such other airline, the CEO may immediately require the Airline to permit the incoming or incumbent airline to use the Baggage System.

5.06 PAYMENT OF RATES, FEES AND CHARGES FOR THE USE OF THE BAGGAGE SYSTEM

A. The fees and charges for the Baggage System Operation and Maintenance System shall be as established from time to time in accordance with this Agreement. Fees and charges for the Baggage System shall be paid in twelve (12) equal monthly installments, and shall be due and payable, in advance, without notice on or before the first day of the then current month.

5.07 NON-CONTRACTING USERS

A. Non-contracting Users of the Baggage System will be charged at a 25% premium over the signatory rate charged to Signatory Airlines.

5.08 ASSIGNMENTS AND GROUNDHANDLING ARRANGEMENTS

A. The Airline may assign or otherwise transfer its rights to use the Baggage System only to a handling company (including an airline) that has been approved by the CEO and the Airline Baggage Subcommittee to provide baggage services for the Airline. An airline’s status as a handling company shall not relieve the Airline from its obligations under this Agreement.

5.09 OPERATOR AGREEMENT

A. The City, on behalf of and in coordination with the Airline Baggage Subcommittee, has entered into an Operation and Maintenance Services Agreement (“Operator Agreement”) providing for the operation, maintenance, and management of the Baggage System Facilities. The City may extend the Operator Agreement as necessary, or replace the Operator Agreement from time to time through a competitive selection process, with the participation of the Airline Baggage Subcommittee in the selection of the Operator.

B. The Operator Agreement shall set forth the Operator’s responsibilities with respect to the Baggage System, and shall include the following duties and responsibilities of the Operator:
1. the obligation to operate the Baggage System and to pay all costs incurred in connection therewith;

2. the obligation to keep complete and accurate records of the use of the Baggage System, prepare and submit management reports recording the performance of the Baggage System, and report costs to the City and the Airline Baggage Subcommittee in a timely manner and in a form approved by the City and the Airline Baggage Subcommittee in order that the costs may be fairly allocated among the airlines in accordance with the methodology set forth in Exhibit H or any other reasonable allocation methodology that may be proposed by the Airline Baggage Subcommittee;

3. the obligation to maintain and manage the Baggage System in good, safe, and sanitary operation condition and repair and in accordance with approved operation and maintenance manuals and applicable laws and regulations governing the Baggage System and the Airport promulgated by the City or the Transportation Security Administration;

4. At the request of the City, provide summaries of all interruptions to normal services with an explanation of the cause and duration of any such interruptions, in an approved format and frequency within the limitations of the Baggage System software;

5. the obligation to maintain a parts inventory and provide inventory control and performance reporting, and

6. the obligation to provide indemnification and maintain insurance policies in the manner and kind required by the City.

5.10 MAINTENANCE OF BAGGAGE SYSTEM FACILITIES

A. The Operator shall provide services and maintenance of the Baggage System and Baggage System Facilities as indicated in the Operator Agreement, and the Airline shall pay its pro rata share of such costs pursuant to Exhibit H and the provisions of this Agreement.

B. The Airline agrees that it will at all times keep those portions of the Baggage System that it uses in a neat, clean, safe and orderly condition, and in keeping with the general decor of the area in which they are situated, and that it will perform, or cause to be performed, those maintenance services shown on Exhibit E to be performed by the Airline and be responsible for payment of the maintenance services to be performed by the Operator.

C. The Airline specifically agrees to keep the baggage make-up areas and carousels in the Terminal clean, neat, safe and free of trash and debris.

D. The Airline agrees to pay or reimburse the City for the repair of any damages caused by the misuse or abuse by the Airline, its Affiliated Airlines, or its agents to any portion of the Baggage System. This excludes normal wear and tear.
5.11 ALTERATIONS, REPAIRS, AND IMPROVEMENTS

A. The City agrees that it shall perform or have performed by the Operator or other contractors such capital additions, modifications and improvements as may be reasonably determined necessary by the City after consultation with the Airline Baggage Subcommittee or as may be reasonably requested by the Airline Baggage Subcommittee and approved by the City, with the cost of such improvements to be charged as provided for in Exhibit F of this Agreement governing the calculation of rates and charges. Title to any improvements, parts, components, or items of the Baggage System, whether installed or in use on the Baggage System or held in inventory shall be and shall remain in the City at all times.

5.12 RIGHT TO ENTER AND MAKE REPAIRS

A. The City and the Operator and their authorized officers, employees, agents, contractors, subcontractors, Transportation Security Administration (TSA) employees and other representatives shall have the right (at such times as may be reasonable under the circumstances and with as little interruption to the Airline’s operations as is reasonably practicable) to enter Airline’s Premises or the Baggage System Facilities for the following purposes:

1. To inspect the Baggage System Facilities,
2. To perform maintenance and make repairs and replacements in any case where the City or the Operator is obligated to do so, or where either of them in their reasonable judgment, determine that it is necessary or desirable to do so,
3. To test or maintain the EDS modules and related screening equipment, or any other TSA equipment, and
4. For emergency purposes in the exercise of the City’s police power.

5.13 ABANDONMENT OF BAGGAGE SYSTEM LICENSE AREA

A. If the Airline ceases to occupy and use any assigned portion of the Baggage System for a continuous period of six (6) consecutive months or longer, the City, acting by and through the CEO, may consider such portion of the Baggage System area abandoned, and if needed for another use may, upon not less than thirty (30) days’ written notice to the Airline, terminate the license for such portion of the Baggage System.

5.14 DESTRUCTION OF PREMISES

A. If by reason of any cause the Baggage System, or any portion thereof, is damaged or destroyed by fire or other casualty, then:

1. The City, after consultation with the Signatory Airlines, shall forthwith repair, reconstruct and restore the damaged or destroyed portions of the Baggage System to substantially the same condition, character, utility and value as existed prior to such damage or destruction, unless the City and the Signatory Airlines agree that no such reconstruction is necessary, or that reconstruction to some other condition, character, utility and value is appropriate or desired; and
2. If such Baggage System is damaged to such an extent that the System is unusable, the City, acting by and through the CEO, will make all reasonable efforts to provide substantially equivalent substitute facilities, and such substitute facilities will be made available to Airline consistent with those rentals, fees and charges for the use of the Airport established and modified from time to time by the City in accordance with this Agreement.

PART VI - AFFILIATES

6.01 DESIGNATION OF AFFILIATES.

A. Airline may designate one or more other passenger carriers an “Affiliate” by (i) confirming that each such passenger carrier meets the definition of an Affiliate as defined in this Agreement, (ii) confirming that each such other passenger carrier is flying in or out of the Airport solely for the benefit of Airline, (iii) submitting to City the designation form attached to this Agreement as Exhibit I-1, which includes a copy of the Affiliate’s executed Affiliate Operating Agreement.

B. The designation of an Affiliate shall become effective on the first day of the calendar month following at least fifteen (15) days from receipt by City of the designation in the form of Exhibit I-1. The designation shall remain in effect for so long as the conditions for designating the Affiliate continue to be met or until Airline withdraws its designation of the Affiliate by submitting to City the withdrawal of designation form attached to this Agreement as Exhibit I-2. A withdrawal of designation of an Affiliate shall become effective on the last day of the calendar month following at least fifteen (15) days from receipt by City of the withdrawal of designation in the form of Exhibit I-2.

C. If Airline designates one or more other passenger carriers as its Affiliate, Airline shall be responsible for the actions and obligations of each of its Affiliates, including without implied limitation the obligation to pay all charges owed to City on account of Affiliate activities at the Airport and the duty to provide information, insurance and indemnification. Airline will be responsible for ensuring that each of its Affiliates complies with all terms and conditions of this Agreement to the same extent that Airline is responsible for compliance, including without implied limitation compliance with the environmental provisions of this Agreement. Airline shall be the financial guarantor of all amounts owed to City by each of Airline’s Affiliate.

D. More than one Signatory Airline may from time to time designate the same passenger carrier as its Affiliate, and each such Signatory Airline shall only be responsible for such passenger carrier’s operations when such passenger carrier operates as such Signatory Airline’s Affiliate.
7.01 AGREEMENTS WITH THE UNITED STATES

A. This agreement is subject and subordinate to the provisions of any agreements between the City and the United States relative to the operation or maintenance of the Airport, the execution of which has been or may be required as a condition precedent to the transfer of federal rights or property to the City for airport purposes, or to the expenditure of federal funds for the extension, expansion or development of the Airport, including the expenditure of federal funds for the development of the Airport in accordance with the provisions of the Airport and Airway Improvement Act of 1982, as amended. The provisions in the attached Appendices 1 and 2 are hereby incorporated herein by reference.

7.02 BOND ORDINANCES

A. This Agreement is in all respects subject and subordinate to any and all City bond ordinances applicable to the Airport and airport system and to any other bond ordinances which should amend, supplement or replace such bond ordinances.

B. The parties to this Agreement acknowledge and agree that all property subject to this Agreement which was financed by the net proceeds of tax-exempt bonds is owned by the City, and Airline agrees not to take any action that would impair, or omit to take any action required to confirm, the treatment of such property as owned by the City for purposes of Section 142(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended. In particular, the Airline agrees to make, and hereby makes, an irrevocable election (binding on itself and all successors in interest under this Agreement) not to claim depreciation or an investment credit with respect to any property subject to this Agreement which was financed by the net proceeds of tax-exempt bonds and shall execute such forms and take such other action as the City may request in order to implement such election.

7.03 LAWS, REGULATIONS, AND AGREEMENTS TO BE OBSERVED

A. The Airline shall not use, or authorize the use by any other person or party, of all or any portion of the Demised Premises, or any part of the Airport to which it is granted a right of use or occupancy by this Agreement, for any purpose or use other than those authorized by this Agreement, or hereafter authorized in writing by the CEO. No use shall be considered authorized by this Agreement if such use would adversely affect the tax-exempt status of Airport Revenue Bonds.

B. The Airline shall comply with and shall cause its officers and employees and any other persons over whom it has control to comply with the Airport Rules and Regulations.

C. The Airline shall, at all times, faithfully obey and comply with all existing laws, rules and regulations adopted by federal, state, local or other governmental bodies and applicable to or affecting the Airline and its operations and activities in and at the Airport, including 49 U.S.C. § 41705 (the Air Carrier Access Act) and implementing regulations at 14 C.F.R., Part 382, and 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq. (the Americans with Disabilities Act) and implementing regulations.
D. It is agreed that any disputes regarding laws, ordinances, rules and regulations regarding the Airport issued by the City shall first be presented to administrative hearing before the CEO or the CEO’s authorized representative following the procedure outlined in Denver Revised Municipal Code Section 5-17. It is further agreed that no action shall be brought against the City contesting any such laws, ordinances, rules and regulations until there has been full compliance with the terms of said Section 5-17. Nothing herein shall be construed to prevent Airline from contesting in good faith any laws, ordinances, rules or regulations without being considered in breach hereof during such time as is required to exhaust the administrative hearing procedures, so long as such contest is diligently commenced and prosecuted by Airline.

PART VIII - RATE-MAKING PROCEDURES AND REESTABLISHMENT

8.01 GENERAL PROVISIONS

A. The City agrees that it will establish and fix airline rentals, rates, fees and charges in accordance with the cost- accounting concepts and rate-making procedures described in attached Exhibit F. Further, the City agrees that said rentals, rates, fees and charges shall be reasonable in relation to the cost of providing, operating and maintaining the services or facilities used or leased by the Airline. The City acknowledges its obligations to charge air carriers nondiscriminatory and substantially comparable rates, fees, rentals and other charges, subject to reasonable classification such as tenant and non-tenant, Signatory and non-Signatory (as such is defined herein). The City agrees that it will not enter into an Airport Use and Facilities Lease Agreement with another air carrier which is substantially more favorable, unless the same rights, terms, and privileges are offered to the Airline.

B. Airline acknowledges that the rate base for rentals, fees and charges must generate gross revenues, which together with Other Available Funds (as defined in the General Bond Ordinance) must be sufficient to satisfy the Rate Maintenance Covenant of the General Bond Ordinance, and Airline agrees to pay such rentals, rates, fees and charges.

C. The City, acting by and through its CEO, may from time to time reestablish the rentals, rates, fees and other charges for the use of Airport in accordance with the concepts and rate-making procedures provided for herein.

D. The City, acting by and through its CEO, may from time to time, amend the rate-making concepts and procedures set forth in this Agreement with the written consent of a majority of the Signatory Airlines not in default of the Agreement, represented by: (1) a numerical majority; and (2) a majority in terms of rentals, rates, fees and charges paid in the preceding fiscal year.

8.02 NON-AIRLINE REVENUE

A. In order to minimize the rentals, rates, fees and charges which Airline is obligated to pay under this Agreement, the City shall promote and develop non-airline revenues at the Airport in a manner consistent with that of a reasonably prudent airport operator.
8.03 PROJECTION OF RENTALS, RATES, FEES AND CHARGES

A. Not later than forty-five (45) days prior to the end of each Fiscal Year during the term of this Agreement, City shall furnish Airline with a projection of the rentals, rates, fees and charges for the next ensuing year for each cost center of Airport. Such projection will include the Airport proposed expense budget, and projection of aircraft operations, passenger enplanements, and debt service payments for the ensuing year. The City shall convene a meeting with the Signatory Airlines operating at the Airport not later than thirty (30) days prior to the end of each Fiscal Year to consult and review with the Signatory Airlines the projection of rentals, fees and charges for the next ensuing year.

8.04 MID-YEAR REVIEW OF RENTALS, RATES, FEES AND CHARGES

A. Not later than September 1st of each year, the City shall furnish the Airline with a projection of rentals, rates, fees and charges (the Mid-Year Projection), which shall reflect the most recently available information on current aircraft operations and passengers enplaned as well as expenses actually incurred and revenues realized thus far during such fiscal year. The City shall provide a pro forma projection of revenues and expenses for the current fiscal year. The City shall convene a meeting with the Signatory Airlines operating at the Airport to consult and review the Mid-Year Projection and any adjustment to the monthly rentals, rates, fees and charges for such fiscal year.

8.05 FINAL AUDIT

A. Upon release by the City’s independent auditors of the audited financial statements of Airport, the City shall furnish Airline with a copy of the annual audit report, prepared in accordance with Generally Accepted Accounting Principles and certified by an independent accountant, covering the operation of the Airport for such preceding fiscal year. As soon as practical following the release of the annual audit report, the City will prepare an analysis of additional charges or credit due (Year-End Settlement) along with the Airline Revenue Credit calculation to Airline for the preceding audited fiscal year. If the rentals, fees and charges paid by Airline were greater than the respective amounts chargeable to Airline, Airline shall receive credits promptly in the amount of such overpayment against future rentals, fees and charges. If the rentals, fees and charges paid by Airline were less than the respective amounts chargeable to Airline, Airline shall pay promptly the amount of any such deficiency.

8.06 PASSENGER FACILITY CHARGES

A. “Passenger Facility Charges” or “PFCs” are charges collected by the Airline pursuant to the authority granted by the Aviation Safety and Capacity Expansion Act of 1990, 49 U.S.C. Section 40117, and 14 CFR Part 158, as amended. Airline acknowledges that PFCs are funds held for the benefit of the City. Airline further acknowledges that PFCs are not property of the Airline under any of the circumstances described in paragraph 9.02.A.4 herein. Airline agrees that under the circumstances described in paragraph 9.02.A.4 herein, Airline will immediately establish a fund and segregate PFC funds collected as required by 49 U.S.C. Section 40117(m)(1).

B. Airline shall abide by the remittance, reporting and recordkeeping requirements of PFCs as outlined in 14 CFR Part 158 and referenced in Airport Rules and Regulations, and the Airport shall abide by the public agency requirements outlined in 14 CFR Part 158.
PART IX - TERM OF THE AGREEMENT

9.01 TERM OF AGREEMENT

A. The term of this Agreement shall commence on January 1, 2021 and shall terminate on December 31, 2021, unless this Agreement is earlier cancelled, terminated, or extended as hereinafter provided. The term of this Agreement may be extended at its current terms and conditions for two additional one-year periods, but in no event shall the term be extended beyond December 31, 2023. These extensions, if exercised by the Airport, shall be exercised by providing written notice to the Airline on or before November 30 of the preceding year.

9.02 TERMINATION OF LEASE BY CITY

A. The City, acting by and through its CEO, may declare this Agreement terminated in part or in its entirety, as the CEO deems appropriate, upon the happening of any one or more of the following events and may exercise all rights of entry and reentry with or without process of law, without liability for trespass upon the Preferential Use Facilities and Demised Premises:

1. If the rentals, rates, fees, charges or other money payment which the Airline herein agrees to pay, or any part thereof, shall be unpaid after the date the same shall become due; or

2. If the Airline shall use or permit the use of the Preferential Use Facilities and Demised Premises covered hereby at any time for any purpose for which the use thereof at that time is not authorized by this Agreement or by the subsequent written consent of the CEO, or shall use or permit the use thereof in violation of any law, rule or regulation to which the Airline has agreed in this Agreement to conform; or

3. If Airline shall be in violation of any provision of Section 4.03 with respect to the subletting of the Demised Premises hereunder; or

4. If, during the term of this Agreement, the Airline shall (a) apply for or consent to, in writing signed on behalf of the Airline by any of its officers or its duly authorized attorney, the appointment of a receiver, trustee or liquidator of the Airline or of all or a substantial part of its assets, (b) file a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, or admit in writing its inability to pay its debts as they come due, (c) make a general transfer for the benefit of creditors, (d) file a petition or an answer seeking reorganization or arrangement with creditors or to take advantage of an insolvency law, or (e) file an answer admitting the material allegations of a petition filed against the Airline in any bankruptcy, reorganization or insolvency proceeding, or if during the term of this Agreement an order, judgment or decree shall be entered by any court of competent jurisdiction, on the application of a creditor, adjudicating the Airline as bankrupt or as insolvent, or approving a petition seeking a reorganization of Airline or of all or a substantial part of its assets, and such order, judgment, or decree shall continue unstayed and in effect for any period of ninety (90) consecutive days, then, and in any of such events, the City may give to the Airline a notice of intention to end the term of this Agreement in its entirety after the expiration of thirty (30) days from the date of service of such notice, and on the date set forth in said notice the term of this Agreement and all right, title and interest of Airline hereunder shall expire as fully and completely as if that day were the date herein specifically fixed for the expiration of the term, and the Airline will then voluntarily and peaceably quit and surrender the Preferential Use Facilities and Demised Premises covered hereby to the City, but the Airline shall remain liable as herein provided; or

6. If any of Airline’s directors or officers assigned to or responsible for operations at the Airport shall be or have been convicted of any crime which is a disqualifying offense under 49 CFR 1544 governing issuance of airport security badges.

9.03 TERMINATION OF LEASE BY AIRLINE

A. The Airline, at its option, may declare this Agreement terminated in part or in its entirety upon the happening of any one or more of the following events:

1. If by any reason of any action or non-action of any federal or other governmental agency having jurisdiction to grant a certificate of convenience and necessity, or similar document, authorizing the Airline to operate aircraft in or out of the Airport (including action in the nature of alteration, amendment, modification, suspension, cancellation or revocation of any such certificate, permit or document), the Airline shall cease to have authority to operate aircraft in and out of the Airport pursuant to such a certificate or document, provided that (1) such governmental action or non-action was not requested by the Airline, and the Airline made all reasonable efforts to prevent such governmental action or non-action, or in the alternate, (2) the City had a reasonable opportunity to appear before such federal or governmental agency and be heard in opposition to such governmental action or non-action prior to the occurrence, if it desired to do so or, in the alternate, (3) the Airline gave the City reasonable advance notice that such governmental action or non-action was being requested or might occur, and the Airline made a reasonable effort to the end that the City might have an opportunity to appear and be heard as aforesaid; or

2. If by legislative action of the United States the Airline is deprived of such certificate of similar document; or

3. If a court of competent jurisdiction issues an injunction or restraining order against the City or any successor body to the City preventing or restraining the Airport for airport purposes in its entirety, or the use of any part thereof which may be used by the Airline and which is substantially necessary to the Airline for its operations, and if such injunction remains in force for a period of ninety (90) days or more and is not stayed by appeal or a writ of error; or
4. If the City’s operation of Airport is substantially restricted by action of any federal or other governmental agency having jurisdiction with respect thereto, or the occurrence of any fire or other casualty substantially and adversely affects, for a period of at least ninety (90) days, Airline’s use of Airport in the conduct of its air transportation business; provided, however, none of the foregoing is due primarily to any fault of Airline.

9.04 EFFECTIVE DATE OF TERMINATION

A. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, no termination declared by either party shall be effective until not less than thirty (30) days have elapsed after written notice to the other specifying the date upon which such termination shall take effect and the cause for which it is being terminated (and if such termination is by reason of a default under this Agreement for which termination is authorized, specifying such default with reasonable certainty). No such termination shall be effective if such cause shall have been cured or obviated during such thirty (30) day period, or in the event such cause is a default under this Agreement (for which termination is authorized) and if by its nature such default cannot be cured within such thirty (30) day period, such termination shall not be effective if the party in default commences to correct such default within said thirty (30) days and corrects the same as promptly as reasonably practicable; provided that the thirty (30) day period shall not apply to termination declared for failure of Airline to make money payments hereunder, for which termination may be declared by the City upon fifteen (15) days’ written notice, unless Airline remedies such default within such fifteen (15) day period; and provided further that the Airline will be allowed only two (2) notices of default with respect to money payments in any one year which it may cure. Upon termination of this Agreement, the parties hereto shall be relieved from all obligations hereunder except as set forth in Sections 8.05, 9.05, 9.06, 10.02, 12.08, 12.14, and 12.15. The right of any party hereto to terminate this Agreement shall not in any manner affect or limit such party’s right to exercise any other right or remedy it may have rather than its right of termination.

9.05 SURRENDER AND HOLDING OVER

A. The Airline covenants that at the expiration of the period for which the Demised Premises are leased to it, or at the earlier termination of the letting thereof, it will quit and surrender such Demised Premises in good state and condition, reasonable wear and tear, acts of God or other casualty and damage due to the negligent or willful act or omission of the City excepted, and except as otherwise provided in Section 4.02, the Airline shall forthwith remove therefrom all equipment, trade fixtures and personal property belonging to it. The City shall have the right on such termination to enter upon and take possession of such Demised Premises with or without process of law, without liability for trespass.

B. Holding over by Airline following the expiration of the term of this Agreement or any extension thereof, without an express agreement as to such holding over, shall be deemed and taken to be a periodic tenancy from month-to-month. The Airline shall be subject to all the terms and conditions of this Agreement as amended from time to time or any extension thereof. Rent, fees and charges for each month of such holding over shall be paid as provided herein and in a sum equal to the monthly rental required for the month prior to the end of the term of this Agreement or as reestablished as provided for herein. In the event Airline fails to surrender the Preferential Use Facilities and Demised Premises upon termination or expiration of this Agreement, or such month-to-month tenancy, then Airline shall indemnify City against loss or liability resulting from any delay of Airline in not surrendering same.

9.06 TERMINATION OF HOLDOVER

A. If Airline holds over pursuant to Section 9.05 hereof, either party may, with or without cause, cancel or terminate said tenancy by giving not less than thirty (30) days written notice to the other party. Said notice shall set out the date of such cancellation and termination.

PART X - PERFORMANCE BOND, INDEMNIFICATION AND INSURANCE

10.01 PERFORMANCE BOND

A. Unless otherwise provided by Airport Rules and Regulations, as they may be adopted or amended from time to time, upon the commencement of the term of this Agreement, the Airline shall deliver to the CEO for the City and County of Denver, and shall maintain in effect at all times during the term of this Agreement, including a period of six (6) months after expiration (or earlier termination of the letting of the Demised Premises hereunder) of said Agreement, a valid corporate Performance Bond, or an irrevocable Letter of Credit, in the amount of Three Million Dollars ($3,000,000.00), or an amount equal to three (3) months of rent, rates, fees or charges payable hereunder, whichever is less, payable without condition to the City and County of Denver, with surety acceptable to and approved by the City’s CEO, which bond or irrevocable letter of credit shall guarantee to the City full and faithful performance of all of the terms and provisions of this Agreement to be performed by the Airline, and as said Agreement may be amended, supplemented or extended.

B. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if at any time during the term hereof, the CEO deems the amount of the surety insufficient to properly protect the City from loss hereunder because the Airline is or has been in arrears with respect to such obligations or because the Airline has, in the opinion of the CEO, violated other terms of this Agreement, the Airline agrees that it will, after receipt of notice, increase the surety to an amount required by the CEO; provided however, the percentage increase in the amount of surety shall not exceed the annual percentage increase that has occurred with respect to the Airline’s rental and fee rates in effect under this Agreement.

10.02 INDEMNIFICATION

A. The Airline agrees to indemnify and save harmless the City, its officers, and employees, from and against (A) any and all loss of or damage to property, or injuries to, or death of, any person or persons, including property and officers, employees and agents of the City; and (B) all claims, damages, suits, costs, expense, penalties, liability, actions or proceedings of any kind or nature whatsoever, of or by anyone whosoever; which, with respect to clauses (A) and (B) hereof, in any way result from, or arise out of, Airline’s operations in connection herewith, or its use or occupancy of any portion of the Airport and the acts, omissions, or wrongful conduct of officers, employees, agents, contractors or subcontractors of the Airline including without limitation, the provision or failure to provide security as herein required and the use, disposal, generation, transportation or release of pollutants, including but not limited to oil, glycol, toxic or hazardous materials at Denver International Airport by the Airline, its contractors, employees, agents, customers, or anyone claiming or acting by or through the Airline.

B. Airline further agrees that if a prohibited incursion into the Air Operations Area occurs, or the safety or security of the Air Operations Area, the Airfield, the Baggage System or other sterile area safety or security area is breached by or due to the negligence or willful act or omission of any of Airline’s employees, agents, or contractors and such incursion or breach results in a civil penalty action being brought against the City by the U.S. Government, Airline agrees to reimburse the City for all expenses, including attorney fees, incurred by the City in defending against the civil penalty action and for any civil penalty or settlement amount paid by the City as a result of such incursion or breach of airfield or sterile area security. The City shall notify Airline of any allegation, investigation, or proposed or actual civil penalty sought by the U.S. Government for such incursion or breach. Civil penalties and settlement and associated expenses reimbursable under this Paragraph include but are not limited to those paid or incurred as a result of violation of Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) regulations or TSA regulations, as they may be amended, or any similar law or regulations intended to replace or compliment such regulations.

C. Without limitation, the terms of this indemnity include an agreement by Airline to indemnify, defend and hold harmless the City from and against any and all expense, loss, claim, damage, or liability suffered by City by reason of Airline’s breach of any environmental requirement existing under federal, state or local law, regulation, order or other legal requirement in connection with any of Airline’s acts, omissions, operations or uses of property relating to this Agreement, or such a breach by the act or omission of any of Airline’s officers, employees, agents, or invitees, whether direct or indirect, or foreseen or unforeseen, including (but not limited to) all cleanup and remedial costs actually and reasonably incurred to satisfy any applicable remediation obligation required by federal, state or local law, and reasonable legal fees and costs incurred by City in connection with enforcement of this provision, but excluding damages solely relating to diminution in value of City real property.

D. Provided however, the City agrees that (I) the Airline need not save harmless or indemnify the City against damage to or loss of property, or injury to or death of persons, caused by the negligence or willful acts of the City, its officers, employees, contractors and agents, and (II) the City will give prompt written notice to the Airline of any claim or suit and the Airline shall have the right to assume the defense and compromise or settle the same to the extent of its own interest. Provided, however, the indemnity provided for herein shall apply only to the extent the City is not reimbursed out of insurance proceeds.

10.03 INSURANCE MAINTAINED BY AIRLINE

A. At all time during the term of this Agreement, unless otherwise required by federal or state governmental law or regulation, the Airline is required and agrees, at its own cost and expense, to provide and keep in force for the benefit of the Airline and the City, a policy, or policies, of insurance written on a single limit each occurrence basis with limits of not less than Three Hundred Million Dollars ($300,000,000.00) for bodily injury and property damage arising from any operation of the Airline at the Airport and contractual liability coverage. The CEO may increase the limit of insurance required when, in her discretion, she deems the amount stated herein is insufficient. The CEO may establish lesser amounts of insurance for airlines operating exclusively with aircraft of thirty (30) seats or less.
B. Such insurance policy, or policies, and certificates of insurance evidencing the existence thereof shall cover all operations of the Airline at the Airport, shall be in a form and written by a company, or companies, approved by the Airport’s Risk Manager and shall insure the Airline’s agreement to indemnify the City as set forth in the indemnification provisions hereof. The amount of insurance required hereunder shall in no way limit the liability of the Airline as provided in Section 10.02 of this Agreement. The City shall not be named insured of said insurance. Each such policy and certificate shall contain a special endorsement stating “This policy will not be materially changed or altered or canceled without first giving thirty (30) days written notice by certified mail, return receipt requested, to the CEO, Denver International Airport, AOB-9th Floor, 8500 Peña Boulevard, Denver, Colorado 80249-6340.” All such policies of insurance, or certified copies thereof, together with receipts showing payment of premiums thereon, shall be made available for review by the City at such times and places as required by the Airport’s Risk Manager. Certificates of insurance evidencing the existence of said policies shall be delivered to and left in the possession of the Airport’s Risk Manager.

10.04 LIENS

A. Except to the extent inconsistent with other provisions of this Agreement, the Airline covenants and agrees to pay promptly all lawful taxes, excises, license fees and permit fees applicable to its operations at the Airport and to take out and keep current all licenses, municipal, state or federal, required for the conduct of its business at and upon said Airport, and further agrees not to permit any of said taxes, excises or license fees to become delinquent. The Airline further covenants and agrees at all times to maintain adequate Worker’s Compensation Insurance in accordance with any present or future Colorado law with an authorized insurance company, or through the Colorado State Compensation Insurance Fund, or through an authorized self-insurance plan approved by the State of Colorado insuring the payment of compensation to all its employees at the Airport. The Airline also covenants and agrees not to permit any mechanic’s or materialman’s or any other lien to be foreclosed upon the Airport and improvements thereto or thereon, or any part or parcel thereof, by reason of any work or labor performed or materials furnished at the request of the Airline by any mechanic or materialman. The Airline further covenants and agrees to pay promptly when due all bills, debts and obligations incurred by it in connection with its operation of said business on the Airport, and not to permit the same to become delinquent and to suffer no lien, mortgage, judgment or execution to be filed against said premises or improvements thereon which will in any way impair the rights of the City under this Agreement. The Airline shall have the right on giving the City prior written notice to contest any such mechanic’s, materialman’s or any other lien, and the Airline shall not, pending the termination of such contest, be obligated to pay, remove or otherwise discharge such lien or claim. The Airline agrees to indemnify and save harmless the City from any loss as a result of the Airline’s action as aforesaid.
B. If the Airline shall in good faith proceed to contest any such tax, assessment or other public charge, or the validity thereof, by proper legal proceedings which shall operate to prevent the collection thereof or to prevent the appointment of a receiver because of nonpayment of any such taxes, assessments or other public charges, the Airline shall not be required to pay, discharge or remove any such tax, assessment or other public charge so long as such proceeding is pending and undisposed of; provided, however, that the Airline, not less than five (5) days before any such tax, assessment or charge shall become delinquent, shall give notice to the City of the Airline’s intention to contest its validity. If such notice is so given by the Airline to the City and such contest is conducted in good faith by the Airline, the City shall not, pending the termination of such legal proceedings, pay, remove or discharge such tax, assessment or other charge.

10.05 LOSS OR DAMAGE TO PROPERTY

A. The City shall not be liable for any loss of property by theft or burglary from the airport or for any damage to person or property on said Airport resulting from airport operations including but not limited to operating the elevators or electric lighting, or wind, water, rain or snow, which may come into or issue or flow from any part of said Airport, or from the pipes, plumbing, wiring, gas or sprinklers thereof or that may be caused by the City’s employees or any other cause whatsoever, and the Airline hereby covenants and agrees to make no claim for any such loss or damage at any time.

10.06 FORCE MAJEURE

A. Neither the City nor the Airline shall be deemed to be in breach of this Agreement by reason of failure to perform any of its obligations under this Agreement if, while and to the extent that such failure is due to embargoes, shortages of materials, acts of God, acts of the public enemy, acts of superior governmental authority, sabotage, strikes, boycotts, labor disputes, weather conditions, riots, rebellion and any circumstances for which it is not responsible and which are not within its reasonable control. This provision shall not apply to failures by the Airline to pay rents, fees or other charges, or to make any other money payment whatsoever required by this Agreement, except in those cases where provision is made in this Agreement for the abatement of such rents, fees, charges or payments under such circumstances.

10.07 INSURANCE MAINTAINED BY THE CITY

A. Miscellaneous Insurance. The City shall at all times carry with a responsible insurance company or companies authorized and qualified under the laws of the State to assume the risk thereof:

1. Fire and Extended Coverage Insurance. From and after the time when any contractors engaged in connection with the Airport, or any part thereof, shall cease to be responsible pursuant to the provisions of their respective contracts for loss or damage thereto occurring from any cause, the City shall insure and at all times keep the Airport insured to the extent possible with a responsible insurance company, companies or carriers authorized and qualified under the laws of the State of Colorado assume the risk thereof against direct physical damage or loss from fire and so-called extended coverage perils in an amount not less than 80% of the replacement value of the Facilities so insured, less depreciation; but such amount of insurance shall at all times be sufficient to comply with any legal or contractual requirement which, if breached, would result in assumption by the City of a portion of any loss or damage as co-insurer; and also if at any time the City shall be unable to obtain such insurance to the extent above required at reasonable cost as determined by the CEO, the City shall maintain such insurance to the extent reasonably obtainable. Insurance against any other risks or type of loss as are or shall be customarily covered may be obtained, under a standard “all risk policy” with extended coverage for public property, or otherwise, including, without limitation, insurance against loss or damage to the Airport by flood or other waters, elements of weather, explosion of any nature, earthquake, and volcanic eruption (or any combination thereof), when, if, and to the extent any such insurance can be procured at reasonable rates in the sole opinion of the CEO.

2. Loss of Use Insurance. To the extent not provided for in leases and other agreements between the City and others relating to the Airport, insurance covering loss of revenues from Airport facilities by reason of necessary interruption, total or partial, in the use thereof, resulting from damage thereto or destruction thereof, however caused, in such amount as is estimated to be sufficient to provide a full normal income during the period of suspension; but

   a. Such insurance shall cover a period of suspension of the period of reconstruction as estimated by the Airport Engineer, but not less than twelve months;

   b. Such insurance may exclude losses sustained by the City during the first seven days of any total or partial interruption of use; and

   c. If at any time the City shall be unable to obtain such insurance to the extent above required, it shall carry such insurance to the extent reasonably obtainable at reasonable rates in the sole option of the CEO.

B. In any calculation of the full normal income for such insurance, consideration shall be given to the expected, as well as current and prior, revenues from such Airport facilities, or from other sources, and may also make allowances for any probable decrease in the operation and maintenance expenses or any other charges and expenses while use is interrupted. Any proceeds of such insurance shall be deposited to the credit of the Revenue Fund and shall be subject to the uses of and shall be applied as provided for moneys in the Revenue Fund.

C. Liability Insurance. Insurance in the form and amount recommended by the CEO and reasonably sufficient to insure against liability to any individual sustaining bodily injury or any person sustaining property damage or the death of any individual by reason of any defect or want of repair in or about the Airport, or by reason of the negligence of any employees, and against such other liability for individuals, including workmen’s compensation insurance, to the extent attributed to ownership and operation of the Airport, and damage to property of persons; but in the case of the company or companies insuring the Airport under a general liability policy against loss from bodily injury or property damage, or both, the total liability of such company or companies for all damages because of all bodily injury and all property damage arising out of continuous or repeated exposure to substantially the same general conditions to which the policy applies as the result of any one occurrence, subject to such exclusions generally made to such a policy, shall be not less than $75,000,000.00 under a single limit of liability endorsement or other like provision of the policy, regardless of the number of:
1. Insureds under the policy,
2. Individuals who sustain bodily injury or persons who sustain property damage,
3. Claims made or suits brought on account of bodily injury or property damage, or
4. Occurrences.

D. Maintenance of Policies. All such insurance policies designated in Subparagraphs (A) and (B) hereof shall be filed with the CEO and shall be subject to inspection at all reasonable times by Airline. If the CEO determines that certain insurance required in Subparagraphs (A) and (B) hereof cannot be obtained to the extent therein required at reasonable rates, the CEO shall prepare a written memorandum to that effect, designating each such type of insurance in question and stating in each such case that the insurance was not obtainable or that designated insurance was required in substitution for the required insurance, the reason or reasons for its substitution, and when and to the extent that the substituted insurance was procured at reasonable rates, as the case may be. Each such memorandum shall be filed with the policies on file with the CEO and shall also be subject to such inspection.

PART XI - QUIET ENJOYMENT; INCONVENIENCE DURING CONSTRUCTION

11.01 COVENANT OF QUIET ENJOYMENT

A. Upon the payment by Airline of all rentals, rates, fees and charges properly assessed to Airline and the performance of the covenants and agreements on the part of Airline to be performed hereunder, Airline shall peacefully have and enjoy the premises, appurtenances, facilities, licenses and privileges granted herein; provided, however, it is recognized that certain temporary inconveniences may occur during construction.

11.02 INCONVENIENCE DURING CONSTRUCTION

A. The Airline recognizes that from time to time during the term of this Agreement it will be necessary for the City to initiate and carry forward extensive programs of construction, reconstruction, expansion, relocation, maintenance and repair in order that the Airport and its facilities may be suitable for the volume and character of air traffic and flight activity which will require accommodation, and that such construction, reconstruction, expansion, relocation, maintenance and repair may inconvenience the Airline in its operations at the Airport. The City shall consult with Airline prior to taking any such action which would adversely affect the Airline’s operations at the Airport unless such action is necessitated by circumstances which in the opinion of the CEO pose an immediate threat to the health and safety of persons using the Airport. The Airline agrees that no liability shall attach to the City, its officers, agents, employees, contractors, subcontractors and representatives by reason of minor inconvenience or minor discomfort as a result of such action and, for and in further consideration of the lease of the Demised Premises, the Airline waives any right to claim damages or other consideration for such minor inconvenience of minor discomfort.
12.01 LEASE BINDING

A. This Agreement shall be binding on and extend to any successors of the respective parties hereto.

12.02 PARAGRAPH HEADINGS AND INDEX

A. The paragraph or Section headings and index or table of contents contained herein are for convenience and reference only and are not intended to define or limit the scope of any provision of this Agreement.

12.03 SIGNS

A. The Airline agrees that no signs or advertising displays shall be painted on or erected in any manner upon its Demised Premises without the prior written approval of the CEO or the CEO’s authorized representative; and that signs identifying the Airline, or for any other purpose, will conform to reasonable standards established by the CEO, or the CEO’s authorized representative, with respect to type, size, design, location, and content. The initial Airline directional signage package (roadway, Terminal, Concourse and directory) is provided by the City. All subsequent revisions and installations are at Airline’s expense unless required pursuant to paragraph 4.08 herein.

12.04 VENDING MACHINES

A. No telecommunication devices, personal computers, amusement or vending machines or similar machines operated by coins or tokens, credit cards, paper currency, or any imaging or voice process, and no cash machines or pay telephones shall be installed or maintained in or upon the Airline’s Demised Premises except with the permission of the Airline and the CEO and the number, type, kind and locations thereof shall be in the discretion of the CEO and the Airline. This prohibition includes, but not by way of limitation, sales from vending machines of such items as cigarettes, candy, maps, coffee, soft drinks, newspapers, stamps and insurance policies; telephones; dispensation of cash, money orders and checks; and operation of mechanical or electronic game devices, electronic video games, entertainment devices, phone cards and internet access. The Airline shall not permit the installation of any such machines, except by a concessionaire authorized by the CEO and subject to and in accordance with the concessionaire’s agreement with the City. If and when the Airline permits the installation of vending machines in its Demised Premises, the Airline shall make no charge to the concessionaire for the privilege of installing or maintaining such machines, except that if the Airline provides the electric current or water to the concessionaire a reasonable charge may be made to cover the cost of the electricity and water consumed, and all fees paid by the concessionaire for the privilege shall be the property of the City.
12.05 SALE OF FOOD, BEVERAGES AND MERCHANDISE

A. The Airline shall not sell, or permit the sale of food, food products, beverages (both alcoholic and non-alcoholic) or merchandise upon the Preferential Use Facilities and Demised Premises occupied by it except by a concessionaire to whom the City has granted the right to provide such services in said Preferential Use Facilities and Demised Premises and except that, with respect to its Demised Premises, Airline may sell, or permit the sale of, such items on its own behalf or by a concessionaire selected by Airline. Airline agrees to pay the same fees and charges that would be applicable to an Airport concessionaire with respect to the sale of such products.

12.06 PURCHASES BY AIRLINE

A. Property, services and materials (except as otherwise provided in this Lease) may be purchased or otherwise obtained by the Airline from any person or corporation of its choice and no unjust or unreasonable discriminatory limitations, restrictions, charges or conditions shall be imposed by the City, directly or indirectly, against the Airline or its suppliers for the privilege of purchasing, selling, using, storing, withdrawing, handling, consuming, loading, unloading, or delivering any personal property of the Airline, by the Airline or its suppliers, or for the privilege of transporting such personal property to, from or on the Airport.

12.07 NON-DISCRIMINATION

A. The Airline, for itself, its successors and assigns, as a part of the consideration hereof does hereby agree as follows:

1. As more fully set forth in Appendix 1 attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference, if facilities are constructed, maintained or otherwise operated on the Demised Premises for purposes in which federal financial assistance is extended under a Department of Transportation program or activity, or for another purpose involving the provision of a similar service or benefit, the Airline shall maintain and operate such facilities and services in compliance with all requirements of 49 C.F.R. Part 21, Nondiscrimination in Federally Assisted Programs of the Department of Transportation—Effectuation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and as said regulations may be amended.

2. The Airline will in all of its operations and activities in and at the Airport comply with all requirements of the Air Carrier Access Act, 49 U.S.C. § 41705, and regulations implementing such Act at 14 C.F.R. 1. Purpose.

The purpose of the Plan is to advance the interests of the Company’s stockholders by enhancing the Company’s ability to attract, retain and motivate persons who make (or are expected to make) important contributions to the Company by providing such persons with equity ownership opportunities and thereby better aligning the interests of such persons with those of the Company’s stockholders. Capitalized terms used in the Plan are defined in Section 11 below.

2. Eligibility.

Service Providers are eligible to be granted Awards under the Plan, subject to the limitations described herein.

3. Administration and Delegation.

   (a) Administration. The Plan will be administered by the Administrator. The Administrator shall have authority to determine which Service Providers will receive Awards, to grant Awards and to set all terms and conditions of Awards (including, but not limited to, vesting, exercise and forfeiture provisions). In addition, the Administrator shall have the authority to take all actions and make all determinations contemplated by the Plan and to adopt, amend and repeal such administrative rules, guidelines and practices relating to the Plan as it shall deem advisable. The Administrator may correct any defect or ambiguity, supply any omission or reconcile any inconsistency in the Plan or any Award in the manner and to the extent it shall deem necessary or appropriate to carry the Plan and any Awards into effect, as determined by the Administrator. The Administrator shall make all determinations under the Plan in the Administrator’s sole discretion and all such determinations shall be final and binding on all persons having or claiming any interest in the Plan or in any Award.

   (b) Appointment of Committees. To the extent permitted by Applicable Laws, the Board may delegate any or all of its powers under the Plan to one or more Committees. The Board may abolish any Committee at any time and re-vest in itself any previously delegated authority.

4. Stock Available for Awards.

   (a) Number of Shares. Subject to adjustment under Section 8 hereof, Awards may be made under the Plan covering up to 1,000,000 shares of Common Stock. If any Award expires or lapses or is terminated, surrendered or canceled without having been fully exercised or is forfeited in whole or in part (including as the result of shares of Common Stock subject to such Award being repurchased by the Company at or below the original issuance price), in any case in a manner that results in any shares of Common Stock covered by such Award not being issued or being so reacquired by the Company, the unused Common Stock covered by such Award shall again be available for the grant of Awards under the Plan. Further, shares of Common Stock delivered (either by actual delivery or attestation) to the Company by a Participant to satisfy the applicable exercise or purchase price of an Award and/or to satisfy any applicable tax withholding obligation (including shares retained by the Company from the Award being exercised or purchased and/or creating the tax obligation) shall be added to the number of shares of Common Stock available for the grant of Awards under the Plan. Shares of Common Stock issued under the Plan may consist in whole or in part of authorized but unissued shares, shares purchased on the open market or treasury shares.
5. Stock Options.

(a) General. The Administrator may grant Options to any Service Provider. The Administrator shall determine the number of shares of Common Stock to be covered by each Option, the exercise price of each Option and the conditions and limitations applicable to the exercise of each Option, including conditions relating to Applicable Laws, as it considers necessary or advisable.

(b) No Incentive Stock Options. No Option granted hereunder shall qualify as an “incentive stock option” within the meaning of Section 422 of the Code.

(c) Exercise Price. The Administrator shall establish the exercise price of each Option and specify the exercise price in the applicable Award Agreement. The exercise price shall be not less than 100% of the Fair Market Value or par value per share of Common Stock, whichever is greater, on the date the Option is granted.

(d) Duration of Options. Each Option shall be exercisable at such times and subject to such terms and conditions as the Administrator may specify in the applicable Award Agreement, provided that the term of any Option shall not exceed ten years.

(e) Exercise of Option; Notification of Disposition. Options may be exercised by delivery to the Company of a written notice of exercise, in a form approved by the Administrator (which may be an electronic form), signed by the person authorized to exercise the Option, together with payment in full (i) as specified in Section 5(f) hereof for the number of shares for which the Option is exercised and (ii) as specified in Section 9(e) hereof for any applicable withholding taxes. Unless otherwise determined by the Administrator, an Option may not be exercised for a fraction of a share of Common Stock.

(f) Payment Upon Exercise. Common Stock purchased upon the exercise of an Option granted under the Plan shall be paid for in cash or by check, payable to the order of the Company, or, to the extent permitted by the Administrator, by:

(i) (A) delivery of an irrevocable and unconditional undertaking by a broker acceptable to the Company to deliver promptly to the Company sufficient funds to pay the exercise price and any required tax withholding, or (B) delivery by the Participant to the Company of a copy of irrevocable and unconditional instructions to a broker acceptable to the Company to deliver promptly to the Company cash or a check sufficient to pay the exercise price and any required tax withholding;

(ii) delivery (either by actual delivery or attestation) of shares of Common Stock owned by the Participant valued at their Fair Market Value, provided (A) such method of payment is then permitted under Applicable Laws, (B) such Common Stock, if acquired directly from the Company, was owned by the Participant for such minimum period of time, if any, as may be established by the Company at any time, and (C) such Common Stock is not subject to any repurchase, forfeiture, unfulfilled vesting or other similar requirements;
(iii) surrendering shares of Common Stock then issuable upon exercise of the Option valued at their Fair Market Value on the date of exercise;
(iv) delivery of a promissory note of the Participant to the Company on terms determined by the Administrator;
(v) delivery of property of any other kind which constitutes good and valuable consideration as determined by the Administrator; or
(vi) any combination of the above permitted forms of payment (including cash or check).

(g) Early Exercise of Options. The Administrator may provide in the terms of an Award Agreement that the Service Provider may exercise an Option in whole or in part prior to the full vesting of the Option in exchange for unvested shares of Restricted Stock with respect to any unvested portion of the Option so exercised. Shares of Restricted Stock acquired upon the exercise of any unvested portion of an Option shall be subject to such terms and conditions as the Administrator shall determine.

6. Restricted Stock; Restricted Stock Units.

(a) General. The Administrator may grant Restricted Stock, or the right to purchase Restricted Stock, to any Service Provider, subject to the right of the Company to repurchase all or part of such shares at their issue price or other stated or formula price from the Participant (or to require forfeiture of such shares if issued at no cost) in the event that conditions specified by the Administrator in the applicable Award Agreement are not satisfied prior to the end of the applicable restriction period or periods established by the Administrator for such Award. In addition, the Administrator may grant to Service Providers Restricted Stock Units, which may be subject to vesting and forfeiture conditions during applicable restriction period or periods, as set forth in an applicable Award Agreement.

(b) Terms and Conditions for All Restricted Stock and Restricted Stock Unit Awards. The Administrator shall determine and set forth in the applicable Award Agreement the terms and conditions applicable to each Restricted Stock and Restricted Stock Unit Award, including the conditions for vesting and repurchase (or forfeiture) and the issue price, in each case, if any.

(c) Additional Provisions Relating to Restricted Stock.

(i) Dividends. Participants holding shares of Restricted Stock will be entitled to all ordinary cash dividends paid with respect to such shares, unless otherwise provided by the Administrator in the applicable Award Agreement. In addition, unless otherwise provided by the Administrator, if any dividends or distributions are paid in shares, or consist of a dividend or distribution to holders of Common Stock of property other than an ordinary cash dividend, the shares or other property will be subject to the same restrictions on transferability and forfeitability as the shares of Restricted Stock with respect to which they were paid. Each dividend payment will be made as provided in the applicable Award Agreement, but in no event later than the end of the calendar year in which the dividends are paid to stockholders of that class of shares or, if later, the 15th day of the third month following the later of (A) the date the dividends are paid to stockholders of that class of shares, and (B) the date the dividends are no longer subject to forfeiture.
(ii) Share Certificates. The Company may require that any share certificates issued in respect of shares of Restricted Stock be deposited in escrow by the Participant, together with a duly executed, but undated, repurchase/transfer form, with the Company (or its designee).

(d) Additional Provisions Relating to Restricted Stock Units.

(i) Settlement. Upon the vesting of a Restricted Stock Unit, the Participant shall be entitled to receive from the Company one share of Common Stock or an amount of cash or other property equal to the Fair Market Value of one share of Common Stock on the settlement date, as the Administrator shall determine and as provided in the applicable Award Agreement. The Administrator may provide that settlement of Restricted Stock Units shall occur upon or as soon as reasonably practicable after the vesting of the Restricted Stock Units or shall instead be deferred, on a mandatory basis or at the election of the Participant, in a manner that complies with Section 409A.

(ii) Voting Rights. A Participant shall not have any voting rights that may be associated with any Common Stock underlying Restricted Stock Units unless and until such Common Stock is delivered in settlement thereof.

(iii) Dividend Equivalents. To the extent provided by the Administrator, a grant of Restricted Stock Units may provide a Participant with the right to receive Dividend Equivalents. Dividend Equivalents may be paid currently or credited to an account for the Participant, may be settled in cash and/or shares of Common Stock and may be subject to the same restrictions on transfer and forfeitability as the Restricted Stock Units with respect to which the Dividend Equivalents are paid, as determined by the Administrator, subject, in each case, to such terms and conditions as the Administrator shall establish and set forth in the applicable Award Agreement.

7. Other Stock-Based Awards.

Other Stock-Based Awards may be granted hereunder to Participants, including, without limitation, Awards entitling Participants to receive shares of Common Stock to be delivered in the future. Such Other Stock-Based Awards shall also be available as a form of payment in the settlement of other Awards granted under the Plan, as stand-alone payments and/or as payment in lieu of compensation to which a Participant is otherwise entitled. Other Stock-Based Awards may be paid in shares of Common Stock, cash or other property, as the Administrator shall determine. Subject to the provisions of the Plan, the Administrator shall determine the terms and conditions of each Other Stock-Based Award, including any purchase price, transfer restrictions, vesting conditions and other terms and conditions applicable thereto, which shall be set forth in the applicable Award Agreement.

8. Adjustments for Changes in Common Stock and Certain Other Events.

(a) In connection with the occurrence of any Equity Restructuring, and notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Section 8, the Administrator will equitably adjust each outstanding Award, which adjustments may include adjustments to the number and type of securities subject to each outstanding Award and/or the exercise price or grant price thereof, if applicable, the grant of new Awards to Participants, and/or the making of a cash payment to Participants, as the Administrator deems appropriate to reflect such Equity Restructuring. The adjustments provided under this Section 8(a) shall be nondiscretionary and shall be final and binding on the affected Participant and the Company; provided that whether an adjustment is equitable shall be determined by the Administrator.
(b) In the event that the Administrator determines that any dividend or other distribution (whether in the form of cash, Common Stock, other securities, or other property), reorganization, merger, consolidated, combination, repurchase, recapitalization, liquidation, dissolution, or sale, transfer, exchange or other disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of the Company, or sale or exchange of Common Stock or other securities of the Company, issuance of warrants or other rights to purchase Common Stock or other securities of the Company, or other similar corporate transaction or event, as determined by the Administrator, affects the Common Stock such that an adjustment is determined by the Administrator to be appropriate in order to prevent dilution or enlargement of the benefits or potential benefits intended by the Company to be made available under the Plan or with respect to any Award, then the Administrator may, in such manner as it may deem equitable, adjust any or all of:

(i) the number and kind of shares of Common Stock (or other securities or property) with respect to which Awards may be granted or awarded (including, but not limited to, adjustments of the limitations in Section 4 hereof on the maximum number and kind of shares which may be issued);

(ii) the number and kind of shares of Common Stock (or other securities or property) subject to outstanding Awards;

(iii) the grant or exercise price with respect to any Award; and

(iv) the terms and conditions of any Awards (including, without limitation, any applicable financial or other performance “targets” specified in an Award Agreement).

(c) In the event of any transaction or event described in Section 8(b) hereof (including without limitation any change in control) or any unusual or nonrecurring transaction or event affecting the Company or the financial statements of the Company, or any change in any Applicable Laws or accounting principles, the Administrator, on such terms and conditions as it deems appropriate, either by the terms of the Award or by action taken prior to the occurrence of such transaction or event and either automatically or upon the Participant’s request, is hereby authorized to take any one or more of the following actions whenever the Administrator determines that such action is appropriate in order to (x) prevent dilution or enlargement of the benefits or potential benefits intended by the Company to be made available under the Plan or with respect to any Award granted or issued under the Plan, (y) to facilitate such transaction or event or (z) give effect to such changes in Applicable Laws or accounting principles:

(i) To provide for the cancellation of any such Award upon the consummation of such event in exchange for either an amount of cash or other property with a value equal to the amount that could have been obtained upon the exercise or settlement of the vested portion of such Award or realization of the Participant’s rights under the vested portion of such Award, as applicable; provided that, if the amount that could have been obtained upon the exercise or settlement of such Award or realization of the Participant’s rights, in any case, is equal to or less than zero, then the vested portion of such Award may be terminated without payment;

(ii) To provide that such Award shall vest and, to the extent applicable, be exercisable as to all shares covered thereby, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Plan or the provisions of such Award;

(iii) To provide that such Award be assumed by the successor or survivor corporation, or a parent or subsidiary thereof, or shall be substituted for by awards covering the stock or shares of the successor or survivor corporation, or a parent or subsidiary thereof, with appropriate adjustments as to the number and kind of shares and applicable exercise or purchase price, in all cases, as determined by the Administrator;
(iv) To make adjustments in the number and type of shares of Common Stock (or other securities or property) subject to outstanding Awards, and/or in the terms and conditions of (including the grant or exercise price), and the criteria included in, Awards which may be granted in the future;

(v) To replace such Award with other rights or property selected by the Administrator; and/or

(vi) To provide that the Award will terminate and cannot vest, be exercised or become payable after the applicable event.

(d) In the event of any pending share dividend, share split, combination or exchange of shares, merger, consolidation or other distribution (other than normal cash dividends) of Company assets to stockholders, or any other change affecting the Common Stock or the share price of the Common Stock, including any Equity Restructuring, for reasons of administrative convenience the Administrator may refuse to permit the exercise of any Award during a period of up to thirty days prior to the consummation of any such transaction.

(e) Except as expressly provided in the Plan or pursuant to action of the Administrator under the Plan, no Participant shall have any rights by reason of any subdivision or consolidation of shares of any class, the payment of any dividend, any increase or decrease in the number of shares of any class or any dissolution, liquidation, merger, or consolidation of the Company or any other corporation. Except as expressly provided in the Plan or pursuant to action of the Administrator under the Plan, no issuance by the Company of shares of any class, or securities convertible into shares of any class, shall affect, and no adjustment by reason thereof shall be made with respect to, the number of shares of Common Stock subject to an Award or the grant or exercise price of any Award. The existence of the Plan, any Award Agreements and the Awards granted hereunder shall not affect or restrict in any way the right or power of the Company to make or authorize (i) any adjustment, recapitalization, reorganization or other change in the Company's capital structure or its business, (ii) any merger, consolidation dissolution or liquidation of the Company or sale of Company assets or (iii) any sale or issuance of securities, including without limitation, securities with rights superior to those of the Common Stock or which are convertible into or exchangeable for Common Stock. The Administrator may treat Participants and Awards (or portions thereof) differently under this Section 8.

(a) Transferability. Except as the Administrator may otherwise determine or provide in an Award Agreement or otherwise, in any case in accordance with Applicable Laws, Awards shall not be sold, assigned, transferred, pledged or otherwise encumbered by the person to whom they are granted, either voluntarily or by operation of law, except by will or the laws of descent and distribution, and, during the life of the Participant, shall be exercisable only by the Participant. Except as the Administrator may otherwise determine or provide in an Award Agreement or otherwise, in any case in accordance with Applicable Laws, shares of Common Stock acquired by a Participant in connection with Awards shall not be sold, assigned, transferred, pledged or otherwise encumbered by the person to whom such shares are issued, either voluntarily or by operation of law, except as may be expressly permitted under the terms of the Stockholders Agreement. References to a Participant, to the extent relevant in the context, shall include references to authorized transferees.
(b) Documentation. Each Award shall be evidenced in an Award Agreement, which may be in such form (written, electronic or otherwise) as the Administrator shall determine. Each Award may contain terms and conditions in addition to those set forth in the Plan.

(c) Discretion. Except as otherwise provided by the Plan, each Award may be made alone or in addition or in relation to any other Award. The terms of each Award to a Participant need not be identical, and the Administrator need not treat Participants or Awards (or portions thereof) uniformly.

(d) Termination of Status. The Administrator shall determine the effect on an Award of the disability, death, retirement, authorized leave of absence or any other change or purported change in a Participant’s Service Provider status and the extent to which, and the period during which, the Participant, the Participant’s legal representative, conservator, estate representative, guardian or Designated Beneficiary may exercise rights under the Award, if applicable.

(e) Withholding. Each Participant shall pay to the Company, or make provision satisfactory to the Administrator for payment of, any taxes required by law to be withheld in connection with Awards to such Participant no later than the date of the event creating the tax liability. Except as the Administrator may otherwise determine, all such payments shall be made in cash or by certified check. Notwithstanding the foregoing, to the extent permitted by the Administrator, Participants may satisfy such tax obligations in whole or in part by delivery of shares of Common Stock, including shares retained from the Award creating the tax obligation, valued at their Fair Market Value. The Company may, to the extent permitted by Applicable Laws, deduct any such tax obligations from any payment of any kind otherwise due to a Participant.

(f) Amendment of Award. The Administrator may amend, modify or terminate any outstanding Award, including but not limited to, substituting therefor another Award of the same or a different type and changing the date of exercise or settlement. The Participant’s consent to such action shall be required unless (i) the Administrator determines that the action, taking into account any related action, would not materially and adversely affect the Participant, or (ii) the change is permitted under Section 8 or 10(f) hereof.

(g) Conditions on Delivery of Common Stock. The Company will not be obligated to deliver any shares of Common Stock pursuant to the Plan or to remove restrictions from shares previously delivered under the Plan until (i) all conditions of the Award have been met or removed to the satisfaction of the Company, (ii) in the opinion of the Company’s counsel, all other legal matters in connection with the issuance and delivery of such shares have been satisfied, including any applicable securities laws and any applicable stock exchange or stock market rules and regulations, (iii) the Participant has entered into the Stockholders Agreement with the Company in the form provided to the Participant by the Company and (iv) the Participant has executed and delivered to the Company such representations or agreements as the Administrator deems necessary or appropriate to satisfy the requirements of any Applicable Laws. The inability of the Company to obtain authority from any regulatory body having jurisdiction, which authority is determined by the Administrator to be necessary to the lawful issuance and sale of any securities hereunder, shall relieve the Company of any liability in respect of the failure to issue or sell such shares as to which such requisite authority shall not have been obtained.

(h) Acceleration. The Administrator may at any time provide that any Award shall become immediately vested and/or exercisable in full or in part, free of some or all restrictions or conditions, or otherwise realizable in full or in part, as the case may be.
10. Miscellaneous.

(a) No Right To Employment or Other Status. No Person shall have any claim or right to be granted an Award, and the grant of an Award shall not be construed as giving a Participant the right to continued employment or any other relationship with the Company. The Company expressly reserves the right at any time to dismiss or otherwise terminate its relationship with a Participant free from any liability or claim under the Plan or any Award, except as expressly provided in an applicable Award Agreement.

(b) No Rights As Stockholder; Certificates. Subject to the provisions of the applicable Award Agreement, no Participant or Designated Beneficiary shall have any rights as a stockholder with respect to any shares of Common Stock to be distributed with respect to an Award until becoming the record holder of such shares. Notwithstanding any other provision of the Plan, unless otherwise determined by the Administrator or required by any Applicable Laws, the Company shall not be required to deliver to any Participant certificates evidencing shares of Common Stock issued in connection with any Award and instead such shares of Common Stock may be recorded in the share register and/or other applicable books of the Company (or, as applicable, its transfer agent or share plan administrator). The Company may place legends on share certificates issued under the Plan deemed necessary or appropriate by the Administrator in order to comply with Applicable Laws.

(c) Effective Date and Term of Plan. The Plan shall become effective on the date on which it is adopted by the Board. No Awards shall be granted under the Plan after the completion of ten years from the earlier of (i) the date on which the Plan was adopted by the Board or (ii) the date the Plan was approved by the Company’s stockholders, but Awards previously granted may extend beyond that date in accordance with the terms of the Plan.

(d) Amendment of Plan. The Administrator may amend, suspend or terminate the Plan or any portion thereof at any time; provided that no amendment of the Plan shall materially and adversely affect any Award outstanding at the time of such amendment without the consent of the affected Participant. Awards outstanding under the Plan at the time of any suspension or termination of the Plan shall continue to be governed in accordance with the terms of the Plan and the applicable Award Agreement, as in effect prior to such suspension or termination. The Board shall obtain stockholder approval of any Plan amendment to the extent necessary to comply with Applicable Laws.

(e) Provisions for Foreign Participants. The Administrator may modify Awards granted to Participants who are foreign nationals or employed outside the United States or establish subplans or procedures under the Plan to address differences in laws, rules, regulations or customs of such foreign jurisdictions with respect to tax, securities, currency, employee benefit or other matters.

(f) Section 409A.

(i) General. The Company intends that all Awards be structured in compliance with, or to satisfy an exemption from, Section 409A, such that no adverse tax consequences, interest, or penalties under Section 409A apply in connection with any Awards. Notwithstanding anything herein or in any Award Agreement to the contrary, the Administrator may, without a Participant’s prior consent, amend this Plan and/or Awards, adopt policies and procedures, or take any other actions (including amendments, policies, procedures and actions with retroactive effect) as are necessary or appropriate to preserve the intended tax treatment of Awards under the Plan, including without limitation, any such actions intended to (A) exempt this Plan and/or any Award from the application of Section 409A, and/or (B) comply with the requirements of Section 409A, including without limitation any such regulations, guidance, compliance programs and other interpretative authority that may be issued after the date of grant of any Award. The Company makes no representations or warranties as to the tax treatment of any Award under Section 409A or otherwise. The Company shall have no obligation under this Section 10(f) or otherwise to take any action (whether or not described herein) to avoid the imposition of taxes, penalties or interest under Section 409A with respect to any Award and shall have no liability to any Participant or any other person if any Award, compensation or other benefits under the Plan are determined to constitute non-compliant, “nonqualified deferred compensation” subject to the imposition of taxes, penalties and/or interest under Section 409A.

(ii) Separation from Service. With respect to any Award that constitutes “nonqualified deferred compensation” under Section 409A, any payment or settlement of such Award that is to be made upon a termination of a Participant’s Service Provider relationship shall, to the extent necessary to avoid the imposition of taxes under Section 409A, be made only upon the Participant’s “separation from service” (within the meaning of Section 409A), whether such “separation from service” occurs upon or subsequent to the termination of the Participant’s Service Provider relationship. For purposes of any such provision of this Plan or any Award Agreement relating to any such payments or benefits, references to a “termination,” “termination of employment” or like terms shall mean “separation from service.”

(iii) Payments to Specified Employees. Notwithstanding any contrary provision in the Plan or any Award Agreement, any payment(s) of “nonqualified deferred compensation” that are otherwise required to be made under an Award to a “specified employee” (as defined under Section 409A and determined by the Administrator) as a result of his or her “separation from service” shall, to the extent necessary to avoid the imposition of taxes under Code Section 409A(a)(2)(B)(i), be delayed until the expiration of the six-month period immediately following such “separation from service” (or, if earlier, until the date of death of the specified employee) and shall instead be paid (in a manner set forth in the Award agreement) on the day that immediately follows the end of such six-month period or as soon as administratively practicable thereafter (without interest). Any payments of “nonqualified deferred compensation” under such Award that are, by their terms, payable more than six months following the Participant’s “separation from service” shall be paid at the time or times such payments are otherwise scheduled to be made.

(g) Limitations on Liability. Notwithstanding any other provisions of the Plan, no individual acting as a director, officer, other employee or agent of the Company will be liable to any Participant, former Participant, spouse, beneficiary, or any other person for any claim, loss, liability, or expense incurred in connection with the Plan or any Award, nor will such individual be personally liable with respect to the Plan because of any contract or other instrument he or she executes in his or her capacity as an Administrator, director, officer, other employee or agent of the Company. The Company will indemnify and hold harmless the Administrator and each director, officer, other employee and agent of the Company to whom any duty or power relating to the administration or interpretation of the Plan has been or will be granted or delegated, against any cost or expense (including attorneys’ fees) or liability (including any sum paid in settlement of a claim with the Administrator’s approval) arising out of any act or omission to act concerning this Plan unless arising out of such person’s own fraud or bad faith.

(h) Lock-Up Period. The Company may, at the request of any representative of the underwriters or otherwise, in connection with any registration of any securities of the Company under the Securities Act, prohibit Participants from, directly or indirectly, selling or otherwise transferring any shares of Common Stock or other securities of the Company during a period of up to one hundred eighty days following the effective date of a registration statement of the Company filed under the Securities Act.
Right of First Refusal.

Before any shares of Common Stock held by a Participant or any permitted transferee (each, a “Holder”) may be sold, pledged, assigned, hypothecated, transferred, or otherwise disposed of (each, a “Transfer”), the Company or its assignee(s) shall have a right of first refusal to purchase the shares of Common Stock proposed to be Transferred on the terms and conditions set forth in this Section 10(i) (the “Right of First Refusal”). In the event that the Company’s by-laws and/or a stockholders’ agreement applicable to the shares of Common Stock contain a right of first refusal with respect to the shares of Common Stock, such right of first refusal shall apply to the shares of Common Stock to the extent such provisions are more restrictive than the Right of First Refusal set forth in this Section 10(i) and the Right of First Refusal set forth in this Section 10(i) shall not in any way restrict the operation of the Company’s by-laws or the operation of any applicable stockholders’ agreement.

In the event any Holder desires to Transfer any shares of Common Stock, the Holder shall deliver to the Company a written notice (the “Notice”) stating: (A) the Holder’s bona fide intention to sell or otherwise Transfer such shares of Common Stock; (B) the name of each proposed purchaser or other transferee (“Proposed Transferee”); (C) the number of shares of Common Stock to be Transferred to each Proposed Transferee; and (D) the price for which the Holder proposes to Transfer the shares of Common Stock (the “Offered Price”), and the Holder shall offer such shares of Common Stock at the Offered Price to the Company or its assignee(s).

Within twenty-five days after receipt of the Notice, the Company and/or its assignee(s) may elect in writing to purchase all, but not less than all, of the shares of Common Stock proposed to be Transferred to any one or more of the Proposed Transferees by delivery of a written exercise notice to the Holder (a “Company Notice”). The purchase price (“Purchase Price”) for the shares of Common Stock repurchased under this Section 10(i) shall be the Offered Price.

Payment of the Purchase Price shall be made, at the option of the Company or its assignee(s), in cash (by check or wire transfer), by cancellation of all or a portion of any outstanding indebtedness of the Holder to the Company (or, in the case of repurchase by an assignee, to the assignee), or by any combination thereof, within five days after delivery of the Company Notice or in the manner and at the times mutually agreed to by the Company and the Holder. Should the Offered Price specified in the Notice be payable in property other than cash, the Company or its assignee shall have the right to pay the purchase price in the form of cash equal in amount to the value of such property, as determined by the Administrator.

If all or a portion of the shares of Common Stock proposed in the Notice to be Transferred are not purchased by the Company and/or its assignee(s) as provided in this Section 10(i), then the Holder may sell or otherwise Transfer such shares of Common Stock to that Proposed Transferee at the Offered Price or at a higher price; provided that such sale or other Transfer is consummated within sixty days after the date of the Notice; and provided, further, that any such sale or other Transfer is effected in accordance with any Applicable Laws and the Proposed Transferee agrees in writing that the provisions of this Plan and the applicable Award Agreement and any other applicable agreements governing the shares of Common Stock to be Transferred shall continue to apply to the shares of Common Stock in the hands of such Proposed Transferee. If the shares of Common Stock described in the Notice are not Transferred to the Proposed Transferee within such sixty-day period, a new Notice shall be given to the Company, and the Company and/or its assignees shall again be offered the Right of First Refusal, as provided herein, before any shares of Common Stock held by the Holder may be sold or otherwise Transferred.
(vi) Anything to the contrary contained in this Section 10(i) notwithstanding and to the extent permitted by the Administrator, the Transfer of any or all of the shares of Common Stock during a Participant’s lifetime or upon a Participant’s death by will or intestacy to the Participant’s Immediate Family or a trust for the benefit of the Participant’s Immediate Family shall be exempt from the Right of First Refusal. As used herein, “Immediate Family” shall mean spouse, lineal descendant or antecedent, father, mother, brother or sister or stepchild (whether or not adopted). In such case, the transferee or other recipient shall receive and hold the shares of Common Stock so Transferred subject to the provisions of this Plan (including the Right of First Refusal), the applicable Award Agreement and any other applicable agreements governing the shares of Common Stock to be Transferred, and there shall be no further Transfer of such shares of Common Stock except in accordance with the terms of this Section 10(i) (or otherwise as expressly provided under the Plan).

(vii) The Right of First Refusal shall terminate as to all shares of Common Stock if the Company becomes a Publicly Listed Company upon such occurrence.

(j) Data Privacy. As a condition of receipt of any Award, each Participant explicitly and unambiguously consents to the collection, use and transfer, in electronic or other form, of personal data as described in this paragraph by and among, as applicable, the Company and its subsidiaries and affiliates for the exclusive purpose of implementing, administering and managing the Participant’s participation in the Plan. The Company and its subsidiaries and affiliates may hold certain personal information about a Participant, including but not limited to, the Participant’s name, home address and telephone number, date of birth, social security or insurance number or other identification number, salary, nationality, job title(s), any shares held in the Company or any of its subsidiaries and affiliates, details of all Awards, in each case, for the purpose of implementing, managing and administering the Plan and Awards (the “Data”). The Company and its subsidiaries and affiliates may transfer the Data amongst themselves as necessary for the purpose of implementation, administration and management of a Participant’s participation in the Plan, and the Company and its subsidiaries and affiliates may each further transfer the Data to any third parties assisting the Company in the implementation, administration and management of the Plan. These recipients may be located in the Participant’s country, or elsewhere, and the Participant’s country may have different data privacy laws and protections than the recipients’ country. Through acceptance of an Award, each Participant authorizes such recipients to receive, possess, use, retain and transfer the Data, in electronic or other form, for the purposes of implementing, administering and managing the Participant’s participation in the Plan, including any requisite transfer of such Data as may be required to a broker or other third party with whom the Company or the Participant may elect to deposit any shares of Common Stock. The Data related to a Participant will be held only as long as is necessary to implement, administer, and manage the Participant’s participation in the Plan, including any requisite transfer of such Data as may be required to a broker or other third party with whom the Company or the Participant may elect to deposit any shares of Common Stock. The Data related to a Participant will be held only as long as is necessary to implement, administer, and manage the Participant’s participation in the Plan. A Participant may, at any time, view the Data held by the Company with respect to such Participant, request additional information about the storage and processing of the Data with respect to such Participant, recommend any necessary corrections to the Data with respect to the Participant or refuse or withdraw the consent herein in writing, in any case without cost, by contacting his or her human resources representative. The Company may cancel Participant’s ability to participate in the Plan and, in the Administrator’s discretion, the Participant may forfeit any outstanding Awards if the Participant refuses or withdraws his or her consents as described herein. For more information on the consequences of refusal to consent or withdrawal of consent, Participants may contact their human resources representative.

(k) Stockholder Approval.
(i) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b) below, in the event that it shall be determined that any right to receive an Award, payment or other benefit under this Plan (including, without limitation, the acceleration of the vesting and/or exercisability of an Award and taking into account the effect of this Section) to or for the benefit of the Participant (the “Payments”), would not be deductible, in whole or part when aggregated with any other right, payment or benefit to or for the Participant under all other agreements or benefit plans of the Company, by the Company or the person making such payment or distribution or providing such right or benefit as a result of Section 280G of the Code, then, to the extent necessary to make the Payments deductible to the maximum extent possible (but only to such extent and after taking into account any reduction in the Payments relating to Section 280G of the Code under any other plan, arrangement or agreement), the Award held by the Participant or any other right, payment or benefit under this Plan shall not become exercisable, vested or paid. For purposes of determining whether any of the Payments would not be deductible as a result of Section 280G of the Code and the amount of such disallowed deduction, all Payments will be treated as “parachute payments” within the meaning of Section 280G of the Code, and all “parachute payments” in excess of the “base amount” (as defined under Section 280G(b)(3) of the Code) shall be treated as nondeductible, unless and except to the extent that in the opinion of a nationally recognized accounting firm selected by the Company (the “Accountants”), such Payments (in whole or in part) either do not constitute “parachute payments,” including by reason of Section 280G(b)(4) of the Code, or are otherwise not subject to disallowance as a deduction. All determinations required to be made under this subsection (a), including whether and which of the Payments are required to be reduced, the amount of such reduction and the assumptions to be utilized in arriving at such determination, shall be made by the Accountants.

(ii) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Plan, the provisions of subclause (i) above shall not apply to reduce the Payments if the Payments that would otherwise be nondeductible under Section 280G of the Code are disclosed to and approved by the Company’s stockholders in accordance with Section 280G(b)(5)(B) of the Code.

(iii) To the extent Section 280G(b)(5)(A)(ii) of the Code is available to exempt the Payments from being “parachute payments,” the Company shall use its commercially reasonable best efforts to prepare and deliver to its stockholders the disclosure required by Section 280G(b)(5)(B) of the Code with respect to the Payments and to obtain the approval of the Company’s stockholders pursuant to subclause (ii) above.

(l) Severability. In the event any portion of the Plan or any action taken pursuant thereto shall be held illegal or invalid for any reason, the illegality or invalidity shall not affect the remaining parts of the Plan, and the Plan shall be construed and enforced as if the illegal or invalid provisions had not been included, and the illegal or invalid action shall be null and void.

(m) Governing Documents. In the event of any contradiction between the Plan and any Award Agreement or any other written agreement between a Participant and the Company or any Subsidiary of the Company that has been approved by the Administrator, the terms of the Plan shall govern, unless it is expressly specified in such Award Agreement or other written document that a specific provision of the Plan shall not apply.

(o) Governing Law. The provisions of the Plan and all Awards made hereunder shall be governed by and interpreted in accordance with the laws of Delaware, disregarding choice-of-law principles of the law of any state that would require the application of the laws of a jurisdiction other than such state.
Submission to Jurisdiction; Waiver of Jury Trial; By accepting an Award, each Participant irrevocably and unconditionally consents to submit to the jurisdiction of the courts of the State of Delaware and of the United States of America, in each case located in the State of Delaware, for any action arising out of or relating to the Plan (and agrees not to commence any litigation relating thereto except in such courts), and further agrees that service of any process, summons, notice or document by U.S. registered mail to the address contained in the records of the Company shall be effective service of process for any litigation brought against it in any such court. By accepting an Award, each Participant irrevocably and unconditionally waives any objection to the laying of venue of any litigation arising out of Plan or Award hereunder in the courts of the State of Delaware or the United States of America, in each case located in the State of Delaware, and further irrevocably and unconditionally waives and agrees not to plead or claim in any such court that any such litigation brought in any such court has been brought in an inconvenient forum. By accepting an Award, each Participant irrevocably and unconditionally waives, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, any and all rights to trial by jury in connection with any litigation arising out of or relating to the Plan or any Award hereunder.

Restrictions on Shares. Shares of Common Stock acquired in respect of Awards shall be subject to such terms and conditions as the Administrator shall determine, including, without limitation, restrictions on the transferability of shares of Common Stock, the right of the Company to repurchase shares of Common Stock, the right of the Company to require that shares of Common Stock be transferred in the event of certain transactions, tag-along rights, bring-along rights, redemption and co-sale rights and voting requirements. Such terms and conditions may be additional to those contained in the Plan and may, as determined by the Administrator, be contained in the applicable Award Agreement or in an exercise notice, stockholders’ agreement or in such other agreement as the Administrator shall determine, in each case in a form determined by the Administrator. The issuance of such shares of Common Stock shall be conditioned on the Participant’s consent to such terms and conditions and the Participant’s entering into such agreement or agreements.

Titles and Headings. The titles and headings of the Sections in the Plan are for convenience of reference only and, in the event of any conflict, the text of the Plan, rather than such titles or headings, shall control.

Conformity to Securities Laws. Participant acknowledges that the Plan is intended to conform to the extent necessary with all provisions of the Securities Act and the Exchange Act and any and all regulations and rules promulgated by the Securities and Exchange Commission thereunder, and state securities laws and regulations. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the Plan and all Awards granted hereunder shall be administered only in such a manner as to conform to such laws, rules and regulations. To the extent permitted by Applicable Laws, the Plan and all Award Agreements shall be deemed amended to the extent necessary to conform to such laws, rules and regulations.

TO STOCK PURCHASE RIGHT GRANT NOTICE

Pursuant to the Stock Purchase Right Grant Notice (the “Grant Notice”) to which this Restricted Stock Purchase Agreement (this “Agreement”) is attached, Falcon Acquisition Group, Inc., a Delaware corporation (the “Company”), has granted to Purchaser (as defined in the Grant Notice) the right to purchase the number of shares of Restricted Stock under the Falcon Acquisition Group, Inc. 2014 Equity Incentive Plan (the “Plan”) indicated in the Grant Notice.

1. General.
   (a) Defined Terms. Capitalized terms not specifically defined herein shall have the meanings specified in the Plan and the Grant Notice.
   (b) Incorporation of Terms of Plan. The Shares are subject to the terms and conditions of the Plan, which is incorporated herein by reference.

2. Grant of Restricted Stock.
   (a) Grant of Restricted Stock. In consideration of Purchaser’s agreement to remain in the employ of the Company or its subsidiaries, if Purchaser is an Employee, or to continue to provide services to the Company or its subsidiaries, if Purchaser is a Consultant, or to serve as a Director, if Purchaser is a Director, and for other good and valuable consideration, effective as of the Date of Grant set forth in the Grant Notice (the “Grant Date”), the Company irrevocably grants to Purchaser the right to purchase the Shares by execution of the Grant Notice and payment of any purchase price at any time prior to the Termination Date set forth in the Grant Notice, upon the terms and conditions set forth in the Plan and this Agreement.
   (b) Purchase Price. Any purchase price of the Shares shall be as set forth in the Grant Notice, without commission or other charge (the “Purchase Price”). Any Purchase Price shall be paid by cash or check.
   (c) Issuance of Shares. The issuance of the Shares under this Agreement shall occur at the principal office of the Company simultaneously with the execution of this Agreement by the parties or on such other date as the Company and Purchaser shall agree (the “Issuance Date”). Subject to the provisions of Section 3 below, on the Issuance Date, the Company shall issue the Shares (which shall be issued in Purchaser’s name).
   (d) Conditions to Issuance of Stock Certificates. The Shares, or any portion thereof, may be either previously authorized but unissued shares or issued shares which have then been reacquired by the Company. Such Shares shall be fully paid and nonassessable. The Company shall not be required to issue or deliver any Shares prior to fulfillment of all of the following conditions:
      (i) Purchaser’s execution and delivery to the Company of a joinder to the Stockholders Agreement; and
(ii) The admission of such Shares to listing on all stock exchanges on which the Company’s Common Stock is then listed; and

(iii) The completion of any registration or other qualification of such shares under any state or federal law or under rulings or regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission or of any other governmental regulatory body, which the Administrator shall, in its absolute discretion, deem necessary or advisable; and

(iv) The obtaining of any approval or other clearance from any state or federal governmental agency which the Administrator shall, in its absolute discretion, determine to be necessary or advisable; and

(v) The receipt by the Company of full payment for such Shares, including payment of all amounts which, under federal, state or local tax law, the Company (or other employer corporation) is required to withhold upon issuance of such Shares (it being understood that, generally, there are no withholding obligations for non-employees); and

(vi) The lapse of such reasonable period of time following the Issuance Date as the Administrator may from time to time establish for reasons of administrative convenience.

(e) Consideration to the Company. In consideration of the issuance of the Shares by the Company, Purchaser agrees to render faithful and efficient services to the Company or any subsidiary. Nothing in the Plan or this Agreement shall confer upon Purchaser any right to (a) continue in the employ of the Company or any subsidiary or shall interfere with or restrict in any way the rights of the Company and its subsidiaries, which are hereby expressly reserved, to discharge Purchaser, if Purchaser is an Employee, or (b) continue to provide services to the Company or any subsidiary or shall interfere with or restrict in any way the rights of the Company or its subsidiaries, which are hereby expressly reserved, to terminate the services of Purchaser, if Purchaser is a Consultant, at any time for any reason whatsoever, with or without cause, except to the extent expressly provided otherwise in a written agreement between the Company and Purchaser.

3. Repurchase Option.

(a) If Purchaser ceases to be a Service Provider for any reason, including for cause, death and Disability, the Company or its assignee shall have the right and option to purchase from Purchaser, or Purchaser’s personal representative, as the case may be, all of Purchaser’s Unreleased Shares (as defined below) as of the date on which Purchaser ceases to be a Service Provider at the purchase price paid by Purchaser for such Shares in connection with the Stock Purchase Rights (the “Repurchase Option”).

(b) The Company may exercise its Repurchase Option by delivering, personally or by registered mail, to Purchaser (or his or her transferee or legal representative, as the case may be), within ninety (90) days of the date on which Purchaser ceases to be a Service Provider, a notice in writing indicating the Company’s intention to exercise the Repurchase Option and setting forth a date for closing not later than thirty (30) days from the mailing of such notice. The closing shall take place at the Company’s office. At the closing, the holder of the certificates for the Unreleased Shares being transferred shall deliver the stock certificate or certificates evidencing the Unreleased Shares, and the Company shall deliver the purchase price therefor. Notwithstanding the foregoing, in the event the purchase price of the Unreleased Shares is zero, then the Company automatically shall be deemed to have exercised its Repurchase Option on the date Purchaser ceases to be a Service Provider, and Purchaser shall deliver the stock certificate or certificates evidencing the Unreleased Shares to the Company upon Purchaser’s cessation of services to the Company.
(c) At its option, the Company may elect to make any payment for the Unreleased Shares to a bank selected by the Company. The Company shall avail itself of this option by a notice in writing to Purchaser stating the name and address of the bank, date of closing, and waiving the closing at the Company's office.

(d) If the Company does not elect to exercise the Repurchase Option, or if such Repurchase Option is not automatically exercised in accordance with Section 3(b) above, by giving the requisite notice within ninety (90) days following the date on which Purchaser ceases to be a Service Provider, the Repurchase Option shall terminate.

(e) One hundred percent (100%) of the Shares shall initially be subject to the Repurchase Option. The Shares shall be released from the Repurchase Option in accordance with the Vesting Schedule set forth in the Grant Notice until all Shares are released from the Repurchase Option. Fractional Shares shall be rounded to the nearest whole share.

(f) Any Shares which from time to time have not yet been released from the Company’s Repurchase Option pursuant to Section 3(e) above shall be referred to herein as “Unreleased Shares.”

4. Transferability of the Shares; Escrow.

(a) Purchaser hereby authorizes and directs the Secretary of the Company, or such other person designated by the Company from time to time, to transfer the Unreleased Shares as to which the Repurchase Option has been exercised from Purchaser to the Company.

(b) To ensure the availability for delivery of Purchaser’s Unreleased Shares upon repurchase by the Company pursuant to the Repurchase Option under Section 3, Purchaser hereby appoints the Secretary, or any other person designated by the Company from time to time as escrow agent, as its attorney-in-fact to sell, assign and transfer unto the Company, such Unreleased Shares, if any, repurchased by the Company pursuant to the Repurchase Option and shall, upon execution of this Agreement, deliver and deposit with the Secretary of the Company, or such other person designated by the Company from time to time, the share certificate(s) representing the Unreleased Shares, together with the stock assignment duly endorsed in blank, attached hereto as Exhibit B. The Unreleased Shares and stock assignment shall be held by the Secretary, or such other person designated by the Company from time to time, in escrow, pursuant to the Joint Escrow Instructions of the Company and Purchaser attached as Exhibit C hereto, until the Company exercises its Repurchase Option as provided in Section 3, until such Unreleased Shares are vested, or until such time as the Repurchase Option no longer is in effect. As a further condition to the Company’s obligations under this Agreement, the spouse or registered domestic partner of Purchaser, if any, shall execute and deliver to the Company the Consent of Spouse or Domestic Partner attached hereto as Exhibit D. Upon vesting of the Unreleased Shares, the escrow agent shall promptly deliver to Purchaser the certificate or certificates representing such Shares in the escrow agent’s possession belonging to Purchaser, and the escrow agent shall be discharged of all further obligations hereunder; provided, however, that the escrow agent shall nevertheless retain such certificate or certificates as escrow agent if so required pursuant to other restrictions imposed pursuant to this Agreement.

(c) The Company, or its designee, shall not be liable for any act it may do or omit to do with respect to holding the Shares in escrow and while acting in good faith and in the exercise of its judgment.

(d) Transfer or sale of the Shares is subject to restrictions on transfer pursuant to the Plan and any applicable state and federal securities laws. Any transferee shall hold such Shares subject to all of the provisions hereof and shall acknowledge the same by signing a copy of this Agreement. Any transfer or attempted transfer of any of the Shares not in accordance with the terms of this Agreement shall be void and the Company may enforce the terms of this Agreement by stop transfer instructions or similar actions by the Company and its agents or designees.

5. Ownership, Voting Rights, Duties. This Agreement shall not affect in any way any ownership or other rights or duties of Purchaser, except as specifically provided herein.

6. Adjustment for Stock Split. All references to the number of Shares and the purchase price of the Shares in this Agreement shall be appropriately adjusted to reflect any stock split, stock dividend or other change in the Shares which may be made by the Company after the date of this Agreement.

7. Section 83(b) Election for Unreleased Shares. Purchaser hereby acknowledges that he or she has been informed that, with respect to the purchase of Unreleased Shares, that unless an election is filed by Purchaser with the Internal Revenue Service and, if necessary, the proper state taxing authorities, within thirty (30) days of (a) the purchase of the Shares or (b) in the event that there is no, or only a nominal, Purchase Price for the Shares, the Grant Date, electing pursuant to Section 83(b) of the Code (and similar state tax provisions if applicable) to be taxed currently on any difference between the purchase price of the Shares and their Fair Market Value on the date of purchase, there will be a recognition of taxable income to Purchaser, measured by the excess, if any, of the fair market value of the Shares, at the time the Company’s Repurchase Option lapses over the purchase price for the Shares. Purchaser represents that Purchaser has consulted any tax consultant(s) Purchaser deems advisable in connection with the purchase of the Shares or the filing of the Election under Section 83(b) and similar tax provisions.

Purchaser acknowledges that it is Purchaser’s sole responsibility and not the Company’s to file timely the Election under Section 83(b), even if Purchaser requests the Company or its representative to make this filing on Purchaser’s behalf.

8. Representations. Purchaser has reviewed with his or her own tax advisors the federal, state, local and foreign tax consequences of this investment and the transactions contemplated by this Agreement. Purchaser is relying solely on such advisors and not on any statements or representations of the Company or any of its agents. Purchaser understands that Purchaser (and not the Company) shall be responsible for his or her own tax liability that may arise as a result of this investment or the transactions contemplated by this Agreement.

9. Restrictive Legends and Stop-Transfer Orders.

INVESTMENT REPRESENTATION STATEMENT

PURCHASER :

COMPANY : Falcon Acquisition Group, Inc.

SECURITY : Common Stock

AMOUNT :

DATE :

In connection with the purchase of the above-listed shares of Common Stock (the “Securities”) of Falcon Acquisition Group, Inc., a Delaware corporation (the “Company”), the undersigned (“Purchaser”) represents to the Company the following:

1. Purchaser is aware of the Company’s business affairs and financial condition and has acquired sufficient information about the Company to reach an informed and knowledgeable decision to acquire the Securities. Purchaser is acquiring these Securities for investment for Purchaser’s own account only and not with a view to, or for resale in connection with, any “distribution” thereof within the meaning of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the “Securities Act”).

2. Purchaser acknowledges and understands that the Securities constitute “restricted securities” under the Securities Act and have not been registered under the Securities Act in reliance upon a specific exemption therefrom, which exemption depends upon, among other things, the bona fide nature of Purchaser’s investment intent as expressed herein. Purchaser understands that, in the view of the Securities and Exchange Commission, the statutory basis for such exemption may be unavailable if Purchaser’s representation was predicated solely upon a present intention to hold these Securities for the minimum capital gains period specified under tax statutes, for a deferred sale, for or until an increase or decrease in the market price of the Securities, or for a period of one year or any other fixed period in the future. Purchaser further understands that the Securities must be held indefinitely unless they are subsequently registered under the Securities Act or an exemption from such registration is available. Purchaser further acknowledges and understands that the Company is under no obligation to register the Securities. Purchaser understands that the certificate evidencing the Securities will be imprinted with a legend which prohibits the transfer of the Securities unless they are registered or such registration is not required in the opinion of counsel satisfactory to the Company and any other legend required under applicable state securities laws or agreements.

3. Purchaser is familiar with the provisions of Rule 701 and Rule 144, each promulgated under the Securities Act, which, in substance, permit limited public resale of “restricted securities” acquired, directly or indirectly from the issuer thereof, in a non-public offering subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions. Rule 701 provides that if the issuer qualifies under Rule 701 at the time of the grant of the Stock Purchase Right to Purchaser, the exercise will be exempt from registration under the Securities Act. In the event the Company becomes subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the “Exchange Act”), ninety (90) days thereafter (or such longer period as any market stand-off agreement may require) the Securities exempt under Rule 701 may under present law be resold, subject to the satisfaction of certain of the conditions specified by Rule 144, including: (1) the resale being made through a broker in an unsolicited “broker’s transaction” or in transactions directly with a market maker (as said term is defined under the Exchange Act); and, in the case of an affiliate, (2) the availability of certain public information about the Company, (3) the amount of Securities being sold during any three (3) month period not exceeding the limitations specified in Rule 144(e), and (4) the timely filing of a Form 144, if applicable.

In the event that the Company does not qualify under Rule 701 at the time of grant of the Stock Purchase Right, then the Securities may be resold in certain limited circumstances subject to the provisions of Rule 144, which requires the resale to occur not less than six months, or, in the event the Company is not subject to the reporting requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, not less than one year, after the later of the date the Securities were sold by the Company or the date the Securities were sold by an affiliate of the Company, within the meaning of Rule 144; and, in the case of acquisition of the Securities by an affiliate, the satisfaction of the conditions set forth in sections (1), (2), (3) and (4) of the paragraph immediately above or, in the case of a non-affiliate who subsequently holds the Securities less than one year, the satisfaction of the conditions set forth in section (2) of the paragraph immediately above.

4. Purchaser further understands that in the event all of the applicable requirements of Rule 701 or 144 are not satisfied, registration under the Securities Act, compliance with Regulation A, or some other registration exemption will be required; and that, notwithstanding the fact that Rules 144 and 701 are not exclusive, the Staff of the Securities and Exchange Commission has expressed its opinion that persons proposing to sell private placement securities other than in a registered offering and otherwise than pursuant to Rules 144 or 701 will have a substantial burden of proof in establishing that an exemption from registration is available for such offers or sales, and that such persons and their respective brokers who participate in such transactions do so at their own risk. Purchaser understands that no assurances can be given that any such other registration exemption will be available in such event.

TO RESTRICTED STOCK UNIT AWARD GRANT NOTICE

RESTRICTED STOCK UNIT AWARD AGREEMENT

Pursuant to the Restricted Stock Unit Award Grant Notice (the “Grant Notice”) to which this Restricted Stock Unit Award Agreement (this “Agreement”) is attached, Frontier Group Holdings, Inc., a Delaware corporation (the “Company”), has granted to the Participant the number of restricted stock units (“Restricted Stock Units” or “RSUs”) set forth in the Grant Notice under the Company’s 2014 Equity Incentive Plan, as amended from time to time (the “Plan”). Each Restricted Stock Unit represents the right to receive one share of Common Stock (a “Share”) upon vesting. Capitalized terms not specifically defined herein shall have the meanings specified in the Plan and Grant Notice.

ARTICLE I.
GENERAL

1.1 Incorporation of Terms of Plan. The RSUs are subject to the terms and conditions of the Plan, which are incorporated herein by reference. In the event of any inconsistency between the Plan and this Agreement, the terms of the Plan shall control.

ARTICLE II.
GRANT OF RESTRICTED STOCK UNITS

2.1 Grant of RSUs. Pursuant to the Grant Notice and upon the terms and conditions set forth in the Plan and this Agreement, effective as of the Grant Date set forth in the Grant Notice, the Company hereby grants to the Participant an award of RSUs under the Plan in consideration of the Participant’s past and/or continued employment with or service to the Company or any affiliates and for other good and valuable consideration.

2.2 Unsecured Obligation to RSUs. Unless and until the RSUs have vested in the manner set forth in Article 2 hereof, the Participant will have no right to receive Common Stock under any such RSUs. Prior to actual payment of any vested RSUs, such RSUs will represent an unsecured obligation of the Company, payable (if at all) only from the general assets of the Company.

2.3 Vesting Schedule; Accelerated Vesting. Subject to Section 2.5 hereof, the RSUs shall vest and become nonforfeitable with respect to the applicable portion thereof according to the vesting schedule set forth in the Grant Notice (rounding down to the nearest whole Share). Notwithstanding the foregoing, one hundred percent (100%) of the RSUs shall vest and become nonforfeitable immediately prior to the consummation of a Change in Control, provided that Participant continues to serve in Management through such date.

2.4 Consideration to the Company. In consideration of the grant of the award of RSUs pursuant hereto, the Participant agrees to render faithful and efficient services to the Company or any affiliate.

2.5 Forfeiture, Termination and Cancellation upon Cessation of Service in Management. Notwithstanding any contrary provision of this Agreement or the Plan, upon the Participant’s cessation of service in Management, including, without limitation upon a Termination of Service, for any or no reason, all Restricted Stock Units which have not vested prior to or in connection with such cessation of service shall thereupon automatically be forfeited, terminated and cancelled as of the applicable termination date without payment of any consideration by the Company, and the Participant, or the Participant’s beneficiary or personal representative, as the case may be, shall have no further rights hereunder. No portion of the RSUs which has not become vested as of the date on which the Participant ceases to serve in Management, including, without limitation, upon a Termination of Service, shall thereafter become vested.

2.6 Issuance of Common Stock upon Vesting.

(a) As soon as administratively practicable following the vesting of any Restricted Stock Units pursuant to Section 2.3 hereof, but in no event later than thirty (30) days after such vesting date (for the avoidance of doubt, this deadline is intended to comply with the “short term deferral” exemption from Section 409A of the Code), the Company shall deliver to the Participant (or any transferee permitted under Section 3.2 hereof) a number of Shares equal to the number of RSUs subject to this Award that vest on the applicable vesting date. Notwithstanding the foregoing, in the event Shares cannot be issued pursuant to Section 9(g) of the Plan, the Shares shall be issued pursuant to the preceding sentence as soon as administratively practicable after the Administrator determines that Shares can again be issued in accordance with such Section.

(b) As set forth in Section 9(e) of the Plan, the Company shall have the authority and the right to deduct or withhold, or to require the Participant to remit to the Company, an amount sufficient to satisfy all applicable federal, state and local taxes required by law to be withheld with respect to any taxable event arising in connection with the Restricted Stock Units. The Company shall not be obligated to deliver any Shares to the Participant or the Participant’s legal representative unless and until the Participant or the Participant’s legal representative shall have paid or otherwise satisfied in full the amount of all federal, state and local taxes applicable to the taxable income of the Participant resulting from the grant or vesting of the Restricted Stock Units or the issuance of Shares.

2.7 Conditions to Delivery of Shares. The Shares deliverable hereunder may be either previously authorized but unissued Shares, treasury Shares or issued Shares which have then been reacquired by the Company. Such Shares shall be fully paid and nonassessable. The Company shall not be required to issue Shares deliverable hereunder prior to fulfillment of the conditions set forth in Section 9(g) of the Plan, including without limitation, the Participant’s entry into the Stockholders Agreement with the Company in the form provided to the Participant by the Company.

2.8 Rights as Stockholder. The holder of the RSUs shall not be, nor have any of the rights or privileges of, a stockholder of the Company, including, without limitation, voting rights and rights to dividends, in respect of the RSUs and any Shares underlying the RSUs and deliverable hereunder unless and until such Shares shall have been issued by the Company and held of record by such holder (as evidenced by the appropriate entry on the books of the Company or of a duly authorized transfer agent of the Company). No adjustment shall be made for a dividend or other right for which the record date is prior to the date the Shares are issued, except as provided in Section 8 of the Plan.

ARTICLE III.

OTHER PROVISIONS

3.1 Administration. The Administrator shall have the power to interpret the Plan and this Agreement and to adopt such rules for the administration, interpretation and application of the Plan as are consistent therewith and to interpret, amend or revoke any such rules. All actions taken and all interpretations and determinations made by the Administrator in good faith shall be final and binding upon the Participant, the Company and all other interested persons. No member of the Administrator or the Board shall be personally liable for any action, determination or interpretation made in good faith with respect to the Plan, this Agreement or the RSUs.

A-2
3.2 RSUs Not Transferable. The RSUs shall be subject to the restrictions on transferability set forth in Section 9(a) of the Plan.

3.3 Tax Consultation. The Participant understands that the Participant may suffer adverse tax consequences in connection with the RSUs granted pursuant to this Agreement (and the Shares issuable with respect thereto). The Participant represents that the Participant has consulted with any tax consultants the Participant deems advisable in connection with the RSUs and the issuance of Shares with respect thereto and that the Participant is not relying on the Company for any tax advice.

3.4 Binding Agreement. Subject to the limitation on the transferability of the RSUs contained herein, this Agreement will be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the heirs, legatees, legal representatives, successors and assigns of the parties hereto.

3.5 Adjustments Upon Specified Events. The Administrator may accelerate the vesting of the RSUs in such circumstances as it, in its sole discretion, may determine. The Participant acknowledges that the RSUs are subject to adjustment, modification and termination in certain events as provided in this Agreement and Section 8 of the Plan.

3.6 Notices. Any notice to be given under the terms of this Agreement to the Company shall be addressed to the Company in care of the Secretary of the Company at the Company’s principal office, and any notice to be given to the Participant shall be addressed to the Participant at the Participant’s last address reflected on the Company’s records. By a notice given pursuant to this Section 3.6, either party may hereafter designate a different address for notices to be given to that party. Any notice shall be deemed duly given when sent via email or when sent by certified mail (return receipt requested) and deposited (with postage prepaid) in a post office or branch post office regularly maintained by the United States Postal Service.

3.7 Participant’s Representations. If the Shares issuable hereunder have not been registered under the Securities Act or any applicable state laws on an effective registration statement at the time of such issuance, the Participant shall, if required by the Company, concurrently with such issuance, make such written representations as are deemed necessary or appropriate by the Company and/or its counsel.

3.8 Titles. Titles are provided herein for convenience only and are not to serve as a basis for interpretation or construction of this Agreement.

3.9 Governing Law. The laws of the State of Delaware shall govern the interpretation, validity, administration, enforcement and performance of the terms of this Agreement regardless of the law that might be applied under principles of conflicts of laws.

3.10 Conformity to Securities Laws. The Participant acknowledges that the Plan and this Agreement are intended to conform to the extent necessary with all provisions of the Securities Act and the Exchange Act and any other Applicable Laws. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the Plan shall be administered, and the RSUs are granted, only in such a manner as to conform to Applicable Laws. To the extent permitted by Applicable Laws, the Plan and this Agreement shall be deemed amended to the extent necessary to conform to such Applicable Laws.
3.11 Amendment, Suspension and Termination. To the extent permitted by the Plan, this Agreement may be wholly or partially amended or otherwise modified, suspended or terminated at any time or from time to time by the Administrator or the Board; provided, however, that, except as may otherwise be provided by the Plan, no amendment, modification, suspension or termination of this Agreement shall adversely affect the RSUs in any material way without the prior written consent of the Participant.

3.12 Successors and Assigns. The Company may assign any of its rights under this Agreement to single or multiple assignees, and this Agreement shall inure to the benefit of the successors and assigns of the Company. Subject to the restrictions on transfer herein set forth in Section 3.2 hereof, this Agreement shall be binding upon the Participant and his or her heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns.

3.13 Limitations Applicable to Section 16 Persons. Notwithstanding any other provision of the Plan or this Agreement, if the Participant is subject to Section 16 of the Exchange Act, then the Plan, the RSUs and this Agreement shall be subject to any additional limitations set forth in any applicable exemptive rule under Section 16 of the Exchange Act (including any amendment to Rule 16b-3 of the Exchange Act) that are requirements for the application of such exemptive rule. To the extent permitted by Applicable Laws, this Agreement shall be deemed amended to the extent necessary to conform to such applicable exemptive rule.

3.14 Not a Contract of Service Relationship. Nothing in this Agreement or in the Plan shall confer upon Participant any right to continue to serve in Management of the Company or any of its affiliates or interfere with or restrict in any way with the right of the Company or any of its affiliates, which rights are hereby expressly reserved, to discharge or to terminate for any reason whatsoever, with or without cause, the services of the Participant at any time.

3.15 Entire Agreement. The Plan, the Grant Notice, this Agreement (including all Exhibits thereto, if any) and the Stockholders Agreement constitute the entire agreement of the parties and supersede in their entirety all prior undertakings and agreements of the Company and the Participant with respect to the subject matter hereof.

3.16 Section 409A. This Award is not intended to constitute “nonqualified deferred compensation” within the meaning of Section 409A of the Code (together with any Department of Treasury regulations and other interpretive guidance issued thereunder, including without limitation any such regulations or other guidance that may be issued after the date hereof, “Section 409A”). However, notwithstanding any other provision of the Plan, the Grant Notice or this Agreement, if at any time the Administrator determines that this Award (or any portion thereof) may be subject to Section 409A, the Administrator shall have the right in its sole discretion (without any obligation to do so or to indemnify Participant or any other person for failure to do so) to adopt such amendments to the Plan, the Grant Notice or this Agreement, or adopt other policies and procedures (including amendments, policies and procedures with retroactive effect), or take any other actions, as the Administrator determines are necessary or appropriate for this Award either to be exempt from the application of Section 409A or to comply with the requirements of Section 409A.

3.17 Limitation on Participant’s Rights. Participation in the Plan confers no rights or interests other than as herein provided. This Agreement creates only a contractual obligation on the part of the Company as to amounts payable and shall not be construed as creating a trust. Neither the Plan nor any underlying program, in and of itself, has any assets. The Participant shall have only the rights of a general unsecured creditor of the Company and its affiliates with respect to amounts credited and benefits payable, if any, with respect to the RSUs, and rights no greater than the right to receive the Common Stock as a general unsecured creditor with respect to RSUs, as and when payable hereunder.
3.18 Investment Representations. The Participant hereby represents, warrants, covenants, acknowledges and agrees on behalf of the Participant and his or her spouse or domestic partner, if applicable, that (i) the Participant is holding the RSUs for the Participant’s own account, and not for the account of any other person, and (ii) the Participant is holding the RSUs for investment and not with a view to distribution or resale thereof except in compliance with Applicable Laws regulating securities.

(b) Employment Term. The term of employment under this Agreement (as may be extended in accordance with this Section 2(b), the “Term”) shall be for the period beginning on the Effective Date and ending on the fifth anniversary of the Effective Date, subject to earlier termination as provided in Section 4 hereof. The Term shall automatically be extended for successive one year periods unless within ninety (90) days prior to the end of the then current Term either Party provides a written notice of non-renewal to the other Party.

(c) Position and Duties. Executive shall serve as the President and Chief Executive Officer of the Company and as a member of the Board. Executive shall continue to devote substantially all of his time and attention during normal business hours to the business of the Company, will continue act in the best interest of the Company while performing his duties for the Company and will continue to perform with due care his duties and responsibilities for the Company. Executive’s duties will include those normally incidental to the position of President and Chief Executive Officer as well as whatever additional duties may be assigned to him by the Board. Executive shall report to the Chairman of the Board. Executive agrees not to engage in any activity that materially interferes with the performance of Executive’s duties hereunder. During the Term, Executive will not hold outside employment, provided, that it shall not be a violation of this Agreement for Executive (i) with prior written consent from the Board, to serve on the board of directors of one other company if such company is not affiliated with commercial aviation or its supply chain or (ii) to manage or engage in other activities in connection with Executive’s personal investments; provided, further, that the foregoing permitted activities shall not materially interfere with Executive’s duties hereunder. Executive acknowledges and agrees that Executive owes the Company a duty of loyalty and that the obligations described in this Agreement are in addition to, and not in lieu of, the obligations Executive owes the Company under the common law.
3. Compensation and Related Matters.

(a) Annual Base Salary. During the Term, Executive shall receive a base salary at a rate of four hundred seventy-five thousand dollars ($475,000) per annum (the “Annual Base Salary”), which shall be paid in accordance with the customary payroll practices and procedures of the Company. Such Annual Base Salary shall be reviewed by the Board from time to time but no less frequently than annually.

(b) Bonus. During the Term, Executive will continue to be eligible to earn a discretionary cash performance bonus (an “Annual Bonus”) under the Company’s incentive bonus program. Executive’s annual bonus opportunity shall continue to be one hundred percent (100%) of the Annual Base Salary (the “Target Bonus”) at the target achievement and two hundred percent (200%) of the Annual Base Salary at the maximum achievement. The amount of any Annual Bonus payable under the incentive bonus program may thus vary from zero percent (0%) to two hundred percent (200%), based on the achievement as determined by the Board of individual and Company performance goals to be set by the Board. The amount of any Annual Bonus shall be payable on such date as is determined by the Board in its sole discretion as soon as reasonably practicable after the final audited financial performance information for the Company is available for the calendar year with respect to which such Annual Bonus relates. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section 3, no bonus shall be payable with respect to any calendar year unless Executive remains continuously employed with the Company during the period beginning on the Effective Date and ending on the applicable bonus payment date except as otherwise provided in Section 5(b)(iv) and Section 5(c)(iv).

(c) Benefits. During the Term, Executive may continue to participate in such employee and executive benefit plans and programs as the Company may from time to time offer generally to provide to its employees and executives, pursuant to the terms and eligibility requirements of those plans.

(e) Vacation. During the Term, Executive shall continue to be entitled to no less than three (3) weeks of annual paid vacation, subject to the Company’s vacation policy, as it may be amended from time to time. Any vacation shall be taken at the reasonable and mutual convenience of the Company and Executive. Holidays shall be provided in accordance with Company policy, as in effect from time to time.

(f) Business Expenses. During the Term, the Company shall continue to reimburse Executive for all reasonable, documented, out-of-pocket travel and other business expenses incurred by Executive in the performance of Executive’s duties to the Company in accordance with the Company’s applicable expense reimbursement policies and procedures.
4. Termination.

Executive’s employment hereunder shall be “at-will” and may be terminated by the Company or Executive, as applicable, at any time for any reason, with or without prior notice, without any breach of this Agreement under the following circumstances:

(a) Circumstances.

(i) Death. Executive’s employment hereunder shall terminate upon Executive’s death.

(ii) Disability. If Executive incurs a Disability, the Company may give Executive written notice of its intention to terminate Executive’s employment. In that event, Executive’s employment with the Company shall terminate, effective on the later of the thirtieth (30th) day after receipt of such notice by Executive or the date specified in such notice, provided, that within the thirty (30) day period following receipt of such notice, Executive shall not have returned to full-time performance of Executive’s duties hereunder.

(iii) Termination for Cause. The Company may terminate Executive’s employment for Cause.

(iv) Termination without Cause. The Company may terminate Executive’s employment without Cause.

(v) Resignation from the Company Deemed a Constructive Termination. Executive may resign Executive’s employment with the Company under circumstances deemed a Constructive Termination.

(vi) Resignation from the Company Not Deemed a Constructive Termination. Executive may resign Executive’s employment with the Company under circumstances not deemed a Constructive Termination.

(b) Notice of Termination. Any termination of Executive’s employment by the Company or by Executive under this Section 4 (other than termination pursuant to paragraph (a)(i)) shall be communicated by a written notice to the other party hereto (i) indicating the specific termination provision in this Agreement relied upon, (ii) setting forth in reasonable detail the facts and circumstances claimed to provide a basis for termination of Executive’s employment under the provision so indicated unless the termination provision relied upon is Section 4(a)(iv) or (vi), and (iii) specifying a Date of Termination which, if submitted by Executive, shall be at least thirty (30) days following the date of such notice (a “Notice of Termination”); provided, however, that in the event that Executive delivers a Notice of Termination to the Company, the Company may, in its sole discretion, change the Date of Termination to any date that occurs following the date of Company’s receipt of such Notice of Termination and is prior to the date specified in such Notice of Termination. A Notice of Termination submitted by the Company may provide for a Date of Termination on the date Executive receives the Notice of Termination, or any date thereafter elected by the Company in its sole discretion. The failure by the Company to set forth in the Notice of Termination any fact or circumstance which contributes to a showing of Cause shall not waive any right of the Company hereunder or preclude the Company from asserting such fact or circumstance in enforcing the Company’s rights hereunder.

(c) Deemed Resignation. Upon termination of Executive’s employment for any reason, Executive shall be deemed to have resigned from all offices and directorships, if any, then held with the Company or any of its Affiliates.

(d) Forfeitures. In the event that Executive resigns pursuant to Section 4(a)(vi) hereof under circumstances not deemed a Constructive Termination pursuant to Section 4(a)(v) hereof, (i) Executive shall forfeit any unused portion of any UATP card and (ii) Executive shall forfeit any unpaid Annual Bonus.

5. Company Obligations Upon Termination of Employment.

(a) In General. Upon a termination of Executive’s employment for any reason, Executive (or Executive’s estate) shall be entitled to receive: (i) any portion of Executive’s Annual Base Salary through the Date of Termination not theretofore paid, (ii) any expenses owed to Executive under Section 3(f), and (iii) any amount arising from Executive’s participation in, or benefits under, any employee benefit plans, programs or arrangements under Section 3(c), which amounts shall be payable in accordance with the terms and conditions of such employee benefit plans, programs or arrangements. Except as otherwise set forth in Sections 5(b) and 5(c) below, the payments and benefits described in this Section 5(a) shall be the only payments and benefits payable in the event of termination of Executive’s employment for any reason.

(b) Termination Apart from a Change in Control. In the event of termination of Executive’s employment by the Company without Cause pursuant to Section 4(a)(iv) hereof, other than within the twelve (12) month period following a Change in Control, in addition to the payments and benefits described in Section 5(a) above, subject to Section 12 and Section 5(d) and subject to Executive’s delivery to the Company of a waiver and release of claims agreement in a form substantially comparable to Exhibit A, attached hereto, and in accordance with Section 12(d) (a “Release”), that becomes effective and irrevocable within sixty (60) days following the Date of Termination:

(i) The Company shall pay to Executive, in a single lump-sum payment within sixty (60) days following the Date of Termination, an amount equal to one (1) times the Annual Base Salary plus the Target Bonus for the calendar year in which the Date of Termination occurs.

(ii) The Company shall continue to provide Executive with the Flight Benefits for the one (1)-year period following the Date of Termination.

(iii) If Executive elects to receive continued healthcare coverage pursuant to the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985, as amended ("COBRA").
the Company shall directly pay, or at the Company’s election reimburse Executive for, the COBRA premiums for Executive and Executive’s covered dependents during the period commencing on Executive’s termination of employment and ending upon the earliest of (X) the first anniversary of the Date of Termination, (Y) the date that Executive and/or Executive’s covered dependents, as applicable, become no longer eligible for COBRA or (Z) the date Executive becomes eligible to receive healthcare coverage from a subsequent employer.

(iv) Executive shall be eligible to receive a prorated portion of the Annual Bonus Executive would have received with respect to the calendar year during which the Date of Termination occurs had he remained in continuous employment through the date of payment, with the amount determined based on actual performance against applicable metrics and subject to discretionary adjustments permitted under the applicable incentive bonus program and with proration determined by dividing the number of days Executive served hereunder in the calendar year during which the Date of Termination occurred by the total number of days in the calendar year in which the Date of Termination occurred, in each case, as determined by the Board. Any such prorated Annual Bonus shall be payable on the regularly scheduled payment date under the Company’s incentive bonus program (in the calendar year following the calendar year in which the Date of Termination occurs).

(c) Termination Within 12 Months Following a Change in Control. In the event of termination of Executive’s employment by the Company without Cause pursuant to Section 4(a)(iv) hereof or Executive’s Constructive Termination pursuant to Section 4(a)(v) hereof, in each case within twelve (12) months following a Change in Control, in addition to the payments and benefits described in Section 5(a) above, subject to Section 12 and Section 5(d) and subject to Executive’s delivery to the Company of a Release in accordance with Section 12(d) that becomes effective and irrevocable within sixty (60) days following the Date of Termination:

(i) The Company shall pay to Executive, in a single lump-sum payment within sixty (60) days of the Date of Termination, an amount equal to two (2) times (A) the Annual Base Salary plus (B) the Target Bonus for the calendar year in which the Date of Termination occurs.

(ii) The Company shall continue to provide Executive with the Flight Benefits for the two (2)-year period following the Date of Termination.

(iii) If Executive elects to receive continued healthcare coverage pursuant to COBRA, the Company shall directly pay, or at the Company’s election reimburse Executive for, the COBRA premiums for Executive and Executive’s covered dependents during the period commencing on Executive’s termination of employment and ending upon the earliest of (X) the second anniversary of the Date of Termination, (Y) the date that Executive and/or Executive’s covered dependents, as applicable, become no longer eligible for COBRA or (Z) the date Executive becomes eligible to receive healthcare coverage from a subsequent employer.
Executive shall be eligible to receive a prorated portion of the Annual Bonus Executive would have received with respect to the calendar year during which the Date of Termination occurs had he remained in continuous employment through the date of payment, with the amount determined based on actual performance against applicable metrics and subject to discretionary adjustments permitted under the applicable incentive bonus program and with proration determined by dividing the number of days Executive served hereunder in the calendar year during which the Date of Termination occurred by the total number of days in the calendar year in which the Date of Termination occurred, in each case, as determined by the Board. Any such prorated Annual Bonus shall be payable on the regularly scheduled payment date under the Company’s incentive bonus program (in the calendar year following the calendar year in which the Date of Termination occurs).

Each outstanding equity award, including, without limitation, each stock option, restricted stock unit and restricted stock award, held by Executive shall automatically become vested and, if applicable, exercisable and any restrictions thereon shall immediately lapse, in each case, with respect to one hundred percent (100%) of the then unvested shares subject to such equity award.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, no payment shall be made pursuant to Sections 5(b) or 5(c) following the date Executive first violates any of the restrictive covenants set forth in Section 8.

The provisions of this Section 5 shall supersede in their entirety any severance payment provisions in any severance plan, policy, program or other arrangement maintained by the Company.

Executive shall not be required to mitigate the amount of any payment provided for under this Agreement by seeking other employment or in any other manner. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, the termination of Executive’s employment and the expiration or termination of the Term shall not impair the rights or obligations of any party hereto.

The Company shall reduce Executive’s severance benefits under this Agreement, in whole or in part, by any other severance benefits, pay in lieu of notice, or other similar benefits payable to Executive by the Company in connection with Executive’s termination, including but not limited to payments or benefits pursuant to (i) any applicable legal requirement, including, without limitation, the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, or (ii) any Company policy or practice providing for Executive to remain on the payroll without being in active service for a limited period of time after being given notice of the termination of Executive’s employment. The benefits provided under this Agreement are intended to satisfy, to the greatest extent possible, any and all statutory obligations that may arise out of Executive’s termination of employment. Such reductions shall be applied on a retroactive basis, with severance benefits previously paid being recharacterized as payments pursuant to the Company’s statutory obligation.
6. Treatment of Equity.

(a) New Stock Option. Promptly following the Effective Date, Executive shall be granted an option (the “Option”) to purchase 39,900 shares of Group common stock for an exercise price per share equal to the per share fair market value of Group’s common stock on the date of grant, as determined by Group’s board of directors. The Option shall vest and become exercisable with respect to one-fourth (1/4) of the shares initially subject to the Option on each of the first four anniversaries of the Effective Date, subject to Executive’s continued service to the Company through the applicable vesting date. The Option shall otherwise be subject to the terms of the equity incentive plan pursuant to which it is granted and Group’s standard option agreement to be entered into between Executive and Group.

(b) Stockholders Agreement. As a condition to the exercise of the Option or the acquisition of any other equity interest in Group, Executive agrees to enter into any stockholders agreement and/or side agreement restricting the sale of shares of Group common stock requested by Group at any time.

7. Indemnification and Cooperation.

(a) Indemnification. The Company shall indemnify Executive in Executive’s capacity as director, officer, employee or agent of the Company to the fullest extent permissible by applicable law and the Company’s charter and by-laws, and shall purchase and maintain, for the benefit of Executive, director and officer liability insurance (including post-termination/post-director service tail coverage) in a form at least as comprehensive as, and in an amount that is at least equal to, that maintained by the Company for similarly situated executive officers of the Company. The Company shall use its reasonable best efforts to cause any successor to all or substantially all of the business or assets of the Company to assume expressly in writing and to agree to perform all of the obligations of the Company under this Section 7(a).

(b) Cooperation. Executive shall reasonably cooperate with the Company and its Affiliates in connection with any litigation or regulatory matter or with any government authority on any matter, in each case, pertaining to the Company or any Affiliate of the Company and with respect to which Executive may have relevant knowledge, provided that, in connection with such cooperation, the Company shall reimburse Executive’s reasonable expenses.

8. Restrictive Covenants.

(a) Affiliates. As used in this Section 8, the term “Company” shall include the Company and any Affiliate of the Company.

(b) Acknowledgements and Agreements. Executive represents that Executive’s continued employment by the Company and the performance of Executive’s duties hereunder do not and will not breach any agreement with any former employer, including any non-compete agreement, non-solicit agreement or any agreement to keep in confidence or refrain from using information acquired by Executive prior to Executive’s employment by the Company. During Executive’s employment by the Company, Executive agrees that Executive will not violate any non-solicitation agreements Executive entered into with any former employer or improperly make use of, or disclose, any information or trade secrets of any former employer or other third party, nor will Executive bring onto the premises of the Company or use any unpublished documents or any property belonging to any former employer or other third party, in violation of any lawful agreements with that former employer or third party.
(c) Non-Competition/Non-Solicitation. Executive acknowledges and recognizes the highly competitive nature of the businesses of the Company, and further acknowledges and recognizes that the Company has entered into this Agreement in reliance on, among other things, Executive’s agreement to be bound by the non-competition provisions set forth in this Section 8(c). Accordingly, Executive agrees as follows:

(i) Executive shall not, at any time during the Term and the twelve (12) month period following the Date of Termination (or twenty-four (24) month period following the Date of Termination in the event of termination of Executive’s employment by the Company without Cause pursuant to Section 4(a)(iv) hereof or Executive’s Constructive Termination pursuant to Section 4(a)(v) hereof, directly or indirectly, (A) engage, participate or assist in any Competing Business, (B) enter the employ of, or render any services to, any Person engaged in any Competing Business, (C) acquire a financial interest in, or otherwise become actively involved with, any Person engaged in any Competing Business, whether as an individual, partner, shareholder, officer, director, principal, agent, trustee or consultant. Nothing herein shall prohibit Executive from being a passive owner of not more than two percent (2%) of the outstanding equity interest in any entity that is publicly traded, so long as Executive has no active participation in the business of such entity.

(ii) Executive hereby agrees that Executive shall not, at any time during the Term and the twelve (12) month period following the Date of Termination (or twenty-four (24) month period following the Date of Termination in the event of Executive’s termination of employment by the Company without Cause pursuant to Section 4(a)(iv) hereof or Executive’s Constructive Termination pursuant to Section 4(a)(v) hereof, directly or indirectly, either for himself or on behalf of any other Person, (A) recruit or otherwise solicit or induce any employee, customer or supplier of the Company to terminate its employment or arrangement with the Company, or otherwise change its relationship with the Company, or (B) hire, or cause to be hired, any Person who was employed by the Company at any time during the twelve (12)-month period immediately prior to the Date of Termination or who thereafter becomes employed by the Company.

(iii) In the event the terms of this Section 8(c) shall be determined by any court of competent jurisdiction to be unenforceable by reason of its extending for too great a period of time or over too great a geographical area or by reason of its being too extensive in any other respect, it will be interpreted to, and may be modified by a court of competent jurisdiction to, extend only over the maximum period of time for which it may be enforceable, over the maximum geographical area as to which it may be enforceable, or to the maximum extent in all other respects as to which it may be enforceable, all as determined by such court in such action.

(iv) Executive understands that the restrictions set forth in this Section 8(c) are intended to protect the Company’s established employee, customer and supplier relations, and the general goodwill of its business, and Executive agrees that such restrictions are reasonable and appropriate for this purpose.
(v) Tolling. In the event Executive engages in conduct in violation of his covenants in Sections 8(c), the applicable restricted period shall be extended for a period of time equal to the time in which Executive engaged in competitive activity prohibited by this Agreement.

(d) Non-Disparagement. Each of the Parties agrees not to disparage the other party, any of the other’s products or practices, or any of the other’s agents, representatives, or Affiliates, either orally or in writing, at any time; provided, that either party may confer in confidence with their legal representatives and make truthful statements as required by law.

(e) Confidentiality. As used in this Agreement, “Confidential Information” means information belonging to the Company or any Affiliate which is of value to the Company or such Affiliate in the course of conducting its business and the disclosure of which could result in a competitive or other disadvantage to the Company or such Affiliate. Confidential Information includes, without limitation, patient or other medical information, financial information, reports, forecasts, inventions, improvements and other intellectual property, trade secrets, know-how, designs, processes or formulae, software, market or sales information or plans, customer lists, business plans and prospects and opportunities (such as possible acquisitions or dispositions of businesses or facilities) which have been discussed or considered by the management of the Company. Confidential Information also includes information developed by Executive in the course of Executive’s employment by the Company, as well as other information to which Executive may have access in connection with Executive’s employment. Confidential Information also includes the confidential information of others with which the Company or any Affiliate has a business relationship and which is known by Executive or which Executive should have reason to know about. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Confidential Information does not include information in the public domain, unless due to breach of Executive’s duties under this Section 8(e).

(i) Executive understands and agrees that Executive’s employment creates a relationship of confidence and trust between Executive and the Company with respect to all Confidential Information. At all times, both during Executive’s employment with the Company and after its termination, Executive will keep in confidence and trust all such Confidential Information, and will not use or disclose any such Confidential Information without the written consent of the Company, except as may be necessary in the ordinary course of performing Executive’s duties to the Company or as otherwise required by law.

(ii) All documents, records, data, apparatus, equipment and other physical property, whether or not pertaining to Confidential Information, which are furnished to Executive by the Company or any Affiliate or are produced by Executive in connection with Executive’s employment will be and remain the sole property of the Company. Executive will return to the Company all such materials and property as and when requested by the Company. In any event, Executive will return all such materials and property immediately upon termination of Executive’s employment for any reason, and will not retain any copies thereof following such termination.
9. Injunctive Relief.

It is recognized and acknowledged by Executive that a breach of the covenants contained in Section 8 will cause irreparable damage to Company and its goodwill, the exact amount of which will be difficult or impossible to ascertain, and that the remedies at law for any such breach will be inadequate. Accordingly, Executive agrees that in the event of a breach of any of the covenants contained in Section 8, in addition to any other remedy which may be available at law or in equity, the Company will be entitled to specific performance and injunctive relief without the requirement to post any bond.

10. Assignment and Successors.

The Company may assign its rights and obligations under this Agreement to any Affiliate or to any successor to all or substantially all of the business or the assets of the Company (by merger or otherwise), and may assign or encumber this Agreement and its rights hereunder as security for indebtedness of the Company and its Affiliates. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the Company, Executive and their respective successors, assigns, personnel and legal representatives, executors, administrators, heirs, distributees, devisees, and legatees, as applicable. None of Executive’s rights or obligations may be assigned or transferred by Executive, other than Executive’s rights to payments hereunder, which may be transferred only by will or operation of law. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Executive shall be entitled, to the extent permitted under applicable law and applicable Company arrangements, to select and change a beneficiary or beneficiaries to receive compensation hereunder following Executive’s death by giving written notice thereof to the Company.

11. Miscellaneous Provisions.

(a) Right to Work. This Agreement, and employment as the Company’s Chief Executive Officer pursuant to this Agreement, is conditioned upon your consent to, and results satisfactory to the Company of, Executive shall be required to (i) a drug test and (ii) a physical exam at Mayo Clinic in Scottsdale, Arizona. All reasonable and customary expenses incurred by Executive in connection with the foregoing shall be reimbursed by the Company, in accordance with the Company’s reimbursement policies. Executive shall also be required to provide documentation of Executive’s U.S. citizenship and maintain such citizenship during the Term.

(b) Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed, construed, interpreted and enforced in accordance with its express terms, and otherwise in accordance with the substantive laws of the State of Colorado, without giving effect to any principles of conflicts of law, whether of the State of Colorado or any other jurisdiction, and where applicable, the laws of the United States, that would result in the application of the laws of any other jurisdiction.

(c) Validity. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision or provisions of this Agreement shall not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision of this Agreement, which shall remain in full force and effect.

(d) Notices. Any notice, request, claim, demand, document and other communication hereunder to any Party shall be effective upon receipt (or refusal of receipt) and shall be in writing and delivered personally or sent by facsimile or certified or registered mail, postage prepaid, as follows:

(iii) at any other address as any Party shall have specified by notice in writing to the other Party.

(e) Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in several counterparts, each of which shall be deemed to be an original, but all of which together will constitute one and the same Agreement. Signatures delivered by facsimile shall be deemed effective for all purposes.

(f) Entire Agreement. The terms of this Agreement are intended by the Parties to be the final expression of their agreement with respect to the employment of Executive by the Company and supersede all prior understandings and agreements, whether written or oral, except for the option agreements entered into between Executive and the Group. The Parties further intend that this Agreement shall constitute the complete and exclusive statement of their terms and that no extrinsic evidence whatsoever may be introduced in any judicial, administrative, or other legal proceeding to vary the terms of this Agreement.

(g) Amendments; Waivers. This Agreement may not be modified, amended, or terminated except by an instrument in writing, signed by Executive and a duly authorized officer of Company, which specifically states the intention to modify, amend or terminate this Agreement. By an instrument in writing signed by Executive or a duly authorized officer of the Company, Executive or the Company, as applicable, may waive compliance by the other Party with any specifically identified provision of this Agreement that such other Party was or is obligated to comply with or perform; provided, however, that such waiver shall not operate as a waiver of, or estoppel with respect to, any other or subsequent failure. No failure to exercise and no delay in exercising any right, remedy, or power hereunder shall preclude any other or further exercise of any other right, remedy, or power provided herein or by law or in equity.
(b) No Inconsistent Actions. The Parties hereto shall not voluntarily undertake any action or course of action inconsistent with, or fail voluntarily to undertake any action or course of action required by, the provisions or essential intent of this Agreement. Furthermore, it is the intent of the Parties hereto to act in a fair and reasonable manner with respect to the interpretation and application of the provisions of this Agreement.

(i) Construction. This Agreement shall be deemed drafted equally by both the Parties. Its language shall be construed as a whole and according to its fair meaning. Any presumption or principle that the language is to be construed against any Party shall not apply. The headings in this Agreement are only for convenience and are not intended to affect construction or interpretation. Any references to paragraphs, subparagraphs, sections or subsections are to those parts of this Agreement, unless the context clearly indicates to the contrary. Also, unless the context clearly indicates to the contrary, (a) the plural includes the singular and the singular includes the plural; (b) “and” and “or” are each used both conjunctively and disjunctively; (c) “any,” “all,” “each,” or “every” means “any and all,” and “each and every”; (d) “includes” and “including” are each “without limitation”; (e) “herein,” “hereof,” “hereunder” and other similar compounds of the word “here” refer to the entire Agreement and not to any particular paragraph, subparagraph, section or subsection; and (f) all pronouns and any variations thereof shall be deemed to refer to the masculine, feminine, neuter, singular or plural as the identity of the entities or persons referred to may require.

(j) Arbitration. Any dispute or controversy based on, arising under or relating to this Agreement shall be settled exclusively by final and binding arbitration, conducted before a single neutral arbitrator in the City and County of Denver, Colorado in accordance with the Employment Arbitration Rules and Mediation Procedures of the American Arbitration Association (the “AAA”) then in effect. Arbitration may be compelled, and judgment may be entered on the arbitration award in any court having jurisdiction; provided, however, that the Company shall be entitled to seek a restraining order or injunction in any court of competent jurisdiction to prevent any continuation of any violation of the provisions of Section 8, and Executive hereby consents that such restraining order or injunction may be granted without requiring the Company to post a bond. Only individuals who are (a) lawyers engaged full-time in the practice of law and (b) on the AAA roster of arbitrators shall be selected as an arbitrator. Within twenty (20) days of the conclusion of the arbitration hearing, the arbitrator shall prepare written findings of fact and conclusions of law. Each party shall bear its own costs and attorneys’ fees in connection with any arbitration; provided that the Company shall bear the cost of the arbitrator and the AAA’s administrative fees.

(k) Enforcement. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be illegal, invalid or unenforceable under present or future laws effective during the term of this Agreement, such provision shall be fully severable; this Agreement shall be construed and enforced as if such illegal, invalid or unenforceable provision had never comprised a portion of this Agreement; and the remaining provisions of this Agreement shall remain in full force and effect and shall not be affected by the illegal, invalid or unenforceable provision or by its severance from this Agreement. Furthermore, in lieu of such illegal, invalid or unenforceable provision there shall be added automatically as part of this Agreement a provision as similar in terms to such illegal, invalid or unenforceable provision as may be possible and be legal, valid and enforceable.

(l) Withholding. The Company shall be entitled to withhold from any amounts payable under this Agreement any federal, state, local or foreign withholding or other taxes or charges which the Company is required to withhold. The Company shall be entitled to rely on an opinion of counsel if any questions as to the amount or requirement of withholding shall arise.

12. Section 409A.

(a) General. The intent of the Parties is that the payments and benefits under this Agreement comply with or be exempt from Section 409A and, accordingly, to the maximum extent permitted, this Agreement shall be interpreted to be in compliance therewith. If Executive notifies the Company that Executive has received advice of tax counsel of a national reputation with expertise in Section 409A that any provision of this Agreement would cause Executive to incur any additional tax or interest under Section 409A (with specificity as to the reason therefor) or the Company (which shall have no obligation to assess the issue absent such notice from Executive) independently makes such determination, the Company and Executive shall take commercially reasonable efforts to reform such provision to try to comply with or be exempt from Section 409A through good faith modifications to the minimum extent reasonably appropriate to conform with Section 409A, provided that any such modifications shall not increase the cost or liability to the Company. To the extent that any provision hereof is modified in order to comply with or be exempt from Section 409A, such modification shall be made in good faith and shall, to the maximum extent reasonably possible, maintain the original intent and economic benefit to Executive and the Company of the applicable provision without violating the provisions of Section 409A. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, Executive acknowledges and agrees that (i) Executive is not relying upon any determination by the Company, its Affiliates, or any of their respective employees, directors, officers, attorneys or agents regarding the tax effects, including, without limitation, tax effects under Section 409A, associated with Executive’s entry into this Agreement or the receipt of any payments hereunder, and (ii) in deciding to enter into this Agreement, Executive is relying on Executive’s own judgment and the judgment of the professionals of Executive’s choice with whom Executive has consulted.

(b) Separation from Service. Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary in this Agreement: (i) no amount that constitutes “deferred compensation” under Section 409A shall be payable pursuant to Sections 5(b) or 5(c) unless the termination of Executive’s employment constitutes a “separation from service” within the meaning of Section 1.409A-1(h) of the Department of Treasury Regulations (“Separation from Service”); (ii) for purposes of Section 409A, Executive’s right, if any, to receive installment payments pursuant to Sections 5(b) or 5(c) hereof shall be treated as a right to receive a series of separate and distinct payments; and (iii) to the extent that any reimbursement of expenses or in-kind benefits constitutes “deferred compensation” under Section 409A, such reimbursement or benefit shall be provided no later than December 31st of the year following the year in which the expense was incurred. The amount of expenses reimbursed in one year shall not affect the amount eligible for reimbursement in any subsequent year. The amount of any in-kind benefits provided in one year shall not affect the amount of in-kind benefits provided in any other year. Any good faith determination by the Company in respect of Section 409A shall be final and binding on Executive.
Specified Employee. Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, if Executive is deemed by the Company at the time of Executive’s Separation from Service to be a “specified employee” for purposes of Section 409A, to the extent delayed commencement of any portion of the benefits to which Executive is entitled under this Agreement is required in order to avoid a prohibited distribution under Section 409A, such portion of Executive’s benefits shall not be provided to Executive prior to the earlier of (i) the expiration of the six (6)-month period measured from the date of Executive’s Separation from Service with the Company or (ii) the date of Executive’s death. Upon the first business day following the expiration of the applicable Section 409A period, all payments deferred pursuant to the preceding sentence shall be paid in a lump sum to Executive (or Executive’s estate or beneficiaries), and any remaining payments due to Executive under this Agreement shall be paid as otherwise provided herein.

Release. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, to the extent that any payments due under this Agreement as a result of termination of Executive’s employment are subject to Executive’s execution and delivery of a Release, (i) if Executive fails to execute and deliver the Release on or prior to the Release Deadline (as defined below) or timely revokes the Release thereafter, Executive shall not be entitled to any payments or benefits otherwise conditioned on the Release, and (ii) in any case where the Date of Termination and the Release Deadline fall in two separate taxable years, any payments required to be made to Executive that are conditioned on the Release and are treated as nonqualified deferred compensation for purposes of Section 409A shall be made in the later taxable year. For purposes of this Section 12(d), “Release Deadline” shall mean the date that is twenty-one (21) days following the date upon which the Company timely delivers the Release to Executive, or, in the event that Executive’s termination of employment is “in connection with an exit incentive or other employment termination program” (as such phrase is defined in the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967), as determined by the Company, the date that is forty-five (45) days following such delivery date. To the extent that any payments of nonqualified deferred compensation (within the meaning of Section 409A) due under this Agreement as a result of Executive’s termination of employment are delayed pursuant to this Section 12(d), such amounts shall be paid in a lump sum on the first payroll date following the date that Executive executes and delivers and does not revoke the Release (and the applicable revocation period has expired) or, in the case of any payments subject to Section 12(d)(iii), on the first payroll period to occur in the subsequent taxable year, if later.

(a) Best Pay Cap. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, in the event that any payment or benefit received or to be received by Executive (including any payment or benefit received in connection with a termination of Executive’s employment, whether pursuant to the terms of this Agreement or any other plan, arrangement or agreement) (all such payments and benefits, including the payments and benefits under Section 5 hereof, being hereinafter referred to as the “Total Payments”) would be subject (in whole or part), to the excise tax imposed under Section 4999 of the Code (such excise tax, the “Excise Tax”), then, after taking into account any reduction in the Total Payments provided by reason of Section 280G of the Code in such other plan, arrangement or agreement, the cash severance payments under this Agreement shall first be reduced, and the noncash severance payments hereunder shall thereafter be reduced, to the extent necessary so that no portion of the Total Payments is subject to the Excise Tax but only if (i) the net amount of such Total Payments, as so reduced (and after subtracting the net amount of federal, state and local income taxes on such reduced Total Payments and after taking into account the phase out of itemized deductions and personal exemptions attributable to such reduced Total Payments) is greater than or equal to (ii) the net amount of such Total Payments without such reduction (but after subtracting the net amount of federal, state and local income taxes on such Total Payments and the amount of Excise Tax to which Executive would be subject in respect of such unreduced Total Payments and after taking into account the phase out of itemized deductions and personal exemptions attributable to such unreduced Total Payments).

(b) Certain Exclusions. For purposes of determining whether and the extent to which the Total Payments will be subject to the Excise Tax, (i) no portion of the Total Payments the receipt or enjoyment of which Executive shall have waived at such time and in such manner as not to constitute a “payment” within the meaning of Section 280G(b) of the Code shall be taken into account; (ii) no portion of the Total Payments shall be taken into account which, in the written opinion of an independent, nationally recognized accounting firm selected by the Company (the “Independent Advisors”), does not constitute a “parachute payment” within the meaning of Section 280G(b)(2) of the Code (including by reason of Section 280G(b)(4)(A) of the Code) and, in calculating the Excise Tax, no portion of such Total Payments shall be taken into account which, in the opinion of Independent Advisors, constitutes reasonable compensation for services actually rendered, within the meaning of Section 280G(b)(4)(B) of the Code, in excess of the “base amount” (as defined in Section 280G(b)(3) of the Code) allocable to such reasonable compensation; and (iii) the value of any non cash benefit or any deferred payment or benefit included in the Total Payments shall be determined by the Independent Advisors in accordance with the principles of Sections 280G(d)(3) and (4) of the Code. Promptly following any request to do so, Executive shall provide to any Independent Advisors such information as they may require to assess the impact of Section 280G(b) on any amounts payable hereunder. Any good faith determinations of the Independent Advisors made hereunder shall be final and binding upon the Company and Executive.

Executive acknowledges that Executive has read and understands this Agreement, is fully aware of its legal effect, has not acted in reliance upon any representations or promises made by the Company other than those contained in writing herein, and has entered into this Agreement freely based on Executive’s own judgment.

3. I, and anyone claiming through me (including, without limitation, my heirs, and agents, representatives and assigns), hereby irrevocably waive and forever release and discharge the Company, its owners, subsidiaries, affiliates, and each of their respective officers, directors, employees, agents, predecessors, successors and assigns (the “Releasees”), from any and all liabilities of any nature whatsoever, known and unknown, fixed or contingent, arising out of, based on, or related to my services to the Company or any other Releasee, the termination of such services, any rights with respect to equity ownership of the Company, and any dealings, transactions or events involving the Releasees occurring prior to or on the date this Release becomes effective, including but not limited to claims under the Civil Rights Act of 1866; the Civil Rights Act of 1871; the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (as amended, the “ADEA”); the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act of 1990; the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990; the Employment Retirement Income Security Act of 1974; the Rehabilitation Act of 1973; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the federal Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act (and any similar state laws); the Equal Pay Act of 1963; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985; Executive Order 11141; the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the Colorado Anti-Discrimination Act; and any other federal, state or local law, rule or regulation, and common law claims. I also agree not to commence or cooperate in the prosecution or investigation of any lawsuit, administrative action or other claim or complaint against the Releasees, except as required by law; in the event that any such proceeding is commenced on my behalf, I waive the right to receive any monetary recovery in such proceeding. This Release does not extend to claims due to the failure of the Company to pay the Severance Benefits in accordance with the terms of the Employment Agreement or claims that may arise after the date this Release becomes effective.
4. I understand and agree that this Release will be binding on me and my heirs, administrators and assigns. I acknowledge that I have not assigned any claims or filed or initiated any legal proceedings against any of the Releasees.

5. The Company hereby advises me of my right to consult with an attorney before signing the Release and I acknowledge that I have had an opportunity to consult with an attorney and have either held such consultation or have determined not to consult with an attorney.

6. I understand that I may revoke this Release by delivering written notice of my revocation to Frontier Airlines, Inc., 7001 Tower Road, Denver, Colorado 80249, Attn: Board of Directors within the seven (7) day period beginning on the day following the day I sign the Release (the “Revocation Period”). If I do not revoke this Release within the Revocation Period, it will be legally binding and enforceable on the day immediately following the last day of the revocation period.

(b) Employment Term. Executive shall be employed under this Agreement throughout the Term, subject to earlier termination as provided in Section 4 hereof.

(c) Position and Duties. Executive shall serve as the Chief Financial Officer of the Company. Executive shall continue to devote substantially all of his time and attention during normal business hours to the business of the Company, will continue act in the best interest of the Company while performing his duties for the Company and will continue to perform with due care his duties and responsibilities for the Company. Executive’s duties will include those normally incidental to the position of Chief Financial Officer of a company of the Company’s size and nature as well as whatever additional duties may be reasonably assigned to him by the Board or the Chief Executive Officer, consistent with the duties of a Chief Financial Officer. Executive shall report to the Chief Executive Officer. Executive agrees not to engage in any activity that materially interferes with the performance of Executive’s duties hereunder. Executive also agrees not to hold outside employment. Any position held with a personal or family investment will not count as such employment, provided the pertinent personal or family investment and any related operating business is owned entirely by Executive and/or members of Executive’s family. Executive acknowledges and agrees that Executives owes the Company a duty of loyalty and that the obligations described in this Agreement are in addition to, and not in lieu of, the obligations Executive owes the Company under the common law.

The amount of any Annual Bonus shall be payable on such date as is determined by the Board in its sole discretion for the payment of all such annual bonuses, which date shall be as soon as reasonably practicable after the final audited financial performance information for the Company is available for the calendar year to which such annual bonuses relate. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, no bonus shall be payable with respect to any calendar year unless Executive remains continuously employed with the Company during the period beginning on the Effective Date and ending on the applicable bonus payment date except as otherwise provided in Section 5(a) and Section 5(c)(iv).

(e) Vacation. During the Term, Executive shall continue to be entitled to no less than three (3) weeks of annual paid vacation plus Frontier-recognized holidays (currently seven (7) in number), in accordance with the Company’s vacation policy, as it may be amended from time to time. Any vacation shall be taken at the reasonable and mutual convenience of the Company and Executive. Holidays shall be provided in accordance with Company policy, as in effect from time to time.
4. Termination.

Executive’s employment hereunder shall be “at-will” and may be terminated by the Company or Executive, as applicable, at any time for any reason, with or without prior notice, without any breach of this Agreement under the following circumstances:

(a) Circumstances.

(i) Death. Executive’s employment hereunder shall terminate upon Executive’s death.

(ii) Disability. If Executive incurs a Disability, the Company may give Executive written notice of its intention to terminate Executive’s employment. (iii) Termination for Cause. The Company may terminate Executive’s employment for Cause.

(iv) Termination without Cause. The Company may terminate Executive’s employment without Cause. In the event that the Company gives Executive a notice of non-extension, and Executive serves as Chief Financial Officer until the end of the Term, the Company shall be deemed to have terminated Executive’s employment without Cause as of the end of the Term.

In the event that Executive resigns pursuant to Section 4(a)(vi) hereof under circumstances not deemed a Constructive Termination pursuant to Section 4(a)(v) hereof, (i) Executive shall forfeit any unused portion of any UATP card; (ii) Executive shall forfeit any unpaid Annual Bonus; and (iii) in the event the Company is not then required to file periodic reports pursuant to Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, Executive’s vested equity awards shall be subject to repurchase by the Group or the Company at a repurchase price equal to the fair market value of the underlying shares less, solely with respect to any unexercised stock options, the exercise price therefor. For this purpose, the fair market value of the underlying shares shall be the fair market value of Group shares as determined by the most recent independent valuation obtained by the Company or the Group for use in connection with the Group’s equity award plan. The Group or the Company shall repurchase Executive’s vested equity awards, if at all, within sixty (60) days after the Date of Termination.

1. Company Obligations Upon Termination of Employment.

Upon any termination of Executive’s employment pursuant to Section 4(a)(i) or Section 4(a)(ii), Executive shall be entitled to receive any Annual Bonus payable with respect to the calendar year in which the Date of Termination occurs. Except as otherwise set forth in Sections 5(b) and 5(c) below, the payments and benefits described in this Section 5(a) shall be the only payments and benefits payable in the event of termination of Executive’s employment for any reason.
(b) Termination Apart from a Change in Control. In the event of termination of Executive’s employment by the Company without Cause pursuant to Section 4(a)(iv) hereof, other than within the twelve (12) month period following a Change in Control, in addition to the payments and benefits described in Section 5(a) above, subject to Section 12 and Section 5(d) and subject to Executive’s delivery to the Company of a Release in accordance with Section 12(d), that becomes effective and irrevocable within sixty (60) days following the Date of Termination:

(ii) The Company shall continue to provide Executive with the Flight Benefits for the one (1)-year period following the Date of Termination.

(iii) If Executive elects to receive continued healthcare coverage pursuant to COBRA, the Company shall directly pay, or at the Company’s election reimburse Executive for, the COBRA premiums for Executive and Executive’s covered dependents during the period commencing on Executive’s termination of employment and ending upon the earliest of (X) the first anniversary of the Date of Termination, (Y) the date that Executive and/or Executive’s covered dependents, as applicable, become no longer eligible for COBRA or (Z) the date Executive becomes eligible to receive healthcare coverage from a subsequent employer.

c) Termination Within 12 Months Following a Change in Control. In the event of termination of Executive’s employment by the Company without Cause pursuant to Section 4(a)(iv) hereof or Executive’s Constructive Termination pursuant to Section 4(a)(v) hereof, in each case within twelve (12) months following a Change in Control, in addition to the payments and benefits described in Section 5(a) above, subject to Section 12 and Section 5(d) and subject to Executive’s delivery to the Company of a Release in accordance with Section 12(d) that becomes effective and irrevocable within sixty (60) days following the Date of Termination:

(i) The Company shall pay to Executive, in a single lump-sum payment within sixty (60) days of the Date of Termination, an amount equal to two (2) times (A) the Annual Base Salary plus (B) the Target Bonus for the calendar year in which the Date of Termination occurs.

(ii) The Company shall continue to provide Executive with the Flight Benefits for the two (2)-year period following the Date of Termination.

(iii) If Executive elects to receive continued healthcare coverage pursuant to COBRA, the Company shall directly pay, or at the Company’s election reimburse Executive for, the COBRA premiums for Executive and Executive’s covered dependents during the period commencing on Executive’s termination of employment and ending upon the earliest of (X) the second anniversary of the Date of Termination, (Y) the date that Executive and/or Executive’s covered dependents, as applicable, become no longer eligible for COBRA or (Z) the date Executive becomes eligible to receive healthcare coverage from a subsequent employer.
(iv) Executive shall be eligible to receive a prorated portion of the Annual Bonus Executive would have received with respect to the calendar year during which the Date of Termination occurs had he remained in continuous employment through the date of payment, with the amount determined based on actual performance against applicable metrics and subject to discretionary adjustments permitted under the applicable incentive bonus program and with proration determined by dividing the number of days Executive served hereunder in the calendar year during which the Date of Termination occurred by the total number of days in the calendar year in which the Date of Termination occurred, in each case, as determined by the Board. Any such prorated Annual Bonus shall be payable (in the calendar year following the calendar year in which the Date of Termination occurs) when the Company pays other annual bonuses for such year under the Company’s incentive bonus program.

(v) Each outstanding equity award, including, without limitation, each stock option, restricted stock unit and restricted stock award, held by Executive shall automatically become vested and, if applicable, exercisable and any restrictions thereon shall immediately lapse, in each case, with respect to one hundred percent (100%) of the then unvested shares subject to such equity award.

(d) Post Termination Obligations. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, no payment shall be made pursuant to Sections 5(b) or 5(c) following the date Executive first materially violates any of the restrictive covenants set forth in Section 8.

(e) Exclusive Benefit; No Other Severance. The provisions of this Section 5 shall supersede in their entirety any severance payment provisions in any severance plan, policy, program or other arrangement maintained by the Company.

(f) No Requirement to Mitigate; Survival. Executive shall not be required to mitigate the amount of any payment provided for under this Agreement by seeking other employment or in any other manner.

(g) Applicable to Executive’s Estate or Legal Representative. In the event of the death or Disability of Executive, or of any legal incapacity resulting in the appointment of a legal representative or other fiduciary for Executive, the benefits described in this Section 5 shall be payable on Executive’s behalf to Executive’s estate or legal representative.

2. Treatment of Equity Awards.

(a) Continuing Eligibility to Retain Equity Awards. Executive may continue to own and hold that certain option to purchase the Group’s common stock previously granted to Executive on May 12, 2014 (the “Option”) on the terms and conditions of the applicable equity incentive plan and the option agreement evidencing the Option (the “Option Agreement”).

(b) Stockholders Agreement. As a condition to the exercise of the Option or the acquisition of any other equity interest in Group, Executive agrees to enter into any stockholders agreement and/or side agreement restricting the sale of shares of Group common stock requested by Group at any time.
3. Indemnification and Cooperation.

(a) Indemnification. The Company shall indemnify Executive in Executive’s capacity as an officer, employee or agent of the Company to the fullest extent permissible by applicable law and the Company’s charter and by-laws, and shall purchase and maintain, for the benefit of Executive, officer liability insurance (including post-termination tail coverage) in a form at least as comprehensive as, and in an amount that is at least equal to, that maintained by the Company for similarly situated executive officers of the Company. The Company shall use reasonable efforts to cause any successor to all or substantially all of the business or assets of the Company to assume expressly in writing and to agree to perform all of the obligations of the Company under this Section 7(a).

(b) Cooperation. Executive shall reasonably cooperate with the Company and its Affiliates in connection with any litigation or regulatory matter or with any government authority on any matter, in each case, pertaining to the Company or any Affiliate of the Company and with respect to which Executive may have relevant knowledge, provided that, in connection with such cooperation, the Company shall reimburse Executive’s reasonable expenses, including reasonable attorneys’ fees and costs for counsel of Executive’s choosing.

4. Restrictive Covenants.

(a) Affiliates. As used in this Section 8, the term “Company” shall include the Company and any Affiliate of the Company.

During Executive’s employment by the Company, Executive agrees that Executive will not violate any non-solicitation agreements Executive entered into with any former employer or improperly make use of, or disclose, any information or trade secrets of any former employer or other third party, nor will Executive bring onto the premises of the Company or use any unpublished documents or any property belonging to any former employer or other third party, in violation of any lawful agreements with that former employer or third party.

(c) Non-Competition/Non-Solicitation. Executive acknowledges and recognizes the highly competitive nature of the businesses of the Company, and further acknowledges and recognizes that the Company has entered into this Agreement in reliance on, among other things, Executive’s agreement to be bound by the non-competition provisions set forth in this Section 8(c). Accordingly, Executive agrees as follows:

(i) Executive shall not, at any time during the Term and the twelve (12) month period following the Date of Termination, directly or indirectly, (A) engage, participate or assist in any Competing Business, (B) enter the employ of, or render any services to, any Person engaged in any Competing Business, (C) acquire a financial interest in, or otherwise become actively involved with, any Person engaged in any Competing Business, whether as an individual, partner, shareholder, officer, director, principal, agent, trustee or consultant. Nothing herein shall prohibit Executive from being a passive owner of not more than two percent (2%) of the outstanding equity interest in any entity that is publicly traded, so long as Executive has no active participation in the business of such entity.

(ii) Executive hereby agrees that Executive shall not, at any time during the Term and the twelve (12) month period following the Date of Termination, directly or indirectly, either for himself or on behalf of any other Person, (A) recruit or otherwise solicit or induce any employee, customer or supplier of the Company to terminate its employment or arrangement with the Company, or otherwise change its relationship with the Company, or (B) hire, or cause to be hired, any Person who was employed by the Company at any time during the twelve (12)-month period immediately prior to the Date of Termination.

(iii) In the event the terms of this Section 8(c) shall be determined by any court of competent jurisdiction to be unenforceable by reason of its extending for too great a period of time or over too great a geographical area or by reason of its being too extensive in any other respect, it will be interpreted to, and may be modified by a court of competent jurisdiction to, extend only over the maximum period of time for which it may be enforceable, over the maximum geographical area as to which it may be enforceable, or to the maximum extent in all other respects as to which it may be enforceable, all as determined by such court in such action.

(iv) Executive understands that the restrictions set forth in this Section 8(c) are intended to protect the Company’s established employee, customer and supplier relations, and the general goodwill of its business, and Executive agrees that such restrictions are reasonable and appropriate for this purpose.

(v) In the event Executive engages in conduct in violation of his covenants in Sections 8(c), the applicable restricted period shall be extended for a period of time equal to the time in which Executive engaged in competitive activity prohibited by this Agreement.

(d) Non-Disparagement. Each of the Parties agrees not to disparage the other party, any of the other’s products or practices, or any of the other’s agents, representatives, or Affiliates, either orally or in writing, at any time; provided, that either party may confer in confidence with their legal representatives and make truthful statements as required by law.

(e) Confidentiality. As used in this Agreement, “Confidential Information” means information belonging to the Company which is of value to the Company in the course of conducting its business and the disclosure of which could result in a competitive or other disadvantage to the Company. Confidential Information includes, without limitation, patient or other medical information, financial information, reports, forecasts, inventions, improvements and other intellectual property, trade secrets, know-how, designs, processes or formulae, software, market or sales information or plans, customer lists, business plans and prospects and opportunities (such as possible acquisitions or dispositions of businesses or facilities) which have been discussed or considered by the management of the Company. Confidential Information also includes information developed by Executive in the course of Executive’s employment by the Company, as well as other information to which Executive may have access in connection with Executive’s employment. Confidential Information also includes the confidential information of others with which the Company or any Affiliate has a business relationship and which is known by Executive or which Executive should have reason to know about. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Confidential Information does not include information: (i) in the public domain, unless due to breach of Executive’s duties under this Section 8(e); (ii) known to Executive before Executive first began to discuss with representatives of the Company or any of its Affiliates establishing a relationship with the Company; or (iii) that is now, or becomes in the future, available to Persons who are not legally required to treat such information as confidential unless such information was acquired through wrongful acts or omissions of which Executive is aware.

(i) Executive understands and agrees that Executive’s employment creates a relationship of confidence and trust between Executive and the Company with respect to all Confidential Information. At all times, both during Executive’s employment with the Company and after Executive’s termination, Executive will keep in confidence and trust all such Confidential Information, and will not use or disclose any such Confidential Information without the consent of the Company, except as may be necessary in the ordinary course of performing Executive’s duties to the Company or as otherwise required by law.

(ii) All documents, records, data, apparatus, equipment and other physical property, whether or not pertaining to Confidential Information, which are furnished to Executive by the Company or are produced by Executive in connection with Executive’s employment will be and remain the sole property of the Company. Executive will return to the Company all such materials and property as and when requested by the Company. In any event, Executive will return all such materials and property immediately upon termination of Executive’s employment for any reason, and will not retain any copies thereof following such termination. A deletion of electronic files containing or constituting Confidential Information shall be considered to be the return of the file thus deleted for purposes of compliance with the terms of this Agreement, provided that the deleted files must not be retrievable other than through extraordinary data salvage methods.

5. Injunctive Relief.

It is recognized and acknowledged by Executive that a breach of the covenants contained in Section 8 will cause irreparable damage to Company and its goodwill, the exact amount of which will be difficult or impossible to ascertain, and that the remedies at law for any such breach will be inadequate. Accordingly, Executive agrees that in the event of a breach of any of the covenants contained in Section 8, in addition to any other remedy which may be available at law or in equity, the Company will be entitled to specific performance and injunctive relief without the requirement to post any bond.

(a) Visa Extension; Permanent Residency; and Citizenship. The Company shall support Executive’s application during the Term to extend or replace Executive’s Visa, to obtain US permanent residency and/or to obtain citizenship, and pay or reimburse any expenses reasonably incurred in connection with such application(s). In the event that Executive obtains a Visa and subsequently loses the capacity to reside and work in the United States, Executive shall immediately provide the Company written notice of the date as of which Executive lost the capacity to reside and work in the United States. Executive’s employment shall terminate on such date, and such termination shall be treated for purposes of Section 5 as a termination under Section 4(a)(iv).

(b) Documentation of Right to Work. Executive shall be required to provide the Company with documentary evidence of Executive’s identity and of Executive’s ongoing eligibility for employment in the United States. Executive shall also be required to provide documentation of Executive’s citizenship and maintain such citizenship during the Term, unless a change in citizenship is approved by the Company, whose approval shall not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned or delayed.

(c) Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed, construed, interpreted and enforced in accordance with its express terms, and otherwise in accordance with the substantive laws of the State of Colorado, without giving effect to any principles of conflicts of law, whether of the State of Colorado or any other jurisdiction, and where applicable, the laws of the United States, that would result in the application of the laws of any other jurisdiction.

(d) Validity. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision or provisions of this Agreement shall not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision of this Agreement, which shall remain in full force and effect.
(e) Notices. Any notice, request, claim, demand, document and other communication hereunder to any Party shall be effective upon receipt (or refusal of receipt) and shall be in writing and delivered personally or sent by facsimile or certified or registered mail, postage prepaid, as follows:

No failure to exercise and no delay in exercising any right, remedy, or power hereunder shall preclude any other or further exercise of any other right, remedy, or power provided herein or by law or in equity.

(i) Construction. This Agreement shall be deemed drafted equally by both the Parties. Its language shall be construed as a whole and according to its fair meaning. Any presumption or principle that the language is to be construed against any Party shall not apply. Also, unless the context clearly indicates to the contrary, (a) the plural includes the singular and the singular includes the plural; (b) “and” and “or” are each used both conjunctively and disjunctively; (c) “any,” “all,” “each,” or “every” means “any and all,” and “each and every”; (d) “includes” and “including” are each “without limitation”; (e) “herein,” “hereof,” “hereunder” and other similar compounds of the word “here” refer to the entire Agreement and not to any particular paragraph, subparagraph, section or subsection; and (f) all pronouns and any variations thereof shall be deemed to refer to the masculine, feminine, neuter, singular or plural as the identity of the entities or persons referred to may require.

(j) Arbitration. Any dispute or controversy based on, arising under or relating to this Agreement shall be settled exclusively by final and binding arbitration, conducted before a single neutral arbitrator in the City and County of Denver, Colorado in accordance with the Employment Arbitration Rules and Mediation Procedures of the American Arbitration Association (the “AAA”) then in effect. Arbitration may be compelled, and judgment may be entered on the arbitration award in any court having jurisdiction; provided, however, that the Company shall be entitled to seek a restraining order or injunction in any court of competent jurisdiction to prevent any continuation of any violation of the provisions of Section 8, and Executive hereby consents that such restraining order or injunction may be granted without requiring the Company to post a bond. Only individuals who are (a) lawyers engaged full-time in the practice of law and (b) on the AAA roster of arbitrators shall be selected as an arbitrator. Within twenty (20) days of the conclusion of the arbitration hearing, the arbitrator shall prepare written findings of fact and conclusions of law. Each party shall bear its own costs and attorneys’ fees in connection with any arbitration; provided that the Company shall bear the cost of the arbitrator and the AAA’s administrative fees.

(k) Enforcement. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be illegal, invalid or unenforceable under present or future laws effective during the term of this Agreement, such provision shall be fully severable; this Agreement shall be construed and enforced as if such illegal, invalid or unenforceable provision had never comprised a portion of this Agreement; and the remaining provisions of this Agreement shall remain in full force and effect and shall not be affected by the illegal, invalid or unenforceable provision or by its severance from this Agreement. Furthermore, in lieu of such illegal, invalid or unenforceable provision there shall be added automatically as part of this Agreement a provision as similar in terms to such illegal, invalid or unenforceable provision as may be possible and be legal, valid and enforceable.
(I) Withholding. The Company shall be entitled to withhold from any amounts payable under this Agreement any federal, state, local or foreign withholding or other taxes or charges which the Company is required to withhold. The Company shall be entitled to rely on an opinion of counsel if any questions as to the amount or requirement of withholding shall arise.

8. Section 409A.

(a) General. The intent of the Parties is that the payments and benefits under this Agreement comply with or be exempt from Section 409A and, accordingly, to the maximum extent permitted, this Agreement shall be interpreted to be in compliance therewith. If Executive notifies the Company that Executive has received advice of tax counsel of a national reputation with expertise in Section 409A that any provision of this Agreement would cause Executive to incur any additional tax or interest under Section 409A (with specificity as to the reason therefor) or the Company (which shall have no obligation to assess the issue absent such notice from Executive) independently makes such determination, the Company and Executive shall take commercially reasonable efforts to reform such provision to try to comply with or be exempt from Section 409A through good faith modifications to the minimum extent reasonably appropriate to conform with Section 409A, provided that any such modifications shall not increase the cost or liability to the Company. To the extent that any provision hereof is modified in order to comply with or be exempt from Section 409A, such modification shall be made in good faith and shall, to the maximum extent reasonably possible, maintain the original intent and economic benefit to Executive and the Company of the applicable provision without violating the provisions of Section 409A. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, Executive acknowledges and agrees that (i) Executive is not relying upon any determination by the Company, its Affiliates, or any of their respective employees, directors, officers, attorneys or agents regarding the tax effects, including, without limitation, tax effects under Section 409A, associated with Executive’s entry into this Agreement or the receipt of any payments hereunder, and (ii) in deciding to enter into this Agreement, Executive is relying on Executive’s own judgment and the judgment of the professionals of Executive’s choice with whom Executive has consulted.

(b) Separation from Service. Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary in this Agreement: (i) no amount that constitutes “deferred compensation” under Section 409A shall be payable pursuant to Sections 5(b) or 5(c) unless the termination of Executive’s employment constitutes a “separation from service” within the meaning of Section 1.409A-1(h) of the Department of Treasury Regulations (“Separation from Service”); (ii) for purposes of Section 409A, Executive’s right, if any, to receive installment payments pursuant to Sections 5(b) or 5(c) hereof shall be treated as a right to receive a series of separate and distinct payments; and (iii) to the extent that any reimbursement of expenses or in-kind benefits constitutes “deferred compensation” under Section 409A, such reimbursement or benefit shall be provided no later than December 31st of the year following the year in which the expense was incurred. The amount of expenses reimbursed in one year shall not affect the amount eligible for reimbursement in any subsequent year. The amount of any in-kind benefits provided in one year shall not affect the amount of in-kind benefits provided in any other year. Any good faith determination by the Company in respect of Section 409A shall be final and binding on Executive.
specifies that the Executive shall be deemed a "specified employee" for purposes of Section 409A, to the extent delayed commencement of any portion of the benefits to which the Executive is entitled under this Agreement is required in order to avoid a prohibited distribution under Section 409A, such portion of Executive's benefits shall not be provided to Executive prior to the earlier of (i) the expiration of the six (6)-month period measured from the date of Executive's Separation from Service with the Company or (ii) the date of Executive's death. Upon the first business day following the expiration of the applicable Section 409A period, all payments deferred pursuant to the preceding sentence shall be paid in a lump sum to Executive (or Executive's estate or beneficiaries), and any remaining payments due to Executive under this Agreement shall be paid as otherwise provided herein.

(d) Release. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, to the extent that any payments due under this Agreement as a result of termination of Executive's employment are subject to Executive's execution and delivery of a Release, (i) if Executive fails to execute and deliver the Release on or prior to the Release Deadline (as defined below) or timely revokes the Release thereafter, Executive shall not be entitled to any payments or benefits otherwise conditioned on the Release, and (ii) in any case where the Date of Termination and the Release Deadline fall in two separate taxable years, any payments required to be made to Executive that are conditioned on the Release and are treated as nonqualified deferred compensation for purposes of Section 409A shall be made in the later taxable year. For purposes of this Section 12(d), “Release Deadline” shall mean the date that is twenty-one (21) days following the Date of Termination, or, in the event that Executive’s termination of employment is “in connection with an exit incentive or other employment termination program” (as such phrase is defined in the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967), as determined by the Company, the date that is forty-five (45) days following such Date of Termination. To the extent that any payments of nonqualified deferred compensation (within the meaning of Section 409A) due under this Agreement as a result of Executive’s termination of employment are delayed pursuant to this Section 12(d), such amounts shall be paid in a lump sum on the first payroll date following the date that Executive executes and delivers and does not revoke the Release (and the applicable revocation period has expired) or, in the case of any payments subject to Section 12(d)(iii), on the first payroll period to occur in the subsequent taxable year, if later.

(a) Best Pay Cap. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, in the event that any payment or benefit received or to be received by Executive (including any payment or benefit received in connection with a termination of Executive’s employment, whether pursuant to the terms of this Agreement or any other plan, arrangement or agreement) (all such payments and benefits, including the payments and benefits under Section 5 hereof, being hereinafter referred to as the “Total Payments”) would be subject (in whole or part), to the excise tax imposed under Section 4999 of the Code (such excise tax, the “Excise Tax”), then, after taking into account any reduction in the Total Payments provided by reason of Section 280G of the Code in such other plan, arrangement or agreement, the cash severance payments under this Agreement shall first be reduced, and the noncash severance payments hereunder shall thereafter be reduced, to the minimum extent necessary so that no portion of the Total Payments is subject to the Excise Tax but only if (i) the net amount of such Total Payments, as so reduced
(and after subtracting the net amount of federal, state and local income taxes on such reduced Total Payments and after taking into account the phase out of itemized deductions and personal exemptions attributable to such reduced Total Payments) is greater than or equal to (ii) the net amount of such Total Payments without such reduction (but after subtracting the net amount of federal, state and local income taxes on such Total Payments and the amount of Excise Tax to which Executive would be subject in respect of such unreduced Total Payments and after taking into account the phase out of itemized deductions and personal exemptions attributable to such unreduced Total Payments).

(b) Certain Exclusions. For purposes of determining whether and the extent to which the Total Payments will be subject to the Excise Tax, (i) no portion of the Total Payments the receipt or enjoyment of which Executive shall have waived at such time and in such manner as not to constitute a “payment” within the meaning of Section 280G(b) of the Code shall be taken into account; (ii) no portion of the Total Payments shall be taken into account which, in the written opinion of an independent, nationally recognized accounting firm selected by the Company (the “Independent Advisors”), does not constitute a “parachute payment” within the meaning of Section 280G(b)(2) of the Code (including by reason of Section 280G(b)(4)(A) of the Code) and, in calculating the Excise Tax, no portion of such Total Payments shall be taken into account which, in the opinion of Independent Advisors, constitutes reasonable compensation for services actually rendered, within the meaning of Section 280G(b)(4)(B) of the Code, in excess of the “base amount” (as defined in Section 280G(b)(3) of the Code) allocable to such reasonable compensation; and (iii) the value of any non cash benefit or any deferred payment or benefit included in the Total Payments shall be determined by the Independent Advisors in accordance with the principles of Sections 280G(d)(3) and (4) of the Code. Promptly following any request to do so, Executive shall provide to any Independent Advisors such information as they may require to assess the impact of Section 280G(b) on any amounts payable hereunder. Any good faith determinations of the Independent Advisors made hereunder shall be final and binding upon the Company and Executive.

10. Executive Acknowledgment.

Executive acknowledges that Executive has read and understands this Agreement, is fully aware of its legal effect, has not acted in reliance upon any representations or promises made by the Company other than those contained in writing herein, and has entered into this Agreement freely based on Executive’s own judgment.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Parties have duly executed this Agreement as of the date and year first above written.

Re: Employment Terms

Dear Jake:

Frontier Airlines, Inc. (“Frontier”) is pleased to offer you full-time employment as Deputy Chief Operating Officer. You will have such duties as are normally associated with this position as such duties may be modified or supplemented by Frontier’s Chief Operating Officer, to whom you will report. You will be groomed to assume the Chief Operating Officer position within two years, but with no guarantee of such promotion. You will reside in Denver, Colorado and work in Frontier’s headquarters located there, except for such travel as may be necessary to fulfill your responsibilities. In the course of your employment with Frontier, you will be subject to and required to comply with all company policies, and applicable laws and regulations. These include equal employment opportunity in hiring, assignments, training, promotions, compensation, employee benefits, employee discipline and discharge, and all other terms and conditions of employment.

Your employment will begin on a mutually agreed upon date no later than July 5, 2017. Starting on that date, you will be paid a base salary at the annual rate of $300,000 (subject to required tax withholding and other authorized deductions). Your base salary will be payable in accordance with Frontier’s standard payroll policies and be subject to adjustment pursuant to Frontier’s policies as in effect from time to time, which policies currently include an annual review.

In addition to your base salary, you will be eligible to earn an annual cash performance bonus, at the discretion of Frontier’s Board of Directors or one of such board’s committees, based on the attainment of performance metrics for Frontier and/or individual performance objectives, in each case established and evaluated by such board or one of its committees. Your target annual bonus will be 65% of your base salary, but the actual amount of your annual bonus may range from 0% of your base salary to 130% of your base salary. Any annual bonus will be contingent upon your continued employment through the applicable payment date. You hereby acknowledge and agree that nothing contained herein confers upon you any right to an annual bonus in any year, and that whether Frontier pays you an annual bonus and the amount of any such annual bonus will be determined by Frontier in its sole discretion. For 2017, your target and any actual annual bonus will be prorated based on the portion of the year during which you are employed by Frontier.

Frontier is owned by Frontier Group Holdings, Inc. (“FGHI”). FGHI has adopted an equity incentive plan and related documents (the “2014 Plan”) pursuant to which FGHI may grant equity awards and anticipates adopting a new equity incentive plan and related documents (the “2017 Plan”) in connection with the initial public offering of its common stock (the “IPO”).

In the event that the IPO closes on or prior to June 30, 2017, then on, or as soon as administratively practicable following, the closing of the IPO, FGHI will grant you, pursuant to the 2017 Plan, a number of restricted stock units equal to $1,000,000 divided by the per share offering price to the public of FGHI’s common stock in the IPO, as set forth on the cover to the final prospectus describing the IPO. In the event the IPO has not closed by June 30, 2017, then as soon as administratively practicable following June 30, 2017, FGHI will grant to you, pursuant to the 2014 Plan or its then applicable equity incentive plan, a number of restricted stock units equal to $1,000,000 divided by the per share fair market value of FGHI’s common stock as of June 30, 2017, as determined by FGHI’s board of directors, in its sole discretion. In either event, the restricted stock units will vest as to twenty-five percent (25%) of the shares of FGHI common stock initially subject thereto on each anniversary of the date you commence employment, subject to your continuing employment by Frontier through the applicable vesting date. In addition, your equity award shall vest fully upon any Change in Control (as defined in the Equity Plan.) The restricted stock units shall otherwise be subject to the terms of the applicable plan and the restricted stock unit agreement evidencing the award to be entered into between you and FGHI.

Frontier will reimburse you for all reasonable expenses you and your immediate family incur in relocating to Denver, Colorado, including, but not limited to, temporary housing, air fare, car rental, hotels, meals, as well as packing, unpacking and shipping costs for personal and household items and an automobile, up to a maximum of $60,000 for all such expenses.

During the term of your employment, Frontier will provide you, your spouse, your eligible children and your parents privileges to travel positive space on Frontier Airlines with the priority code PS2B in accordance with Frontier policy as to the extent and use of such benefits by senior executives (the “Flight Benefit”). You shall also receive flight benefits on Frontier Airlines in the form of a Universal Air Travel Plan, Inc. (“UATP”) card made available once per twelve-month period that provides for travel by you and your family and friends solely on Frontier Airlines in the amount of eight thousand two hundred fifty dollars ($8,250) that must be used, if at all, within twelve months of the date the UATP card is issued.

During the term of your employment, you will also be entitled to three weeks of annual paid vacation, prorated for 2017, in accordance with Frontier’s vacation policy as it may be amended from time to time.

You will be eligible during your employment to participate in all of the employee benefits and benefit plans that Frontier generally makes available to its regular full-time employees. In addition, during your employment, you will be eligible for other standard benefits, to the extent applicable generally to other similarly situated employees of Frontier. Frontier reserves the right to terminate, modify or add to its benefits and benefit plans at any time.

If Frontier terminates your employment without Cause (as defined in the Equity Plan) and you deliver a general release of all claims against Frontier and its affiliates in a form acceptable to Frontier that becomes effective and irrevocable within 60 days following such termination of employment, then you shall be entitled to the following: (i) you shall receive a lump sum payment equal to the sum of your base salary and your target bonus at the time of termination (or two times such base salary and target bonus if such termination occurs within twelve months after a Change in Control or your duties are substantially diminished within such twelve months and you resign within such twelve months), less applicable withholdings; and (ii) Frontier will continue to provide the Flight Benefit until the first anniversary of your termination date (or the second anniversary of such date if such termination occurs within twelve months after a Change in Control or your duties are substantially diminished within such twelve months and you resign within such twelve months).
No amount deemed deferred compensation subject to Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), shall be payable pursuant to this letter agreement unless your termination of employment constitutes a "separation from service" with Frontier within the meaning of Section 409A and the Department of Treasury regulations and other guidance promulgated thereunder. For purposes of Section 409A of the Code (including, without limitation, for purposes of Treasury Regulation Section 1.409A-2(b)(2)(iii)), your right to receive any installment payments under this letter agreement shall be treated as a right to receive a series of separate payments and, accordingly, each such installment payment shall at all times be considered a separate and distinct payment. To the extent that any reimbursements or in-kind benefits provided pursuant to this letter agreement are subject to the provisions of Section 409A of the Code, any such reimbursements payable to you pursuant to this letter agreement shall be paid to you no later than December 31 of the year following the year in which the expense was incurred, the amount of expenses reimbursed or the amount of in-kind benefits provided in one year shall not affect the amount eligible for reimbursement or the amount of in-kind benefits to which you are entitled, respectively, in any subsequent year, and your right to reimbursement or in-kind benefits under this letter agreement will not be subject to liquidation or exchange for another benefit. If Frontier determines that you are a "specified employee" for purposes of Section 409A(a)(2)(B)(i) of the Code at the time of your separation from service, any amount deemed deferred compensation subject to Section 409A of the Code to which you are entitled under this letter agreement in connection with such separation from service shall be delayed to the extent required in order to avoid a prohibited distribution under Section 409A(a)(2)(B)(i) of the Code.

Frontier requires that, as a full-time employee, you devote your full business time, attention, skill, and efforts to the tasks and duties of your position as assigned by Frontier. If you wish to request consent to provide services (for any or no form of compensation) to any other person or business entity while employed by Frontier, please discuss that with Frontier’s Chief Executive Officer in advance of accepting another position.

As a condition of employment, you will be required (1) to comply with the Additional Terms attached hereto as Exhibit A, which by this reference are incorporated in this letter agreement, (2) to sign and return an I-9 Immigration form and provide sufficient documentation establishing your employment eligibility in the United States of America, (3) provide satisfactory proof of your identity as required by United States law, and (4) to complete successfully a medical exam, drug test and background check in accordance with Frontier policy for senior executives.

By signing below, you represent that your performance of services to Frontier will not violate any duty which you may have to any other person or entity (such as a present or former employer), including obligations concerning providing services (whether or not competitive) to others or confidentiality of proprietary information, and you agree that you will not do anything in the performance of services hereunder that would violate any such duty.

Notwithstanding any of the above, your employment with Frontier is “at will”. This means that it can be terminated by you or by Frontier at any time, with or without advance notice, and for any or no particular reason or cause. It also means that your job duties, title and responsibility and reporting level, work schedule, compensation and benefits, as well as Frontier’s personnel policies and procedures, may be changed with prospective effect, with or without notice, at any time in the sole discretion of Frontier.
This letter agreement shall be interpreted and construed in accordance with Colorado law without regard to any conflicts of laws principles. While other terms and conditions of your employment may change in the future, the at-will nature of your employment may not be changed, except in a subsequent written agreement, signed by you and the Chief Executive Officer of Frontier. Any prior or contemporaneous representations (whether oral or written) not contained in this letter agreement that may have been made to you will be expressly cancelled and superseded by this letter agreement.

Please sign and date this letter agreement and return it to me by email at by Sunday, June 4, 2017, if you wish to accept employment by Frontier under the terms described above, failing which the offer made by our submission of this letter agreement will expire at the close of business in Denver, Colorado on such date. If you accept this offer by signing a counterpart and returning it to the undersigned as thus described, this letter agreement shall constitute the complete agreement between you and Frontier with respect to the terms and conditions of your employment.

We look forward to a productive and enjoyable work relationship.

Sincerely,

FRONTIER AIRLINES, INC.

Additional Terms

(a) Non-Competition/Non-Solicitation. You acknowledge and recognize the highly competitive nature of Frontier’s business, and further acknowledge and recognize that Frontier has agreed to employ you in reliance on, among other things, your agreement to be bound by these additional terms. Accordingly, you agree as follows:

(i) You shall not, while employed by Frontier or during the twelve month period following termination of such employment (or the twenty-four month period following such termination in the event Frontier terminates your employment without Cause within twelve months after a Change in Control or your duties are substantially diminished within such twelve months and you resign within such twelve months), directly or indirectly, (A) engage, participate or assist in any Competing Business (defined as any commercial passenger airline business which is certificated by any governmental authority to operate in any part of North America, other than any commercial passenger airline business which is (i) based outside North America and (ii) does not include in its route network point to point flying within North America), (B) enter the employ of, or render any services to, any person or entity engaged in any Competing Business, (C) acquire a financial interest in, or otherwise become actively involved with, any person or entity engaged in any Competing Business, whether as an individual, partner, shareholder, officer, director, principal, agent, trustee or consultant. Nothing herein shall prohibit you from being a passive owner of not more than two percent (2%) of the outstanding equity interest in any entity that is publicly traded, so long as you have no active participation in the business of such entity.

(ii) You agree that you shall not, while employed by Frontier or during the twelve month period following termination of such employment (or the twenty-four month period following such termination in the event Frontier terminates your employment without Cause within twelve months after a Change in Control or your duties are substantially diminished within such twelve months and you resign within such twelve months), directly or indirectly, either for yourself or any other person or entity, (A) recruit or otherwise solicit or induce any employee, customer or supplier of Frontier to terminate its employment or arrangement with Frontier, or otherwise change its relationship with Frontier, or (B) hire, or cause to be hired, any individual who was employed by Frontier at any time during the twelve (12)-month period immediately prior to the termination of your employment or who thereafter becomes employed by Frontier.

(iii) In the event the terms of this exhibit shall be determined by any court of competent jurisdiction to be unenforceable by reason of its extending for too great a period of time or over too great a geographical area or by reason of its being too extensive in any other respect, it will be interpreted to, and may be modified by a court of competent jurisdiction to, extend only over the maximum period of time for which it may be enforceable, over the maximum geographical area as to which it may be enforceable, or to the maximum extent in all other respects as to which it may be enforceable, all as determined by such court in such action.
(iv) You understand that the restrictions set forth in this exhibit are intended to protect Frontier’s established employee, customer and supplier relations, and the general goodwill of its business, and you agree that such restrictions are reasonable and appropriate for this purpose.

(v) In the event you engage in conduct in violation of your covenants in this section (a), the applicable restricted period shall be extended for a period of time equal to the time in which you engaged in activity prohibited by this section (a).

(b) Confidentiality. As used in this exhibit, “Confidential Information” means information belonging to Frontier which is of value to Frontier in the course of conducting its business and the disclosure of which could result in a competitive or other disadvantage to Frontier. Confidential information includes, without limitation, patient or other medical information, financial information, reports, forecasts, inventions, improvements and other intellectual property, trade secrets, know-how, designs, processes or formulae, software, market or sales information or plans, customer lists, business plans and prospects and opportunities (such as possible acquisitions or dispositions of businesses or facilities) which have been discussed or considered by the management of Frontier. Confidential information also includes information you develop in the course of your employment by Frontier, as well as other information to which you may have access in connection with your employment. Confidential Information also includes the confidential information of others with which Frontier has a business relationship. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Confidential Information does not include information in the public domain, unless due to breach of your duties under this exhibit.

(i) You understand and agree that your employment creates a relationship of confidence and trust between you and Frontier with respect to all Confidential Information. At all times, both during your employment with Frontier and after its termination, you will keep in confidence and trust all such Confidential Information, and will not use or disclose any such Confidential Information without the written consent of Frontier, except as may be necessary in the ordinary course of performing your duties to Frontier or as otherwise required by law.

(ii) All documents, records, data, apparatus, equipment and other physical property, whether or not pertaining to Confidential Information, which are furnished to you by Frontier or are produced by you in connection with your employment will be and remain the sole property of Frontier. You will return to Frontier all such materials and property as and when requested by Frontier. In any event, you will return all such materials and property immediately upon termination of your employment for any reason, and will not retain copies thereof following such termination.

(c) Non-Disparagement. Employee shall not make negative statements against the employer, its employees, or its products/services. This non-disparagement provision does not affect or limit your right to communicate or file a charge with, or participate in any investigation or proceeding conducted by the EEOC, or any other comparable federal, state or local agency.

You will have such duties as are normally associated with this position as such duties may be modified or supplemented by Frontier’s Chief Executive Officer, to whom you will report. You will reside in Denver, Colorado and work in Frontier’s headquarters located there, except for such travel as may be necessary to fulfill your responsibilities. In the course of your employment with Frontier, you will be subject to and required to comply with all company policies, and applicable laws and regulations. These include equal employment opportunity in hiring, assignments, training, promotions, compensation, employee benefits, employee discipline and discharge, and all other terms and conditions of employment.

Your employment will begin on July 28, 2014. Starting on that date, you will be paid a base salary at the annual rate of $325,000 (subject to required tax withholding and other authorized deductions). Your base salary will be payable in accordance with Frontier’s standard payroll policies and be subject to adjustment pursuant to Frontier’s policies as in effect from time to time, which policies currently include an annual review.

In addition to your base salary, you will be eligible to earn an annual cash performance bonus, at the discretion of Frontier’s Board of Directors or one of such board’s committees, based on the attainment of performance metrics for Frontier and/or individual performance objectives, in each case established and evaluated by such board or one of its committees. Your target annual bonus will be 65% of your base salary, but the actual amount of your annual bonus may range from 0% of your base salary to 130% of your base salary. Any annual bonus will be contingent upon your continued employment through the applicable payment date. You hereby acknowledge and agree that nothing contained herein confers upon you any right to an annual bonus in any year, and that whether Frontier pays you an annual bonus and the amount of any such annual bonus will be determined by Frontier in its sole discretion. For 2014, your target and any actual annual bonus will be prorated based on the portion of the year during which you are employed by Frontier.

Frontier is owned by Falcon Acquisition Group, Inc. (“Falcon”). Falcon has adopted an equity incentive plan and related documents (the “Equity Plan”) pursuant to which Falcon may grant equity awards.

On or promptly after your start date, Falcon will grant you, pursuant to the Equity Plan, an option to purchase Falcon common stock at a price per share equal to the amount per share invested in Falcon by Falcon’s shareholders as of June 30, 2014, as determined by Falcon, with the total number of shares underlying such award to equal 3% of the outstanding common stock of Falcon as of June 30, 2014. For purposes of this paragraph, the outstanding common stock of Falcon shall include the common stock equivalents represented by phantom equity issued to FAPA Invest, LLC and any equity awards granted to Frontier employees and others as of June 30, 2014. Your equity award shall vest, and any service-based vesting restrictions thereon shall lapse, as applicable, with respect to one-fourth (1/4) of the shares subject to your equity award on each of the first, second, third, and fourth anniversaries of your employment start date, subject to your continuing employment by Frontier through the applicable vesting date. In addition, your equity award shall vest fully upon any Change in Control (as defined in the Equity Plan). Your equity award shall otherwise be subject to the terms of the Equity Plan and standard forms of agreement evidencing the award to be entered into between you and Falcon. The Equity Plan will provide that Falcon may, but shall not be required to, repurchase any vested equity award or any shares issued with respect thereto in the event that your employment by Frontier terminates.

Frontier will reimburse you for all reasonable expenses you and your immediate family incur in relocating to Denver, Colorado, including air fare, car rental, hotels, meals, and other temporary living expenses, as well as packing, unpacking and shipping costs for personal and household items and an automobile, up to a maximum of $50,000 for all such expenses.

During the term of your employment, Frontier will provide you, your spouse, your eligible children and your parents privileges to travel positive space on Frontier Airlines with the priority code PS2B in accordance with Frontier policy as to the extent and use of such benefits by senior executives (the “Flight Benefit”).

During the term of your employment, you will also be entitled to three weeks of annual paid vacation, in accordance with Frontier’s vacation policy as it may be amended from time to time.

You will be eligible during your employment to participate in all of the employee benefits and benefit plans that Frontier generally makes available to its regular full-time employees. In addition, during your employment, you will be eligible for other standard benefits, to the extent applicable generally to other similarly situated employees of Frontier. Frontier reserves the right to terminate, modify or add to its benefits and benefit plans at any time.

If Frontier terminates your employment without Cause (as defined in the Equity Plan) and you deliver a general release of all claims against Frontier and its affiliates in a form acceptable to Frontier that becomes effective and irrevocable within 60 days following such termination of employment, then you shall be entitled to the following: (i) you shall receive a lump sum payment equal to the sum of your base salary and your target bonus at the time of termination (or two times the sum of such base salary and target bonus if such termination occurs within twelve months after a Change in Control or your duties are substantially diminished within such twelve months and you resign within such twelve months), less applicable withholdings; and (ii) Frontier will continue to provide the Flight Benefit until the first anniversary of your termination date (or the second anniversary of such date if such termination occurs within twelve months after a Change in Control or your duties are substantially diminished within such twelve months and you resign within such twelve months).

No amount deemed deferred compensation subject to Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the “Code”), shall be payable pursuant to this letter agreement unless your termination of employment constitutes a “separation from service” with Frontier within the meaning of Section 409A and the Department of Treasury regulations and other guidance promulgated thereunder. For purposes of Section 409A of the Code (including, without limitation, for purposes of Treasury Regulation Section 1.409A-2(b)(2)(iii)), your right to receive any installment payments under this letter agreement shall be treated as a right to receive a series of separate payments and, accordingly, each such installment payment shall at all times be considered a separate and distinct payment. To the extent that any reimbursements payable pursuant to this letter agreement are subject to the provisions of Section 409A of the Code, any such reimbursements payable to you pursuant to this letter agreement shall be paid to you no later than December 31 of the year following the year in which the expense was incurred, the amount of expenses reimbursed in one year shall not affect the amount eligible for reimbursement in any subsequent year, and your right to reimbursement under this letter agreement will not be subject to liquidation or exchange for another benefit.

Frontier requires that, as a full-time employee, you devote your full business time, attention, skill, and efforts to the tasks and duties of your position as assigned by Frontier. If you wish to request consent to provide services (for any or no form of compensation) to any other person or business entity while employed by Frontier, please discuss that with Frontier’s Chief Executive Officer in advance of accepting another position.

As a condition of employment, you will be required (1) to comply with the Additional Terms attached hereto as Exhibit A, which by this reference are incorporated in this letter agreement, (2) to sign and return an 1-9 Immigration form and provide sufficient documentation establishing your employment eligibility in the United States of America, (3) provide satisfactory proof of your identity as required by United States law, and (4) to complete successfully a medical exam, drug test and background check in accordance with Frontier policy for senior executives.

By signing below, you represent that your performance of services to Frontier will not violate any duty which you may have to any other person or entity (such as a present or former employer), including obligations concerning providing services (whether or not competitive) to others or confidentiality of proprietary information, and you agree that you will not do anything in the performance of services hereunder that would violate any such duty.

Notwithstanding any of the above, your employment with Frontier is “at will.” This means that it can be terminated by you or by Frontier at any time, with or without advance notice, and for any or no particular reason or cause. It also means that your job duties, title and responsibility and reporting level, work schedule, compensation and benefits, as well as Frontier’s personnel policies and procedures, may be changed with prospective effect, with or without notice, at any time in the sole discretion of Frontier.

This letter agreement shall be interpreted and construed in accordance with Colorado law without regard to any conflicts of laws principles. While other terms and conditions of your employment may change in the future, the at-will nature of your employment may not be changed, except in a subsequent written agreement, signed by you and the Chief Executive Officer of Frontier. Any prior or contemporaneous representations (whether oral or written) not contained in this letter agreement that may have been made to you will be expressly cancelled and superseded by this letter agreement.
Please sign and date this letter agreement and return it to me by email at [email address] by July 2, if you wish to accept employment by Frontier under the terms described above, failing which the offer made by our submission of this letter agreement will expire at the close of business in Denver, Colorado on such date. If you accept this offer by signing a counterpart and returning it to the undersigned as thus described, this letter agreement shall constitute the complete agreement between you and Frontier with respect to the terms and conditions of your employment.

We look forward to a productive and enjoyable work relationship.

Sincerely,

FRONTIER AIRLINES, INC.

Additional Terms

(a) Non-Competition/Non-Solicitation. You acknowledge and recognize the highly competitive nature of Frontier’s business, and further acknowledge and recognize that Frontier has agreed to employ you in reliance on, among other things, your agreement to be bound by these additional terms. Accordingly, you agree as follows:

(i) You shall not, while employed by Frontier or during the twelve month period following termination of such employment (or the twenty-four month period following such termination in the event Frontier terminates your employment without Cause within twelve months after a Change in Control or your duties are substantially diminished within such twelve months and you resign within such twelve months), directly or indirectly, (A) engage, participate or assist in any Competing Business (defined as any commercial passenger airline business which is certificated by any governmental authority to operate in any part of North America, other than any commercial passenger airline business which is (i) based outside North America and (ii) does not include in its route network point to point flying within North America), (B) enter the employ of, or render any services to, any person or entity engaged in any Competing Business, (C) acquire a financial interest in, or otherwise become actively involved with, any person or entity engaged in any Competing Business, whether as an individual, partner, shareholder, officer, director, principal, agent, trustee or consultant. Nothing herein shall prohibit you from being a passive owner of not more than two percent (2%) of the outstanding equity interest in any entity that is publicly traded, so long as you have no active participation in the business of such entity.

(ii) You agree that you shall not, while employed by Frontier or during the twelve month period following termination of such employment (or the twenty-four month period following such termination in the event Frontier terminates your employment without Cause within twelve months after a Change in Control or your duties are substantially diminished within such twelve months and you resign within such twelve months), directly or indirectly, either for yourself or any other person or entity, (A) recruit or otherwise solicit or induce any employee, customer or supplier of Frontier to terminate its employment or arrangement with Frontier, or otherwise change its relationship with Frontier, or (B) hire, or cause to be hired, any individual who was employed by Frontier at any time during the twelve (12)-month period immediately prior to the termination of your employment or who thereafter becomes employed by Frontier.

(iii) In the event the terms of this exhibit shall be determined by any court of competent jurisdiction to be unenforceable by reason of its extending for too great a period of time or over too great a geographical area or by reason of its being too extensive in any other respect, it will be interpreted to, and may be modified by a court of competent jurisdiction to, extend only over the maximum period of time for which it may be enforceable, over the maximum geographical area as to which it may be enforceable, or to the maximum extent in all other respects as to which it may be enforceable, all as determined by such court in such action.
(iv) You understand that the restrictions set forth in this exhibit are intended to protect Frontier’s established employee, customer and supplier relations, and the general goodwill of its business, and you agree that such restrictions are reasonable and appropriate for this purpose.

(v) In the event you engage in conduct in violation of your covenants in this section (a), the applicable restricted period shall be extended for a period of time equal to the time in which you engaged in activity prohibited by this section (a).

(b) Confidentiality. As used in this exhibit, “Confidential Information” means information belonging to Frontier which is of value to Frontier in the course of conducting its business and the disclosure of which could result in a competitive or other disadvantage to Frontier. Confidential Information includes, without limitation, patient or other medical information, financial information, reports, forecasts, inventions, improvements and other intellectual property, trade secrets, know-how, designs, processes or formulae, software, market or sales information or plans, customer lists, business plans and prospects and opportunities (such as possible acquisitions or dispositions of businesses or facilities) which have been discussed or considered by the management of Frontier. Confidential Information also includes information you develop in the course of your employment by Frontier, as well as other information to which you may have access in connection with your employment. Confidential Information also includes the confidential information of others with which Frontier has a business relationship.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, Confidential Information does not include information in the public domain, unless due to breach of your duties under this exhibit.

(i) You understand and agree that your employment creates a relationship of confidence and trust between you and Frontier with respect to all Confidential Information. At all times, both during your employment with Frontier and after its termination, you will keep in confidence and trust all such Confidential Information, and will not use or disclose any such Confidential Information without the written consent of Frontier, except as may be necessary in the ordinary course of performing your duties to Frontier or as otherwise required by law.

(ii) All documents, records, apparatus, equipment and other physical property, whether or not pertaining to Confidential Information, which are furnished to you by Frontier or are produced by you in connection with your employment will be and remain the sole property of Frontier. You will return to Frontier all such materials and property as and when requested by Frontier. In any event, you will return all such materials and property immediately upon termination of your employment for any reason, and will not retain any copies thereof following such termination.

Re: Employment Terms

Dear Mark:

Frontier Airlines, Inc. ("Frontier") is pleased to offer you full-time employment as Vice President, Chief Accounting Officer. You will have such duties as are normally associated with this position as such duties may be modified or supplemented by Frontier’s Chief Operating Officer, to whom you will report. You will reside in Denver, Colorado and work in Frontier’s headquarters located there, except for such travel as may be necessary to fulfill your responsibilities. In the course of your employment with Frontier, you will be subject to and required to comply with all company policies, and applicable laws and regulations. These include equal employment opportunity in hiring, assignments, training, promotions, compensation, employee benefits, employee discipline and discharge, and all other terms and conditions of employment.

Your employment will begin on September 18, 2015. Starting on that date, you will be paid a base salary at the annual rate $275,000 (subject to required tax withholding and other authorized deductions). Your base salary will be payable in accordance with Frontier’s standard payroll policies and be subject to adjustment pursuant to Frontier’s policies as in effect from time to time, which policies currently include an annual review.

In addition to your base salary, you will be eligible to earn an annual cash performance bonus, at the discretion of Frontier’s Board of Directors or one of such board’s committees, based on the attainment of performance metrics for Frontier and/or individual performance objectives, in each case established and evaluated by such board or one of its committees. Your target annual bonus will be 40% of your base salary, but the actual amount of your annual bonus may range from 0% of your base salary to 80% of your base salary. Any annual bonus will be contingent upon your continued employment through the applicable payment date. You hereby acknowledge and agree that nothing contained herein confers upon you any right to an annual bonus in any year, and that whether Frontier pays you an annual bonus and the amount of any such annual bonus will be determined by Frontier in its sole discretion. For 2015, your target and any actual annual bonus will be prorated based on the portion of the year during which you are employed by Frontier.

Frontier is owned by Falcon Acquisition Group, Inc. ("Falcon"). Falcon has adopted an equity incentive plan and related documents (the “Equity Plan”) pursuant to which Falcon may grant equity awards.

Frontier will grant you, pursuant to the Equity Plan, an option to purchase 7,500 shares of Falcon common stock. The fair market value of Falcon common stock will be set by Falcon’s Board of Directors as of your September 18, 2015 employment start date. Your equity award shall vest, and any service-based vesting restrictions thereon shall lapse, as applicable, with respect to one-fourth (1/4) of the shares subject to your equity award on each of the first, second, third, and fourth anniversaries of your employment start date, subject to your continuing employment by Frontier through the applicable vesting date. In addition, your equity award shall vest fully upon any Change in Control (as defined in the Equity Plan). Your equity award shall otherwise be subject to the terms of the Equity Plan and standard forms of agreement evidencing the award to be entered into between you and Falcon. The Equity Plan will provide that Falcon may, but shall not be required to, repurchase any vested equity award or any shares issued with respect thereto in the event that your employment by Frontier terminates.

Frontier will pay you $100,000 towards expenses you incur in relocating to Denver, Colorado (less applicable withholding taxes), including without limitation any sales commission or other expenses (including legal fees) payable by you in connection with the sale of your home in Scottsdale, Arizona, any costs incurred in purchasing a home in the Denver area (not including any part of the purchase price of such a home) or in moving expenses and temporarily living accommodations in the Denver area. Should you terminate your employment with Frontier at any time prior to completing one full year of service, you will be obligated to reimburse the entire $100,000 relocation allowance (less applicable withholding taxes).

During the term of your employment, Frontier will provide you, your spouse, your eligible children and your parents privileges to travel positive space on Frontier Airlines with the priority code PS2B in accordance with Frontier policy as to the extent and use of such benefits by senior executives (the “Flight Benefit”).

During the term of your employment, you will also be entitled to three weeks of annual paid vacation, in accordance with Frontier’s vacation policy as it may be amended from time to time. For 2015, your vacation will be prorated based upon the portion of the year during which you are employed by Frontier.

You will be eligible during your employment to participate in all of the employee benefits and benefit plans that Frontier generally makes available to its regular full-time employees. In addition, during your employment, you will be eligible for other standard benefits, to the extent applicable generally to other similarly situated employees of Frontier. Frontier reserves the right to terminate, modify or add to its benefits and benefit plans at any time.

If Frontier terminates your employment without Cause (as defined in the Equity Plan) and you deliver a general release of all claims against Frontier and its affiliates in a form acceptable to Frontier that becomes effective and irrevocable within 60 days following such termination of employment, then you shall be entitled to the following: (i) you shall receive a lump sum payment equal to the sum of your base salary at the time of termination (or two times such base salary if such termination occurs within twelve months after a Change in Control), less applicable withholdings; and (ii) Frontier will continue to provide the Flight Benefit until the first anniversary of your termination date (or the second anniversary of such date if such termination occurs within twelve months after a Change in Control).

No amount deemed deferred compensation subject to Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the “Code”), shall be payable pursuant to this letter agreement unless your termination of employment constitutes a “separation from service” with Frontier within the meaning of Section 409A and the Department of Treasury regulations and other guidance promulgated thereunder. For purposes of Section 409A of the Code (including, without limitation, for purposes of Treasury Regulation Section 1.409A-2(b)(2)(iii)), your right to receive any installment payments under this letter agreement shall be treated as a right to receive a series of separate payments and, accordingly, each such installment payment shall at all times be considered a separate and distinct payment. To the extent that any reimbursements payable pursuant to this letter agreement are subject to the provisions of Section 409A of the Code, any such reimbursements payable to you pursuant to this letter agreement shall be paid to you no later than December 31 of the year following the year in which the expense was incurred, the amount of expenses reimbursed in one year shall not affect the amount eligible for reimbursement in any subsequent year, and your right to reimbursement under this letter agreement will not be subject to liquidation or exchange for another benefit.

Frontier requires that, as a full-time employee, you devote your full business time, attention, skill, and efforts to the tasks and duties of your position as assigned by Frontier. If you wish to request consent to provide services (for any or no form of compensation) to any other person or business entity while employed by Frontier, please discuss that with Frontier’s President in advance of accepting another position.

As a condition of employment, you will be required (1) to comply with the Additional Terms attached hereto as Exhibit A, which by this reference are incorporated in this letter agreement, (2) to sign and return an I-9 Immigration form and provide sufficient documentation establishing your employment eligibility in the United States of America, (3) provide satisfactory proof of your identity as required by United States law, and (4) to complete successfully a medical exam, drug test and background check in accordance with Frontier policy for senior executives.

By signing below, you represent that your performance of services to Frontier will not violate any duty which you may have to any other person or entity (such as a present or former employer), including obligations concerning providing services (whether or not competitive) to others or confidentiality of proprietary information, and you agree that you will not do anything in the performance of services hereunder that would violate any such duty.

Notwithstanding any of the above, your employment with Frontier is “at will.” This means that it can be terminated by you or by Frontier at any time, with or without advance notice, and for any or no particular reason or cause. It also means that your job duties, title and responsibility and reporting level, work schedule, compensation and benefits, as well as Frontier’s personnel policies and procedures, may be changed with prospective effect, with or without notice, at any time in the sole discretion of Frontier.

This letter agreement shall be interpreted and construed in accordance with Colorado law without regard to any conflicts of laws principles. While other terms and conditions of your employment may change in the future, the at-will nature of your employment may not be changed, except in a subsequent written agreement, signed by you and the President of Frontier. Any prior or contemporaneous representations (whether oral or written) not contained in this letter agreement that may have been made to you will be expressly cancelled and superseded by this letter agreement.
Please sign and date this letter agreement and return it to me by email at [email address] by Wednesday, September 2, 2015, if you wish to accept employment by Frontier under the terms described above, failing which the offer made by our submission of this letter agreement will expire at the close of business in Denver, Colorado on such date. If you accept this offer by signing a counterpart and returning it to the undersigned as described, this letter agreement shall constitute the complete agreement between you and Frontier with respect to the terms and conditions of your employment.

We look forward to a productive and enjoyable work relationship.

Sincerely,

FRONTIER AIRLINES, INC.

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT

THIS EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT (this “Agreement”) is made and entered into as of June 25, 2012, by and between FRONTIER AIRLINES, INC., a Colorado corporation (the “Company”), and DANIEL M. SHURZ (the “Executive”).

RECITALS

WHEREAS, the Executive has served as Vice President, Strategy and Planning, of the Company;

WHEREAS, the Company desires to continue to employ and retain the Executive as the Company’s Senior Vice President, Commercial; and

WHEREAS, the Company and the Executive desire to enter into this Agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing and the mutual covenants hereinafter set forth and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, and intending to be legally bound, the parties hereto agree as follows:

1. Employment. The Company agrees to continue to employ the Executive, and the Executive agrees to render his services to the Company, as its Senior Vice President Commercial during the Term (as defined below). In connection with his employment, the Executive shall serve without additional payment or compensation of any kind as an officer of any other direct or indirect subsidiary or affiliate of the Company designated by the Company’s Chief Executive Officer (collectively, the “Subsidiaries”). The Executive agrees to use his best efforts to promote and further the business, reputation and good name of the Company and the Subsidiaries (collectively, the “Company Group”) and the Executive shall promptly and faithfully comply with all instructions, directions, requests, rules and regulations made or issued from time to time by the Company, provided that such instructions, directions, requests, rules or regulations do not violate Colorado law.

2. Term.

(a) The term of employment pursuant to this Agreement (the “Term”) shall continue until December 31, 2014; provided that the Company may terminate this Agreement for any reason or no reason by providing the Executive with 30 days prior written notice of such termination.

(b) Notwithstanding the foregoing, this Agreement may be terminated by the Company in the event that “Cause” for such termination exists as provided in Section 8(a) below or by the Executive for Good Reason as provided in Section 8(b) below. If this Agreement is terminated by the Company for “Cause” or by the Executive for “Convenience”, the Executive shall not be entitled to any Severance Compensation or other compensation of any kind following the effective date of such termination.
(c) In the event (i) the Company terminates this Agreement or the Executive’s employment other than for Cause, or (ii) the Executive terminates this Agreement for Good Reason, the Company shall pay the Executive Severance Compensation as provided in Section 4 hereof. If this Agreement is terminated by the Company other than for Cause, options, if any, granted to the Executive to purchase shares of the Company’s common stock and restricted shares, if any, covering shares of the Company’s common stock shall immediately become fully vested and exercisable in accordance with the agreements evidencing such awards.

(d) The Term shall automatically renew for successive one year periods unless either party shall have given notice to terminate this Agreement no later than ninety (90) days prior to the end of the then current Term.

3. Compensation. As full and complete compensation for all the Executive’s services hereunder, the Company shall pay the Executive the compensation described below.

(a) Base Salary. During the Term, the Company shall pay the Executive an annual base salary of $225,000 ("Base Salary"). So long as the Company is an affiliate (an “Affiliate”) (within the meaning of Rule 12b-1 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended) of Republic Airways Holdings Inc. ("Republic"), Republic’s Board of Directors shall review the Executive’s Base Salary each year and shall have the right in its discretion to increase such Base Salary. If at any time after the date hereof the Company ceases to be an Affiliate of Republic, the Company’s Board of Directors shall review the Executive’s Base Salary each year and shall have the right in its discretion to increase such Base Salary. In the event this Agreement is terminated prior to the expiration of the Term, the Company shall pay to the Executive, in addition to any Severance Compensation payable under Section 4, any accrued but unpaid Base Salary through the termination date.

(b) Annual Incentive Plan. In addition to the Base Salary, during the Term, so long as the Company is an Affiliate of Republic, the Executive shall be eligible to receive an annual bonus ("Bonus") for any year which will be determined, in its sole discretion, by Republic’s Compensation Committee or the Company’s Board of Directors, as the case may be, based upon certain performance measures which shall be determined by Republic’s Board of Directors or the Company’s Board of Directors in its discretion and communicated to the Executive by the end of each January of each year during the Term. The Bonus for a year will be determined and payable by March 15 of the following year. In the event this Agreement or the Executive’s employment is terminated by the Company for Cause or by the Executive other than for Good Reason, the Executive shall not be entitled to any Bonus for such year or any subsequent period. In the event this Agreement is not renewed, as set forth in Section 2(a) or (d), the Executive shall remain eligible for the Bonus, payable by March 15 of the following year.

(c) Travel Privileges. The Executive will be provided an annual travel barter account of $5,000 to purchase airline travel on Frontier. Any unused amount in such barter account shall be forfeited. Additionally, the Company shall provide the Executive, the Executive’s spouse, the Executive’s children and the Executive’s parents privileges to travel on Frontier with the priority code PS2B.
4. Severance Compensation.

(a) Termination Upon Death, or by the Company for Disability or Without Cause. In the event of the Executive’s death or in the event the Company terminates this Agreement as a result of the Executive’s inability, with reasonable accommodation, to perform the essential functions of his position, by reason of physical or mental incapacity, for a total period of 90 days in any 360-day period (“Executive’s Disability”) or other than for Cause, the Company shall pay to the Executive or his estate as the case may be as severance compensation one times the Executive’s Base Salary as then in effect. The severance compensation shall be paid in a lump sum by the end of the following month following termination of this Agreement, provided that the Company receives a release within 30 days following termination of this Agreement signed by the Executive, substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A, that is no longer revocable. The Executive agrees that the Company may satisfy its obligations to provide severance compensation pursuant to this Section 4(a) by purchasing and maintaining one or more insurance policies payable to either the Executive or his designees or to the Company (with further payment to the Executive or such designees) upon the Executive’s death or as a result of the Executive’s Disability. The Executive agrees to cooperate with the Company in obtaining such insurance, including by participating in such physical examinations and providing such personal information as may be requested by the Company’s insurers. The severance compensation in this Section 4(a) shall be in addition to any other life insurance benefits available to active executive employees of the Company as set forth in the Company’s Employee Handbook.

(b) Occurrence of a Change of Control. In the event of a Change of Control or after Republic’s Board of Directors or Republic’s stockholders approve a Change of Control (provided that after such Change of Control or such approval, the Executive’s employment is terminated (i) by the Company without Cause or (ii) by the Executive for Good Reason), the Company shall pay to the Executive as severance compensation two times the Executive’s Base Salary as then in effect. The severance compensation shall be paid in a lump sum by the end of the following month following a qualifying event. “Change of Control” shall mean that after the date hereof, (i) any person or group of affiliated or associated persons acquires a majority or more of the voting power of the Company; (ii) the consummation of a sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Company; (iii) the dissolution of the Company or (iv) the consummation of any merger, consolidation, or reorganization involving the Company in which, immediately after giving effect to such merger, consolidation or reorganization, less than majority of the total voting power of outstanding stock of the surviving or resulting entity is then “beneficially owned” (within the meaning of Rule 13d-3 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended) in the aggregate by the stockholders of the Company immediately prior to such merger, consolidation or reorganization. Notwithstanding the foregoing, distribution of a majority of the Company’s common stock to Republic’s shareholders or the sale by Republic of more than a majority of the outstanding shares of common stock of the Company to a private equity sponsor shall not for the purposes hereof constitute a Change of Control.

(c) Termination by the Executive for Good Reason. If the Executive terminates this Agreement for Good Reason, prior to the occurrence of a Change of Control as set forth in Section 4(b), the Company shall pay to the Executive as severance compensation one times the Executive’s Base Salary as then in effect. The severance compensation shall be paid in a lump sum within ten (10) days following termination.
(d) Continuation of Benefits.

(i) Medical Benefits. Upon termination of this Agreement for any reason by the Executive or the Company, the Executive, Executive’s spouse, and Executive’s dependents will continue to be eligible for coverage under the Company’s group health plan or any successor plan on the same basis as active executive employees of the Company, their spouses, and their dependents for one year following the termination date (upon a termination of this Agreement under Section 4(a) or Section 8(b)(i) following a Change of Control) or two years following the termination date (upon a termination of this Agreement under Section 4(b), Section 8(b)(ii) or Section 8(b)(iii)). If and when group health coverage under another group health plan first becomes available thereafter to the Executive, Executive’s spouse, or Executive’s dependents (as applicable), the Company’s obligations under this paragraph will cease with respect to each person to whom such coverage becomes available, and such person shall have such “COBRA” benefit continuation rights as may then be available under relevant law, treating Executive’s employment termination date as the date of such person’s “qualifying event.”

(ii) Travel Privileges. Upon termination of this Agreement under Sections 4(a), (b) or (c), the Executive shall continue to receive travel privileges set forth in Section 3(c) for one year following the termination date (upon a termination of this Agreement under Section 4(a) or Section 8(b)(i) following a Change of Control) or two years following the termination date (upon a termination of this Agreement under Section 4(b), Section 8(b)(ii) or Section 8(b)(iii)).

(iii) Other Benefits. Except as modified by this Agreement, the Executive shall continue to be eligible for all other benefits available to active executive employees of the Company as set forth in the Company’s Employee Handbook.

5. No Other Compensation. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein, or in any other written document executed by the Company and the Executive, no other compensation or other consideration shall become due or payable to the Executive on account of the services rendered to the Company Group. The Company shall have the right to deduct and withhold from the compensation payable to the Executive hereunder any amounts required to be deducted and withheld under the provisions of any statute, regulation, ordinance, order or any other amendment thereto, heretofore or hereafter enacted, requiring the withholding or deduction of compensation.

6. Medical & 401K Benefits. The Company agrees that the Executive shall be entitled to participate in any retirement, 401K, disability, medical, pension, profit sharing, group insurance, or any other plan or arrangement, or in any other benefits now or hereafter generally available to executives of the Company, in each case to the extent that the Executive shall be eligible under the general provisions thereof.
7. Vacation. The Executive shall be entitled to take three weeks of paid vacation which shall accrue monthly during each 12 months of the Executive’s employment hereunder, and which vacation shall be taken on dates to be selected by mutual agreement of the Company and the Executive.

8. Termination for Cause or Good Reason.

   (a) Termination for Cause by the Company. The Company, by written notice to the Executive, may immediately terminate this Agreement and the Executive’s employment hereunder for Cause. As used herein, a termination by the Company “for Cause” shall mean that the Executive has (i) willfully or materially refused to perform a material part of his duties hereunder, (ii) materially breached the provisions of Sections 9, 10 or 11 hereof, (iii) acted fraudulently or dishonestly in his relations with the Company, (iv) committed larceny, embezzlement, conversion or any other act involving the misappropriation of Company funds or assets in the course of his employment, or (v) been indicted or convicted of any felony or other crime involving an act of moral turpitude.

   (b) Termination for Good Reason by the Executive. The Executive, by 20 business days prior written notice to the Company, may terminate this Agreement and his employment hereunder for Good Reason, provided that the Company shall have the right to cure such Good Reason within such 20 business day period. As used herein, a termination by the Executive “for Good Reason” shall mean that (i) the Company has materially diminished the duties and responsibilities of the Executive with respect to the Company in comparison to Executive’s title and salary immediately prior to the change (i.e., by demoting the Executive to a title with less responsibility than the Executive’s prior position), (ii) following the first three months of the Term, the Company has relocated its principal offices more than 25 miles from Denver to another location without the consent of the Executive or (iii) the Company has materially breached the terms of this Agreement.

   (c) Termination for Convenience by the Executive. The Executive, by 60 days prior written notice to the Company, may terminate this Agreement and his employment hereunder for Convenience, provided that the Executive shall continue to be bound by Sections 9 and 11 of this Agreement. If this Agreement is terminated by the Executive for “Convenience”, the Executive shall not be entitled to any Severance Compensation or other compensation of any kind following the effective date of such termination. As used herein, a termination by the Executive “for Convenience” shall mean that the Executive has terminated this Agreement other than for Good Reason.

9. Confidential Information. The Executive recognizes and acknowledges that he shall receive in the course of his employment hereunder certain confidential information and trade secrets concerning the Company Group’s business and affairs which may be of great value to the Company Group. The Executive therefore agrees that he will not disclose any such information relating to the Company Group, the Company Group’s personnel or their operations other than in the ordinary course of business or in any way use such information in any manner which could adversely affect the Company Group’s business. For purposes of this Agreement, the terms “trade secrets” and “confidential information” shall include any and all information concerning the business and affairs of the Company Group and any division or other affiliate of the Company Group that is not generally available to the public.
10. Non-Competition. The Executive agrees that without the prior written consent of the Company’s Chief Executive Officer during the Term and for a period of 12 months following the termination or expiration of this Agreement, Executive will not directly or indirectly render advice or services to or become employed by either Spirit Airlines, Inc. or Allegiant Travel Company or any of their respective subsidiaries or affiliates.

11. Non-Solicitation. The Executive agrees that during the Term, and for a period of 12 months following the termination or expiration of this Agreement, he shall not, without the prior written consent of the Company, directly or indirectly, employ or retain, or have or cause any other person or entity to employ or retain, any person who was employed by the Company Group or any of its divisions or affiliates while the Executive was employed by the Company.

12. Breach of this Agreement. If the Executive commits a breach, or threatens to commit a breach, of any of the provisions of Sections 9, 10 or 11 of this Agreement, then the Company shall have the right and remedy to have those provisions specifically enforced by any court having equity jurisdiction, it being acknowledged and agreed by the Executive that the rights and privileges of the Company granted in Sections 9, 10 and 11 are of a special, unique and extraordinary character and any such breach or threatened breach will cause great and irreparable injury to the Company and that money damages will not provide an adequate remedy to the Company.

13. Notices. All notices and other communications required or permitted hereunder shall be in writing (including facsimile, telegraphic, telex or cable communication) and shall be deemed to have been duly given when delivered by hand, or mailed, certified or registered mail, return receipt requested and postage prepaid:

14. Applicable Law. This Agreement was negotiated and entered into within the State of Colorado. All matters pertaining to this Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of Colorado applicable to contracts made and to be performed wholly therein. Nothing in this Agreement shall be construed to require the commission of any act contrary to law, and wherever there is any conflict between any provision of this Agreement and any material present or future statute, law, governmental regulation or ordinance as a result of which the parties have no legal right to contract or perform, the latter shall prevail, but in such event the provision(s) of this Agreement affected shall be curtailed and limited only to the extent necessary to bring it or them within the legal requirements.
15. Entire Agreement; Modification; Consents and Waivers. This Agreement contains the entire agreement of the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings, written or oral, between the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof. No interpretation, change, termination or waiver of or extension of time for performance under any provision of this Agreement shall be binding upon any party unless in writing and signed by the party intended to be bound thereby. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, no waiver of or other failure to exercise any right under or default or extension of time for performance under any provision or this Agreement shall affect the right of any party to exercise any subsequent right under or otherwise enforce said provision or any other provision hereof or to exercise any right or remedy in the event of any other default, whether or not similar.

16. Severability. The parties acknowledge that, in their view, the terms of this Agreement are fair and reasonable as of the date signed by them, including as to the scope and duration of post-termination activities. Accordingly, if any one or more of the provisions contained in this Agreement shall for any reason, whether by application of existing law or law which may develop after the date of this Agreement, be determined by an arbitrator or court of competent jurisdiction to be excessively broad as to scope of activity, duration or territory, or otherwise unenforceable, the parties hereby jointly request such court to construe any such provision by limiting or reducing it so as to be enforceable to the maximum extent in favor of the Company compatible with then-applicable law. If any one or more of the terms, provisions, covenants or restrictions of this Agreement shall nonetheless be determined by an arbitrator or court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, void or unenforceable, then the remainder of the terms, provisions, covenants and restrictions of this Agreement shall remain in full force and effect and shall in no way be affected, impaired or invalidated.

17. Assignment. The Company may, at its election, assign this Agreement or any of its rights hereunder. This Agreement may not be assigned by the Executive.

18. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

19. Arbitration. Each of the parties hereby irrevocably and unconditionally consents to arbitrate any dispute arising out of or relating in any manner to this Agreement or the employment relationship contemplated hereby or the termination thereof, or any alleged breach of any term or provision of this Agreement. Such arbitration shall be conducted in Denver County, Colorado by a single arbitrator in accordance with the employment dispute resolution rules of the American Arbitration Association then in effect. Judgment may be entered on the arbitrator’s award in any federal or state court in Colorado (and the parties expressly consent to the jurisdiction of such court), or in any other court having jurisdiction. The Company shall be responsible for, and shall pay, 75% of all costs and expenses of any arbitration hereunder, including, without limitation, all costs, fees and expenses of the American Arbitration Association and arbitrator. The Executive shall be responsible for, and shall pay, 25% of all costs and expenses of any arbitration hereunder, including, without limitation, all costs, fees and expenses of the American Arbitration Association and arbitrator. Each of the Parties agrees that in any arbitration arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the employment relationship... contemplated hereby or the termination thereof, or any alleged breach of any term or provision of this Agreement or in any action to enter judgment on an award in such arbitration each party shall bear its own fees and expenses.

20. Survival. The provisions of Sections 9 through 19 of this Agreement shall survive any expiration or termination of this Agreement.

21. Equity Commitment. If at any time after the date hereof the Company ceases to be an Affiliate of Republic, subject to approval by the Company’s Compensation Committee, the Executive shall be issued options to purchase shares of common stock of the Company, and/or shall be issued a grant of restricted stock at a price per share equal to the par value thereof, in such numbers and on such general terms as are consistent with awards granted to similarly situated executive officers of the Company, including the Company’s Chief Executive Officer. The vesting of options, if any, to purchase shares of Republic’s common stock or grants of restricted shares, if any, covering shares of Republic’s common stock previously granted to the Executive shall be governed by the terms of the respective stock option agreement or restricted stock agreement evidencing such awards notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement.

22. Indemnification. The Company shall, to the fullest extent allowed by law, defend, indemnify and hold harmless the Executive from and against any and all demands, claims, suits, liabilities, actions asserted or brought against the Executive or in which the Executive is made a party, including, without limitation, all litigation costs and attorneys’ fees incurred by the Executive or judgments rendered against the Executive, in connection with any matter arising within the course and scope of Executive’s employment with the Company or service as an officer, director or manager of the Company or any of the Subsidiaries.
The right of the Executive to indemnification hereunder shall vest at the time of occurrence or performance of any event, act or omission giving rise to any demand, claim, suit, liability, action or legal proceeding of the nature referred to in this Section 23 and, once vested, shall survive the termination of Executive’s employment with the Company for any reason.

23. Section 409A Compliance.

(a) Any payments conditioned upon a termination of the Executive’s employment will be deemed to be conditioned upon the Executive’s separation from service within the meaning of Treasury Regulation Section 1.409A-1(h) and will be construed and interpreted accordingly. If the Executive is a “specified employee” within the meaning of Treasury Regulation Section 1.409A-1(i) as of the date of the Executive’s separation from service, then the Executive shall not be entitled to any severance payments or other benefits pursuant to this Agreement until the earlier of (i) the date which is six months after the date of the Executive’s separation from service, or (ii) the date of the Executive’s death. This paragraph shall only apply if, and to the extent required in order to comply with Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the “Code”), and Treasury Regulation Section 1.409A-3(i)(2). Any amounts otherwise payable to the Executive upon or in the six-month period following the Executive’s separation from service that are not so paid by reason of this paragraph shall be paid to the Executive (or the Executive’s estate, as the case may be) as soon as practicable (and in all events within twenty days) after the expiration of such six-month period or (if applicable, the date of the Executive’s death).
(b) Any taxable reimbursement of expenses payable to the Executive shall be paid to the Executive on or before the last day of the Executive’s taxable year following the taxable year in which the related expense was incurred. Expense reimbursements and in-kind benefits provided to the Executive shall not be subject to liquidation or exchange for another benefit and the amount of such reimbursements or in-kind benefits that the Executive receives in one taxable year shall not affect the amount of such reimbursements or benefits that the Executive may receive in any other taxable year.

(c) It is intended that any amounts payable under this Agreement and the Company’s and the Executive’s exercise of any authority or discretion hereunder shall comply with, and avoid the imputation of any tax, penalty or interest under Section 409A of the Code. This Agreement shall be construed and interpreted consistent with that intent. Should the Company pay the Executive contrary to clause (i) or (ii) of Section 24(a) above, the Company shall indemnify the Executive for any taxes due thereon as a result.
IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have executed this Employment Agreement as of the date first above written.

Mr. Trevor Stedke

Re: Employment Terms

Dear Trevor:

Frontier Airlines, Inc. (“Frontier”) is pleased to offer you full-time employment as SVP, Operations. You will have such duties as are normally associated with this position as such duties may be modified or supplemented by Frontier’s President and CEO, to whom you will report. You will reside in Denver, Colorado and work in Frontier’s headquarters located there, except for such travel as may be necessary to fulfill your responsibilities. In the course of your employment with Frontier, you will be subject to and required to comply with all company policies, and applicable laws and regulations. These include equal employment opportunity in hiring, assignments, training, promotions, compensation, employee benefits, employee discipline and discharge, and all other terms and conditions of employment.

Your employment will begin on a mutually agreed upon date no later than April 1, 2019. Starting on that date, you will be paid a base salary at the annual rate of $350,000 (subject to required tax withholding and other authorized deductions). Your base salary will be payable in accordance with Frontier’s standard payroll policies and be subject to adjustment pursuant to Frontier’s policies as in effect from time to time, which policies currently include an annual review.

In addition to your base salary, you will be eligible to earn an annual cash performance bonus, at the discretion of Frontier’s Board of Directors or one of such board’s committees, based on the attainment of performance metrics for Frontier and/or individual performance objectives, in each case established and evaluated by such board or one of its committees. Your target annual bonus will be 65% of your base salary, but the actual amount of your annual bonus may range from 0% of your base salary to 130% of your base salary. Any annual bonus will be contingent upon your continued employment through the applicable payment date. You hereby acknowledge and agree that nothing contained herein confers upon you any right to an annual bonus in any year, and that whether Frontier pays you an annual bonus and the amount of any such annual bonus will be determined by Frontier in its sole discretion. For 2019, your target and any actual annual bonus will be prorated based on the portion of the year during which you are employed by Frontier.

Frontier is owned by Frontier Group Holdings, Inc. (“FGHI”). FGHI has adopted an equity incentive plan and related documents (the “Equity Plan”) pursuant to which FGHI may grant equity awards. At its first regularly scheduled meeting after your employment start date, FGHI’s Board will grant to you, pursuant to the Equity Plan, a number of restricted stock units equal to $1,000,000 divided by the per share fair market value of FGHI’s common stock as determined by the Board in its sole discretion. The restricted stock units shall vest as to twenty-five percent (25%) of the shares of FGHI common stock initially subject thereto on each anniversary of the date you commence employment, subject to your continuing employment by Frontier through the applicable vesting date. In addition, your equity award shall vest fully upon any Change in Control (as defined in the Equity Plan). The restricted stock units shall otherwise be subject to the terms of the applicable plan and the restricted stock unit agreement evidencing the award to be entered into between you and FGHI.
Frontier will reimburse you for all reasonable expenses you and your immediate family incur in relocating to Denver, Colorado, including, but not limited to, temporary housing, air fare, car rental, hotels, meals, as well as packing, unpacking and shipping costs for personal and household items and an automobile, up to a maximum of $75,000 for all such expenses incurred within 18 months of your employment start date.

During the term of your employment, Frontier will provide you, your spouse, your eligible children and your parents privileges to travel positive space on Frontier Airlines with the priority code PS2B in accordance with Frontier policy as to the extent and use of such benefits by senior executives (the "Flight Benefit"). You shall also receive flight benefits on Frontier Airlines in the form of a Universal Air Travel Plan, Inc. ("UATP") card made available once per twelve-month period that provides for travel by you and your family and friends solely on Frontier Airlines in the amount of eight thousand two hundred fifty dollars ($8,250) that must be used, if at all, within twelve months of the date the UATP card is issued.

During the term of your employment, you will also be entitled to three weeks of annual paid vacation, prorated for 2019, in accordance with Frontier’s vacation policy as it may be amended from time to time.

You will be eligible during your employment to participate in all of the employee benefits and benefit plans that Frontier generally makes available to its regular full-time employees. In addition, during your employment, you will be eligible for other standard benefits, to the extent applicable generally to other similarly situated employees of Frontier. Frontier reserves the right to terminate, modify or add to its benefits and benefit plans at any time.

If Frontier terminates your employment without Cause (as defined in the Equity Plan) and you deliver a general release of all claims against Frontier and its affiliates in a form acceptable to Frontier that becomes effective and irrevocable within 60 days following such termination of employment, then you shall be entitled to the following: (i) you shall receive a lump sum payment equal to the sum of your base salary and your target bonus at the time of termination (or two times such base salary and target bonus if such termination occurs within twelve months after a Change in Control or your duties are substantially diminished within such twelve months and you resign within such twelve months), less applicable withholdings; and (ii) Frontier will continue to provide the Flight Benefit until the first anniversary of your termination date (or the second anniversary of such date if such termination occurs within twelve months after a Change in Control or your duties are substantially diminished within such twelve months and you resign within such twelve months).

No amount deemed deferred compensation subject to Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the “Code”), shall be payable pursuant to this letter agreement unless your termination of employment constitutes a "separation from service" with Frontier within the meaning of Section 409A and the Department of Treasury regulations and other guidance promulgated thereunder. For purposes of Section 409A of the Code (including, without limitation, for purposes of Treasury Regulation Section 1.409A-2(b)(2)(iii)), your right to receive any installment payments under this letter agreement shall be treated as a right to receive a series of separate payments and, accordingly, each such installment payment shall at all times be considered a separate and distinct payment. To the extent that any reimbursements or in-kind benefits provided pursuant to this letter agreement are subject to the provisions of Section 409A of the Code, any such reimbursements payable to you pursuant to this letter agreement shall be paid to you no later than December 31 of the year following the year in which the expense was incurred, the amount of expenses reimbursed or the amount of in-kind benefits provided in one year shall not affect the amount eligible for reimbursement or the amount of in-kind benefits to which you are entitled, respectively, in any subsequent year, and your right to reimbursement or in-kind benefits under this letter agreement will not be subject to liquidation or exchange for another benefit. If Frontier determines that you are a “specified employee” for purposes of Section 409A(a)(2)(B)(i) of the Code at the time of your separation from service, any amount deemed deferred compensation subject to Section 409A of the Code to which you are entitled under this letter agreement in connection with such separation from service shall be delayed to the extent required in order to avoid a prohibited distribution under Section 409A(a)(2)(B)(i) of the Code.

Frontier requires that, as a full-time employee, you devote your full business time, attention, skill, and efforts to the tasks and duties of your position as assigned by Frontier. If you wish to request consent to provide services (for any or no form of compensation) to any other person or business entity while employed by Frontier, please discuss that with Frontier’s President and CEO in advance of accepting another position.

As a condition of employment, you will be required (1) to comply with the Additional Terms attached hereto as Exhibit A, which by this reference are incorporated in this letter agreement, (2) to sign and return an 1-9 Immigration form and provide sufficient documentation establishing your employment eligibility in the United States of America, (3) provide satisfactory proof of your identity as required by United States law, and (4) to complete successfully a medical exam, drug test and background check in accordance with Frontier policy for senior executives.

In consideration of the Investments made by the Participating Pilots pursuant to Paragraph A of LOA 67, the Company hereby grants to FAPAInvest, for the benefit of the Participating Pilots, units (“Units”) on the terms and conditions set forth below:

(a) Units. Each Unit represents the right to receive from the Company on a Payment Date cash and/or shares of Common Stock in an amount equal to the Falcon Per Share Price. Units that vest solely upon Investments made by the Participating Pilots shall be referred to herein as “Investment-Based Units”. Units that vest based upon both Investments made by the Participating Pilots and the occurrence of the Investment Recovery Date shall be referred to herein as “Investment Recovery Units”.

(b) Unit Pool. The aggregate number of Units subject to this Agreement (the “Unit Pool”) shall be the number that, after giving effect to such issuance and treating, solely for the purpose of calculating the Unit Pool, Units as Conversion Shares, equals four percent (4.0%) of Capitalization of Falcon as of June 30, 2014. Eighty-seven and one-half percent (87.5%) of the Unit Pool shall consist of Investment-Based Units (the “Investment Unit Pool”) and twelve and one-half percent (12.5%) of the Unit Pool shall consist of Investment Recovery Units (the “Recovery Unit Pool”).

(c) Vesting.

(i) As of the Closing Date, that number of Investment-Based Units calculated by multiplying the Investment Unit Pool times a fraction, the numerator of which is the aggregate Investment that has been made as of the Closing Date and the denominator of which is the Investment Value, vested. Thereafter, the Investment-Based Units shall vest at such times the Investments are made as set forth in Schedule 1.1(b) attached hereto. On each applicable vesting date, the number of Investment-Based Units vesting shall equal the number calculated by multiplying the Investment Unit Pool by a fraction, the numerator of which is the amount of the Investment on such vesting date and the denominator of which is the Investment Value. The parties acknowledge that the portion of the Investment Value that will have vested as of December 31, 2013 is $24,600,000.

(ii) On the Investment Recovery Date, that number of Investment Recovery Units calculated by multiplying the Recovery Unit Pool times a fraction, the numerator of which is the aggregate Investment that has been made as of the Investment Recovery Date and the denominator of which is the Investment Value, shall vest. Thereafter, the Investment Recovery Units shall vest at such times the Investments are made as set forth in Schedule 1.1(b) attached hereto. On each applicable vesting date, the number of Investment Recovery Units vesting shall equal the number calculated by multiplying the Recovery Unit Pool by a fraction, the numerator of which is the amount of the Investment on such vesting date and the denominator of which is the Investment Value.

(d) Termination. In the event of a Participating Pilot’s termination of employment with the Company for any reason, including, without limitation, because of such Participating Pilot’s resignation, retirement, death, or termination of employment by the Company (any such termination of employment, a “Termination Event”), then the vesting of the Participating Pilot’s Pro Rata Share (as defined below) of the Unit Pool shall immediately cease as of the effective date of such Termination Event, and the Participating Pilot’s Pro Rata Share of the vested Units shall be paid out on one or more Payment Dates as set forth in Section 2.4 below.

(e) Notices. So long as Investments are being made by the Participating Pilots, then within 45 days of the end of each calendar quarter beginning with the quarter first ending after the Closing Date, the Company shall prepare and deliver to FAPAInvest a written summary (in a form reasonably acceptable to FAPAInvest) of the Investments made by the Participating Pilots and the Units vested.

In the event Falcon otherwise engages in a nonreciprocal transaction between Falcon and its stockholders, such as a stock dividend, stock split, reverse stock split or spin-off, or a recapitalization, reorganization or similar transaction, that affects the number or kind of shares of Common Stock or the share price and causes a change in the Falcon Per Share Price represented by Units, the Units shall be equitably adjusted to reflect such nonreciprocal transaction.

(b) Administrative Costs. FAPAInvest in its sole discretion shall determine any amounts that are to be set aside out of the funds that would have otherwise been distributed to the Participating Pilots under this Agreement to cover costs of the establishment, administration, oversight of, and the enforcement of FAPAInvest’s and the Participating Pilots’ rights under, this Agreement and/or the Profit Sharing Plan. Any payments received by the Participating Pilots under this Agreement will be net of any such amounts set aside pursuant to this Section. In this regard, FAPAInvest may engage such professionals and service providers as it deems appropriate to assist with the establishment, administration, oversight and enforcement of this Agreement, and include the fees and expenses for such persons as costs of establishment, administration, oversight and enforcement of this Agreement for purposes of the set aside under this Section. Any set aside amounts remaining after the last payment to the Participating Pilots under this Agreement shall be allocated and paid to the same Participating Pilots and in the same proportion as such last payment under this Agreement.

2.3 Determination of Pro Rata Share and Allocation Schedule.

(a) Pro Rata Share. Each Participating Pilot’s pro rata share (“Pro Rata Share”) of the amount payable in respect of vested Units on a particular Payment Date shall be calculated as a ratio determined by dividing (i) the portion of Taxable Compensation of the Participating Pilot corresponding to the Applicable Time Period by (ii) the aggregate Taxable Compensation of all Participating Pilots as such compensation is reported for the Applicable
(b) Notice and Allocation Schedule. No later than thirty (30) days prior to each Payment Date, the Company shall deliver to FAPAInvest accurate and complete information (collectively, "Information") setting forth (i) the effective date(s) of every Termination Event that occurred after the date Participating Pilots first began making Investments hereunder (or after the last Payment Date, as applicable) and prior to such applicable Payment Date, and the name of each Participating Pilot whose employment with the Company was terminated by such Termination Event; (ii) the Taxable Compensation earned by each Participating Pilot for the Applicable Time Period as described in Section 2.3(a) above; and (iii) the number of Units vested through the applicable Payment Date. Based on the Information received, FAPAInvest shall then determine each Participating Pilot’s Pro Rata Share due on such Payment Date and no later than two business days prior to such Payment Date, FAPAInvest shall provide the Company with an allocation schedule (the “Allocation Schedule”) for such Payment Date, which Allocation Schedule shall identify (1) the Participating Pilots who shall receive a cash payment or Shares, as applicable, on such Payment Date and (2) each such Participating Pilot’s Pro Rata Share. The Allocation Schedule once provided by FAPAInvest to the Company shall be considered final with respect to the applicable Payment Date, and the Company shall be entitled to rely upon such Allocation Schedule in allocating payments in respect of the vested Units among the Participating Pilots on such Payment Date absent manifest error. For purposes of preparing the Information, determining a Participating Pilot’s Investment and Pro Rata Share, and preparing the Allocation Schedule, any Participating Pilot who has not had a Termination Event prior to the date on which the Information is prepared by the Company shall be deemed to have continued as an employee of the Company through the Payment Date.

2.4 Payments

(a) Payment Pursuant to Prior Agreement. The parties acknowledge and agree that the Stock Purchase constituted a 409A Event under the Prior Agreement. Pursuant to the Prior Agreement, on or before December 31, 2013, subject to FAPAInvest timely providing the Allocation Schedule as set forth in the Prior Agreement, the Company shall pay to or for the benefit of the Participating Pilots in accordance with the Prior Agreement an amount equal to $1,768,000 less (i) amounts required to be withheld pursuant to Section 7.2 of the Prior Agreement and (ii) the amount specified by FAPAInvest to the Company in writing within ten (10) business days of the Closing Date, which shall be paid to FAPAInvest when payments are made to the Participating Pilots under this Section 2.4(a) for FAPAInvest’s use pursuant to Section 1.2(c) of the Prior Agreement and Section 2.2(b) of this Agreement.

(b) Scheduled Payments. Subject to FAPAInvest timely providing the Allocation Schedule, payments in respect of vested Units shall be made on or within ninety (90) days following January 1, 2020 (the “2020 Payment Date”), or within ninety (90) days following January 1, 2022 (the “2022 Payment Date”), and/or within ninety (90) days following January 1, 2025 (the “2025 Payment Date”), subject to earlier payment upon the occurrence of a 409A Event as set forth on Schedule 2.4 hereto. Any payments made upon the occurrence of a 409A Event shall be paid in cash, provided that in the event the 409A Event is a Qualifying IPO, Falcon will use reasonable best efforts to register the shares of Common Stock with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and if such Shares are registered, the payments shall be made in shares of Common Stock. Any payments made upon the 2020 Payment Date, the 2022 Payment Date and the 2025 Payment Date shall be paid in cash except to the extent specified in Schedule 2.4 with respect to a non-409A Qualifying IPO that occurs prior to the 2020 Payment Date. In no event may amounts paid be less than zero.

(c) Other Events. The parties hereto acknowledge that there may be other events and circumstances not covered by this Agreement that may occur. The parties agree to address such events in a manner that to the extent practicable is consistent with this Section 2.4 and Schedule 2.4 with the intent of this Agreement to provide the value of the Units to the Participating Pilots in a manner that complies with Section 409A of the Code.

In addition, on a quarterly basis, Falcon will disclose to the management of FAPAInvest all transactions in the prior quarter by Indigo-Affiliated Funds in the equity securities of Falcon, including issuances, redemptions, cash dividends, distributions and other cash payments in respect of the ownership interest in Falcon. The provision of financial statements, information and disclosure pursuant to this paragraph shall be for the use of FAPAInvest’s board of managers without further distribution except to FAPAInvest’s or such board’s professional advisors. Access and use of such financial statements, information and disclosure by FAPAInvest’s board of managers and its professional advisors, or other mutually approved parties, shall be conditioned upon and governed by each member of the FAPAInvest board of directors and each professional advisor, or other mutually approved party, entering into a form of confidentiality agreement acceptable to Falcon and FAPAInvest and consistent with applicable securities laws and regulations.

6.2 Ownership of the Company. During the term of this Agreement, Falcon shall own securities or interests of the Company representing 100% of the total combined voting power of all classes of securities or interests directly or through an unbroken chain of entities ending with the Company.

6.3 Other Business. The parties intend that the sole business of Falcon shall be to own, directly or through one or more subsidiaries, the Company. During the term of this Agreement, in the event Falcon (directly or indirectly including through one or more subsidiaries) proposes to engage in a business other than the business of owning the Company, FAPAInvest shall be provided the option to continue to hold Units tracking Common Stock as provided herein or to modify such Units to track Company interests in a manner mutually agreeable between the parties.

SECTION 8. MISCELLANEOUS

8.1 Status Under Code Section 409A. The parties to this Agreement intend that all payments under this Agreement be paid upon the occurrence of a permissible payment event specified under Treasury Regulation section 1.409A-3(a) and that this Agreement thus comply with the Code and this Agreement should be interpreted accordingly. Specifically, payments are intended to be paid at a fixed time specified in this Agreement, or upon the earlier occurrence of a 409A Event. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Participating Pilots shall be solely responsible for any taxes, acceleration of taxes, interest or penalties arising under Section 409A of the Code with respect to amounts covered by this Agreement; and neither the Company, Falcon, FAPAInvest nor any of their Affiliates shall have any responsibility with respect thereto. Vested Units, once vested, will remain vested, and amounts payable in respect thereof will only be payable under this Agreement and will not be subject to impermissible substitution and acceleration under (or other violations of) Section 409A.

8.2 Tax Withholding. The Company is authorized to withhold from any payment under this Agreement, or from any payroll or other payment to a Participating Pilot, amounts of withholding and other taxes due or potentially payable in connection with any allocation or payment under this Agreement and to take such other action as the Company may deem advisable to enable it and/or the Participating Pilots to satisfy obligations for the payment of withholding taxes and other tax obligations relating to participation in the payments due under this Agreement.

The words “include,” “includes,” and “including” when used herein shall be deemed in each case to be followed by the words “without limitation.” The headings contained in this Agreement are for reference purposes only and shall not affect in any way the meaning or interpretation of this Agreement. This Agreement has been negotiated by the respective parties hereto and their attorneys and the language hereof shall not be construed for or against any party. 8.7 Further Assurances. Each party to this Agreement shall do and perform or cause to be done and performed all such further acts and things and shall execute and deliver all such agreements, certificates, instruments and documents as the other party hereto may reasonably request in order to carry out the intent and accomplish the purposes of this Agreement and the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby.

8.8 Employment and Other Rights. Neither the Agreement nor any action taken hereunder shall be construed as giving any Participating Pilot the right to continue in the employ or service of the Company, or as interfering in any way with the right of the Company to terminate any Participating Pilot’s employment or service at any time.

8.9 Unfunded Arrangement. The arrangement created by this Agreement shall be unfunded, and except as otherwise provided in this Agreement the Company shall not be required to segregate any assets that may at any time be represented by interests in the arrangement created by this Agreement. Neither FAPAInvest nor any Participating Pilot shall, by virtue of this Agreement, have any interest in any specific assets of the Company.

8.10 Other Benefit and Compensation Programs. Payments received by a Participating Pilot pursuant to this Agreement shall not be treated as a part of such Participating Pilot’s regular recurring compensation for purposes of the determination of benefits under any other employee benefit plan, contract or similar arrangement provided by the Company unless expressly so provided by such other plan, contract or arrangement, or unless the Company expressly determines otherwise.

8.11 Third Party Beneficiaries. The Participating Pilots are third-party beneficiaries of this Agreement and have the right to enforce FAPAInvest’s rights and remedies hereunder. Nothing contained in this Agreement, expressed or implied, is intended to confer upon any person other than the parties hereto, the Participating Pilots and their respective permitted successors and assigns any benefit, right or remedy.

8.12 Interests Not Transferable; Assignment by the Parties; Business Transactions. A Participating Pilot’s right or interest in this Agreement or any payment due under this Agreement, may not be transferred by the Participating Pilot except upon his/her death by laws of descent and distribution, and shall not otherwise be subject in any manner to anticipation, alienation, sale, transfer, assignment, pledge, encumbrance, or charge, and any such attempted action shall be void. This Agreement shall not be assignable by operation of law (other than to a successor or in connection with a merger, consolidation or similar transaction) or otherwise (any attempted assignment in contravention hereof being null and void); provided that FAPAInvest may assign all or part of its rights and obligations under this Agreement, but only if the transferee agrees in writing for the benefit of the Company and Falcon (with a copy thereof to be furnished to the Company and Falcon) to be bound by the terms of this Agreement (any such transferee shall be included in the term “FAPAInvest”). If during the term of this Agreement, the Company and Falcon cease to be part of a controlled group of businesses under Section 414(b) or (c) of the Code, all obligations of the Company and Falcon under this Agreement shall continue as an obligation of the Company and all references to Falcon in this Agreement thereafter shall be disregarded.
8.13 Entire Agreement. This Agreement, the Commercial Agreement and all other documents required to be delivered pursuant hereto (together with any necessary reference to the terms of LOA 67) constitute the entire agreement among the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and except for references to the Prior Agreement in Section 2.4(a) hereof, supersede the Prior Agreement and all other prior documents, agreements and understandings, both written and verbal, among the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and the transactions contemplated hereby.

8.14 Severability. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be illegal, invalid or unenforceable under present or future laws, then, if possible, such illegal, invalid or unenforceable provision shall be modified to such extent as is necessary to comply with such present or future laws and such modification shall not affect any other provision hereof; provided that if such provision may not be so modified such illegality, invalidity or unenforceability shall not affect any other provision, but this Agreement shall be reformed, construed and enforced as if such invalid, illegal or unenforceable provision had never been contained herein.

8.15 Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the Laws of the State of Delaware applicable to contracts made and to be performed wholly within said State, without giving effect to the conflict of laws principles thereof.

8.17 Injunctive Relief. The parties agree that their remedies at law in the event of any default or threatened default by the other parties in the performance of or compliance with any of the terms of this Agreement are not and will not be adequate to the fullest extent permitted by law, and that such terms may be specifically enforced by a decree for the specific performance of any agreement contained herein or by an injunction against a violation of any of the terms hereof or otherwise without FAPAInvest, the Company or Falcon having to prove actual damage or post any bond or other security.

8.18 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in one or more counterparts, all of which shall be considered one and the same agreement and shall become effective when one or more counterparts have been signed by each of the parties and delivered to each of the other parties, it being understood that all parties need not sign the same counterpart.

2.2 Specification Amendment

The parties understand and agree that the Specification may be further amended following signature of this Agreement in accordance with the terms of this Clause 2.

2.2.1 Specification Change Notice

The Specification may be amended by written agreement between the parties in a notice, substantially in the form set out in Exhibit B-1 (each, a “Specification Change Notice” or “SCN”) and will set out the SCN's Aircraft embodiment rank and will also set forth, in detail, the particular change to be made to the Specification and the effect, if any, of such change on design, performance, weight, Delivery Date of the Aircraft affected thereby and on the text of the Specification. An SCN may result in an adjustment to the Base Price of the Aircraft, which adjustment, if any, will be specified in the SCN.

2.2.2.3 The Seller may at its discretion notify Seller from time to time that certain items, which are currently BFE in the Specification, shall be deemed to be seller-furnished equipment ("SFE") and the parties agree that, upon such notice, such BFE items shall thereafter be excluded from the provisions of Clauses 2.2.2.1 (ii) and 2.2.2.2 above and shall be considered instead SFE and thereafter chargeable to the Buyer.

The Seller will give the Buyer the Scheduled Delivery Month of each Aircraft  before the first day of the Scheduled Delivery Quarter of the respective Aircraft. The Seller will give the Buyer at least  written notice of the anticipated date on which the Aircraft will be Ready for Delivery. Thereafter, the Seller will notify the Buyer of any change to such dates.

9.2 Delivery Process

9.2.1 The Buyer will, when the Aircraft is Ready for Delivery, pay the Balance of the Final Price, take Delivery of the Aircraft and remove the Aircraft from the Delivery Location.

9.2.2 The Seller will deliver and transfer title to the Aircraft to the Buyer free and clear of all encumbrances (except for any liens or encumbrances created by or on behalf of the Buyer) provided that the Balance of the Final Price of such Aircraft has been paid by the Buyer pursuant to Clause 5.4 and that the Certificate of Acceptance has been signed and delivered to the Seller pursuant to Clause 8.3. The Seller will provide the Buyer with a bill of sale in the form of Exhibit E (the “Bill of Sale”) and such other documentation confirming transfer of title and receipt of the Final Price of the Aircraft as may reasonably be requested by the Buyer. Title to, property in and risk of loss of or damage to the Aircraft will transfer to the Buyer contemporaneously with the delivery by the Seller to the Buyer of such Bill of Sale.
9.2.3 If the Buyer fails to (i) deliver the signed Certificate of Acceptance with respect to an Aircraft to the Seller when required pursuant to Clause 8.3, or (ii) pay the Balance of the Final Price of such Aircraft to the Seller and take Delivery of the Aircraft, then the Buyer will be deemed to have rejected Delivery wrongfully when such Aircraft was duly tendered to the Buyer hereunder. If such a deemed rejection arises, then in addition to the remedies of Clause 5.8.1, (a) the Seller will retain title to such Aircraft and (b) the Buyer will indemnify and hold the Seller harmless against any and all costs (including but not limited to any parking, storage, and insurance costs) and consequences resulting from the Buyer’s rejection (including but not limited to risk of loss of or damage to such Aircraft), it being understood that the Seller will be under no duty to the Buyer to store, park, insure or otherwise protect such Aircraft. These rights of the Seller will be in addition to the Seller’s other rights and remedies in this Agreement.

9.2.4 If the Buyer fails to remove the Aircraft from the Delivery Location, then, without prejudice to the Seller’s other rights and remedies under this Agreement or at law, the provisions of Clause 9.2.3 (b) shall apply.

9.3 Flyaway

9.3.1 The Buyer and the Seller will cooperate to obtain any licenses that may be required by the Aviation Authority of the Delivery Location for the purpose of exporting the Aircraft.

9.3.2 All expenses of, or connected with, flying the Aircraft from the Delivery Location after Delivery will be borne by the Buyer. The Buyer will make direct arrangements with the supplying companies for the fuel and oil required for all post-Delivery flights.

(ii) the Seller will not be responsible for any damages arising from or in connection with such Excusable Delay suffered or incurred by the Buyer;
(iii) the Seller will not be deemed to be in default in the performance of its obligations hereunder as a result of such Excusable Delay;
(iv) the Seller will as soon as practicable after the removal of the cause of such delay resume performance of its obligations under this Agreement and in particular will notify the Buyer of the revised Scheduled Delivery Month.

10.3 Termination on Excusable Delay
10.3.1 If any Delivery is delayed as a result of an Excusable Delay for a period of more than  after the last day of the Scheduled Delivery Month, then either party may terminate this Agreement with respect to the affected Aircraft, by giving written notice to the other party  after the . (i) the Buyer notifies the Seller within  month of the date of receipt of the Seller’s notice that it desires the Seller to provide a replacement aircraft during the month quoted in the Seller’s notice; and

(ii) the parties execute an amendment to this Agreement recording the change in the Scheduled Delivery Month.

Nothing herein will require the Seller to manufacture and deliver a replacement aircraft if such manufacture would require the reactivation of its production line for the model or series of aircraft that includes the Aircraft.

10.5 Termination Rights Exclusive

If this Agreement is terminated as provided for under the terms of Clauses 10.3 or 10.4, such termination will discharge all obligations and liabilities of the parties hereunder with respect to such affected Aircraft and undelivered material, services, data or other items applicable thereto and to be furnished under the Agreement.

(iv) arising from failure to conform to the Specification, except to those portions of the Specification relating to performance or where it is expressly stated that they are estimates or approximations or design aims.

12.1.2 Exclusions

The warranties set forth in Clause 12.1.1 will not apply to Buyer Furnished Equipment, nor to the Propulsion System, nor to any component, equipment, accessory or part installed on the Aircraft at Delivery that is not a Warranted Part except that:

(i) any defect in the Seller’s workmanship in respect of the installation of such items in the Aircraft, including any failure by the Seller to conform to the installation instructions of the manufacturers of such items, that invalidates any applicable warranty from such manufacturers, will constitute a defect in workmanship for the purpose of this Clause 12.1 and be covered by the warranty set forth in Clause 12.1.1.2(ii); and any defect inherent in the Seller’s design of the installation, in consideration of the state of the art at the date of such design, which impairs the use of such items, will constitute a defect in design for the purpose of this Clause 12.1 and be covered by the warranty set forth in Clause 12.1.1.2(iii).

12.1.3 Warranty Period

The warranties set forth in Clauses 12.1.1 and 12.1.2 will be limited to those defects that become apparent within  of the affected Aircraft (the “Warranty Period”).

The Seller may alternatively furnish to the Buyer’s account with the Seller a credit equal to the price at which the Buyer is then entitled to purchase a replacement for the defective Warranted Part.

12.1.4.2 In the event of a defect covered by Clauses 12.1.1.2(iii), 12.1.1.2(iv) and 12.1.2(ii) becoming apparent within the Warranty Period, the Seller shall also, if so requested by the Buyer in writing, correct such defect in any Aircraft which has not yet been delivered to the Buyer, *****

(i) such inspections are recommended by a Seller Service Bulletin to be performed within the Warranty Period;

(ii) the reimbursement will not apply for any inspections performed as an alternative to accomplishing corrective action as recommended by the Seller prior to the date of such inspection;

PA -33
(iii) the labor rate for the reimbursement will be the Inhouse Warranty Labor Rate; and

12.2 Seller Service Life Policy

In addition to the warranties set forth in Clause 12.1, the Seller further agrees that should a Failure occur in any Item (as these terms are defined herein below) that has not suffered from an extrinsic force, then, subject to the general conditions and limitations set forth in Clause 12.2.4, the provisions of this Clause 12.2 will apply.

For the purposes of this Clause 12.2:

(i) “Item” means any item listed in Exhibit F;

12.2.1 Periods and Seller’s Undertakings

Subject to the general conditions and limitations set forth in Clause 12.2.4, the Seller agrees that if a Failure occurs in an Item before the Aircraft in which such Item was originally installed has completed thirty thousand (30,000) flying hours or twenty thousand (20,000) flight cycles or within twelve (12) years after the Delivery of said Aircraft, whichever will first occur, the Seller will, at its discretion and as promptly as practicable and with the Seller’s financial participation as hereinafter provided, either:

(i) design and furnish to the Buyer a correction for such Item with a Failure and provide any parts required for such correction (including Seller designed standard parts but excluding industry standard parts), or

(ii) replace such Item.

PA -40
12.2.2 Seller’s Participation in the Costs

Subject to the general conditions and limitations set forth in Clause 12.2.4, any part or Item that the Seller is required to furnish to the Buyer under this Service Life Policy in connection with the correction or replacement of an Item will be furnished to the Buyer therefor, determined in accordance with the following formula:

Such programs will be as compatible as possible with the Buyer’s operational requirements and will be carried out at the Buyer’s expense. Reports relating thereto will be regularly furnished to the Seller;

(v) the Buyer will report any breakage or defect in an Item in writing to the Seller within after such breakage or defect becomes apparent, whether or not said breakage or defect can reasonably be expected to occur in any other aircraft, and the Buyer will have provided to the Seller sufficient detail on the breakage or defect to enable the Seller, acting reasonably, to determine whether said breakage or defect is subject to this Service Life Policy.

12.2.3.3 Except as otherwise provided for in this Clause 12.2, any claim under this Service Life Policy will be administered as provided for in, and will be subject to the terms and conditions of, Clause 12.1.6.

12.2.3.4 In the event of the Seller having issued a modification applicable to an Aircraft, the purpose of which is to avoid a Failure, the Seller may elect to supply the necessary modification kit  established by the Seller. If such a kit is so offered to the Buyer, then, to the extent of such Failure and any Failures that could ensue therefrom, the validity of the Seller’s commitment under this Clause 12.2 will be subject to the Buyer incorporating such modification in the relevant Aircraft, as promulgated by the Seller and in accordance with the Seller’s instructions, within a reasonable time.

12.2.3.5 THIS SERVICE LIFE POLICY IS NEITHER A WARRANTY, PERFORMANCE GUARANTEE, NOR AN AGREEMENT TO MODIFY ANY AIRCRAFT OR AIRFRAME COMPONENTS TO CONFORM TO NEW DEVELOPMENTS OCCURRING IN THE STATE OF AIRFRAME DESIGN AND MANUFACTURING ART. THE SELLER’S OBLIGATION UNDER THIS CLAUSE 12.2 IS TO MAKE ONLY THOSE CORRECTIONS TO THE ITEMS OR FURNISH REPLACEMENTS THEREFOR AS PROVIDED FOR IN THIS CLAUSE 12.2. THE BUYER’S SOLE REMEDY AND RELIEF FOR THE NON-PERFORMANCE OF ANY OBLIGATION OR LIABILITY OF THE SELLER ARISING UNDER OR BY VIRTUE OF THIS SERVICE LIFE POLICY WILL BE IN A CREDIT FOR GOODS AND SERVICES (NOT INCLUDING AIRCRAFT), LIMITED TO THE AMOUNT THE BUYER REASONABLY EXPENDS IN PROCURING A CORRECTION OR REPLACEMENT FOR ANY ITEM THAT IS THE SUBJECT OF A FAILURE COVERED BY THIS SERVICE LIFE POLICY AND TO WHICH SUCH NON-PERFORMANCE IS RELATED, LESS THE AMOUNT THAT THE BUYER OTHERWISE WOULD HAVE BEEN REQUIRED TO PAY UNDER THIS CLAUSE 12.2 IN RESPECT OF SUCH CORRECTED OR REPLACEMENT ITEM. 12.3 Supplier Warranties and Service Life Policies

Prior to or at Delivery of the first Aircraft, the Seller will provide the Buyer, in accordance with the provisions of Clause 17, with the warranties and, where applicable, service life policies that the Seller has obtained for Supplier Parts pursuant to the Supplier Product Support Agreements.

12.3.1 Definitions

12.3.1.1 “Supplier” means any supplier of Supplier Parts.
“Supplier Part” means any component, equipment, accessory or part installed in an Aircraft at the time of Delivery thereof and for which there exists a Supplier Product Support Agreement. For the sake of clarity, Propulsion System and Buyer Furnished Equipment and other equipment selected by the Buyer to be supplied by suppliers with whom the Seller has no existing enforceable warranty agreements are not Supplier Parts.

“Supplier Product Support Agreements” means agreements between the Seller and Suppliers, as described in Clause 17.1.2, containing enforceable and transferable warranties and, in the case of landing gear suppliers, service life policies for selected structural landing gear elements.

Supplier’s Default

12.3.2.1 In the event of any Supplier, under any standard warranty obtained by the Seller pursuant to Clause 12.3.1, (ii) the Buyer submitting in reasonable time to the Seller reasonable evidence that such default has occurred, then Clause 12.1 will apply to the extent (a) the same would have been applicable had such Supplier Part been a Warranted Part, and (b) the Seller can reasonably perform said Supplier’s obligations, except that the Supplier’s warranty period as indicated in the Supplier Product Support Agreement will apply.

12.3.2.2 In the event of any Supplier, under any Supplier Service Life Policy obtained by the Seller pursuant to Clause 12.3.1, (ii) the Buyer submitting in reasonable time to the Seller reasonable evidence that such default has occurred, then Clause 12.2 will apply to the extent (a) the same would have been applicable had such Supplier Item been listed in Exhibit F, Seller Service Life Policy, and (b) the Seller can reasonably perform said Supplier’s obligations, except that the Supplier’s Service Life Policy period as indicated in the Supplier Product Support Agreement will apply.

12.3.2.3 At the Seller’s request, the Buyer will assign to the Seller, and the Seller will be subrogated to, all of the Buyer’s rights against the relevant Supplier with respect to and arising by reason of such default and will provide reasonable assistance to enable the Seller to enforce the rights so assigned.

Interface Commitment

Interface Problem

If the Buyer experiences any technical problem in the operation of an Aircraft or its systems due to a malfunction, the cause of which, after due and reasonable investigation, is not readily identifiable by the Buyer but which the Buyer reasonably believes to be attributable to the design characteristics of one or more components of the Aircraft (“Interface Problem”), the Seller will, if so requested by the Buyer, and without additional charge to the Buyer except for transportation of the Seller’s or its designee’s personnel to the Buyer’s facilities, promptly conduct or have conducted an investigation and analysis of such problem to determine, if possible, the cause or causes of the problem and to recommend such corrective action as may be feasible. The Buyer will furnish to the Seller all data and information in the Buyer’s possession relevant to the Interface Problem and will cooperate with the Seller in the conduct of the Seller’s investigations and such tests as may be required.

At the conclusion of such investigation, the Seller will promptly advise the Buyer in writing of the Seller’s opinion as to the cause or causes of the Interface Problem and the Seller’s recommendations as to corrective action.

12.4.2 Seller’s Responsibility

If the Seller determines that the Interface Problem is primarily attributable to the design of a Warranted Part, the Seller will, if so requested by the Buyer and pursuant to the terms and conditions of Clause 12.1, correct the design of such Warranted Part to the extent of the Seller’s obligation as defined in Clause 12.1.

12.4.3 Supplier’s Responsibility

If the Seller determines that the Interface Problem is primarily attributable to the design of any Supplier Part, the Seller will, if so requested by the Buyer, reasonably assist the Buyer in processing any warranty claim the Buyer may have against the Supplier.

12.4.4 Joint Responsibility

If the Seller determines that the Interface Problem is attributable partially to the design of a Warranted Part and partially to the design of any Supplier Part, the Seller will, if so requested by the Buyer, seek a solution to the Interface Problem through cooperative efforts of the Seller and any Supplier involved.

The Seller will promptly advise the Buyer of such corrective action as may be proposed by the Seller and any such Supplier. Such proposal will be consistent with any then existing obligations of the Seller hereunder and of any such Supplier towards the Buyer. Such corrective action, unless reasonably rejected by the Buyer, will constitute full satisfaction of any claim the Buyer may have against either the Seller or any such Supplier with respect to such Interface Problem.

12.4.5 General

12.4.5.1 All requests under this Clause 12.4 will be directed to both the Seller and the affected Supplier.

12.4.5.2 Except as specifically set forth in this Clause 12.4, this Clause will not be deemed to impose on the Seller any obligations not expressly set forth elsewhere in this Agreement.

PA -44
All reports, recommendations, data and other documents furnished by the Seller to the Buyer pursuant to this Clause 12.4 will be deemed to be delivered under this Agreement and will be subject to the terms, covenants and conditions set forth in this Clause 12 and in Clause 22.11.

   (B) LOSS OF, OR DAMAGE OF ANY KIND TO, ANY AIRCRAFT, COMPONENT, EQUIPMENT, ACCESSORY OR PART PROVIDED UNDER THIS AGREEMENT;

   (C) LOSS OF PROFITS AND/OR REVENUES;

   (D) ANY OTHER INCIDENTAL OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGE.

THE WARRANTIES AND SERVICE LIFE POLICY PROVIDED BY THIS AGREEMENT WILL NOT BE EXTENDED, ALTERED OR VARIED EXCEPT BY A WRITTEN INSTRUMENT SIGNED BY THE SELLER AND THE BUYER. IN THE EVENT THAT ANY PROVISION OF THIS CLAUSE 12 SHOULD FOR ANY REASON BE HELD UNLAWFUL, OR OTHERWISE UNENFORCEABLE, THE REMAINDER OF THIS CLAUSE 12 WILL REMAIN IN FULL FORCE AND EFFECT.

FOR THE PURPOSES OF THIS CLAUSE 12.5, THE “SELLER” SHALL BE UNDERSTOOD TO INCLUDE THE SELLER, ANY OF ITS SUPPLIERS, SUBCONTRACTORS, AND AFFILIATES AND ANY OF THEIR RESPECTIVE INSURERS.

12.6 Duplicate Remedies

The remedies provided to the Buyer under Clause 12.1 and Clause 12.2 as to any defect in respect of the Aircraft or any part thereof are mutually exclusive and not cumulative. The Buyer will be entitled to the remedy that provides the maximum benefit to it, as the Buyer may elect, pursuant to the terms and conditions of this Clause 12 for any particular defect for which remedies are provided under this Clause 12; provided, however, that the Buyer will not be entitled to elect a remedy under both Clause 12.1 and Clause 12.2 for the same defect. The Buyer’s rights and remedies herein for the nonperformance of any obligations or liabilities of the Seller arising under these warranties will be in monetary damages limited to the amount the Buyer expends in procuring a correction or replacement for any covered part subject to a defect or nonperformance covered by this Clause 12, and the Buyer will not have any right to require specific performance by the Seller.

PA -46
Negotiated Agreement

The Buyer specifically recognizes that:

(i) the Specification has been agreed upon after careful consideration by the Buyer using its judgment as a professional operator of aircraft used in public transportation and as such is a professional within the same industry as the Seller;

(ii) this Agreement, and in particular this Clause 12, has been the subject of discussion and negotiation and is fully understood by the Buyer; and

(iii) the price of the Aircraft and the other mutual agreements of the Buyer set forth in this Agreement were arrived at in consideration of, inter alia, the provisions of this Clause 12, specifically including the waiver, release and renunciation by the Buyer set forth in Clause 12.5.

Disclosure to Third Party Entity

In the event of the Buyer intending to designate a third party entity (a “Third Party Entity”) to administer this Clause 12, the Buyer will notify the Seller of such intention prior to any disclosure of this Clause to the selected Third Party Entity and will cause such Third Party Entity to enter into a confidentiality agreement and or any other relevant documentation with the Seller solely for the purpose of administering this Clause 12.

Transferability

Without prejudice to Clause 21.1, the Buyer’s rights under this Clause 12 may not be assigned, sold, transferred, novated or otherwise alienated by operation of law or otherwise, without the Seller’s prior written consent, which will not be unreasonably withheld.

Any transfer in violation of this Clause 12.9 will, as to the particular Aircraft involved, void the rights and warranties of the Buyer under this Clause 12 and any and all other warranties that might arise under or be implied in law.
13.1 Indemnity

13.1.1 Subject to the provisions of Clause 13.2.3, the Seller will indemnify the Buyer from and against any damages, costs and/or expenses including legal costs (excluding damages, costs, expenses, loss of profits and other liabilities in respect of or resulting from loss of use of the Aircraft) resulting from any infringement or claim of infringement by the Airframe (or any part or software installed therein at Delivery) of:

(i) any British, French, German, Spanish or U.S. patent;

(ii) any patent issued under the laws of any other country in which the Buyer may lawfully operate the Aircraft, provided that:

(a) from the time of design of such Airframe, accessory, equipment and/or part and until infringement claims are resolved, such country and the flag country of the Aircraft are each a party to the Chicago Convention on International Civil Aviation of December 7, 1944, and are each fully entitled to all benefits of Article 27 thereof, or in the alternative,

(b) from such time of design and until infringement claims are resolved, such country and the flag country of the Aircraft are each a party to the International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property of March 20, 1883 ("Paris Convention");

and

(iii) in respect of computer software installed on the Aircraft, any copyright, provided that the Seller’s obligation to indemnify will be limited to infringements in countries which, at the time of infringement, are members of The Berne Union and recognize computer software as a “work” under the Berne Convention.

13.1.2 Clause 13.1.1 will not apply to

(i) Buyer Furnished Equipment or Propulsion System; or

(ii) parts not the subject of a Supplier Product Support Agreement; or

(iii) software not developed or created by the Seller.

13.1.3 In the event that the Buyer, due to circumstances contemplated in Clause 13.1.1, is prevented from using the Aircraft (whether by a valid judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction or by a settlement arrived at between claimant, Seller and Buyer), the Seller will at its discretion and expense either:

(i) procure for the Buyer the right to use the Aircraft to the Buyer; or
(ii) replace the infringing part of the Aircraft as soon as possible with a non-infringing substitute complying in all other respects with the requirements of this Agreement.

13.2 Administration of Patent and Copyright Indemnity Claims

13.2.1 If the Buyer receives a written claim or a suit is threatened or commenced against the Buyer for infringement of a patent or copyright referred to in Clause 13.1, the Buyer will:

(i) forthwith notify the Seller giving particulars thereof;
(ii) furnish to the Seller all data, papers and records within the Buyer’s control or possession relating to such patent or claim;
(iii) refrain from admitting any liability or making any payment or assuming any expenses, damages, costs or royalties or otherwise acting in a manner prejudicial to the defense or denial of such suit or claim provided always that nothing in this sub-Clause (iii) will prevent the Buyer from paying such sums as may be required in order to obtain the release of the Aircraft, provided such payment is accompanied by a denial of liability and is made without prejudice;
(iv) fully co-operate with, and render all such assistance to, the Seller as may be pertinent to the defense or denial of the suit or claim;
(v) act in such a way as to mitigate damages, costs and expenses and / or reduce the amount of royalties which may be payable.

13.2.2 The Seller will be entitled either in its own name or on behalf of the Buyer to conduct negotiations with the party or parties alleging infringement and may assume and conduct the defense or settlement of any suit or claim in the manner which, in the Seller’s opinion, it deems proper.

13.2.3 The Seller’s liability hereunder will be conditional upon the strict and timely compliance by the Buyer with the terms of this Clause and is in lieu of any other liability to the Buyer express or implied which the Seller might incur at law as a result of any infringement or claim of infringement of any patent or copyright.

CLAIMS AND REMEDIES OF THE BUYER AGAINST THE SELLER, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, ARISING BY LAW OR OTHERWISE (INCLUDING WITHOUT LIMITATION ANY OBLIGATION, LIABILITY, RIGHT, CLAIM OR REMEDY ARISING FROM OR WITH RESPECT TO LOSS OF USE OR REVENUE OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGES), WITH RESPECT TO ANY ACTUAL OR ALLEGED PATENT INFRINGEMENT OR THE LIKE BY ANY AIRFRAME, PART OR SOFTWARE INSTALLED THEREIN AT DELIVERY, OR THE USE OR SALE THEREOF, PROVIDED THAT, IN THE EVENT THAT ANY OF THE AFORESAID PROVISIONS SHOULD FOR ANY REASON BE HELD UNLAWFUL OR OTHERWISE INEFFECTIVE, THE REMAINDER OF THIS CLAUSE WILL REMAIN IN FULL FORCE AND EFFECT. THIS INDEMNITY AGAINST PATENT AND COPYRIGHT INFRINGEMENTS WILL NOT BE EXTENDED, ALTERED OR VARIED EXCEPT BY A WRITTEN INSTRUMENT SIGNED BY THE SELLER AND THE BUYER.

16.1.1 This Clause 16 sets forth the terms and conditions for the supply of training support and services for the Buyer’s personnel to support the Aircraft operation.

16.1.2 The range, quantity and validity of training to be provided under this Agreement are covered in Appendix A to this Clause 16.

16.1.3 Scheduling of training courses covered in Appendix A to this Clause 16 will be mutually agreed during a training conference (the “Training Conference”) that will be held no later than  prior to Delivery of the first Aircraft.

16.2 Training Location

16.2.1 The Seller will provide training at its training center in  (individually a “Seller’s Training Center” and collectively the “Seller’s Training Centers”).

16.2.2 If the unavailability of facilities or scheduling difficulties make training by the Seller at any Seller’s Training Center impractical, the Seller will ensure that the Buyer is provided with such training at another location designated by the Seller.

16.2.2.1 Upon the Buyer’s request, the Seller may also provide certain training at a location other than the Seller’s Training Centers, including one of the Buyer’s bases, if and when practicable for the Seller, under terms and conditions to be mutually agreed upon. In such event, all additional charges listed in Clauses 16.5.2 and 16.5.3 will be charged.

16.2.2.2 If the Buyer requests training at a location as indicated in Clause 16.2.2.1 and requires such training to be an Airbus approved course, the Buyer undertakes that the training facilities will be approved prior to the performance of such training. The Buyer will, as necessary and with adequate time prior to the performance of such training, provide access to the training facilities set forth in Clause 16.2.2.1 to the Seller’s and the competent Aviation Authority’s representatives for approval of such facilities.

The Seller will be responsible for all training course syllabi, training aids and training equipment necessary for the organization of the training courses. For the avoidance of doubt, such training equipment does not include provision of aircraft for the purpose of performing training.

The training equipment and the training curricula used for the training of flight, cabin and maintenance personnel will not be fully customized but will be configured in order to obtain the relevant Aviation Authority’s approval and to support the Seller’s training programs.

Training data and documentation for trainees receiving the training at the Seller’s Training Centers will be . Training data and documentation will be marked “FOR TRAINING ONLY” and as such are supplied for the sole and express purpose of training; training data and documentation will not be revised.

(ii) maintenance training courses as listed under Article 3 of Appendix A to this Clause 16 may be exchanged for any maintenance training courses described in the Seller’s Customer Services Catalog current at the time of the Buyer’s request; should any one of the  thereunder (flight operations or maintenance) have been fully drawn upon, the Buyer will be entitled to exchange for flight operations or maintenance training courses as needed against the remaining allowances.

The exchange value will be based on the Seller’s Training Course Exchange Matrix applicable at the time of the request for exchange and which will be provided to the Buyer at such time.

It is understood that the above provisions will apply to the extent that  under Appendix A to this Clause 16 remain available to the full extent necessary to perform the exchange.

All requests to exchange training courses will be submitted by the Buyer with a minimum of  prior notice. The requested training will be subject to the Seller’s then existing planning constraints.

16.3.3.2 Should the Buyer use none or only part of the training to be provided pursuant to this Clause 16, no compensation or non-training credit of any nature will be provided.

16.3.3.3 Should the Buyer decide to cancel or reschedule a training course, fully or partially, and irrespective of the location of the training, a minimum advance notification of at least  prior to the relevant training course start date is required.

Each quotient () and () shall be rounded to the nearest ten-thousandth (4 decimals). If the next succeeding place is five (5) or more, the preceding decimal place shall be raised to the next higher figure.

5.2 Substitution of Indexes for Seller Price Revision Formula

If:

(i) the United States Department of Labor substantially revises the methodology of calculation of the Labor Index or the Material Index as used in the Seller Price Revision Formula, or

(ii) the United States Department of Labor discontinues, either temporarily or permanently, such Labor Index or such Material Index, or

(iii) the data samples used to calculate such Labor Index or such Material Index are substantially changed; the Seller shall select a substitute index for inclusion in the Seller Price Revision Formula (the “Substitute Index”).

The Substitute Index shall reflect as closely as possible the actual variance of the Labor Costs or of the material costs used in the calculation of the original Labor Index or Material Index as the case may be.

As a result of the selection of the Substitute Index, the Seller shall make an appropriate adjustment to the Seller Price Revision Formula to combine the successive utilization of the original Labor Index or Material Index (as the case may be) and of the Substitute Index.
5.3 Final Index Values

The Index values as defined in Clause 4 above shall be considered final and no further adjustment to the base prices as revised at Delivery of the Aircraft shall be made after Aircraft Delivery for any subsequent changes in the published Index values.

Appropriate revision of the formula will be made to accomplish this result.

12. WARRANTIES AND SERVICE LIFE POLICY

This Clause covers the terms and conditions of the warranty and service life policy.

12.1 Standard Warranty

12.1.1 Nature of Warranty

12.1.1.1 For the purpose of this Agreement, the term “Warranted Part” will mean any Seller proprietary component, equipment, accessory or part which is installed on an Aircraft at Delivery thereof and

(i) which is manufactured to the detailed design of the Seller or a subcontractor of the Seller and

(ii) which bears a part number of the Seller at the time of such Delivery.

For the avoidance of doubt, “Warranted Parts” shall include, among other things, the parts listed on Exhibit F hereto.

12.1.1.2 Subject to the conditions and limitations as hereinafter provided for and except as provided for in Clause 12.1.2, the Seller warrants to the Buyer that each Aircraft and each Warranted Part will at Delivery to the Buyer be free from defects:

(i) in material;

(ii) in workmanship, including without limitation processes of manufacture;

(iii) in design (including without limitation the selection of materials) having regard to the state of the art at the date of such design; and

(iv) arising from failure to conform to the Specification, except to those portions of the Specification relating to performance or where it is expressly stated that they are estimates or approximations or design aims.

12.1.2 Exclusions

The warranties set forth in Clause 12.1.1 will not apply to Buyer Furnished Equipment, nor to the Propulsion System, nor to any component, equipment, accessory or part installed on the Aircraft at Delivery that is not a Warranted Part except that:

A&R LA 7-8
(i) any defect in the Seller’s workmanship in respect of the installation of such items in the Aircraft, including any failure by the Seller to conform to the installation instructions of the manufacturers of such items, that invalidates any applicable warranty from such manufacturers, will constitute a defect in workmanship for the purpose of this Clause 12.1 and be covered by the warranty set forth in Clause 12.1.1.2(ii); and

(ii) any defect inherent in the Seller’s design of the installation, in consideration of the state of the art at the date of such design, which impairs the use of such items, will constitute a defect in design for the purpose of this Clause 12.1 and be covered by the warranty set forth in Clause 12.1.1.2(iii).

12.1.3 Warranty Period

The warranties set forth in Clauses 12.1.1 and 12.1.2 will be limited to those defects that become apparent within [] after Delivery of the affected Backlog Aircraft and [] after delivery of the affected Incremental Aircraft (each a “Warranty Period”).

12.1.4 Limitations of Warranty

12.1.4.1 The Buyer’s remedy and the Seller’s obligation and liability under Clauses 12.1.1 and 12.1.2 are limited to, at the Seller’s expense and option, the repair, replacement or correction of any Warranted Part which is defective (or to the supply of modification kits, rectifying the defect), together with a credit to the Buyer’s account with the Seller of an amount equal to the mutually agreed direct labor costs expended in performing the removal and reinstallation thereof on the Aircraft at the labor rate defined in Clause 12.1.7.5.

The Seller may alternatively furnish to the Buyer’s account with the Seller a credit equal to the price at which the Buyer is then entitled to purchase a replacement for the defective Warranted Part.

12.1.4.2 In the event of a defect covered by Clauses 12.1.1.2(iii), 12.1.1.2(iv) and 12.1.2(ii) becoming apparent within the Warranty Period, the Seller shall also, if so requested by the Buyer in writing and the Seller agrees, correct such defect in any Aircraft which has not yet been delivered to the Buyer, []

12.1.4.3 Cost of Inspection

In addition to the remedies set forth in Clauses 12.1.4.1 and 12.1.4.2, the Seller will reimburse the direct labor costs incurred by the Buyer in performing inspections of the Aircraft to determine whether or not a defect exists in any Warranted Part within the Warranty Period subject to the following conditions:

(i) such inspections are recommended by a Seller Service Bulletin to be performed within the Warranty Period;
(ii) the reimbursement will not apply for any inspections performed as an alternative to accomplishing corrective action as recommended by the Seller prior to the date of such inspection.
(iii) the labor rate for the reimbursement will be the Inhouse Warranty Labor Rate, and
(iv) the manhours used to determine such reimbursement will not exceed the Seller’s [] estimate of the manhours required for such inspections.

12.1.5 Warranty Claim Requirements

The Buyer’s remedy and the Seller’s obligation and liability under this Clause 12.1 with respect to any warranty claim submitted by the Buyer (each a “Warranty Claim”) are subject to the following conditions:

(i) the defect having become apparent within the Warranty Period;
(ii) the Buyer having filed a warranty claim within [] of discovering the defect;
(iii) []
(iv) the Seller having received a Warranty Claim complying with the provisions of Clause 12.1.6 below.

12.1.6 Warranty Administration

The warranties set forth in Clause 12.1 will be administered as hereinafter provided for:

12.1.6.1 Claim Determination

Seller shall use commercially reasonable efforts to advise Buyer of Seller’s determination as to whether any claimed defect in any Warranted Part is a valid Warranty Claim within 30 days after the submission of such Warranty Claim. Such determination will be based upon the claim details, reports from the Seller’s Representatives, historical data logs, inspections, tests, findings during repair, defect analysis and other relevant documents.
12.1.6.2 Transportation Costs
The cost of transporting a Warranted Part claimed to be defective to the facilities designated by the Seller and for the return therefrom of a repaired or replaced Warranted Part will be [].

12.1.6.3 Return of an Aircraft
If the Buyer and the Seller mutually agree, prior to such return, that it is necessary to return an Aircraft to the Seller for consideration of a Warranty Claim, the Seller []. The Buyer will make reasonable efforts to minimize the duration of the corresponding flights.

12.1.6.4 On Aircraft Work by the Seller
If the Seller determines that a defect subject to this Clause 12.1 justifies the dispatch by the Seller of a working team to repair or correct such defect through the embodiment of one or several Seller’s Service Bulletins at the Buyer’s facilities, or if the Seller accepts the return of an Aircraft to perform or have performed such repair or correction, then the [].

The condition which has to be fulfilled for on-Aircraft work by the Seller is that, in the reasonable opinion of the Seller, the work necessitates the technical expertise of the Seller as manufacturer of the Aircraft.

If said condition is fulfilled and if the Seller is requested to perform the work, the Seller and the Buyer will agree on a schedule and place for the work to be performed.

12.1.6.5 Warranty Claim Substantiation
Each Warranty Claim filed by the Buyer under this Clause 12.1 will contain at least the following data:
(i) description of defect,
(ii) date of Buyer’s discovery of defect and/or removal date,
(iii) description of Warranted Part claimed to be defective,
(iv) part number,
(v) serial number (if applicable),
(vi) position on Aircraft,
(vii) total flying hours or calendar time, as applicable, at the date of defect appearance,

Title to and risk of loss of any Aircraft, component, accessory, equipment or part subject to a Warranty Claim and returned by the Buyer to the Seller will at all times remain with the Buyer, except that:

(i) when the Seller has possession of a returned Aircraft, component, accessory, equipment or part to which the Buyer has title, the Seller will have such responsibility therefor as is chargeable by law to a bailee for hire, but the Seller will not be liable for loss of use; and

(ii) title to and risk of loss of a component, accessory, equipment or part subject to a Warranty Claim will pass to the Seller upon shipment by the Seller to the Buyer of any item furnished by the Seller to the Buyer as a replacement therefor.

Upon the Seller’s shipment to the Buyer of any replacement component, accessory, equipment or part provided by the Seller pursuant to this Clause 12.1, title to and risk of loss of such replacement component, accessory, equipment or part will pass to the Buyer.

12.1.7  Inhouse Warranty

12.1.7.2  Conditions for Seller’s Authorization

(i) provided the Buyer notifies the Seller of its intention to perform Inhouse Warranty repairs before any such repairs are started where the estimated cost of such repair is in excess of []. The Buyer’s notification will include sufficient detail regarding the defect, estimated labor hours and material to allow the Seller to ascertain the reasonableness of the estimate. The Seller agrees to use all reasonable efforts to ensure a prompt response and will not unreasonably withhold authorization;

(iii) if repairs are performed in accordance with the Seller’s Technical Data or written instructions; and

12.1.7.3  Seller’s Rights
The Seller will have the right to require the return of any Warranted Part, or any part removed therefrom, which is claimed to be defective if, in the reasonable judgment of the Seller, the nature of the claimed defect requires technical investigation. Such return will be subject to the provisions of Clause 12.1.6.2. Furthermore, the Seller will have the right to have a Seller representative present during the disassembly, inspection and testing of any Warranted Part claimed to be defective, subject to such presence being practical and not unduly delaying the repair.
12.1.7.4 Inhouse Warranty Claim Substantiation

Claims for Inhouse Warranty credit will be filed within the time period set forth in 12.1.5(ii) and will contain the same information as that required for Warranty Claims under Clause 12.1.6.5 and in addition will include:

   • related Seller’s or third party’s invoices (if applicable),
   • total price of parts,

(iii) detailed number of labor hours,

(iv) Inhouse Warranty Labor Rate,

(v) total claim value.

12.1.7.5 []

The Buyer’s sole remedy and the Seller’s sole obligation and liability with respect to Inhouse Warranty Claims will be [] determined as set forth below:

(i) to determine direct labor costs, only manhours spent on removal from the Aircraft, disassembly, inspection, repair, reassembly, final inspection and test of the Warranted Part and reinstallation thereof on the Aircraft will be counted. Any manhours required for maintenance work concurrently being carried out on the Aircraft or the Warranted Part will not be included.

12.1.7.7 Scrapped Material

The Buyer will retain any defective Warranted Part beyond economic repair and any defective part removed from a Warranted Part during repair for a period of either [] after the date of completion of the repair or [] after submission of a claim for Inhouse Warranty credit relating thereto, whichever is longer. Such parts will be returned to the Seller within [] of receipt of the Seller’s request to that effect.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Buyer may scrap any such defective parts, which are beyond economic repair and not required for technical evaluation locally, with the agreement of the Seller Representative(s).

Scrapped Warranted Parts will be evidenced by a record of scrapped material certified by an authorized representative of the Buyer and will be kept in the Buyer’s file for a least the duration of the applicable Warranty Period.

12.1.8 Standard Warranty in case of Pooling or Leasing Arrangements

Without prejudice to Clause 21.1, the warranties provided for in this Clause 12.1 for any Warranted Part will accrue to the benefit of any airline in revenue service, other than the Buyer, if the Warranted Part enters into the possession of any such airline as a result of a pooling or leasing agreement between such airline and the Buyer, in accordance with the terms and subject to the limitations and exclusions of the foregoing warranties and to the extent permitted by any applicable law or regulations.

12.1.9 Warranty for Corrected, Replaced or Repaired Warranted Parts

12.1.10 Accepted Industry Standard Practices Normal Wear and Tear

The Buyer's rights under this Clause 12.1 are subject to the Aircraft and each component, equipment, accessory and part thereof being maintained, overhauled, repaired and operated in accordance with accepted industry standard practices, all Technical Data and any other instructions generally applicable to, and generally adopted by, operators of aircraft of the same model as the Aircraft issued by the Seller, the Suppliers and the Propulsion System Manufacturer and all applicable rules, regulations and directives of the relevant Aviation Authorities. []

The Seller’s liability under this Clause 12.1 will not extend to normal wear and tear or to:

(i) any Aircraft or component, equipment, accessory or part thereof, which has been repaired, altered or modified after Delivery, except by the Seller or in a manner approved by the Seller unless Buyer furnishes evidence reasonably satisfactory to the Seller that such repair, alteration or modification was not a cause of the applicable defect;

(ii) any Aircraft or component, equipment, accessory or part thereof, which has been operated in a damaged state, unless Buyer furnishes evidence reasonably satisfactory to the Seller that such operation was not a cause of the applicable defect; or

(iii) any component, equipment, accessory and part from which the trademark, name, part or serial number or other identification marks have been removed.

12.1.11 DISCLAIMER OF SELLER LIABILITY

THE SELLER WILL NOT BE LIABLE FOR, AND THE BUYER WILL INDEMNIFY THE SELLER AGAINST, THE CLAIMS OF ANY THIRD PARTIES FOR LOSSES DUE TO ANY DEFECT, NONCONFORMANCE OR PROBLEM OF ANY KIND, ARISING OUT OF OR IN CONNECTION WITH ANY REPAIR OF WARRANTED PARTS UNDERTAKEN BY THE BUYER UNDER THIS CLAUSE 12.1, WHETHER SUCH CLAIM IS ASSERTED IN CONTRACT OR IN TORT, OR IS PREMISED ON ALLEGED, ACTUAL, IMPUTED, ORDINARY OR INTENTIONAL ACTS OR OMISSIONS OF THE BUYER OR THE SELLER.

12.2 Seller Service Life Policy

In addition to the warranties set forth in Clause 12.1, the Seller further agrees that should a Failure occur in any Item (as these terms are defined herein below) that has not suffered from an extrinsic force then, subject to the general conditions and limitations set forth in Clause 12.2.4, the provisions of this Clause 12.2 will apply.

A&R LA 7 -16
For the purposes of this Clause 12.2:

(i) "Item" means any item listed in Exhibit F;

(ii) "Failure" means a breakage or defect that can reasonably be expected to occur on a fleetwide basis and which materially impairs the utility of the Item.

12.2.1 INTENTIONALLY LEFT BLANK

12.2.2 Periods and Seller’s Undertakings

(a) design and furnish to the Buyer a correction for such Item with a Failure and provide any parts required for such correction (including Seller designed standard parts but excluding industry standard parts), or

(b) replace such Item.

12.2.3 Seller’s Participation in the Costs

Subject to the general conditions and limitations set forth in Clause 12.2.4, any part or Item that the Seller is required to furnish to the Buyer under this Service Life Policy in connection with the correction or replacement of an Item will be furnished to the Buyer [] therefor, [] determined in accordance with the following formula:

12.2.4 General Conditions and Limitations

12.2.4.1 The undertakings set forth in this Clause 12.2 will be valid after the period of the Seller’s warranty applicable to an Item under Clause 12.1.

12.2.4.2 The Buyer’s remedies and the Seller’s obligations and liabilities under this Service Life Policy are subject to the prior compliance by the Buyer with the following conditions:

(i) the Buyer will maintain log books and other historical records with respect to each Item, adequate to enable the Seller, acting reasonably, to determine whether the alleged Failure is covered by this Service Life Policy and, if so, to define the portion of the costs to be borne by the Seller in accordance with Clause 12.2.3;
(ii) the Buyer will keep the Seller informed of any significant incidents relating to an Aircraft, howsoever occurring or recorded;

(iii) the Buyer will comply with the conditions of Clause 12.1.10;

(iv) the Buyer will implement specific structural inspection programs for monitoring purposes as may be established from time to time by the Seller generally applicable and generally adopted by operators of the same model of aircraft. Such programs will be as compatible as possible with the Buyer’s operational requirements and will be carried out at the Buyer’s expense. Reports relating thereto will be regularly furnished to the Seller;

(v) the Buyer will report any breakage or defect in a Item in writing to the Seller within [] after such breakage or defect is discovered by Buyer, whether or not said breakage or defect can reasonably be expected to occur in any other aircraft, and the Buyer will have provided to the Seller sufficient detail on the breakage or defect to enable the Seller, acting reasonably, to determine whether said breakage or defect is subject to this Service Life Policy.

12.2.4.3 Except as otherwise provided for in this Clause 12.2, any claim under this Service Life Policy will be administered as provided for in, and will be subject to the terms and conditions of, Clause 12.1.6.

12.2.4.4 In the event of the Seller having issued a modification applicable to an Aircraft, the purpose of which is to avoid a Failure, the Seller may elect to supply the necessary modification kit []. If such a kit is so offered to the Buyer, then, to the extent of such Failure and any Failures that could ensue therefrom, the validity of the Seller’s commitment under this Clause 12.2 will be subject to the Buyer incorporating such modification in the relevant Aircraft, as promulgated by the Seller and in accordance with the Seller’s instructions, within a reasonable time.

12.2.4.5 THIS SERVICE LIFE POLICY IS NEITHER A WARRANTY, PERFORMANCE GUARANTEE, NOR AN AGREEMENT TO MODIFY ANY AIRCRAFT OR AIRFRAME COMPONENTS TO CONFORM TO NEW DEVELOPMENTS OCCURRING IN THE STATE OF AIRFRAME DESIGN AND MANUFACTURING ART. THE SELLER’S OBLIGATION UNDER THIS CLAUSE 12.2 IS TO MAKE ONLY THOSE CORRECTIONS TO THE ITEMS OR FURNISH REPLACEMENTS THEREFOR AS PROVIDED FOR IN THIS CLAUSE 12.2. 12.3 Supplier Warranties and Service Life Policies

Prior to or at Delivery of the first Aircraft, the Seller will provide the Buyer, in accordance with the provisions of Clause 17, with the warranties and, where applicable, service life policies that the Seller has obtained for Supplier Parts pursuant to the Supplier Product Support Agreements.

12.4 Interface Commitment

12.4.1 Interface Problem

If the Buyer experiences any technical problem in the operation of an Aircraft or its systems due to a malfunction, the cause of which, after due and reasonable investigation, is not readily identifiable by the Buyer but which the Buyer reasonably believes to be attributable to the design characteristics of one or more components of the Aircraft ("Interface Problem"), the Seller will, if so requested by the Buyer, and without additional charge to the Buyer except for transportation of the Seller’s or its designee’s personnel to the Buyer’s facilities, promptly conduct or have conducted an investigation and analysis of such problem to determine, if possible, the cause or causes of the problem and to recommend such corrective action as may be feasible. The Buyer will furnish to the Seller all data and information in the Buyer’s possession relevant to the Interface Problem and will cooperate with the Seller in the conduct of the Seller’s investigations and such tests as may be required.

At the conclusion of such investigation, the Seller will promptly advise the Buyer in writing of the Seller’s opinion as to the cause or causes of the Interface Problem and the Seller’s recommendations as to corrective action.

12.4.2 Seller’s Responsibility

If the Seller determines that the Interface Problem is primarily attributable to the design of a Warranted Part, the Seller will, if so requested by the Buyer and pursuant to the terms and conditions of Clause 12.1, correct the design of such Warranted Part to the extent of the Seller’s obligation as defined in Clause 12.1.

12.4.3 Supplier’s Responsibility

If the Seller determines that the Interface Problem is primarily attributable to the design of any Supplier Part, the Seller will, if so requested by the Buyer, reasonably assist the Buyer in processing any warranty claim the Buyer may have against the Supplier.

12.4.4 Joint Responsibility

If the Seller determines that the Interface Problem is attributable partially to the design of a Warranted Part and partially to the design of any Supplier Part, the Seller will, if so requested by the Buyer, seek a solution to the Interface Problem through cooperative efforts of the Seller and any Supplier involved.

A&R LA 7-20
The Seller will promptly advise the Buyer of such corrective action as may be proposed by the Seller and any such Supplier. Such proposal will be consistent with any then existing obligations of the Seller hereunder and of any such Supplier towards the Buyer. Such corrective action, unless reasonably rejected by the Buyer, will constitute full satisfaction of any claim the Buyer may have against either the Seller or any such Supplier with respect to such Interface Problem.

12.4.5 General

12.4.5.1 All requests under this Clause 12.4 will be directed to both the Seller and the affected Supplier.

12.4.5.2 Except as specifically set forth in this Clause 12.4, this Clause will not be deemed to impose on the Seller any obligations not expressly set forth elsewhere in this Agreement.

12.4.5.3 All reports, recommendations, data and other documents furnished by the Seller to the Buyer pursuant to this Clause 12.4 will be deemed to be delivered under this Agreement and will be subject to the terms, covenants and conditions set forth in this Clause 12 and in Clause 22.11.

12.6 Duplicate Remedies

The remedies provided to the Buyer under Clause 12.1 and Clause 12.2 as to any defect in respect of the Aircraft or any part thereof are mutually exclusive and not cumulative. The Buyer will be entitled to the remedy that provides the maximum benefit to it, as the Buyer may elect, pursuant to the terms and conditions of this Clause 12 for any particular defect for which remedies are provided under this Clause 12; provided, however, that the Buyer will not be entitled to elect a remedy under both Clause 12.1 and Clause 12.2 for the same defect. The Buyer’s rights and remedies herein for the nonperformance of any obligations or liabilities of the Seller arising under these warranties will be in monetary damages limited to the amount the Buyer expends in procuring a correction or replacement for any covered part subject to a defect or nonperformance covered by this Clause 12, and the Buyer will not have any right to require specific performance by the Seller.

12.7 Negotiated Agreement

The Buyer specifically recognizes that:

(i) the Specification has been agreed upon after careful consideration by the Buyer using its judgment as a professional operator of aircraft used in public transportation and as such is a professional within the same industry as the Seller;

(ii) this Agreement, and in particular this Clause 12, has been the subject of discussion and negotiation and is fully understood by the Buyer; and

(iii) the price of the Aircraft and the other mutual agreements of the Buyer set forth in this Agreement were arrived at in consideration of, inter alia, the provisions of this Clause 12, specifically including the waiver, release and renunciation by the Buyer set forth in Clause 12.5.

A&R LA 7-22
12.8 Disclosure to Third Party Entity

In the event of the Buyer intending to designate a third party entity (a “Third Party Entity”) to administer this Clause 12, the Buyer will notify the Seller of such intention prior to any disclosure of this Clause to the selected Third Party Entity and will cause such Third Party Entity to enter into a confidentiality agreement and or any other relevant documentation with the Seller solely for the purpose of administering this Clause 12.

12.9 Transferability

Without prejudice to Clause 21.1, the Buyer’s rights under this Clause 12 may not be assigned, sold, transferred, novated or otherwise alienated by operation of law or otherwise, without the Seller’s prior written consent, which will not be unreasonably withheld.

Any transfer in violation of this Clause 12.9 will, as to the particular Aircraft involved, void the rights and warranties of the Buyer under this Clause 12 and any and all other warranties that might arise under or be implied in law.
14. TECHNICAL DATA AND SOFTWARE SERVICES

14.1 Scope

This Clause 14 covers the terms and conditions for the supply of technical data (hereinafter “Technical Data”) and software services described hereunder (hereinafter “Software Services”) to support the Aircraft operation.

14.1.1 The Technical Data will be supplied in the English language using the aeronautical terminology in common use.

14.1.2 Range, form, type, format, quantity and delivery schedule of the Technical Data to be provided under this Agreement are outlined in Exhibit G hereto.

14.2 Aircraft Identification for Technical Data

14.2.1 For those Technical Data that are customized to the Buyer’s Aircraft, the Buyer agrees to the allocation of fleet serial numbers ("Fleet Serial Numbers") in the form of block of numbers selected in the range from 001 to 999.

14.2.2 The sequence will not be interrupted unless two (2) different Propulsion Systems or two (2) different models of Aircraft are selected.

14.2.3 The Buyer will indicate to the Seller the Fleet Serial Number allocated to each Aircraft corresponding to the delivery schedule set forth in Clause 9.1 no later than [] before the Scheduled Delivery Month of the first Aircraft. Neither the designation of such Fleet Serial Numbers nor the subsequent allocation of the Fleet Serial Numbers to Manufacturer Serial Numbers for the purpose of producing certain customized Technical Data will constitute any property, insurable or other interest of the Buyer in any Aircraft prior to the Delivery of such Aircraft as provided for in this Agreement.

The customized Technical Data that are affected thereby are the following:

(i) Aircraft Maintenance Manual,
(ii) Illustrated Parts Catalogue,
(iii) Trouble Shooting Manual,
(iv) Aircraft Wiring Manual,
(v) Aircraft Schematics Manual,
(vi) Aircraft Wiring Lists.

14.3.2 Buyer Furnished Equipment

14.3.2.1 The Seller will introduce Buyer Furnished Equipment data for Buyer Furnished Equipment that is installed on the Aircraft by the Seller (hereinafter “BFE Data”) into the customized Technical Data, for the initial issue of the Technical Data provided at or before Delivery of the first Aircraft, provided such BFE Data is provided in accordance with the conditions set forth in Clauses 14.3.2.2 through 14.3.2.6.

14.3.2.2 The Buyer will supply the BFE Data to the Seller at least prior to the Scheduled Delivery Month of the first Aircraft.

14.3.2.3 The Buyer will supply the BFE Data to the Seller in English and will be established in compliance with the then applicable revision of ATA iSpecification 2200 (iSpec 2200), Information Standards for Aviation Maintenance.

14.3.2.4 The Buyer and the Seller will agree on the requirements for the provision to the Seller of BFE Data for “on-aircraft maintenance”, such as but not limited to timeframe, media and format in which the BFE Data will be supplied to the Seller, in order to manage the BFE Data integration process in an efficient, expeditious and economic manner.

14.3.2.5 The BFE Data will be delivered in digital format (SGML) and/or in Portable Document Format (PDF), as agreed between the Buyer and the Seller.

14.3.2.6 All costs related to the delivery to the Seller of the applicable BFE Data

14.4.3.4 It will be the responsibility of the Buyer to coordinate and satisfy local Aviation Authorities’ requirements with respect to Technical Data. Reasonable quantities of such Technical Data will be supplied by the Seller at no charge to the Buyer at the Buyer’s named place of destination.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, and in agreement with the relevant Aviation Authorities, preference will be given to the on-line access to such Buyer’s Technical Data through AirbusWorld.

14.5 Revision Service

For each firmly ordered Aircraft covered under this Agreement, revision service for the Technical Data will be provided [] (a "Revision Service Period").

Thereafter revision service will be provided in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth in the Seller’s then current Customer Services Catalog.

14.6 Service Bulletins (SB) Incorporation

During the Revision Service Period and upon the Buyer’s request, which will be made [] of the applicable Service Bulletin, Seller Service Bulletin information will be incorporated into the Technical Data, provided that the Buyer notifies the Seller through the relevant AirbusWorld on-line Service Bulletin Reporting application that it intends to accomplish such Service Bulletin. The split effectivity for the corresponding Service Bulletin will remain in the Technical Data until notification from the Buyer that embodiment has been completed on all of the Buyer’s Aircraft. The foregoing is applicable for Technical Data relating to maintenance only. For operational Technical Data either the pre or post Service Bulletin status will be shown.
